The County Line

The door is closed

By FRED SWIFT

On the next two Saturdays vacancies will be filled in caucus meetings of Republican precinct committee members in Carmel's Southwest councilmanic district and in Fall Creek Township. These vacancies in public offices can be filled 'out of sight' of the public. No public announcement needs to be made that the vacancies have occurred, or that interested parties may run in the caucus or even when and where the meetings will take place.

To her credit GOP County Chair Laura Campbell did advise this writer of the dates and locations: Jan. 7 at the Market Place in Carmel, and Jan. 14 at the Fall Creek Township office. The meetings will be closed to avoid the possibility that someone might influence participants, Mrs. Campbell tells us. It's all quite legal because state law does not forbid it, and says only that the party precinct committee of the departing official will fill the vacancy.

In Carmel, city council member Carol Schleif has resigned due to a planned move from the community. In Fall Creek Township the vacancy comes because Trustee Jeff Hern has resigned to take a seat on the county council. Fall Creek township board member Doug Allman has made public his intention to seek the trustee position. In Carmel, Tony Green, local attorney, has made no secret of the fact that he is running. Others are expected to also enter the caucus.

The closed caucus may have its place when the party folks are choosing officers, developing strategy or conducting other party business. But, state law should be changed to allow open meetings when a public official is being chosen and there should be notice given that an office is vacant and applications are being accepted.

If public officials are really interested in transparency which they all claim, this would be a great place to start. Our state legislators could easily arrange for this change. And, the crazy part is that there is nothing to hide. And, if someone was going to try to influence the outcome they surely would do it before the time of the meeting.

It's going to be no secret that there will be elections this spring in some county school districts. Apparently Carmel, Sheridan and possibly Westfield are likely to put tax referendums on the May 2 ballot although the elections office has not received confirmation, nor has it received the amounts of money the schools will seek to have voters provide.

Normally, the year following a presidential election has no scheduled election. But, public entities may ask for a referendum in any year.

Westfield Schools to conduct another referendum

By JEFF JELLISON

Westfield Washington Schools Superintendent Dr. Sherry Grate recently announced plans to tackle Westfield Schools' most pressing issue, growth. In a video message published on the district's website, Grate stated the district hosted a series of focus group meetings in November and December to address growth concerns. Grate indicated she appreciated the feedback received from the groups and from an online survey that was conducted.

"We know that standing still is not an option and growth necessitates changes," stated Grate. She announced the school board has decided to move forward with the option that had the most support, and is also the district's most financially conservative option.

On Tuesday evening the Westfield Washington School Board approved moving forward with expanding current facilities through a capital referendum to be voted on by the public in May. If the referendum passes funds would be used to expand current facilities.

Grate stated the expansion and renovation will involve Westfield's intermediate school, middle school and high school.

Westfield just recently conducted a referendum vote in November. It passed by nearly 81 percent. Grate explained funds from the most recent referendum could only be used for operating costs and not capital improvement projects.

Westfield Washington Schools' enrollment has increased from approximately 5,800 students in 2009 to nearly 7,500 in 2016. Westfield ranks in the bottom 10 of school districts in the state in terms of per-pupil operating support, which is determined by the state; however, is in the top 3 percent statewide in ISTEP ranking. The district also boast the highest graduation rate in Hamilton County at 98.2 percent.

The Indiana Pacers (18-18) won their third game in a row for the first time all season, knocking off the Pistons (16-21) in Detroit, 121-116. Paul George's 32 points and clutch shooting in the fourth quarter helped lead Indiana to the victory.

The game was tied at 92 heading into the fourth quarter. After Indiana grabbed a seven-point fourth quarter lead, Detroit got back within four with 6:13 remaining, and that's when PG took control. George scored 11 of Indiana's next 12 points and the 12-4 run ballooned Indiana's lead to 116-104 with 2:24 to play.

The Pacers led 119-108 with just over a minute to play, but the Pistons had one more spurt left in them. They nailed consecutive triples to cut the deficit to five with 50 seconds to go. After a Pacers turnover, a Pistons layup made it a three-point game with 16.9 to go.

On the ensuing possession, Monta Ellis was fouled and iced the game at the free-throw line. The win pushed Indiana back to .500 with a record of 18-18.

Indiana came out hot, shooting 4-of-6 from the field in the opening minutes, including a perfect 3-of-3 from beyond the arc, with two coming from George. The fast start gave the Pacers an 11-2 lead and forced a Detroit timeout with 8:23 to play in the first.

Indiana led 22-11 with five minutes and change left in the opening period, before Detroit got itself back into the game with a 7-0 surge to cut the lead to four at the 3:48 mark. But a couple of Myles Turner triples jumpstarted the offense, and at the end of the first quarter, Indiana led, 36-28.

In the second quarter, the Pacers' second unit kept the Pistons at bay. Indiana grew its advantage to 11 midway through the period.
