Daily coverage begins Thursday

Beginning Thursday, Jan. 2 those who subscribe to the Hamilton County Reporter will wake up with a new daily newspaper in their computers. The Reporter is going daily, by email.

The new product will look like a newspaper and will cover all of Hamilton County. It will be heavy on high school sports news and strong on daily obits, along with news from the county's different towns and cities.

The daily email product will be published on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. It will be the first Hamilton County newspaper ever to be published on Sundays.

There will be no changes in the Tuesday weekly print product, which covers all of northern Hamilton County.

Those who have subscribed to the weekly Hamilton County Reporter will receive the email editions free of charge, as will any new subscriber that purchases a six-month or 12-month subscription. There also is an opportunity to subscribe to the email editions, only.

All of the information on how to subscribe is available on Page 4.

"The coverage of high school sports in Hamilton County has been neglected the past several months," said Don Jellison, editor of The Reporter. "Hamilton County has some of the largest high schools in the state, and these schools have not been receiving daily coverage by any newspaper."

The Reporter will cover all sporting events, boys and girls, from Noblesville, Sheridan, Hamilton Heights, Carmel, Fishers, Hamilton Southeastern, Westfield, Guerin Catholic and University high schools, Hamilton County's nine high schools. Along with the daily event coverage, The Reporter also will feature columns, preview stories, stats, feature stories, and lots of photos, many of which will be in color.

The latest obit information on local deaths will be available to readers, since The Reporter will have a much later deadline than other newspapers in the area.

The email edition also will be a great tool for advertisers. Any advertiser with a quarter, half or full page ad in the Tuesday print edition can, at no addition cost, have that exact same ad published in all of the email editions during the same week, reaching hundreds of homes throughout Hamilton County each day.

The Reporter will not publish on Mondays. Go to Page 4 of today's Reporter to learn "how to do it", and then when waking up on Thursday morning check your computers for the best coverage in Hamilton County, including, Sundays!

Sheridan council moves to approve settlement

The Sheridan Town Council on Thursday, December 26 voted unanimously to approve a resolution that once agreed upon by Sheridan police officer Major Coy Monroe would settle a lawsuit filed by Monroe in Hamilton County Superior Court for alleged unpaid overtime.

Monroe's lawsuit filed on February 20, 2013 indicated Monroe alleges he is owed overtime for the care, maintenance, training and certification of a police dog, and for overtime worked while instructing at the Indiana Law Enforcement Academy.

The resolution indicated Monroe would be paid $47,500. The total would be divided into two payments to be made in 2014.

Offices burglarized; suspect is arrested

A suspect has been arrested in regards to a series of burglaries in Noblesville late Saturday evening or early Sunday morning.

Arrested and charged with burglary (3 counts) and theft (3 counts) is Anthony Wayne Reed, 52, Indianapolis.

Officers from the Noblesville Police Department at 9:45 a.m. on Sunday were dispatched to check local dental offices for possible evidence of criminal activity as a result of a county-wide alert. The alert was promoted by the Carmel Police Department shortly after conducting a traffic stop in the area of 106th Street and Keystone Parkway in Carmel.

The Carmel Police Department indicated that they had discovered several televisions and laptop computers inside a vehicle that was stopped for an alleged violations(s) of Indiana's licensing and registration laws. Officers indicated that some of the contents located in the vehicle suggested a possible connection to a dental clinic or office.

Noblesville Police officers began to check local businesses in

It was like the Fourth of July in Hamilton County

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

Fifty years ago in Hamilton County the New Year started off with a bang. It was more like the Fourth of July.

The biggest news of the New Year came out of the Hamilton County courthouse in Noblesville. Hamilton County Prosecutor Walter Cornell packed his bags and moved his county office to his law office in Sheridan.

Cornell's move came following a money dispute with the Hamilton County Council. The prosecutor requested a budget of $13,500 and the Council trimmed it to $3,850. Cornell responded by saying he couldn't afford to maintain the office at the courthouse.

The full-time office first came about five years earlier when Joseph Roberts held the position. Cornell received an annual pay of $8,000.

The start of 1964 also saw a huge change at Conner Prairie Farm when Eli Lilly gave the property to Earlham College as a permanent historical museum.

A crowd of more than 100 turned out for a meeting when a six unit county school reorganization board presented a plan to merge Fall Creek and Delaware schools districts. In a surprise move, an attorney from Indianapolis showed up at the meeting, representing a named new Police Chief and Phil Wayne County group which opposed the plan.

There was a smooth transition of leadership as Joe Butler became Noblesville's 21st mayor. Howard Kenley, Ben Berge, Sam Jerrell and Charles Merideth returned to the City Council with 16 years of experience at the job.

City Judge Lloyd Garrison saw his salary raise from $1,860 to $3,600 a year. Clerk Treasurer May Cook received an annual salary of $4,200. Joe Love was appointed City Attorney.

Final testing was completed for a new telephone system for the Westfield area. Residents in that area for the first time could call Noblesville, Fishers, Carmel and Zionsville free of charge.

Glen Harper's Noblesville basketball team started the year by losing at Kokomo, 71-66, despite a 28-point, 24-rebound performance by C.A. Core. Zionsville, then coached by Gene Cato, who later became Commissioner of the IHSAA, handed Sheridan its first loss of the season. Johnny Mitchell scored 23 points for the Blackhawks. Bill Britton's Jackson Central Eagles edged Westfield in a 75-72 thriller. Dave Leach scored 20 points and Dan Shields added 18 for the Eagles.

Elvis and Debbie Reynolds were starring in a movie at the Diana.

The business community started off the year with lots of sales.

Blann Hardware was discounting items up to 75 percent. Noblesville Furniture had a sale on custom made draperies. Davis Furniture had 50 couches from $88 to $297. With color TVs becoming

Marylyn (Pattee) Erb

August 28, 1961 - December 20, 2013

Marylyn (Pattee) Erb, 52, of Westfield, passed away on Friday, December 20, 2013 at her home. She was born on August 28, 1961 to Don and Mary (Schrum) Pattee in Gary, Indiana. Her parents precede her in death.

Marylyn was a homemaker, and a member of Grace Church, where she was active in the Women's Ministry. She grew up in Lowell, Indiana, and earned her Nursing degree from Indiana University. She had a passion for serving her family, loved spending time with her grandchildren, and was so proud to have been married to her husband, Todd, for 30 years.

She is survived by her loving husband, Todd Erb; daughter, Lindsey (Cody) Myers; son, Brock Erb; brother, Mitch (Kim) Pattee; grandchildren, Hunter and Shaleigh Myers.

Services were held on Friday, December 27, 2013 at 1:00 pm at the church, Pastor David Rodriguez officiated. Burial was at Hamilton Memorial Park Cemetery in Westfield.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Marylyn and Kelley Erb Wish Fund, in care of Randall & Roberts Funeral Home, 1685 Westfield Road, Noblesville, IN 46062. Condolences: www.randallroberts.com.

Kelley Marlene Erb

June 8, 1990 - December 20, 2013

Kelley Marlene Erb, 23, of Westfield, passed away on Friday, December 20, 2013 at her home. She was born on June 8, 1990 to Todd and Marylyn (Pattee) Erb in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Kelley was a student at Ivy Tech, where she was pursuing her degree in Early Childhood Education. She previously studied at Indiana Wesleyan University. She was a member of Grace Church where she enjoyed serving for Grace Kids Company, and was active in the Young Adults Ministry. Kelley loved animals, especially dogs and horses, and she loved singing in her high school choir.

She is survived by her father, Todd Erb; sister, Lindsey (Cody) Myers; brother, Brock Erb; nephew and niece, Hunter and Shaleigh Myers.

Services were held Friday, December 27, 2013 at 1:00 pm at the church, Pastor David Rodriguez officiated. Burial was at Hamilton Memorial Park Cemetery in Westfield.

Thomas L. Davis

Thomas L. Davis, Noblesville, Indiana, husband, father, attorney, farmer, teacher, passed on Wednesday, Dec. 25 at the age of 91.

Born in Madison, Indiana on June 24, 1922, to David and Charlotte Schmidt Davis, he was the brother of Edward Davis and Helen June Davis Cooper. He loved his family, being outdoors, reading, good conversation and golf. He was married to Anna Margaret Simmons for 66 years and three sons; John, Mark and Keith. He also had six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

He served his country well in World War II and as an FBI agent. He served his community in quieter ways as an attorney, an adjunct professor at the Indiana University School of Business, and a neighbor. He was well-liked and loved. Those he touched were and are better off for it.

He is survived by his wife Anna, his sons and his grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

At Tom's request, or more specifically, insistence, there will be no funeral, calling or services. His hope was that whatever would have been spent on flowers or a funeral will instead go as a charitable donation to Butler University, or a good cause of the donor's choosing. His remains will be cremated and scattered at the direction of his survivors.

Mundy signs Sheridan employment contract

On Monday, December 23, newly selected Superintendent Doctor David Mundy signed his employment contract during a Sheridan Community School Board of Trustee meeting.

Mundy

The contract, which will expire after June 30 2017, provides Mundy with a salary of 112,563.18 and will increase one percent for each year of the contract. Mundy will also receive 20 days paid vacation and paid corporation holidays.

Mundy, a Noblesville resident, will not be required to reside in the school district; however, if he does choose to move into the Sheridan school district he will be entitled to a one-time reimbursement of moving expenses, not to exceed $4,000.

The contract also provides Mundy with life insurance in the amount of two times his annual salary, an annuity payment as deferred compensation of five percent his annual salary, full family health insurance coverage and an automobile allowance of $400 per month regardless of the actual vehicle expenses incurred. The automobile allowance is in addition to Mundy being entitled mileage reimbursement at the federal guideline amount for out corporation travel.

Mundy will also be permitted to conduct consulting work, speaking engagements, writing, lecturing or other professional duties provided they do not interfere with his responsibilities as Superintendent.

"Going back to Sheridan is really a blessing. My family and I are looking forward to this opportunity," said Mundy. Mundy served as Sheridan teacher, Dean of Students, and coach in the Sheridan school system from 2000 through 2006. After leaving Sheridan Mundy has served as Westfield's Dean of Students, middle school Principal, and most recently Westfield's Assistant Superintendent of Learning Systems.

Doctor Mundy will begin his duties as Sheridan's Superintendent on January 20. A public welcome reception will be conducted on January 21 at 5 p.m. in the Sheridan High School Media Center.

Home Show set for January 18-19

Dozens of local businesses with ideas for making homes more comfortable, more appealing and more valuable will be featured at the third annual Hamilton County Home Show.

To be held at the Hamilton County 4H Fairgrounds in Noblesville, the show is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 18-19.

The locally produced show is more accessible for Hamilton County residents than larger shows; is more affordable to attend, and offers free parking and features local talent.

Some of the major features are:

*Winter Time: after the holidays people start planning their spring projects. This show offers plenty of ideas at just the right time.

*Plenty of space: the Hamilton County Fairground is a large, clean and accessible facility with free parking.

*Affordability: admission remains $5 for adults and free for kids, with two-for-one offers widely available in the media and online.

Visitors will find plenty of local resources to develop and complete their home improvement projects, from a major redesign to a simple painting project. From realtors to renovators, from stone specialists to security systems, from bedding to baths and beyond, these local businesspeople have the expertise and equipment to do the work right and on time, or to help you do it yourself.

Hours are 9-5 Saturday on Jan. 18 and 10-4 on Sunday, Jan. 19. Tickets are available for advance purchase on the Web site at www.hchomeshow.com or for cash, check or credit at the door.

A few booths are still available for interested exhibitors.

FFA hosting pork loin dinner at Sheridan HS

FFA is hosting a pork loin dinner from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Jan. 17 in the Sheridan High School Cafeteria, before the boys basketball game against Tipton.

The dinner is to raise money to aid Anita Sedwick in her battle against breast cancer. The menu is pork loin, green beans, cheese potatoes, roll, pie, and drinks. Tickets can be purchased from an FFA member, the school bookstore, or Creekside Chiropractic on Main Street.

the Noblesville area and subsequently discovered several businesses in the 400 block of Sheridan Road that appeared to have been burglarized.

The businesses include:

*Noblesville Family Dentistry, 455 Sheridan Road.

*Meridian Title, 465 Sheridan Road.

*Noblesville Foot Clinic, 475 Sheridan Road.

After further investigation of each crime scene, evidence suggests that forced entry was used to enter each business by prying open front and or rear doors to each establishment.

Business owners reported several items missing from their businesses, which included items such as televisions and laptop computers.

As a result of victim/witness statements and evidence collected at all four crime scenes, investigators were able to identify Reed as a suspect in the case. He was the subject that Carmel PD had arrested earlier on the unrelated alleged driving offense. Reed was transported to Hamilton County Jail, where he was booked

The case remains an ongoing investigation. Anyone with information regarding the case is asked to contact the NPD Criminal Investigation Division at 317-776-6340 or tips@noblesville.in.us

Jury duty experience was a pleasant surprise

By MIKE CORBETT

Somehow, in my 50+ years on this planet, about 40 of them on the voting rolls, I had never been called for jury duty. So the notice in the mail was quite a surprise. I had heard all the strategies to avoid being chosen for the dreaded panel and was prepared for a miserable experience, so I was pleasantly surprised by the outcome. You should try it some time.

The online questionnaire is short and straightforward and you are given a date and time to show up, along with a parking pass so you don't risk clogging up the 2 hour spaces on the courthouse square. Now, I've seen my share of courtroom dramas, including The Belfry's 12 Angry Men a year or two ago, so I knew they only needed a dozen or so people. Imagine my surprise to find about 50 people assembled in a large room at the judicial center on a Monday morning.

Knowing how hard it is to set up any kind of meeting among even half a dozen people, and the generally negative attitude people seem to take toward this obligation, I figured they must have several trials going on and we would be split up. But that wasn't the case at all. We were all assembled for a single trial, and it wasn't even a criminal case. This was a situation where the plaintiff was suing an insurance company because he felt they didn't deliver on their contractual obligation.

A video about the process featured the state's chief justice speaking about the importance of this duty, and his own experience on a jury. I figured, yeah, I'm sure that happens pretty often, so was really taken aback when Noblesville's own city court judge turned up in line a few steps behind me. Sure enough, even judges are not exempt from jury duty.

As we marched single file into the courtroom, twelve of us were called to sit in the jury box and the rest sat in the gallery. The judge, Paul Felix, proceeded to explain to us the facts of the case, gave basic instructions and informed us we were chosen from a list that consists of voters, utility customers and driver's license registrations. He admonished anyone who thought they were avoiding jury duty by not registering to vote that the county long ago foiled that strategy by using alternative lists.

He also let us know that some cases go weeks and some go days and that this particular case would likely last a few days. Some cases are notorious and end up in the papers but this wasn't one of those. Some cases potentially send someone to prison but this wouldn't do that either. This was, in essence, a routine court case that would try to get to the truth behind an allegation that someone had been wronged by an insurance company. Through it all, the whole process is bathed in an atmosphere of decorum, procedure and respect.

And, that's when it hit me. This was truly democracy in action. I was amazed and impressed at this system of justice. A regular guy was getting his "day in court." A judge and a court staff, a couple of lawyers and a panel of some fifty people were giving up their morning to help assure a fellow citizen was being treated fairly. The judge, staff, and lawyers, of course, were being paid for their time. And we were too, sort of. The judge says we'll receive a check for our services...I think it was $17 (its more if you are actually chosen for the jury). Obviously, we weren't in this for the money; it was all about doing our duty. All of this may be obvious to those who spend their days in court but to someone who hasn't spent a lot of time in the justice system, it was impressive.

Turns out the judge only needed 6 people and one alternate, not the twelve I expected. Each side's lawyer spent a half hour or so questioning 12 of us about our attitudes, feelings and schedules. I was excused because I had some upcoming deadlines that would have distracted me and three days would have been a problem. But the two sides agreed on six people and one alternate from the original twelve. The other 40 or so people were only there in case they couldn't find seven qualified people in the first twelve. The judge dismissed the rest of us and the trial proceeded.

I'm sort of sorry I didn't stick it out. In the end the jury decided the plaintiff deserved $200,000 in compensation, according to the website mycase.in.gov. Having just heard the basics, I would have liked to have learned more about the details of the case and the justification for the award. But I'm convinced that my peers did as good a job as I would have done and I'm grateful they were willing to set aside their daily obligations, step up and do their civic duty on behalf of a fellow citizen.

It was just a routine case in a routine week for those who keep the wheels of justice moving. But it was an important day for the plaintiff and defendant, and it was a lesson in democracy for a guy like me, an affirmation that some of our government institutions work as they were designed to, and continue to deliver on the promises made to us by the founding fathers.

Not the Perfect Mom

By TAMAR KNOCHEL

This week we will cross over an invisible line. One second it is 2013 and the next it was 2014. Have you ever really sat and thought about that for a moment? Literally one second later and it's a completely different year. And this is just one instance when this happens. It's usually the most celebrated of the year, but there are many more that follow it. Take your birthday for example. We generally celebrate it as a "day", but if you want to be technically precise, it's a second thing too. One second you're 33 and the next you're 34; one little tick on the clock and the label changes. Time marches on, stopping for no one and nothing. Yet life doesn't. Life has its ebbs and flows. It changes with time and over time. That never ceases to amaze me. How one moment things are this way and then the next they're different.

It's all very exciting, and yet at the same time there's a little bit of trepidation that goes along with it too. There is an inherent fear in the unknown future. What if the unforeseeable happens and catches us unprepared. Yet time marches on, there is no stopping it because you're not ready to face that next season, or label. Time marches on, pushing you forward against your will toward the blackness that is the unknown future. "Is there a cliff?" "Will I fall?" "Is it a mountain?" "Will I fail?"

Yet who is it that holds the future? Who is it that has time in His hand? Who is it that knows all and sees all and LOVES YOU?

Jesus.

When we live our lives surrendered to Christ, we can rest assured that no matter what happens and catches us off guard; it has NOT caught Jesus off guard. And He is with us through it all. He never leaves or forsakes us; He never abandons us in our time of need. He is that ever-present help in times of trouble.

"Little sheep, hear My voice. Fear not, for I am always with you. In this world you will have trouble, but take heart, for I have overcome the world. I am the Good Shepherd, and you shall not want. I make you lie down in green pastures. I lead you beside still waters. I restore your soul. I lead you in paths of righteousness for My names sake. Even though you walk through the valley of the shadow of death, you will fear no evil, for I am with you; Let My rod, My staff, be a great comfort to you. I prepare a table before you in the presence of your enemies; I anoint your head with oil; and I fill your cup to overflowing. Did you know that My Goodness and Mercy follow you all the days of your life? It is because you are a member of the house of the LORD and you shall dwell there forever!"

Reporting on what was 50 years ago

Tag! You’re It!

By MARY SUE ROWLAND

Dateline December 27, 1963
The Noblesville Morning Times
Volume LXXX

The top news of the day was the new City Administration to take oath January 1, 1964. On that date, newly-elected Noblesville City officials were to be sworn into office. Joe C. Butler, 45 year old, co-owner of Butler Oil Company would begin a four year term as chief executive of Noblesville succeeding John R. Neal.

Note – John R. Neal and his brother Jim owned The Daily Ledger and Joe E. Butler was Sally Kenley’s father. Sally is married to State Senator Luke Kenley. Just for those of you who are new to town.

Mrs. May Cook was elected City Clerk-Treasurer and held that position for many years. S. Lloyd Garrison was to begin his second term as City Judge. Council members included Charles Merideth, Ray Harrison, Howard A. Kenley Jr. (Luke Kenley’s father), Samuel C. Jerrell and Ben D. Berge.

L. Reid Hudler, publisher of the Times gave his opinion on who was going to hold all of the important seats in town such as Capt. Joe Love would succeed Chief Horn as head of the local police dept. Phil Klotz will succeed Manson Church as City Attorney. Reid was not sure about the street department.

In that same paper, are “Highlights of Noblesville and Hamilton County News in Year”.

Good citizen, Chester Goble installed as president of Noblesville Kiwanis Club, Hamilton County has 121 students enrolled at Purdue in the year 1963. With notations such as many patients admitted to Riverview Hospital and several couples issued marriage licenses leaves us wondering to the exact numbers. An entry for Jan. 11, 1963 is that Dun & Bradstreet survey reveals 473 business firms in Hamilton County. James T. Neal was elected president of Boys’ Club of Noblesville. That James T. Neal is the same who owned the Ledger and brother to a former Mayor John R. Neal. Also note that the Boys’ Club did not include the girls. On January 18th entry notes L. Reid Hudler resigning as president and member of Forest Park Board with appointments to the board of O. T. Goad and Thomas E. McEntire replacing Andy Richardson and Dr. Manson Shanks. That action was probably because of the change in administration. That happens.

In 1963, the Noblesville public Library had 139,914 books circulated that year. Television was not as popular in those days so maybe people read more. Not a bad thing. John R. Neal, past Mayor was president of the Public Library Board. The Christmas Seal campaign topped $6,200.00 that year.

On March 8th, 1963 the Noblesville Millers won their sixth sectional basketball tournament crown paired with Peru team in Regional Tournament at Kokomo.

On March 15th the Millers captured the second regional crown ready for the trek to Fort Wayne to face Huntington team in Semi-State Basketball Tournament. Read Jellison’s article on how the game turned out.

An interesting entry into the year of 1963, was that James A. Scott was named to Director of Traffic with Noblesville Police Department. The License plates sales hit record at Noblesville branch of 13,000 sold and increase of over 1,000 from the previous year.

The Mar. 22 “Delinquent Tax Sale” had 63 parcels owned by 42 person with a combined delinquency of $2,974.16. That was a lot of property and money.

The spring time held graduation ceremonies for 136 NHS students. That year Bill McClain, NHS football coach resigned and went to Ben Davis High School. On June 26, the Post Office began new ZIP Code system. And so it goes. A lot of things have changed in 50 years. In 1963, everyone admitted and dismissed from Riverview Hospital were listed in the paper. There was a Memorial Day parade, Noblesville Annual Motor Vehicle Safety Inspection Program, Hamilton County Spelling Bee, Firestone Plant which had a contract in 1963 for $2,184,350 for 70,208 rubber tracked shoe assemblies, Red Cross Chapter “Learn to Swim” program, Kraft Foods plant torn down in Sheridan, training course offered by Indiana Civil Defense and the elected officials home addresses were printed in the paper. Can you imagine?

Happy New Year 2014!

By AIMEE GEBHART

A couple of months ago, a story blew up on the news and on the internet about a school in New Hampshire that banned children from playing tag at recess. As expected, it created a storm of controversy from people all around the country. This was the perfect news story – the kind of sensational, pot stirring little gem that had citizens shouting angrily about how public schools are ruining kids and making them soft.

At first glance, I can understand the outrage. How can a school take away a child’s ability to play something as seemingly benign as tag? If they can’t play tag, what can they do? And, of course, it begs the question, “What’s next?” Will we tell them that they can’t swing or play hopscotch either? I can see how it can turn into quite a slippery little slope.

But then I can also see the other side of the issue - the side that the general public doesn’t get to see or have to deal with. It’s called reality. You see, when most people hear the word “tag” an image comes to mind of smiling children frolicking in a grassy field, laughing and tagging each other gently on the shoulders. In this lovely scenario everyone is smiling and having fun. I hate to be the one to break it to you, but this Hallmark moment you are envisioning is a lie.

Playground tag is nothing like the carefully choreographed scene I described above. Instead, it’s more like guerilla warfare. Kids who are normally sweet, mild-mannered students suddenly want to fight to the death. To make matters worse, most school playgrounds have elaborate jungle gym setups that provide perfect hiding places for these mini-Rambo wanna-bes. Nothing like watching a child hurl himself from the top of the monkey bars just to “tag” an unsuspecting victim down below. The only thing missing is the war paint and the red bandana tied across the forehead. As a teacher I can tell you, there is very little you can do to stop this once it starts. We state the rules, we lay down the law, we intervene, we even “role play” the acceptable way to play tag, but it never fails – someone always seems to leave the playground bruised, bloodied, and crying because of tag. I’ve watched from the sidelines as it happens, that child running full force, not looking ahead but over his shoulder at the would be tagger, not realizing that he is heading right for a metal pole. By the time anyone can warn the child, it’s too late. And, all joking aside, it’s scary.

Try dealing with this day in, day out, and watching kids drop like flies. Our most important job is to protect the children in our care, so it makes sense that eventually we get to the point where we have to say, “No more”. It’s really no different than parents telling their kids to stop doing something at home because “Someone is going to get hurt!”

But keep in mind, children are smart little creatures. I have discovered over the years that they are masters at playing semantics. After one particularly dangerous day of tag which produced several casualties in mere minutes, we did “ban” the game for the rest of that recess. Yet within minutes of our declaration, kids were running wildly and playing tag RIGHT IN FRONT OF OUR EYES! When I stopped them and asked what in the world they thought they were doing, one little guy informed me, “Oh no, Mrs. Gebhart...we’re not playing tag. We’re playing Spiderman!” And people wonder why teachers twitch so much.

I know it’s easy to listen to a news story and immediately jump to conclusions. That’s the point; they want to get your attention and get you all fired up. But before you decide that school officials and teachers are just ridiculous, fun-stealing weenies, maybe you should volunteer to join my “soft” little second graders for an innocent game of tag. Just be sure to bring some bandages, a wheelchair, and your momma. Chances are you’re going to need them by the time those kids are through with you.

Arrest made in murder of Westfield women

A multiagency effort has led to the arrest of Christian Rene Haley, age 20, Indianapolis, in regards to the Dec. 20 deaths of Marylyn and Kelley Erb. The Westfield mother and daughter were killed in their home. According to an affidavit released last Friday, the bodies of the two women were found in the basement of their home.

The suspect, Haley, had been fired from a landscaping business owned by Todd Erb, Marylyn's husband and Kelley's father.

The investigation and quick arrest was a effort by the Westfield Police Department, Hamilton County Sheriff's Office, Carmel Police Department, Noblesville Police Department, Hamilton County Prosecutors Office, Hamilton County Coroner's Office, Indiana State Police, Indianapolis Metropolitan Police Department, Lawrence Police Department and US Marshalls.

"Our police force worked tirelessly around the clock trying to solve this senseless crime," said Westfield Mayor Andy Cook. "Westfield prides itself in being named one of the best places to live and one of the safest communities in the country. The fast acting police work over the past few days proves that Westfield employs some of the best police officers in the state and will continue to be one of the safest cities in Indiana and the country."

Charges filed against Haley includes: two counts of murder; two counts of felony murder; one count of robbery (a felony); one count of burglary (a felony) and theft.

Haley was arrested by officers of the Westfield Police Department on Dec. 27 and remains in Hamilton County Jail without bail.

HAND inviting county residents into partnership

HAND would like to invite residents from neighborhoods throughout Hamilton County to consider participating in the inaugural year of a new partnership program, Neighborhoods NOW. The goal is to foster collaboration and build capacity in communities where volunteers are motivated and engaged in efforts to improve their community.

HAND is committed to offering grant funds directly to volunteer groups looking to build a stronger neighborhood. In 2014, this will mean grants are available for up to $2,000 to support one community-based project in each selected neighborhood.

HAND will support the effort in the following ways:

Capacity Building to help communities conduct Outreach and Recruitment

Project Support to help communities Plan and Coordinate Activities

Seed Funding to help communities Implement Projects and Celebrate

Program Resources to help communities begin to address Housing Needs

Through Neighborhoods NOW, applicants will have an opportunity to advance their neighborhood's vision through new partnerships, project design, and funding support.

HAND encourages all kinds of groups to consider applying, from formal neighborhood associations with elected boards to informal groups of neighbors interested in bettering their block. There are few limitations on what can be done in this partnership, and the application is intended to help start the group decision-making process.

For more information, please contact the HAND Office at (317) 674-8208 or send an email to info@handincorporated.org

Cicero receives another grant from Upper White River Watershed Alliance

The Town of Cicero has received another grant from the Upper White River Watershed Alliance to help mitigate storm-water run off issues in Cicero. Earlier this year the Town of Cicero Parks Department applied for funding to complete two large rain gardens in Red Bridge Park. Those gardens will be designed to capture and clean the remaining areas of runoff from the parking lot before the water reaches Morse Reservoir. During the process the Town identified other areas that could benefit from installing similar gardens to deal with runoff and erosion issues.

In what is the last round of funding by the Upper White River Watershed Alliance, the Town of Cicero applied to construct a rain garden at Jackson St. and Main St. just east of the public boat docks. "The sheet drainage from Jackson St. flows at such a high rate that it washes out the gravel and causes erosion issues along the shoulder of the road," stated Pat Comer, Street Superintendent for Cicero. "The new rain garden will have curbs with designed inlets to help slow down the water along with soils and native plants to help clean and filter the water prior to it reaching Morse." Educational signs will be added at the location to inform passersby of the significance of the rain garden and how they work.

The Town received $10,500 to help with the construction of the rain garden. The UWRWA was very excited about the visibility to residents and the educational aspect of the project. The curbs, garden and signs are being scheduled in conjunction with the final stages of the new causeway expansion. Construction should be finished in late fall of 2014.

1 box white cake mix
1/4 C. oil
3 egg whites
1 C. sour cream
1 C. coconut cream (canned)
2 t. coconut flavoring
Mix all together.
Can be baked in a Bundt pan or a 9X13 pan.

350 degrees for 35 min. or until done (test with a toothpick.)
Ice with cool whip and sprinkle coconut on top.
Refrigerate.
This made a nice looking 'Snowball Cake' for Christmas. It would be a nice cake for Easter too. You could color the coconut.

Miller’s holiday flop...

Can you say “ouch”

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

Until Mike Hasch and Tony Oliar came along to put Noblesville (the high school and the city) and The Mill on the state’s basketball map with an impressive holiday tourney, Noblesville had gone years and years without hosting such an event.

Noblesville benefited with lots of people coming to the city to eat, shop, sleep and watch basketball. But, from early-on, this holiday tourney turned into a ticking time bomb for the Millers. For starters, Louisville Moore withdrew at the last minute, leaving the tourney with a seven-team field. The Millers, instead of playing three games (they had played four games in recent years at the Richmond Tourney) played only two games, what amounted to no more than a back-to-back, Friday-Saturday weekend. And, playing only two games, while the other teams played three, the Millers came in not qualifying to win the championship.

It was a tourney the Millers and their fans will quickly want to forget. On the court, Noblesville played at times some pretty good defensive basketball. Other times, the Millers played some of the worst basketball Miller fans have seen in years.

After holding Bloomington South to just 16 points in the first half, Noblesville lost to the Panthers 50-45 in overtime in the Friday opener. South went on to go undefeated and win the tourney championship. The Millers scored just 19 points in the second half and only six points in the fourth quarter.

After holding Kokomo to just 15 points in the first half, after leading by as many as 15 points, and after entering the fourth quarter with a 35-27 lead, Noblesville scored just one point in that fourth quarter and lost to the Wildkats 38-36.

Noblesville’s Sean Wilson scored eight points and had a pair of 3-pointers in the Millers’ game against Kokomo Saturday at the Noblesville Holiday Tournament.

For those of you who didn’t see games, no, folks, I’m not making this up. It really happened. With the exception in a win over Hamilton Heights, this Noblesville team has been terrible down the home stretch this season.

“I wish I could put my fingers on it. If I could I would do something about it,” Coach Dave McCollough said of a Noblesville offense which simply went to sleep after threatening to blow Kokomo out of the gym. “No, we weren’t trying to hold the ball,” said the coach after the Millers went 0-for-

6 from the field in the fourth quarter.

“I liked the way we played in the first half,” McCollough added.

In the first half, along with some outstanding defense, the Millers hit 11-of-16 shots, including canning four 3-pointers. The guards were extremely hot. Jake Mills drilled a pair of 3-pointers and had 12 points entering halftime. Sean Wilson connected on a pair of 3’s and scored eight points. In the second half, Noblesville’s only buckets were a

Huskies stopped by Tigers in Heights final

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

While it's not ever fun to lose the championship game of your own holiday tournament, the Hamilton Heights boys basketball team can honestly say it had two good games.

The Class 3A Huskies battled Warsaw, a strong Class 4A team, to the wire in the final of the Hamilton Heights tournament before the Tigers emerged with a 57-54 victory. After an uneven first half, both teams settled in to play a fantastic second half of basketball where neither led by more than five points.

"It was a good test for us, because of the way they control tempo," said HHHS coach Chad Ballenger. "They put a lot of pressure on you (so) that you got to do everything right, because they just don't make very many mistakes."

Heights got up 10-4 early in the first quarter. Grant Weatherford, the do-it-all junior, scored half of that total with a breakaway dunk and a 3-pointer.

Hamilton Heights’ Grant Weatherford was one of two Huskies players named to the All-Tournament team at the Heights Tournament over the weekend. Weatherford scored 19 points in the Huskies’ championship game with Warsaw.

Brennan is tourney MVP...

Eagles’ wings are clipped

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

Some might look at Guerin Catholic’s losing two of three games at the Noblesville Holiday Tourney as a lost weekend for the Golden Eagles. Guerin entered the tourney unbeaten at 7-0 and ranked No. 3 in the state in Class 3A.

Others might say “wait a minute,” the two losses (and the win) were against some good talented teams. After losing 60-56 in overtime to eventual tourney winner Bloomington South, Guerin bounced back to gut out a 50-42 overtime win against Kokomo. The Eagles final battle was a 52-49 loss to a New Haven team which eventually this season could be in Guerin’s path in a bid to reach the state finals.

Take your pick, good or not-so-good weekend for Guerin.

Here’s something good. Senior Aaron Brennan, who earlier this season became Guerin’s all-time leading scorer, was named the tourney’s MVP after averaging 18.6 points and 8.7 rebounds a game.

“Aaron was playing with a virus,” Coach Pete Smith said. “He had lost eight pounds in three days.”

Smith kept his Eagles in the dressing room long after the final horn of the final game against New Haven.

“They (the players) found out they’re not as good as all their press clippings,” Smith said. “We’re going back not to page 1, but to page 2.”

GC girls go 1-1 at their own tournament

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

The Guerin Catholic girls basketball team's holiday tournament, which took place Saturday at the Eagles' Nest, was just one part of a tough schedule for the Golden Eagles.

But you won't hear coach Scott Miller complaining. That's just what he wants.

"We've got a fairly tough schedule this year, and we set that up intentionally to get us ready for sectionals," said the coach. Of the 16 Indiana teams that Guerin plays, all but two are lower than Class 3A (the Golden Eagles open their season at an Illinois tournament, playing four teams from that state.)

The Golden Eagles took on Eastern Hancock, which is a 2A squad, but also ranked No. 5 in that division. The Royals beat Guerin Catholic 61-34 in the tournament semi-finals. The Eagles rebounded in the consolation game, winning a hard-fought game over New Haven 49-42.

Guerin was down 23-6 to Eastern Hancock in the second quarter before fighting back. Two 3-pointers by Sarah Yount helped cut the score to 23-14, and GC was still within shouting distance at halftime, down just 26-16.

But the Royals outscored the Golden Eagles 21-2 in the third quarter, only allowing a rebound basket by Kristy Thiem. That gave EH a 29-point lead, and that margin held in the fourth quarter. Yount drained four '3s' on her way to 14 points.

Guerin got off to a better start against New Haven, leading 12-5 after one quarter and 17-10 in the second. Yount hit two more long-range shots, and Kristen Schneider added seven points.

The Bulldogs ran off nine straight points to take the lead, then held a 21-19 advantage at halftime. But the Golden Eagles came out strong in the third quarter, with a '3' and a layin by Yount and two jumpers from Carly Osinski. That gave Guerin a 28-21 lead and it was able to keep that lead for most of the second half. New Haven cut GC's lead to two at a couple points, but the Eagles took control in the fourth quarter.

Yount made another five 3-pointers to give her 21 points, with Schneider getting some timely baskets on her way to 10 points. Carly Osinski had an all-around good game, with seven rebounds, six points and three steals.

Three 4A teams await Guerin Catholic this week. The Golden Eagles played at Concord on Monday, travel to Jennings County on Friday and host Avon on Saturday.

HUSKIES

But Warsaw turned the tables quick, going on a 23-7 run that spanned well into the second period. The Tigers led 30-17 when the dust settled. Junior Garrett Paull and Weatherford were the only Husky players to score; Paull added four points on a layin and a pair of free throws, while Weatherford hit another 3.

The game of runs continued into the second half, as the Huskies then scored 14 unanswered points in a run that was interrupted only by halftime. The long-range shot did the honors, with Weatherford hitting two more '3's in the first half, then senior Conley Hoover and junior Kurry Miller opened the second half with downtown baskets.

Heights had the momentum, and two big baskets by sophomore Hunter Crist (plus a foul shot) pushed the Huskies ahead 39-34. Another Crist basket made the score 41-38 in the fourth quarter, and then both teams traded 7-0 runs. Weatherford's steal, basket, foul and free throw gave Heights a 48-45 advantage with 4:43 left.

But that would be the Huskies' last basket for over four minutes. Warsaw followed Weatherford's score with a layin, which was it from the field for the Tigers. But they made their free throws, going 10-for-14 from the line.

"We came down three straight possessions with a chance to take the lead, and didn't take advantage of it," said Ballenger. "So that put a lot of pressure on us."

Weatherford ended up with 19 points, while Crist scored 14. Both were named to the All-Tournament team after the championship game finished.

In the morning semi-final, Heights took care of Shortridge 81-53. The Huskies slowly built a 41-27 halftime lead, then poured it on by outscoring the Blue Devils 21-5 in the third quarter.

"They're a pressing and trapping team, and I thought we handled the traps really well," said Ballenger.

Crist scored 22 points, while Paull earned a double-double of 17 points and 11 rebounds.

Heights is taking this week off, not returning to action until a Jan. 10 Mid-Indiana Conference date with Taylor at the Husky Dome.

Happy holidays from frosh Welch

Holidays? What holidays. It has been a period of time with no vacation days for Sheridan's Lady Blackhawks. Starting with a tough 50-48 Hoosier Heartland overtime loss to Tri-Central on Dec. 21 and continuing through a two-day Dec. 27-28 holiday tourney at Manual, Coach Jeff Guenther's squad played five games within a week.

Following the loss to Tri-Central, Sheridan was beaten 64-39 by a very tough Lapel team. Sheridan then started the tourney with a 59-26 smashing of Herron. The Blackhawks lost to Trinity Lutheran 49-48 and then finished tourney play by beating Providence Cristo Rey 71-25.

Sheridan's freshman Brittany Welch had some kind of stretch of outstanding games for Sheridan. She scored 16 points against Lapel; netted 23 against Herron, added 19 against Trinity Lutheran and poured in 21 in the game with Providence.

Sheridan hit Providence with a 1-2 punch. Amanda Summe was the Blackhawks' leading scorer with 22 points. Summe and Payton Buckner each added 13 points against Herron.

Summe also scored 15 points against Trinity Lutheran.

Sheridan, now 10-4 on the year, will return to action on Jan. 7, hosting Tipton.

Lady Huskies start MIC stretch

Okay, 2013 is history for the Hamilton Heights Lady Huskies. Their 3-7 record isn't as impressive as last year when Heights rolled to the state championship game.

Okay, five of the seven losses have been to Class 4A teams. The other two losses, both to 3A opponents, have been to No. 5, 12-1 Western Boone and an 8-3 Lebanon club.

Okay, entering 2014 the Lady Huskies are 1-0 in the Mid-Indiana Conference, having beaten Northwestern 59-46.

So, what is ahead in the MIC? We shall soon see. Heights next five games, starting with a Jan. 9 home game with Lewis Cass, are against conference foes. Western leads the loop with a 4-0 record, followed by Cass 2-0, Heights 1-0, Peru 1-1 and Northwestern 2-2.

Heights is coming off a 59-44 loss to Lebanon. Despite Haley's Cook double-double, the story of the game was Lebanon's huge rebounding edge.

Cook scored 12 points and collected 13 rebounds. Also in double figures, with four 3-pointers, was Caitlyn Hays, also with 12 points.

EAGLES

In its tourney opener, Guerin led Bloomington South 14-5, 28-25, 38-37 at each of the first three quarter stops. But even with a seven-point fourth quarter by Brennan, the Panthers forced the Eagles into overtime and then led all the way, starting with a 3-pointer. Brennan scored 24 points and ranked 13 rebounds in the game.

In the win over Kokomo, Brennan had 18 points and 11 rebounds, while Whit Rapp notched 12 points and Matt Holba added 11.

Brennan (14), Holba (13) and Cris Burrough (10) were in double figures against New Haven.

Guerin will return to action Friday, playing its fourth 4A foe in five games, when traveling to New Castle. The Trojans are 4-2 on the year. On Saturday (at 4 p.m.), Guerin will meet Evansville Harrison at Tech. Harrison is 3-4 and has lost three straight.

MILLERS

pair of third quarter fielders from Justin Pegues.

Noblesville had warmed up for that kind of flop earlier in the tourney when losing in overtime to a much-stronger (than Kokomo) Bloomington South team. While the defense was good, the offense went South in the second half. This time it was a nine-point third quarter which did in Noblesville, after the Millers took a 22-14 lead to halftime.

Three Millers scored in double figures, Wilson with 12 points and Pegues and Mills with 11 each.

Noblesville will try to bounce back on Friday when the Millers travel to Merrillville. The Pirates are just 1-5 and they, too, are coming off a double loss in their own holiday tourney, losing to Lake Central 72-33 and Portage 54-45. Their lone win is over Highland, 46-43.
