Impaired drivers targeted this weekend...

Indiana State Police will conduct DUI Checkpoint

On the evening of March 15th and the early morning hours of March 16th, 2014, Indiana State Police Indianapolis troopers along with officers from the Hamilton County Traffic Safety Partnership will participate in an enforcement check point targeting impaired drivers in Hamilton County. After the checkpoint, troopers will conduct roving saturation patrols aggressively seeking impaired drivers throughout the Indianapolis District which covers Marion, Johnson, Shelby, Hendricks, Hamilton, Hancock and Boone Counties.

In 2012, Indiana had 158 alcohol-impaired driving fatalities (a 12.9 percent increase from 140 fatalities in 2011) and 2,112 injuries. Alcohol impaired collisions were 2.7 percent of all Indiana crashes, but accounted for 20.3 percent of Indiana's 779 traffic fatalities. Of the 540 drivers killed in collisions in 2012, about one in four (24.4 percent) died in a collision involving at least one alcohol-impaired driver. More than two-thirds of the drivers killed in 2012 were tested for alcohol (and/or drugs), and among those for whom results were reported, 37.1 percent were legally impaired.

"The purpose of enforcement checkpoints is to remove impaired drivers from Indiana roadways" stated Indiana State Police District Commander Lt. Jeff Payne. "Checkpoints also educate the motoring public of the ongoing efforts by the Indiana State Police to reduce the number of impaired driving crashes and deter anyone from driving while intoxicated."

Reminders so motorists do not find themselves "Over the Limit and Under Arrest":

- Plan ahead and always designate a sober driver before consuming alcohol.
  - Don't drive your vehicle if you've been drinking alcohol. Call a taxi or a sober friend. A cab ride is cheaper than a D.U.I. arrest.
  - Take care of your friends. Never let a friend drive while impaired. Take their keys.
  - If you are hosting a party, always offer non-alcoholic beverages. Make sure all of your guests leave with a sober driver.
  - Never provide alcohol to anyone under the legal drinking age of 21.
- Motorists are encouraged to report suspected impaired drivers by calling 911. Give a vehicle description and direction of travel.

Public U.S. 31 meetings next week...

Frontage Road south of Carmel Drive closed today, tomorrow

Two road closures on U.S. 31 in Carmel have already come and gone this week, but there are more on the way, including one scheduled to start today.

Beginning at 9 a.m. this morning, the Frontage Road on the west side of U.S. 31, south of Carmel Drive, will be closed at a point just north of the Ritz Charles by the Meridian Medical Plaza for the installation of a new storm sewer.

The road will be open to traffic by end of business Thursday. This work is weather dependent and was originally scheduled to occur March 7-10.

Detour routes are posted. Access to the properties south of the closure will be provided from Illinois Street.

Monday afternoon, crews re-striped 136th Street near U.S. 31 to help ease congestion until the U.S. 31 closure, which is scheduled to start on or after April 4. The lane markings are now configured to allow for two eastbound and two westbound thru lanes across U.S. 31, plus turn lanes onto northbound and southbound U.S. 31.

On Monday evening, crews restricted the right lane of southbound U.S. 31 just north of Main Street to just south of 126th Street/Carmel Drive to move temporary concrete barrier walls.

The public is invited to attend open houses where U.S. 31 project team members will be available to answer questions about the highway's closure between Old Meridian and 136th Streets, and overall construction. Two meeting dates are scheduled for convenience.

The first meeting is Tuesday at the Carmel High School freshman cafeteria, 520 E. Main St. Use door 13 to enter. The second meeting is Wednesday at the Westfield Middle School cafeteria, 345 W. Hoover St. Use the north main entrance. Both meetings last from 5:30 to 8 p.m., with the presentations at 6 p.m. both nights.

Heights teacher challenges himself to live on...

Just five gallons of water a day

Could you imagine having to live on five percent of the water you normally use in a day?

That's what one Hamilton Heights teacher is trying to do. Cameron Scott, a seventh-grade social studies teacher, sent a letter home with his students that said he was challenging himself to limit his water use to five gallons a day this week. His challenge has gotten the attention of the town of Cicero, which discussed Scott's plans with a post on its Web site.

" Mr. Scott has taken on the challenge of making the content of his course work come alive for the students," the post said. " Rather than just studying about Asia, the Middle East, or Africa, he has decided to have them experience it as if they were in the shoes of someone in that part of the world. 'As much as possible, we've tried to join in and experience history, government, and economics from within rather than just looking at the content from the perspective of an outsider,' stated Mr. Scott in his letter home."

In his letter, Scott explained that the average American uses 100 gallons of water each day for bathing, cooking, toilet-flushing and drinking. But the average person that lives in Sub-Saharan Africa uses two to five gallons of water each day, and must normally walk 1.85 miles each way to retrieve that water.

With that, Scott made his water-limiting pledge. To make sure the experience is as real as possible, Scott is picking up his water from a friend's home about 1.85 miles away, then carrying it back to his house. He is also inviting his students to share the experience; including such actions as the following that were listed on the Cicero Web site:

"- Those who are willing are invited to experience that right along with him. Try it for a day, a few days, or even the full week. There is no doubt that any of these will be impactful.

- Try to walk 1.85 miles during the week to get a grasp of the journey traveled daily. Again, do it once, twice, or as many times as you can. You might even try to carry some weight one direction to simulate the weight of water.

- Watch the recordings from the journey."

Scott is chronicling his experiences on his YouTube site, click on <http://youtu.be/ijROXP-7nI> to see his thoughts on the second day of the challenge. You can also check his progress on the Town of Cicero's Facebook page.

Brown, Mather lead the way at HSR qualifier

The girls competed at Noblesville's Hoosier State Qualifier at Anderson University on Saturday. Among the winners were two very familiar names: Hamilton Heights' Sierra Brown and the Millers' Rachel Mather.

Brown, the state champion on the 100 meter hurdles last year, won the 60 hurdles event Saturday in a time of 9.56. Noblesville's Rachel Mather won the pole vault (12-0) and high jump (5-4); she placed third at state in both events last year.

The Millers also won the 4x800 relay, with Abby Crouch, Megan Line, Sara Schuser, Kat Dombroski finishing that race in 9:53.23.
