The County Line

There are answers to the traffic congestion problem

By FRED SWIFT

Congested traffic in Hamilton County, especially at morning and evening rush hours, is increasing at an alarming rate. It's no surprise as our population nears 300,000.

The main problems are on north-south highways, but some east-west roads are also becoming a major problem. And as our population continues its dramatic increase the congestion will increase with it.

A few of the worst trouble spots are Ind. 37 between Noblesville and I-69, Conner Street through Noblesville and Keystone Parkway at 96th Street. Of course US 31 from Westfield to I-465 is bad, but is in the process of being upgraded by eliminating stoplights to improve traffic flow.

There are answers to the most congested thoroughfares.

Local officials said last year they would like to team with the state highway department to build overpasses at the Ind. 37 intersections thus eliminating stoplights where backups create the major problem.

This would be a very expensive undertaking requiring major state assistance along with local contributions from the county, city and town of Fishers. Whether talks are underway toward the improvements is unknown as officials have not revealed progress if any in recent months.

The traffic on Conner Street is a tough problem. Possibly lessening the amount of through traffic could be accomplished with a new White River bridge at Pleasant Street, but Noblesville has been cautious, knowing that improving the street would be costly and disruptive for some residents. County officials have expressed interest in the bridge, and would pay for the structure itself.

Again, progress if any on the proposal is unknown.

For Keystone traffic, it is smooth sailing from 146th Street south to 96th thanks to Carmel's building of roundabouts at intersecting streets. But when traffic hits the county line at 96th, big congestion develops each morning and evening because that intersection is signalized and slow-moving.

Officials are well aware of this bottleneck, but again money is the holdup. Federal assistance has not been obtained, Carmel and Marion County apparently do not have the money to do the needed improvements and any talks between the two has not resulted in anything to date.

Our public officials, city, county and state need to keep these projects on the front burner for the sake of our motoring public. Other very congested locations are going to develop. Hamilton County overall has done a good job in the past 20 years of keeping up with the highway needs. This is no time to stop planning, negotiating, and bonding if necessary to keep the good work going.

Not school boards

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

School board people are good folks. They really are. In the community, they are no different than you, then me. For very little pay they come to meeting after meeting and try to make things good in our school systems.

Problem is today, I believe, school boards aren't in control. Schools are controlled by administrators, people who make six figure (and more) salaries.

School boards, in lots of places, have lost control of the schools. Too much to know. Too much to study. Superintendents, and assistant superintendents, are in charge. School boards are weak. In many cases they don't know the questions to ask. In many cases they have lost contact with folks like teachers and folks in the community who have elected them to office. And, lost contact with kids.

I've heard it hundreds of times. "Vote for me; I'll clean up that mess." More than not, they become the next mess.

They are good people who in this day and age have lost control.

Take Tuesday evening at the Noblesville School Board meeting.

The folks who were there to speak where saying they didn't believe that the School Board had thoroughly investigated the Dave McCollough firing.

I agree.

50 years ago...

Different name, same problem for special students

Editor's Note: The following story appeared in the Noblesville Ledger 50 years ago, May, 1964. It was written by staff reporter Ralph Kramer.

The seventh year of operation of Hamilton County Opportunity School could well be its last.

It is due to become extinct along with the County Board of Education when reorganization becomes effective here July 1.

A pair of instructors have been tendered tentative raises if the school is still in existence when September rolls around. But, no contracts have been signed, mainly because none have been offered.

They wouldn't be worth the paper they're written on, anyway.

Even the building, site of Noblesville's old Federal Hill Elementary School and for which the system receives $1,000 a year in rent, is already slated for other uses.

With its closing an instructional opportunity unique to Hamilton County and just one other in the state will be no longer.

SCHOOL

No school board could have acted like this one had it had all the facts.

I do not believe for a minute that McCollough was fired because he threw a basketball at a player. Minor incident. As one school board member from a different district said to me, "If we were to fire a coach over an incident like that, we wouldn't have any coaches left." I agree.

Nor, do I believe that a small group of players could influence a school system to fire a man like Dave McCollough. If that kind of stuff is happening in our schools, God help us.

There were some great questions asked last night.

*Why, if that incident back in Dec. was so bad, was McCollough allowed back on the bench, or even in the classroom? The answer, of course, is that it wasn't. It was just the tiny little thing which opened the door for those who were looking for an open door.

*Why hadn't McCollough, over the course of time, been given a review at the end of the school years?

*Why, considering everything, was Coach Mac not even given an opportunity to resign?

All of this, I believe, was a set up. And, I think a lot of you do, too.

People I talked with following the meeting still want to know ... why? Why was the coach fired? They want an investigation.

So do I.

As a Noblesville graduate, I want to know what has happened to Noblesville Schools.

I know Coach Mac is gone as basketball coach. But, I want to know why; and who; when, who knows what.

My door is always open. If you want to investigate, then lets do it together. Then, who knows, others may be shown the same door McCollough was shown.

Communities need to claim back their schools, and need to claim them by being able to work with the people they've elected to run their schools. Still today, I think, school boards should be in charge of their schools.

That's not the case in Noblesville.

And, oh, no, with a new superintendent coming around the corner.

You hear that the New Super will come from far away. A search committee was hired. Don't always believe what you hear. In my 70-plus years in Noblesville, I can remember only one superintendent who wasn't hired from within, or hired after leaving here and then returning.

Maybe that's what this McCollough mess is all around. People looking to impress the school board. People looking for power. I hope and pray that isn't the case.

Expansion could create amphitheater and walking trails at Biddle Park

By JEFF JELLISON

Park Board President, Roger Myers, announced Tuesday possible expansion plans for Sheridan's Biddle Memorial Park.

Myers said, "A Brownfield assessment was conducted on a 10 acre parcel that the Town of Sheridan (Biddle Memorial Park) already owns. We purchased this parcel a little over 10 years ago. The land was previously used in the early 1900's as a glass factory and also a brick factory. Since around the 50's, the property was used a junk yard."

A Brownfield assessment determines if the expansion, redevelopment, or reuse of a property could be complicated by the presence or potential presence of hazardous substance, pollutant or contaminant.

"The assessment was made as part of a Hamilton County grant program for possible Brownfield properties, so it didn't cost the Biddle Park anything. While it did find some minor contamination, the land will be very usable for the plans we have for this parcel, and very little, if any, remediation will be necessary," stated Myers.

"We have cleaned up most of the junk that existed...almost a thousand old tires, old appliances, old auto and truck chassis. We even found some old glass and brick remnants," said Myers.

"We intend to develop this parcel into a natural walking trail park, and also plan to build an outdoor amphitheater for the purpose of renting out the facility for weddings, music events, etc." said Myers.

Biddle Park was donated to the Town of Sheridan in 1970 by Sheridan businessman Ken Biddle.

For the last several years maintenance, day to day operations and capital improvements have been primarily funded by the Biddle Memorial Foundation, along with, private donations.

Biddle Park Board of Directors currently oversees park operations. Board members include Roger Myers, Theda Anderson, John Barker, David Pitts, Wanda Lyons and Holly Snell.

Recently, Sheridan Town Council members confirmed the town is in discussion with Roger and Brian Myers about taking over maintenance of the park. The Myers brothers are Ken Biddle's grandsons, and both serve on the Biddle Memorial Foundation.

A potential public/private partnership that would involve Sheridan taking over maintenance and Biddle Memorial Foundation assisting with capital improvement projects could benefit the landmark Sheridan location.

Biddle Park is located at the intersection of State Road 47 and State Road 38 on Sheridan's east end.

Many Sheridan area residents feel the park should be included in the town's plans to build gateways.

"Coming from the east the park is the first thing you see when entering Sheridan. Coming from the west it is the last thing you see when leaving Sheridan," said a local resident that attended the Renew Sheridan meeting. "We need to take advantage of the park and blend it into our gateway plan."

Parents will be without a local instruction where excellent daily training is available for their mentally retarded sons or daughters.

The public can scream its collective head off. But it can apparently do little else.

It's going to take acknowledgement of the need for the institution by one or all the school systems in Hamilton County and the further organization of an administrative unit with power to run it.

Unfortunately, the Board of Education is the only body of county government authorized to run a joint service and supply.

A system could take over management of the school. But whatever any other government agency would want to put into its operation would be voluntary.

The school now has 15 students. Its annual budget will run slightly more than $13,000. Local property taxes accounted for about $8,500 this year. The rest was either donated or supplied by the state.

The $8,500 sum is the equivalent of about one cent per $100 assessed valuation in Hamilton County.

County Superintendent of Schools John Kerr administers the school through the Board of Education with money supplied him by trustees.

They pay their share based on a $750 per pupil per year assessment.

Kerr claims the county is the only one in the state with such an institution.

One other county had one. But disintegration of the Board of Education in the wake of reorganization brought it under the management of a single system, with others in the county apparently helping pay the tab.

Whether that could happen here is doubtful.

Noblesville Superintendent Dale Swanson said yesterday the school board is already considering renovation of the building and the movement of administrative headquarters there "within the next year or so."

So relocating of the school is apparently inevitable.

If some other of the county's six systems would agree to take it over, the school would have to be moved into that system's territory.

That wouldn't ease the going and coming problems of an average 50 per cent of the school's population. At least that many usually are Noblesville's residents, Kerr said.

This year five of Mrs. Dora Wainwright's 15 charges are from the city. Two are from Clay Township, two more from Westfield, two from Adams Township, two from Delaware Township and one each from Fall Creek and Jackson.

Carmel Clay Superintendent Forest M. Stoops, a principal in the organization of the school in 1956 and one of its prime supporters, said today it would be a "real shame" to allow the school to close.

"But our kids are more accessible to Indianapolis schools than anyone else in the county. It probably won't work as much a hardship on us as on some other areas," he said.

Fall Creek trustee John Ross, whose Board of Education is also trying to solve problems resulting from the pending elimination of the audio-visual aids service and Grace Tener's attendance office, said it will be "impossible for his group to continue operation of the Opportunity School.

"It would be nice if Noblesville would take it over. They have the most at stake," he said.

"Everybody is quite concerned about it. But nobody seems to want to pick up the reins."

Ross said the fact the school is being used is evidence of its need.

"Here's a department that's been functioning well. It would be a mistake, a real tragedy to let it drop," he added.

Kerr said Mrs. Wainwright and Maxine Cotton, an assistant, both were slated for $300 raises next year if the Board of Education remained administrator of the school.

Mrs. Wainwright said no plans have been made for next year "because we don't know what to do."

She gets $4,800. Mrs. Cotton gets $3,800.

Mrs. Wainwright is due along with 20 other teachers from around the state to participate in an eight-week training program at Noble School in Indianapolis this summer.

The experience will make her an even better teacher of retarded youngsters. But she may not have any place to put her knowledge to work.

Kerr said per pupil per year costs at the Opportunity School run about $375 more than they do in other Hamilton County Schools.

The state pays 80 per cent of the difference, so local taxpayers foot about $100 more per pupil than for other county students.

The Opportunity School was set up in 1956, a year after the 1955 Legislature passed a law allowing establishment of such a school and administration through the joint service and supply of the Board of Education.

The school's initial location was the county 4-H grounds.

Later it moved to a rent-free home owned by an Indianapolis company at Morse Reservoir.

The move was made to the old Federal Hill School when it became available four years ago.

Mrs. Wainwright said the latter site is the best of the three. But she said the ultimate would be a fully equipped home.

"Our main effort is toward teaching these youngsters to take care of themselves, to manage themselves. We could best do that some place equipped exactly like a home. That's where they could learn how to handle themselves in an environment they're in most."

She'll settle for almost anything with a roof come September.

Mette’s “Airstream Tour” coming to Bethel Lutheran Church Saturday

One of the more unique Christian musicians is coming to Bethel Lutheran Church this weekend.

Michael James Mette will be performing at the church, which is located at 206th Street and Cumberland Road in Noblesville. Mette will perform as part of what Bethel music director Julie Sprung is calling a "worship concert," which is free and the public is invited to attend.

Mette has a remarkable backstory: He started as a member of the Air Force, during which time he married his sweetheart Michelle. After working as a praise band leader at a church, Mette, his wife and five children began traveling the country in an 34-foot Airstream trailer to perform full-time music ministry - called the “Airstream Tour.”

Sprung discovered Mette while he was giving a concert in Hudson, Fla.

" I felt like there was an anointing in the service," said Sprung. "His voice, the music that he did. At that time, he was doing the keyboard, all the vocals and he had background tracks. Now he's added a drummer that is on the road with him. The brought their five little children up and they shared a little song with us, and then off they went."

Bethel Lutheran will start the evening with a 5:30 p.m. service, which will offer communion. After that there will be a pitch-in dinner. Sprung said the church is hoping to "pack the house with lots and lots of people."

"We're calling it a worship concert because most of it is all music, but then he interjects his spirituality and his message to all of us," said Sprung.

Janus remembers a great friend

Death touches all of us at one time or another and Janus Developmental Services is no exception.

In the beginning of 2014, a longtime client of Janus passed away due to illness. JB was involved with the Janus programs and services for 26 years! During one of those 26 years at Janus, JB was voted Client of the Year by his peers. He touched the lives of staff, clients and volunteers and will never be forgotten.

When JB passed away, Janus held a memorial service, which was attended by JB's staff, friends, Janus staff and others. Joe Rudy, From Bethel Lutheran Church came to Janus and provided a eulogy that was appropriate for every person in attendance. The Janus staff prepared for the memorial service with pictures, flowers, candles and refreshments. Many of JB's co-workers spoke about their feelings of sadness and loss. But JB's co-workers didn't stop with sad feelings.

The Janus Aktion Club is a community service organization made up of Janus clients and sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. The members of this club began to think about a positive way to remember their friend JB. Janus clients began to use their skills and talents and created numerous pieces of art and held an Art Fair in JB's memory. Janus staff worked with Haley from Nickel Plate Arts, who helped price the artwork.

The Aktion Club members voted to donate all proceeds from the Art Fair to the special needs program at Hamilton South Eastern School in JB's name. Over $1000.00 was raised and will be donated to the school. How touching that those with difficulties of their own want to give back to the community and assist others, helping each of us to realize everyone has potential if only given the opportunity.

What a great example of creating a good experience from such a difficult loss! It is such a joy for me to work at Janus and be able to serve individuals whose kindness and generosity are reflected in some manner each day.

You can become a part of this fabulous organization by donating to Janus today. Visit <http://www.janus-inc.org/take-action/donate> to do so.

Town of Fishers calls on residents to name destination park

Following the April 22 groundbreaking on the future destination park located at 101st Street and Cyntheanne Road, the Town of Fishers is encouraging residents to get involved and help name the destination park. From May 21 through June 6, residents of all ages are encouraged to suggest a name by filling out a form on the Fishers Parks website. Town of Fishers staff will select the top five names and from June 16-20 residents will be asked to vote on their top choice for the future park.

“The facility promises opportunities for residents of all ages to enjoy outdoor recreation,” stated Fishers Parks & Recreation’s Director, Tony Elliot. “It is important that residents have an opportunity to get involved and name a location that will surely become a favorite destination for all residents to play in our community.”

Construction began this spring on the facility that will be available for community use year-round. The official name of the park will be announced this summer, and residents are encouraged to stay tuned to Fishers Parks & Recreation on Facebook and Twitter @FishersParks.

To submit a possible name for the park, visit www.fishers.in.us/parks.

Sheridan Fireside Tales 2014 set for June 7

Sheridan Fireside Tales 2014 is set for Sat., June 7, 5 p.m., Sheridan Community Park, 300 E. 6th St., and area families and friends will gather to enjoy music by Seth Merrill and a whimsical magical performance by C.R. Ryan and son Brady. The event is free admission and food will be available for sale.

Combined this year with Fireside Tales is the annual Critter Showcase of small animals that will be shown in the park after 4 p.m. that day by Staci Wright. “We know children...and the older children...love to see young baby animals, so we’ve volunteered to bring together Tipton County 4-H Club, The Kantering Kids, who will present their friends to be admired.” Staci, who has been active as a 4-H leader for 11 years, is coordinating the popular event with Connie Pearson, on the Sheridan Fireside Tales plan committee. Other committee members are:

Connie Mossburg, Vicki Remsen, Ron Stone, Virginia Tackitt, Jim Pickett and Donna Pickett.

As youth pastor for Sheridan Six Points Wesleyan Church, Seth Merrill has agreed to bring his musical repertoire of community favorites to entertain locals beginning at 6 p.m.

C.R. Ryan, scheduled to perform at 7 p.m., has always been a favorite act to kick-start the summer season in Sheridan. The Fireside Tales event was designed and produced by the Sheridan Historical Society 11 years ago and this is the first year it has been united with Critter Showcase.

In case of inclement weather, the event will be moved inside the Sheridan Community Center. Families are encouraged to bring lawn chairs and blankets along with a picnic basket to enjoy on park grounds.

Annual Motorcycle Ride to Hoosier Burn Camp

The Carmel Fire Department Local #4444 is holding the annual Hoosier Burn Camp Motorcycle Ride on Wednesday, May 28. Riders will meet at the Carmel Fire Department Headquarters at Civic Square (Station #41). Registration is from 7 – 8:40 a.m. and riders will depart at 8:50 a.m. for the Hoosier Burn Camp (HBC) at Camp Tecumseh in Brookston, Indiana. Coffee, donuts, and juice will be provided at registration. Online registration is also available at www.carmelfirefighters.com. Lunch will be provided at the HBC. Riders are asked to donate $30 per bike with all proceeds going to HBC. The price includes a T-shirt (while supplies last). Additional riders or t-shirts will be an additional charge of $10.

HBC is a non-profit organization offering summer camps for young men and women (8-18 years of age) from Indiana who have experienced injuries from burns or who have been treated for burn related injuries in the state of Indiana. Camp services are free of charge to the families of the burn victims, including transportation to and from camp. The cost for each child to attend camp is approximately $1,000 and is funded solely through donations received.

Last year, almost 100 motorcycles made the trip to Brookston, Indiana. This great turnout resulted in $4,000 being raised. This year, St. Vincent Carmel Hospital is the major sponsor.

“I am proud of all the Carmel Firefighters who have worked hard each year to make this fundraising event such a success. Their dedication, along with the generosity of the sponsors and riders, makes it possible for these children to have a memorable experience,” said Carmel Fire Chief Matt Hoffman.

“The Hoosier Burn Camp is a place where children with burn injuries can ‘just be kids’ for a week and not have to worry about the pressures of everyday life. Our goal is to provide a fun and safe place while building self-esteem and confidence in our young campers,” said Tony Collins, Carmel Firefighter and Hoosier Burn Camp Executive Board Member and Volunteer Counselor.

For more information contact Scott Stroup at scott@hoosierburncampride.com, Dave Martin at dave@hoosierburncampride.com, or call the Carmel Fire Headquarters at 571-2600. You can also visit the website at www.HoosierBurnCamp.org.

Practice safe driving habits this Memorial Day weekend

The Indiana Department of Transportation (INDOT) reminds motorists to practice safe driving habits during the heavily traveled Memorial Day weekend. While INDOT has directed contractors to pull back barrels and barricades to the safest extent possible, motorists should be informed of highway construction zones that might be encountered on the way to the “Greatest Spectacle in Racing” and other destinations.

- U.S. 31 is closed between Old Meridian Street and 136th Street. The official detour follows Keystone Parkway and I-465.

- U.S. 31 is restricted to one lane between State Road 38 and 181st Street.

- I-69 southbound between 116th Street and 82nd Street has four lanes shifted to the left and the shoulder is restricted by barrier wall.

- I-70 westbound between State Road 9 and Mt. Comfort Road has one lane of traffic diverted across the median to share the eastbound side of the interstate. Eastbound lanes are shifted to the shoulder. Opposing traffic is separated by barrier wall.

- I-465 eastbound and westbound has shifting lanes between the Emerson Avenue interchange and Keystone Avenue overpass.

- I-65 northbound and southbound has shifting lanes between the Keystone Avenue and Southport Road interchanges.

- East Street bridge over I-70 is limited to one lane in each direction.

To maximize safety and mobility during the Memorial Day Weekend, INDOT work zones will not have construction activities taking place. However, Indiana State Police will continue to enforce construction zone safety. They will be specifically looking for drivers who speed, follow too closely, make unsafe lane changes, drive aggressively and fail to buckle up or to properly restrain children. Troopers will also be vigilantly looking for impaired drivers.

Please remember these safe driving tips:

- Make sure you are well rested before traveling.

- Avoid tailgating. Remember the two-second rule.

- Obey posted speed limits and always use turn signals when turning or making lane changes.

- Make sure everyone is properly buckled.

Never drink and drive. If you are going to consume alcohol, make sure you have a designated driver.

INDOT personnel will be monitoring dozens of traffic cameras and traffic flow on the Indianapolis interstate system, coordinating with law enforcement for incident response and communicating with motorists via dynamic message signs. INDOT’s Traffic Management Center will also advise race fans of interstate traffic information via Twitter @TrafficWise.

INDOT’s Hoosier Helpers sponsored by State Farm will be concentrating patrols on Indianapolis’ west side on race day to help keep traffic flowing safely by assisting with incident response and aiding stranded motorists. Before getting on the road, drivers are encouraged to be prepared and check www.TrafficWise.in.gov for traffic updates.

If you're planning on attending the Indianapolis 500 at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, be sure to plan your route ahead of time. Visit the Indiana State Police website at <http://www.in.gov/isp/2967.htm> for resources to help you with directions, transportation options, and general race information.

After several incidents...

Fishers Police Chief offers tips to avoid vehicle thefts

Within the past couple weeks The Fishers Police Department has investigated several incidents of thefts from vehicles. Chief of Police George Kehl would like to remind citizens of a few simple safety tips that, if implemented, can decrease the potential of them becoming a victim.

- 1. Never leave your vehicle unsecured, even if you are only going to be away from it for a short time. Thieves only need a few seconds to open an unlocked door and retrieve valuables that are left in plain sight.
- 2. Secure valuables in the trunk before leaving your vehicle. Thieves will often take the time to look into windows before choosing a particular vehicle to break-in. Unsecured items such as GPS devices, CD’s, computers, purses, cellular phones, audio systems, keys, and other items are often the targets of a thief.

3. Etch your driver’s license number on all items of value and that are removable, e.g., audio equipment, computers, GPS devices.

4. Park in your garage, if you have one. Don’t leave your vehicle in the street, in an alley or in your driveway. If you have to park in the street, avoid dark or isolated areas.

5. Install an alarm system that will sound when someone attempts to break-in, move, or start your vehicle. Always activate the system when leaving your vehicle unattended.

6. Don’t leave spare keys attached to the outside of your vehicle or hidden inside your vehicle. An experienced thief knows all the hiding places.

- 7. Park in open, well-lighted, and populated areas near your destination. Avoid parking near trucks, vans, dumpsters, or other objects that obstruct visibility and provide hiding places. Avoid parking near strangers loitering or sitting in vehicles.
- 8. Turn off your engine, roll up all your windows, lock all doors, and take your keys with you even if you are making a quick stop at a store or gas station, or even in your driveway.

As always if you see or hear something suspicious please call 911 immediately.

Millers can focus on the conference...

NHS has drawn a bye

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

There are two or three things which might surprise you when checking out the pairings for the local class 4A baseball sectional, the tourney which next week will stat at The Dunk, Don Dunker Field in Noblesville.

In a tourney in which the favorite seldom wins, the Millers, you might figure, are the favorites this year. They are ranked No. 7 in the state.

Some have wondered how Noblesville might respond to the sectional after finishing the season on a high, or a low, note.

After 16 games in the extremely tough Hoosier Crossroads Conference, Noblesville is deadlocked for first place with McCutcheon. The battle will come to an end this Thursday and Friday when Noblesville hosts Harrison tonight and then plays at Harrison on Friday. A double win will mean NHS will at least tie for the championship. Then it will be up to McCutchon as he Mavs play tonight at Southeastern and host the Royals on Friday. McCutcheon twice has beaten Noblesville during the season, but in this conference there isn't a tie-breaker to settle the issue.

Noblesville, thanks to the IHSAA, can center all of its attention on the conference fight. The sectional will start on Wednesday, but the Millers drew a first-round bye and won't play until the semi-final round on Monday, June 2. The championship game will be played Monday evening.

Strange schedule!

Noblesville will play the winner of the Fishers-Carmel game. That could be a challenge for the Millers. Carrying the favorite's role because of the rankings, Noblesville has lost a single game to Carmel this season and split a double-header with Fishers.

Another strange thing about this sectional is that one might think because all of the schools are located close to each other, all of the games would be rematches. They aren't. In the first round Carmel-Fishers and Westfield-North Central have not met. In the other first-round game, Zionsville has twice defeated Hamilton Southeastern.

The sectional at Noblesville, the only sectional involving 4A Hamilton County teams, is one of five sectionals involving Hamilton County teams.

There are two in 3A, the sectional at Yorktown, where Hamilton Heights will play, and the sectional at Chatard, where Guerin Catholic will play.

Hamilton Heights will play the host team, Yorktown. The winner will advance to the championship game. Guerin will open the Chatard Sectional by facing Marshall. Guerin and Marshall have not met this spring. Neither have Heights and Yorktown.

Sheridan, like Noblesville, is a host team which has drawn a first-round bye. Sheridan, playing at home, will meet the winner of the Alexandria Tipton game. The Blackhawks have defeated Tipton, 17-10, and have not faced Alexandria.

Playing in Class 1A, University will compete at the Bethesda Christian Sectional and will play the host team in the opening game.

Greyhounds capture MIC

Coach Dan Roman's Carmel Greyhounds have iced the MIC Conference baseball championship by knocking off Warren Central 12-0 after defeating North Central 6-1.

Tony Giannini, the leading hitter in the conference with a .533 average, pounded out three hits and drove home three runs in the win over Warren Central. Connor McGeehan and Riley Smith each added a double in Carmel's 10-hit attack.

Conner Cunningham shared a five-hitter with Matt Wehner the mound. Cunningham went the first four innings in the five inning game.

Carmel showed more pitching depth against North Central, with Matt Rearick and Ryan Campbell sharing a two-hitter. Rearick pitched five innings, allowed two hits and fanning five. Campbell threw hitless sixth and seventh innings.

Calvin Micheels was the hitting star with three hits. Smith smashed a home run.
