Building permits are down

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

The number of building permits for single family housing in Noblesville is down, compared to a year ago.

“Through June, we are down by 33 permits from last year,” reports Andrew Wert, Assistant Director of Planning for the City.

Four of the six months reported had declines from 2013. The biggest fall was in May. Sixty-one permits were issued in 2013 as compared to 41 in 2014.

In the month of June, the last month reported, permits increased from 42 in 2013 to 45 this year.

Wert said there are two reasons for the overall six-month decline.

“Part of it was the harsh winter,” he said, “and we’ve also seen a decrease in lot inventory.

“At the end of last year we had 627 recorded vacant residential lots that were available to build on. As of the end of June we were down to 447 lots.

“This is a trend that I think will eventually reverse once the lots for approved projects are recorded, such as Beazer’s Promenade Woods, Corby Thompson’s Lake Forest and Noble East,” Wert added.

The most recent two-week report issued by the department included permits for 16 single family home.

Fair gets going with goat show

By RICHIE HALL

The Hamilton County 4-H Fair began in its usual small way on Thursday.

"Small" refers to the animal that took center stage in the Show Barn - the pygmy goat. There were over 30 classes of goats shown on Thursday.

One of the more familiar people in the show arena was Shelbi Tidd. The Fishers High School graduate is a 10-year member of 4-H, and recently competed in the 4-H Queen Contest.

"It's been a great experience," said Tidd, 18. She was introduced to pygmy goats as a young girl - she saw one and thought it was "the cutest thing ever," she remembered.

"Dad, I want a pygmy goat," she told her father. Her dad agreed, as long as she took care of it. The rest is 4-H history.

As a 10-year member, Tidd has learned a few things about showing goats. One thing she noted is that pygmy goats feed off of their owners. They are similar to dogs in that way.

"If you're in a bad mood, your goat's going to be in a bad mood," said Tidd.

At the same time, patience is a virtue with goats - they can be stubborn at times. Anyone making a trip to the show arena and small animal barn on Thursday would have heard many cranky bleats and the occasional "flopping" goat that refused to walk with its owner.

"You just have to be really patient with them, because sometimes a goat has a mind of its own," said Tidd. "That's where it's different from a dog. You can't train him tricks, you can't teach him to sit, you can't teach him to bark. You can't do that stuff with goats. You just have to work with him, be patient, make sure you walk with him. They're like a best friend once you get to know them and work with them that way."

Claire Sloderbeck shows her pygmy goat Paisley during the pygmy goat show at the Hamilton County 4-H Fair on Thursday.

DAILY BIBLE VERSE

And he humbled thee, and suffered thee to hunger, and fed thee with manna, which thou knewest not, neither did thy fathers know; that he might make thee know that man doth not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the LORD doth man live.

A stalemate resulted in a hassle over the operation of the Westfield Fire Department and the signing of an agreement for fire protection in Washington Township. The firemen requested the township to pay $4,669 of the $7,100 budget and trustee Robin Gamble refused.

A tribute to the Redhead

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

He was known from one end of Hamilton County to the other as Red. Keith Wellman, the Redhead.

When I attended Noblesville High School, I read Keith's sports in The Ledger. Everyone did. You didn't even have to be a sports fan to enjoy Wellman's columns.

Keith, 80, died July 12 at the Keepsake Village of Columbus (Indiana).

Wellman was my mentor at The Ledger for two years. I came to the Ledger as the editor of a county-wide teenage section. Keith allowed me to hang around him as he covered Hamilton County sports. He left the newspaper business in the late 1950s; returned and graduated at Ball State, and then returned to Hamilton County as the Fishers boys basketball coach.

Wellman will always be remembered by us who knew him for his famous "victory dance" following Noblesville High winning the sectional for the first time in 30 years. Keith loved the Millers, and in Glen Harper's first year as basketball coach the city erupted in celebration following the sectional championship.

I remember it, as many of you do. There was Keith running and skipping with arms extended, dashing from one end of the gym to the other while trying to find someone to hug.

During his days in Noblesville, Keith would do anything for anyone. He loved kids. One summer he coached the local American Legion baseball team because no one else would.

After coaching and teaching at Fishers, he left Hamilton County and taught at Columbus North High School, teaching journalism, photography, newspaper and yearbook.

He was an IHSAA official in football, basketball, baseball and track. He was the official scorer in basketball at Columbus North for many years.

Noblesville became a better place thanks to the Redhead.

Shelbi Tidd is a 10-year member of 4-H, and has shown pygmy goats the entire time. Tidd will attend Butler University in the fall.

GOAT

Ice Cream Contests Saturday

The 4-H fair is hosting an Ice Cream Eating and Making Contest at 6 p.m. Saturday. Everyone is invited to attend.

Another long-time goat shower is Claire Sloderbeck, who will be a freshman at Hamilton Heights next month. Sloderbeck, 15, showed her goat Paisley in Class 31.

"It's pretty easy," said Sloderbeck, who is in her sixth year of 4-H. "They're actually really fun to take care of because they have a lot of character. They love you."

The National Pygmy Goat Association's Web site lists a judging scorecard for showmanship, and showing the goat in the ring is by far the most important aspect. Leading, setting up the goat for inspection, and maneuvering are among the categories that are important during the show part. Contestants are also judged for a goat's appearance, and the 4-Her should have a neat appearance as well.

Tidd has had a busy fair so far, as she competed in the 4-H Queen contest earlier in the week for the second year. She enjoyed it and said that the contestants all "really got to know each other and connect to each other." Tidd also learned other skills that will definitely help her out in college and the working world.

"I also learned interview skills, talking in public and being able to dress appropriate for an interview and stuff like that," said Tidd. So that was where the experience was so beneficial for me."

Tidd graduated from Fishers High School a semester early in December 2013. She has spent her time since graduation studying abroad in South American and working. Tidd will attend Butler University this fall to study psychology and neuroscience.

Community Health Network Named 2014 Most Wired

As the nation's health care system transitions to more integrated and patient-centered care, hospitals are utilizing information technology to better connect disparate care providers, according to the 16th annual Health Care's Most Wired Survey, conducted by Hospitals & Health Networks. Community Health Network, a pioneer in the use of information technology to improve patient care, has once again been recognized as one of the nation's Most Wired Hospitals for 2014.

Community is a 14-time recipient of the award.

Community, like 67 percent of Most Wired hospitals, shares critical patient information electronically with specialists and other care providers. Most Wired hospitals, those that meet a set of rigorous criteria across four operational categories, have made tremendous gains by using IT to reduce the likelihood of medical errors. Among Most Wired hospitals, 81 percent of medications are matched to the patient, nurse and order via bar code technology at the bedside.

"As consumers become more active in healthcare decision-making, healthcare systems must be transparent in both quality and price," said Ron Thieme, Ph.D., chief knowledge and information officer for Community Health Network. "At Community, there is an emphasis on connecting patients throughout their delivery of care so that at every point the patient feels like everyone is working together for the best possible outcome."

Among some of the key findings related to improving quality and patient safety:

Nurses and physicians share best practices for patient safety and use checklists at more than 90 percent of Most Wired organizations.

To help consumers make better decisions about their health care, standard measures of individual hospital quality performance are reported and publicly available. Nearly half of Most Wired organizations share this information on their websites and 86 percent provide quality scores to clinical leaders on a regular basis as part of their performance improvement initiatives.

"The Most Wired data show that shared health information allows clinicians and patients to have the information they need to promote health and make the most informed decisions about treatments," said Rich Umbdenstock, president and CEO of the American Hospital Association. "Hospitals, their clinicians and their communities are doing tremendous work to enhance their IT systems in ways that support care and delivery improvement, and patient engagement goals."

"Hospital leaders should be commended for the hard work they've done under an unrealistic time frame," stated Russell P. Branzell, president and CEO of the College of Healthcare Information Management

Executives, referring to federal requirements that health care providers adopt and meaningfully use certified electronic health records (EHR). "Still, there is a substantial amount of work ahead. Effective C-suites view IT adoption as a collaborative effort. They have a clear strategic plan and know how IT fits into that."

To that end, nearly all participants in the Most Wired Survey and Benchmarking Study have an established health IT project governance process and evaluate existing workflow processes and desired outcomes.

The 2014 Most Wired Survey also covered the evolution of new models and payment from the IT perspective. As health care delivery moves to a value-based system, it will require more and better use of data analytics, care coordination and population health management.

- 36 percent of Most Wired hospitals aggregate data from patient encounters to create a community health record.
- 71 percent of Most Wired hospitals manage care transitions compared with 57 percent of all responding organizations.
- 43 percent of Most Wired organizations integrate clinical and claims data so that they are accessible, searchable, and reportable across the care community. "As we talk about collecting data, one of the critical competencies is making sure you have views of the clinical and financial sides," said Rose Higgins, senior vice president and general manager, population and risk management at McKesson Technology Solutions. "You need both to be successful. Seeing them together will provide a better picture of what's happening at the population health level and will be important as hospitals take on more risk."
- 69 percent of Most Wired hospitals use tools for retrospective analysis of clinical and administrative data to identify areas for improving the quality of care and reducing the cost of care delivered. "Healthcare professionals need to be free to communicate virtually across teams and to patients," said Tad Reynes, regional vice president, AT&T Business Solutions. "Providing tools to do so can potentially reduce costs, simplify workflows, improve patient care and offer a better experience to users."
- 35 percent of Most Wired hospitals use social media to deliver care management messages and 40 percent provide mobile applications for secure messaging with patients.

Health Care's Most Wired Survey, conducted between January 15 and March 15, asked hospitals and health systems nationwide to answer questions regarding their IT initiatives. Respondents completed 680 surveys, representing 1,900 hospitals, or more than 30 percent of all U.S. hospitals.

Fishers residents asked to join “National Night Out” on Aug. 5

On Tuesday, Aug. 5, 2014 neighborhoods throughout Fishers are being asked to join forces with thousands of communities nationwide for the “31st Annual National Night Out” crime and drug prevention event. National Night Out, which is sponsored by the National Association of Town Watch and co-sponsored by the Fishers Police Department, will involve over 15,000 communities from all 50 states, U.S. territories, Canadian cities and military bases around the world. In all, over 37.5 million people are expected to participate in “America’s Night Out Against Crime”. NNO 2014 corporate sponsors are Target, Nextdoor.com and Associa. Local sponsors include Fastsigns, the Evelo Team with Keller Williams Realty, and Revolution X Studio.

National Night Out is designed to: (1) Heighten crime and drug prevention awareness; (2) Generate support for, and participation in, local anticrime efforts; (3) Strengthen neighborhood spirit and police-community partnerships; and (4) Send a message to criminals letting them know neighborhoods are organized and fighting back.

On Aug. 5th, residents in neighborhoods throughout the nation are asked to lock their doors, turn on outside lights and spend the evening outside with neighbors and police. Fishers Police Chief George Kehl invites residents to spend the evening with the police department in the Nickel Plate District.

This free community event will run from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m. The band Tenth of Never will play live music in the Nickel Plate Amphitheater. The Horse Arena is a busy place during the 4-H Fair, and action began Thursday with the Horse and Pony English Show. Results from the show appear in today's paper on Page 9. Today, the Horse and Pony Western Show is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

Obstacle course begins llama activity at 4-H Fair

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

It wouldn't be a Hamilton County 4-H Fair without the llamas.

The Llama Barn will be hopping during the fair, not just with a series of events, but with the number of 4-Hers participating. Marilyn Nenni, the director of the llama project, said 114 4-Hers are part of the project this year.

"And 32 of them are seniors, which is pretty amazing," said Nenni.

On Thursday, the first llama event of the fair took place: The Obstacle Course. In this event, a person must guide his or her llama through a series of obstacles. The Senior group went first, and it was a tough one - Nenni herself said it was "very challenging."

Among other obstacles, llamas had to stand in a circle while the owner picked up its foot, stop for a second to be petted, weave backwards through a set of cones, and let their owner put an umbrella over their head.

"We've had obstacles we've never tried before," said Nenni.

There are four 10-year llama members this year: Sarah McConkey, Stephanie Foerder, Chelsea Bays and Maddie McFadden, who said it seemed "like just yesterday" that she was showing her first llama.

McFadden said that she has enjoyed working with the different llamas she's showed, noting that there are many different qualities in different llamas. She also had some advice for those who are just starting their llama journey in the obstacle course.

"My best advice to a new 4-H member showing llamas would be to have a clean slate with every obstacle," said McFadden. "Start it as the very first obstacle. Erase what happened in the last obstacle, even if it was great, even if it was horrible. Maybe you even got a refusal, just put that out of your mind and start the next one fresh."

McFadden, 18, just graduated from Noblesville High School and will attend Purdue University. She will study animal science for a future education in veterinary medicine.

The llama activity continues today with the Youth Judging at 10 a.m. Nenni said that is where the young 4-Hers judge an obstacle course, a showmanship class and a halter class.

The Llama Costume Contest is set for 5 p.m., and that's exactly what it is: Dressing up the llamas in costume. The Leaping Llama exhibition follows at 6 p.m. Also, at 1 and 8 p.m., the public is invited to participate in the Walk-A-Llama.

McRoberts off to Vermont...

Cline is back at Carmel

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

Carmel athletic teams, in all sports, always seem to be in a revolving door situation. Good players graduate. Good players return. Seldom will one find a Carmel team “rebuilding.”

No better example than Coach Scott Heady’s 2014-15 boys basketball team.

Heady has spent the summer wondering how he will replace Zach McRoberts, one of the state’s best last season.

Heady also has spent the summer marveling over the play of Ryan Cline, who is, arguably, the best in Indiana this coming season. Maybe Mr. Basketball.

“Ryan is having a great summer,” Heady said. “He has gotten stronger, which has made him a better basketball player.”

McRoberts this coming season will play at the University of Vermont.

How does a Carmel Greyhound, you might ask, end up in Vermont?

“There are three Indiana players at Vermont,” Heady said, “and they have two more coming in the next season. They’re recruiting hard in Indiana. They really went after Zach.

“The thing is,” Heady continued, “colleges here in Indiana talked with McRoberts but they didn’t come up with offers. Schools such as Ball State and Indiana State. Zach wanted to make a decision. He didn’t want to go into his senior year not knowing where he was going to college.”

Heady said he won’t be able to replace McRoberts with just one player.

“Zach did so many things for us,” said the coach. “He’s one of a kind. He never took a play off. He did all the little things.”

Cline has committed to Purdue. Heady believes Cline’s role with Carmel will change with the departure of McRoberts.

“It sure will change,” said the coach. “He will need to rebound more and play better on defense. This season he’ll be guarding the other team’s top player.”

Funny, Heady should talk about needing rebounding from his top offensive shooter. Carmel appears to be loaded with size with a frontline which could include 6-8 Liam Duncan, 6-6 Keegan Culp and 6-6 Trent Richardson, among others.

“Culp has gotten better; he’s good,” said Heady. “Also we have Preston Flamion (6-4) and Sam Oliphant (6-2).

“Trying to replace McRoberts is a team thing,” Heady said. “You can’t replace him with just one player. Everyone will have to chip in and rebound.”

Carmel played in four tournaments during the month of June. They won at Indiana Wesleyan and went 3-1 at Xavier, 4-1 in a tourney at Carmel, and 3-1 at Purdue.

“We lost to the Kentucky state champions at Xavier,” Heady said. “We lost only three games during the summer. Pike beat us at Purdue.”

Carmel’s Ryan Cline has had a tremendous summer basketball season, and is ready to be a senior leader for the Greyhounds in 2014-15. Cline has committed to Purdue University.

Bobby Leonard is...

Coming to Pebble Brook

The 24th Ameriana Hall of Fame Golf Classic, to benefit the Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame, will be played on Monday, July 21 at Pebble Brook Golf Club in Noblesville.

Teams of five golfers are paired with a Hall of Fame Ambassador and compete in the scramble event, which will begin at 12:30 P.M.

Involving nearly 200 participants, the event features Hall of Fame inductees and legendary names from sports franchises and colleges across the state. A post-round dinner and awards presentation will follow the event, at roughly 5:00 PM, including a speech from featured guest and Indiana basketball legend Bobby “Slick” Leonard.

Leonard, a 1950 graduate of Terre Haute Gerstmeyer High School, continued his basketball career at Indiana University where he was a two-time All-American, captain of IU's 1953 national champions and captained two Big 10 championship teams. Following a seven-year NBA playing career, he was a successful coach, leading the Indiana Pacers to three ABA championships in a 12-year stint. He remains a color commentator for the Pacers’ radio network and will be inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in August. Reservations for the dinner and speech are available for $25 by calling the Hall at (765) 529-1891.

With Ameriana Bank’s continuous sponsorship, the outing has raised over $496,000 for the Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame. Revenue from this year’s event will surpass the $500,000 mark. Proceeds are used to fund operation of the 14,000 square foot museum in New Castle.

Title sponsor Ameriana Bank opened its doors in New Castle, Ind., in 1890. Today, Ameriana offices are located throughout Central Indiana, and each of them is fully committed to being a true community bank. Their name, Ameriana, serves as a constant reminder of this commitment. The Bank holds fast to the ideals that make America great, while remaining firmly grounded in the values that make Indiana special.
