What was the $50,000 meant to do?

Commissioners ask Alternatives

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

Hamilton County's need for a domestic violence shelter seems to have moved further down the road following Monday's meeting of the Hamilton County Commissioners.

Although all three Commissioners applauded what is being done by not-for-profit Alternatives, which runs an Anderson shelter that helps more than 100 Hamilton County residents each year, the Commissioners sliced $10,000 from the group's current $50,000 given by the County.

Seven different not-for-profits appeared before the Commissioners. Among the seven, only Alternatives' budget renewal request was not granted, as requested.

The other six were Primelife Enrichment, Prevail, Chaucie's Place, Promising Futures, Hamilton County Leadership Academy and Conner Prairie.

Among the 10 largest counties in the state, Hamilton is the only county without a domestic violence shelter. Alternatives, one of just 29 such shelters in the state, serves six central Indiana counties, including Hamilton.

The slap on the wrist, as light as it was, to Alternatives apparently came from what the Commissioners thought they had given the $50,000. That being to build a shelter in Hamilton County.

That appeared to be the plan earlier this year when The Reporter broke a story that the new facility was headed for land owned by the county and located just to the southeast of the Hamilton County Jail. That plan was endorsed by Commissioner

Christine Altman, who had served on the planning committee since its start.

However, Commissioner Steve Dillinger opposed having the facility built on jail property.

"I am not against helping Alternatives, but I do not believe the space for it is on our Correction site," Dillinger said when The Reporter earlier broke the story. "This land was bought and laid out for future expansion of the jail. Two, it doesn't make much sense to me to put the victims right next door to

Sheriff's Office postpones County National Night Out

Due to recent events at the Hamilton County Sheriff's Office, the Open House scheduled as part of the Aug. 5 National Night Out has been postponed.

Please look for a new date later in the year. Many other agencies will be participating in their own National Night Out events and the Sheriff's Office encourages residents to join in those activities.

No hostage incident in Strawtown

A possible hostage incident in Strawtown has been resolved.

Shortly after 11 p.m. Monday, Hamilton County dispatchers received a report of a possible hostage situation near Strawtown, just north of Noblesville. According to the initial call, Daniel "Danny" Johnson had an unknown male somewhere in the area and was threatening to stab the individual and then shoot himself. The caller stated Johnson was armed with a gun and knife. Johnson, who has a previous history with law enforcement, had allegedly tied up the other male and beaten him unconscious.

Sheriff deputies were able to locate Johnson in a home near the area. The vague information concerning a hostage and suicide threat provided during the call to Hamilton County Communications was not completely accurate but was taken seriously based on the nature of the call and Johnson's history with law enforcement. Upon contact with Johnson, it was determined he had not threatened another individual or himself. No charges are expected to be filed as a result of the incident.

U.S. 31 down to one lane at 196th today

On Wednesday, July 30, crews plan to restrict US 31 near 196th Street to one lane in each direction for pavement repairs. Left turns will not be permitted while the work is taking place. Work is expected to occur between 6 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Wednesday.

The residence at 5082 Pine Hill Drive in Noblesville's Pine Knoll Housing Addition caused $10,000 of damage to the home. A lightning strike is believed to have caused the fire.

Fire damages Pine Knoll home

The Noblesville Fire Department responded to a reported residence fire, located at 5082 Pine Hill Drive, in the Pine Knoll Housing Addition at 6:31 p.m. Tuesday evening. At the time of the residence fire a thunderstorm was moving through the Noblesville area.

Upon the fire suppression crew's arrival at 6:37 p.m., units benchmarked smoke and flames visible from the roof.

The homeowner, Sean Flaherty stated he knew that lightning struck very close to his home; however, he did not know it struck his house until neighbors, and the Noblesville Police Department notified him that his roof was on fire. The Noblesville Police Department assisted the family as they evacuated the residence.

Fire suppression crews had the fire under control at approximately 6:43 p.m.

The fire has caused approximately $10,000.00 dollars damage to the structure and its contents.

There are no injuries or deaths to report.

Public hearing for Midland Trace Trail is Aug. 7

A public hearing for the proposed Midland Trace Trail Project will be held on Thursday, August 7 beginning at 5:30 p.m.

The hearing will be held at Hazel Dell Elementary School (3025 Westfield Road) in the cafeteria. An open house will take place from 5:30 to 6 p.m, followed by a formal presentation which will begin at 6pm. The city has submitted an environmental study and report about this project to INDOT and the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) for their review. The city has been given approval for the public involvement portion of the approval process, which includes this hearing.

Riverview Health Foundation’s Heartfelt Thanks Golf Tournament a great success

On June 25, Riverview Health Foundation hosted the 22nd Annual Heartfelt Thanks Golf Tournament—sponsored by BMO Harris Bank—at Pebble Brook Golf Club. Each year, the tournament helps raise money for the improvement of patient services and facilities at Riverview Health. Some of the causes recently supported by the tournament include:

- Funding a large-bore MRI to better identify health issues, including heart disease, stroke and cancer.
- Purchasing equipment for Riverview Health Heart & Vascular, including a digital imaging cardiac catheterization lab and a 128-slice CT scanner.
- Supporting women’s heart disease programs.

The tournament hosted more than 200 golfers and 40 volunteers, and raised more than $100,000 to benefit Riverview Health. A wonderful tailgate-style lunch was provided by Gaylor Electric, Inc. During the past 22 years, Riverview Health Foundation has netted more than $2 million in support of Riverview Health. Riverview Health Foundation is very thankful to the sponsors, golfers and volunteers who donated their time, talent and resources for this great cause.

ALTERNATIVES

the perpetrators, especially with kids involved.”

Dillinger repeated his objections in Monday’s meeting.

“I am not opposed to helping Alternatives,” Dillinger said. “I even went out and found what I thought would be a good location, property for sale on Cumberland Road. I thought the $50,000 we gave last year would be used to develop a facility.

Commissioner Mark Heirbrandt also said he, too, supported Alternatives but that he also believed the $50,000 was given to help with a facility in Hamilton County.

The problem which has developed is funding. Where will the funds come from to purchase land and build a facility?

Scott Fadness, Fishers Town Manager, speaking for Alternatives at the Monday meeting, indicated that while the group is interested in running such a facility it simply doesn’t have the funds to build one.

“I don’t think that is their direction,” Fadness said.

Alternatives raised $3.5 million to build the center located in Anderson, on the grounds of Community Hospital Anderson. The hospital gave the organization a long-term $1 per year lease on the land.

In an October story by Andrea Murrugui Davis for the Indianapolis Business Journal, Alternatives Executive Director Mary Joe Lee said she was hoping for a similar arrangement in Hamilton County.

That, of course, never materialized with the plans at the Hamilton County Jail failing. The facility in Anderson was built in 2005.

The Hamilton County Commissioners first provided the $50,000 funding in 2014.

Neighboring Hendricks County offers a frame of reference to what building a shelter could mean. In 2002, Sheltering Wings was built with 44 beds. That shelter has handled crisis situations for more than 5,000 families since its opening.

The Commissioners and Alternatives, at the Monday meeting, agreed to meet and attempt to work out the differences in bringing a shelter to Hamilton County.

MIDLAND

The purpose of this public hearing is to offer all interested persons an opportunity to comment on the environmental documents and preliminary design plans for the proposed trail project. In addition, land acquisition and the future of this project will be discussed at the hearing. The project has been approved for federal funding to cover the majority of land acquisition costs for the portion between Gray Road and Willowview Road, subject to all conditions of the approval process. The city will fund 20 percent of the project cost.

The proposed overall Midland Trace Trail follows the abandoned Central Indiana Railway corridor from Westfield to the White River. This corridor passes through scenic woodlands, goes across two iron-truss bridges, and links neighborhoods and schools throughout Noblesville and Westfield. Ultimately, it will also connect to the Monon Trail once the Monon is extended north and Westfield’s portion of the Midland is extended east to US 31. The City of Westfield has already constructed a portion of the Midland Trace Trail within Westfield city limits.

Prior to the federal funding application approval in the fall of 2013, the city hosted an informal public information session in November 2012. Since that time, the city has been conducting title research on the many parcels of land that are along the proposed Midland Trace path as well as researching and compiling environmental reports for INDOT’s and FHWA’s review.

Please note that as part of this public hearing process, questions and comments about the project must be directed to Briana Hope with American Structurepoint (bhope@structurepoint.com or 317-547-5580) so that all questions, comments, and concerns are recorded and can be addressed in the final environmental document. American Structurepoint is serving as the environmental coordinator for this project.

Letter to the Editor

Negative income tax would eliminate poverty

Dear Editor,

Rep. Paul Ryan (R-WI) wrote an opinion article concerning poverty in America that was published in newspaper all over the country. He states "Each year, the federal government spends almost $800 billion on 92 programs to help struggling families. Yet the poverty rate is the highest in a generation." His solution: consolidate 11 of the 92 programs into a new program that would give states 'more flexibility in exchange for more accountability' to the federal government. He doesn't explain why we should keep the other 81 programs. As I read how Rep. Ryan explains how states can qualify for his new program, it's obvious that many more bureaucrats will be needed to run his new program. Seems to me that the politicians in Washington are always trying to fix old programs with new programs and, invariably, more spending – and things seem to get worse and worse.

Maybe this makes sense in Washington, but not here in Indiana. We Hoosiers would use a common sense approach. The US Census Bureau says that 46.5 million Americans live in poverty. If you divide the $800 billion that Ryan says we're now spending on 92 programs by 46.5 million people in poverty, that means we're spending an astounding $17,204 per person in poverty! That's $68,816 for a family of four! If we eliminated all 92 programs and just passed out the $800 billion to those in poverty, not only would poverty be eliminated, but all people who were in poverty would be elevated to the upper middle class income level!

A simple negative income tax, such as proposed by Milton Friedman, would not only eliminate poverty in the United States, but would save us billions of dollars – money that could go to fulfilling our promise to veterans and help pay down the federal debt. Of course, the politicians in Washington would lose power and some bureaucrats would be laid off, but I'm willing to bet that the majority of Hoosiers are willing to suffer these consequences.

Keeping you informed...

Busy summer in the 5th District, Washington

Dear Friends,

It has been a busy summer both in Indiana's 5th District and our nation's capital. That's why I'd like to take a few minutes to update you on some of the events I've hosted recently as well as the votes I've taken to support hard working Hoosiers.

Like all of you, I've been deeply saddened by the growing problems Indianapolis faces with both violent crime and substance abuse. That's why State Senator Jim Merritt and I co-hosted a listening session titled "Understanding Indiana's Heroin Crisis" on July 1 at the Noblesville City Hall. This event brought together local, state and federal law enforcement officials as well as pharmacists to discuss the tragic impact heroin has on Central Indiana's communities and steps we can take to stop its spread. Participants learned that heroin is a problem for urban, suburban and rural communities. I appreciated the forthright information provided by our law enforcement officials, who discussed the challenges heroin poses to first responders routinely responding to heroin overdoses. We also learned of the spike in pharmacy robberies and other crimes related to the retail industry committed by drug traffickers. Learn more about this event by clicking here.

In Washington, I've also been working to tackle important issues, most especially ones that impact the economic success of American families and our national security priorities.

I was proud to vote in favor of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA), originally called the SKILLS Act, legislation that will help more people earn jobs by reforming the nation's historically inefficient workforce training system. This bill creates a streamlined and flexible workforce training system that will connect more Americans with the skills needed for in-demand jobs. To learn more about WIOA, and an amendment I offered giving local workforce investment boards new ability to reward successful training programs, click here.

In addition, the House of Representatives is spending considerable time on the humanitarian and national security crisis currently taking place on our Southern Border. This is the direct result of the President's negligent immigration policies that have sent a message to Central American families that their children will find safety and legal status in the US. These children should be treated with care and compassion and returned to their home countries in the most humane way possible. Speaker Boehner has established a working group on this issue, and just last week they presented their recommendations to the public. I support their call for deploying the National Guard to the border and making legislative changes that will allow unaccompanied minors to be returned safely to their home country sooner. To learn more about the working group's recommendations, click here.

As always, I appreciate the time you've taken out of your busy day to read this message. I hope you'll consider scrolling below to learn a little more about some of the other serious issues I've been paying attention to. Have a wonderful day, and feel free to be in touch with any thoughts or suggestions you have.

Sincerely,
Susan W. Brooks

Traps don't have to be your undoing

By TAMAR KNOCHER

Have you ever just wanted to freeze a single moment in time and stay there, just a little bit longer than all the rest? If Haman had known what was coming up next in his own story I think this is the moment he would have chosen to freeze. In his mind at this point, he is the one that the king is preparing to honor and so he's suggesting to the king how he himself should be glorified. You know, because who would the king wish to honor more than Haman? At this point in the story Haman hasn't fully considered who exactly he's dealing with, and he won't fully come into that realization until it is far too late for him to back out of the trap he has set and it ends up springing on him.

And boy if that doesn't remind me of Satan I don't know what does! Satan sets traps all day every day and yet over and over they only end up springing on him in the end. Just look at the Son of David. From day one Satan was out to trap Jesus. From Herod trying to convince the wise men to come back and tell him where the child king was so that he too could "worship" him. To that night at the Last Supper when Judas fled from the room to meet up with the Jewish officials in order to capture Jesus away from the crowds. Mmmm, but that's my favorite trap of all! That was the trap that Satan set fully expecting it to end Jesus and the Father's plans for saving the Jews. I don't think Satan had any clue what his actions would do. Unlike God, Satan is not omnipotent or omnipresent. He can't know the future before it happens, nor can he be in all places at all times. I believe that he truly had no clue to the breadth of God's actual plan for Jesus and His death on the cross. Satan set a plan into motion that He will regret for all of eternity.

Satan set a trap to kill Jesus, and he succeeded, but little did he know that his success was his ultimate undoing. It was through Jesus' death that the rest of us can LIVE. It is through the blood that Jesus shed on that cross that we are eternally forgiven. It is because He died that He was given the opportunity to rise again from that sealed grave and to prove to one and all once and for all that He was, is and will always be Christ the Messiah! Satan sets traps every day. And while *some* go off and capture us in their teeth; ALL of them are his ultimate undoing! Every. Single. One of them.

Right now there is something that you're feeling trapped in; a dead-end job, a financial situation you can't seem to climb up out of, a marriage that just feels miserable, a child that has broken your heart with a rotten decision, whatever it is – give it to God. That trap may have sprung on you, but it doesn't have to be YOUR undoing, make it Satan's!!! Take that mess he's made of your life and allow God to turn it into a message! I've made so many bad choices in my life; choices that affected me for a very long time and still do to this day. But that doesn't mean that they have to be my prison. What if they are my key?!? And they can be if I let them. I can take those bad choices and decide that I'm not going to let them define me. Just because I burn one tray of toast doesn't make me a bad cook. Just because I misspell a word doesn't make me a bad writer. Just because I stumble doesn't make me a bad dancer. It just means that something happened. And I can choose to allow that thing to drag me down or wake me up. Learning to walk isn't about falling down, it's about learning how to control those falls and more importantly how to get back up.

Sunflowers have a special place in my heart, mostly because once upon a time I had the privilege of meeting a very special one who taught me a very important lesson. Bloom where you're planted – no matter what.

This sunflower was growing at the end of my neighbor's driveway from a seed that he had spit out. As in this seed had been:

Harvested,
Seasoned,
Roasted,
Packaged,
Purchased,
Chewed up,
Spit out,
Still managed to SPROUT,
IN A DROUGHT,
Avoided being mown off,
And grew into a beautiful little sunflower right where it had been planted.

It had literally been through sunflower seed hell AND BACK and STILL managed to grow and bloom right where God had planted it. In a spot He knew I wouldn't be able to miss it, or its story. ;)

You too may be feeling like you're going through hell and perhaps even back, but I have Good News for you. Jesus died for YOU. Jesus loves you more than life itself and He would rather die than to live one more day without YOU by His side for all of eternity. No matter what you're going through, no matter how trapped you feel right now, know this. Jesus loves YOU. He loves you and He is with you, no matter what. He has promised never to leave you or forsake you and He isn't able to lie so He must have meant it when He said it. No matter what you've done, He will NEVER leave you. And really, believe it or not, there is nothing new under the sun that you could have done that He hasn't seen before. I can guarantee it. On the cross Jesus made the choice to forgive you once and for all. Now you need to make the choice to forgive yourself.

Cline, Weatherford on title team...

Carmel star is tourney MVP

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

As I traveled around this summer watching Hamilton County summer basketball and talking with coaches, the question kept popping into my mind as to who will be the best player in the county this coming winter.

It was hard not to have picked Carmel senior sharp-shooter Ryan Cline.

In fact, in one story I wrote that Cline, right now, is a candidate for Indiana's Mr. Basketball. He probably will play at a state school, Purdue, and that always helps in being crowned Mr. Basketball. He'll play for a high school, Carmel, which in the Indianapolis area draws tons of press.

Plus, Ryan, simply, is very, very good. When it comes to shooting the basketball, add on another couple of very, very good's.

Now, following Cline's play this week in the Adidas Uprising Super 64 Championships, lots of folks at the national level are suggesting that Ryan might be the best high school shooting senior in the nation.

Ryan, along with Hamilton Heights' Grant Weatherford, played on the Indiana Elite team which won the Adidas championship by defeating the California Dream Vision, 79-64, in the final game at Rancho High School in Las Vegas.

The game was televised by ESPNU. I hope you caught it. Ryan was unbelievable, especially in the first half, and Weatherford had a very good game, while playing mostly in the second half.

Weatherford is an interesting story of his own. He hasn't committed to a college. In fact, he hasn't even committed between football and basketball.

I talked with Weatherford's football coach, Mitch Street, last week and Street said he thought Grant would play college football. I kind of was thinking that was, too, until I watched him play in the Adidas championship game. He played well throughout the tourney.

The Indiana Elite is a team of several Purdue recruits, Weatherford being one. In fact, it is reported that Purdue is interested in Weatherford in both basketball and football. He is scheduled to make a visit to Purdue this Saturday. At Heights this coming football season, Grant will be one of the state's better wide receivers.

The Weatherford family told The Reporter yesterday that Grand has basketball offers from UC Davis, Northern Kentucky, New Orleans, Northern Colorado, Cleveland State and Ball State and also confirmed the Purdue visit this Saturday.

Now, back to Cline.
Cline hit 9-of-13 shots and 7-of-10 shots from 3-point range in the victory over the Dream Vision team. He also yanked eight rebounds and dished out two assists. The seven 3-pointers were the most made by any player in a single game throughout the tourney.

In an interview with Carmel coach Scott Heady earlier in the week, he told the Reporter, "Ryan is having a great summer. He has gotten stronger, which has made him a better basketball player."

Summer basketball

Playing on the road, young 'Rocks show improvement

By RICHIE HALL

Reporter Sports Editor

The Westfield boys basketball teams were road warriors this summer, playing three out-of-state tournaments.

Those trips certainly did much to help what will be a young Shamrock team when winter comes around. Westfield will have just one senior, a few juniors and a majority of freshmen and sophomores on its roster.

Shamrocks coach Eric Rauch took his team to tournaments at Ohio State, Michigan State and Michigan. Rauch said his teams finished with "around .500" records in the first two tourneys, then were a perfect 5-0 at Michigan.

Westfield played all of their games at those events against out-of-state teams. The only other Indiana team playing at those tournaments was Sceecina, but the 'Rocks did not play them.

A player that emerged from Westfield's road trips was Charlie Warner, who was the Shamrocks' second-leading scorer last year. Warner averaged 6.5 points per game, behind only now-graduated Ty Osswald's 12.8 per game.

"He finished his summer with a really good AAU season, averaging over 20 a game," said Rauch. "Really gotten stronger. Obviously he will be one of our go-to guys."

The only senior back for Westfield this year will be Spencer Tebbe. He played in all 21 games and delivered solid minutes, with 3.7 points and a team-leading 2.5 assists per game. Other juniors back will be Kyle Nicole (also 3.7 points per game) and Robbie Lynch, the latter moving up from junior varsity.

The Shamrocks had several freshman and sophomore players last year, in which Westfield had to deal with a 2-19 record. Rauch acknowledged the team struggled then, but things are looking up, as he said "this summer we started playing well" and that the team "really became a family this summer."

Among the sophomores-to-be coming back are Ian Kristensen, Aaron Bennett, Jonah Welch and Sawyer Olsen.

"I think from Christmas on he started every game as a freshman," Rauch said of Olsen. "He's really developed into a nice player."

Of that group, Welch returns the most points with 4.1 per game. Olsen averaged 3.4 per game and is the leading returning rebounder, bringing back 3.0 per game. Olsen was just behind now-graduated Nick Ferrer, who pulled 3.1 rebounds per game.

The Legends Championship returning to French Lick

The Legends Championship benefitting Riley Children’s Foundation will return to the Pete Dye Course at French Lick Resort next month in French Lick, Ind.

The second annual event will feature the largest purse on The Legends Tour at $500,000, with a field of 60 players competing for the championship title August 15-17.

The 2013 tournament was held in late September, but will move to a new date on the calendar this year. Rain and cold temperatures made last year’s event a real test of endurance.

Defending champion Lorie Kane of Canada will return to Indiana hoping to retain her title and already gives the new tournament date a thumbs-up of approval.

“I’m looking forward to playing the course earlier in the summer, compared to last year,” said Kane, who edged Floridian Laurie Rinker on the final hole in last year’s soggy championship.

“Being the inaugural winner was a thrill.”

The championship will be contested over 54 holes, with six players competing in a Super Legends division (36 holes, Saturday & Sunday only) for ages 63 and over.

LPGA and World Golf Hall of Famers Pat Bradley, Donna Caponi, JoAnne Carner, Sandra Haynie, Nancy Lopez, Patty Sheehan and Hollis Stacy, along with Legends Tour Hall of Fame member Jan Stephenson, will be in the tournament field.

In addition, one player will earn a spot into the field through a qualifying tournament, set for Wednesday on the tournament course at 8:00 AM. Eight aspiring Legends are expected to compete, including Yumiko Takeuchi of Japan who also attempted to qualify in 2013.

Tickets are $10 each day at the gate or $25 for the week for a three-day pass. Kids under 18, as well as military personnel with an ID, get in free. College golf teams also will be admitted at no charge.

Competition will begin Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 8:00 AM, with gates opening at 7:30 a.m. Prior to the competitive rounds, a pro-am tournament will be held Thursday at 10:00 AM. Admission to the pro-am is free.

Proceeds from this year’s tournament will benefit the Riley Children’s Foundation in support of the Riley Hospital for Children in Indianapolis. As one of the country’s top children’s hospitals, Riley Hospital for Children at IU Health strives to provide the most advanced care and premier pediatric research in the nation.

Indians fall 7-1

All-Star Matt Hague returned to the lineup for the first time since July 8 and prevented a shutout with his pinch-hit, RBI single in the top of the ninth as the Indianapolis Indians (57-55) were stomped by the Buffalo Bisons (56-53) 7-1 on Tuesday night at Coca-Cola Field.

The Indians were two-hit through eight shutout innings until Chase d’Arnaud doubled in the top of the ninth for the team’s first hit since Mel Rojas Jr.’s fourth-inning, leadoff single.

Hague, who last saw action with the Tribe in early July before his selection by Pittsburgh and the 2014 All-Star break, then lined an 0-1 pitch into right field to plate d’Arnaud and break up the shutout with one out in the ninth. Hague’s knock also moved the slugger into a tie for the fourth-most RBI in the IL this season (60).

Tribe southpaw Adam Wilk was tagged for six runs on eight hits, four of which went for extra bases, in his six-inning start.
