Check new proposed rates

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

Cicero residents will soon pay higher rates for water, wastewater and trash removal if three ordinances introduced by the Cicero Town Council are approved.

Public hearings on all three have been set for the Sept. 16 Town Council meeting, which will be open to the public. Held at the Cicero Town Hall, Council meetings begin at 7 p.m.

Water Rates

The Town of Cicero operates its Municipal Water Utility. The Town Council recognizes the need to increase rates and charges to fund the annual revenue requirements of the utility. The new rates will be phased in.

Present rates and charges were effective with the first full billing period, occurring after Jan. 1, 2014.

The new rates, if adopted, represent a 6.59 percent increase and charges with Phase I effective Jan. 1, 2015.

If adopted, the rates will be phased in with increases of 2.5 percent and 2 percent in years 2015, 2016 and 2017.

Riverview Health and Noblesville High School ThankBank honor Isabelle Harger

Riverview Health and Noblesville High School ThankBank, a club focused on recognizing outstanding community members for their gifts to Noblesville, were honored to host a recent ceremony for Isabelle Harger. Isabelle is a long-time resident of Noblesville who has volunteered in the community for more than 50 years, including at Riverview Health.

“We were glad to help in organizing a special ceremony for Isabelle,” said Susan Beckwith, Volunteer Services Manager at Riverview Health. “Our volunteers generously give their time to Riverview Health without expecting anything in return, so we’re grateful for the opportunity to give back and recognize their service.”

Isabelle volunteered with the Red Cross beginning in 1959. She then became part of the Boys and Girls Club auxiliary group as a “mom” for children at the club. As part of Tri Kappa Delta women’s sorority, Isabelle helped donate hundreds of items of clothing to girls in need of clothes and helped raise money for local schools.

Isabelle went on to serve as the vice president and president of Tri Kappa Delta. From there she became the longest-serving volunteer at Riverview Health after founding the hospital’s chaplaincy program in 1964 and serving as the first chairperson, as well as serving as an original member of the hospital’s Auxiliary Board and chairman of the Gray Ladies of the Hospital.

At the ceremony, Mayor John Ditslear of Noblesville provided a speech honoring Isabelle as the students of Noblesville High School ThankBank unveiled a mural in her honor. This mural will be displayed at Noblesville High School to inspire students with Isabelle’s service and passion for education.

weapon did not strike any person. During the struggle, John Sommerkamp sustained minor injuries but did not require any medical attention.

Through further investigation, Sheryl Sommerkamp was arrested for Aggravated Battery (Level 3), Battery (Level 5) and Criminal Recklessness with a Weapon (Level 5). Sommerkamp was later transported to the Hamilton County Jail for further processing. Her bond was set at $45,000.

BURGLARY STOPPED AT MOOSE LODGE

At approximately 4:17 a.m. Wednesday, police officers from the Noblesville Police Department responded to the Moose Lodge, located at 950 Field Drive, Noblesville, in reference to a report of a business alarm. While en route to the alarm, officers received an additional dispatch indicating that some sort of confrontation was occurring in the establishment between a representative of the Moose Lodge and an alleged intruder.

Officers arrived on the scene shortly after the second dispatch call and observed a vehicle in the parking lot. Officers were able to force entry into the building and located the representative and suspect shortly thereafter. Officers found a broken window on the north side of the building and it appears that an individual may have made entry at that point.

Davis Farm receives Hoosier Homestead Award

The Davis Farm in Hamilton County was recognized as one of 55 Indiana family farms that received a Hoosier Homestead Award in recognition of their commitment to Indiana agriculture.

Lt. Governor Sue Ellspermann and Indiana State Department of Agriculture Director Ted McKinney Tuesday to the Davises and the other families.

To be named a Hoosier Homestead, farms must be owned by the same family for at least 100 consecutive years and consist of more than 20 acres or produce more than $1000 of agricultural products per year. The award distinctions recognized are Centennial, Sesquicentennial, and Bicentennial. This ceremony had two families receiving the Bicentennial Award.

“This program was established in 1976 to recognize the heritage of farming in Indiana and how Hoosier family farms have been passed down from generation to generation,” Lt. Governor Ellspermann said. “I salute our Hoosier farmers today for being part of both our state’s legacy – but more importantly, a vital part of our state’s future.”

“The families celebrated here today remind us of what makes Indiana agriculture great,” Director McKinney said.

“Agriculture is not solely about producing food, fiber and fuel for a growing population. It is also about preserving a way of life that values hard-work, integrity and community. The Hoosier Homestead Award Program celebrates just that and ISDA is proud to oversee this awards program.”

The 55 families honored at Tuesday’s ceremony join more than 5000 Hoosier Homestead farms. Administered by the Indiana State Department of Agriculture, semiannual recognition ceremonies are held in March during National Agriculture Month at the Indiana Statehouse and in August at the Indiana State Fair.

How to support a loved one who’s fighting cancer

Shy about asking, “What’s the etiquette for supporting my loved one, friend or colleague in their battle against cancer?” many people simply avoid the question altogether – and offer nothing.

“It’s okay to wonder, and it’s okay to ask. Be direct!” says Jane Schwartzberg, who has been battling stage 4 metastatic cancer for several years. She’s the co-author with Marcy Tolckoff Levy of “Naked Jane Bares All,” www.nakedjanebaresall.com, which shares her story with candor and humor.

Jane was a 31-year-old newlywed when she was first diagnosed with breast cancer. She underwent treatment and eventually was declared cancer free. She moved on with her life, giving birth to two children and launching a technology company. Then, when she was 42, the cancer returned. She’s now 45.

“I’m a fighter, and the support I’ve received from my family and friends has given me an immeasurable amount of strength, without which I don’t know what I would do,” Schwartzberg says.

What are some suggestions for providing support? She offers these:

- Do it without any expectations or requirements for a response. “I’m often asked, ‘What can I do to help?’ ” she says. “What I’ve suggested: Be in my life at my pace, let me take the lead; make your presence, availability and support known, but do it without any expectations or requirements for a response.”
- Embrace their big dream, even if it doesn’t sound realistic. During a very low point, Schwartzberg was asked by a friend: If you could have anything, swinging for the fences, what would help you get out of this pit? Without skipping a beat, she answered, “I want to take [comedian] Larry David out to lunch.” As impossible as it seemed, her friend encouraged her to write to the co-creator of “Seinfeld” -- and he accepted.

“As terrible as having terminal cancer is, there is that undeniable quality of embracing every moment, including asking your heroes out to lunch,” Schwartzberg says. “Cancer brings out the boldness in people, which may entail a dream vacation to Hawaii. Don’t be afraid to embrace their wishes.”

- Don’t hesitate to say, “You look beautiful,” when health has returned. After her chemotherapy treatments ended, Jane slowly started looking like her old self – healthy Jane, not cancer Jane. Part of reengaging with life is caring about the superficial things, at least to some extent. On the unforgettable day she met Larry David, the maître d had beforehand told her that she looked beautiful, to which Jane responded, “You have no idea how much I appreciate that.”
- Don’t sugarcoat it. “If you want to really infuriate me, you’ll tell me that this whole mess is besht, Yiddish for ‘meant to be’ – that it’s all part of a plan from a higher power,” she says. “Maybe terminal cancer is part of some crazy plan, but I promise you that these are the last things I want to hear from anyone.”

Don’t sugarcoat or try to put a positive spin on what’s going on – in fact, it’s more of a comfort to Jane when others acknowledge that her situation stinks and that she is looking at a life that’s far different from, and likely to be shorter than, anything she’d imagined.

Girls golf previews...

Millers working hard as season begins Saturday

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

The Noblesville girls golf team has made a habit of getting to the state meet.

The Millers have the state's longest active streak of qualifying for state, having gone 10 years in a row. Noblesville will try to extend that streak for another year, and it has the experience to do that.

Three Miller golfers played at the state meet, including the two seniors on this year's team: Sydney Moran and Emily Padgett. Also back is junior Peyton Gigante, who played well during the post-season after establishing herself as a top golfer during the regular season.

Noblesville has 18 players on its roster, with eight of them freshmen.

"We will be looking for some help from some of our young players," said Miller coach Mike Abbott. "The girls have been working hard and have had great attitudes so far. We have some good leaders who have taken responsibility for the team."

Since Noblesville went back to school on Monday, the Millers aren't opening their season until Saturday's State Preview meet, which is taking place at Prairie View Golf Course, the new home of the state championships. That will be a trend for Noblesville, as they will play an 18-hole invitational every Saturday except for Labor Day weekend. The only exception is Tuesday, Sept. 2, when the Millers play in the Hoosier Crossroads Conference meet at Bear Slide.

Noblesville competes in the Anderson sectional again on Sept. 20 - the first step for the Millers in hopes of continuing the state streak.

"They know that it will take a lot of hard work to get to the state championship," said Abbott. "Hopefully they can do it again this year."

Sophomores: Kayla Packard, Drewe Palmer, Emily Watring, Emma Wisman.

Shamrocks' Henderson medals again...

Carmel, HSE , Westfield finish 1-2-3 at Zionsville Invite

The Carmel and Hamilton Southeastern girls golf teams went head-to-head again Wednesday, this time at the Golf Club of Indiana for the Zionsville Invitational.

The Greyhounds won their second invite in a row, scoring 315 as a team. The Royals were second with 323, and Westfield, which has turned heads thanks to its strong freshman class, was third with 326.

In fact, the Shamrocks' Cailyn Henderson picked up medalist honors again. The freshman finished with a 73, making her 3-for-3 in her high school meets so far.

"For Cailyn Henderson to be medalist in her first three high school invitationals is impressive," said WHS coach Trevor Neu.

Carmel's Alyssa Cook and Maggie Rees tied for second with HSE's Ciara McAree; all three golfers carded 74s, along with Lebanon's Allison Goodwin.

"Those were great rounds from Alyssa and Maggie," said 'Hounds coach Ken Kelly.

"They both left a few shots out there but managed to stay focused throughout the round."

Westfield was also backed up by Margaret Wentz, who carded a 79 for the Shamrocks.

Fishers finished with a 345, with Katie Brooks shooting a 79. Guerin Catholic scored 382; Marissa Singer led the way with a 77.
