Riverview Health Foundation raising money for a...

New large bore MRI

By RICHIE HALL

The thought of going in to the hospital for an MRI screening is uncomfortable for some people.

The Riverview Health Foundation is trying to help. The foundation is in the midst of raising money for a large bore MRI scanner. The foundation has already raised quite a bit of money for the machine, including over $100,000 at the Heartfelt Thanks Golf Tournament last June.

"It was huge," said Trish Oman, executive director of the Riverview Health Foundation.

Oman said there are other projects that the foundation is working on, including raising money for the renovation of the atrium. But the primary focus is on the new MRI scanner, which it is trying to raise $1 million for. Oman said they want to have the money raised by the end of the first quarter of next year, which is March 31, 2015.

Oman said that the full purpose of Riverview Health Foundation "is to raise money for Riverview Hospital." So, the foundation aligns itself with the hospital's needs.

This is a photo of a large-bore MRI scanner, which the Riverview Health Foundation is raising money to purchase. The large-bore MRI is four inches wider than a standard MRI scanner, something that would help ease the anxiety of patients who may be claustrophobic, and allow larger patients to be scanned comfortably.

Latest move is more political correctness run amok

By FRED SWIFT

I've said for years that 'political correctness' has run amok. Changing terminology and names to soften our language will supposedly make people feel better about themselves and others. and what I read somewhere this week confirms it, at least to me.

Now the people who want to dictate more polite speech have begun an offensive against American Indian names for high school mascots. There is a move in Oregon to withhold state funds from schools that refuse to eliminate Indian (or as they prefer, Native American) mascot names.

I never thought the use of an Indian name or tribe was an insult to that group of Americans. I'm sure such names were originally chosen because the moniker denotes such attributes as fierce determination to win in battle which after all is the idea in athletic competition.

But, such names as warriors, redskins, Apaches, Blackhawks, redmen, Mohawks, or just plain Indians must go, say the self-appointed political correctness police. How silly. Right here in Hamilton County we find the Sheridan Blackhawks. But, a little research will probably reveal that in this case the name Blackhawk was intended to refer

Nickel Plate Arts wins Primacy of Place Award

Building Better Communities (BBC), the outreach and engagement division at Ball State University, announced Thursday that the Nickel Plate Arts Initiative, serving eastern Hamilton and southern Tipton counties, is one of four recipients of the 2014 Primacy of Place Community Awards. The awards, presented at an awards ceremony luncheon at the Minnetrista Cultural Center in Muncie, Indiana, recognize Indiana communities' exemplary approaches to improving quality of life for their residents, businesses and visitors. Fellow winners include Riverside Park Amphitheater in Rushville, Big Four Bridge and Big Four Station in Jeffersonville, and the Read to Succeed program in Greater Lafayette/Tiptecanoe County.

White River Christian Church earns Best Christian Workplace certification

Best Christian Workplaces Institute is pleased to announce that White River Christian Church, 1685 N. 10th St. in Noblesville, has earned Certification as a Best Christian Workplaces for 2014. Each year since 2003, BCWI recognizes exceptional organizations whose leadership understands that employee engagement results from a flourishing culture and drives positive ministry outcomes.

Certified Best Christian Workplaces span the globe and represent all facets of ministries from churches, schools to universities, parachurch missions to product and services, book publishers to radio stations. These Certified organizations exceed the percentage of engaged employees vs. norms. When asked what makes White River Christian Church great, one employee said, "The love of God and the love of people."

James Edward “Ace” Caldwell
May 31, 1938 - August 6, 2014

James Edward “Ace” Caldwell, age 76, of Indianapolis, formerly of Sheridan, Indiana, passed away on Wednesday evening, August 6, 2014, at the Lawrence Manor Healthcare Center. Born on May 31, 1938 in Sheridan, he was the son of Robert E. “Buck” and Irene (Rood) Caldwell. James is a graduate of Sheridan High School and was a member of the Sheridan First United Methodist Church.

James is survived by his mother Irene, and several cousins.

He was preceded in death by his father; 3 sisters, Linda K. Caldwell, Jane Springer and Jean O’Donnell; and 1 nephew, Michael J.

Graveside services will be held at 1:00 PM on Monday, August 11, 2014, at Spencer Cemetery in Sheridan. Pastor Carol Fritz officiating.

Kercheval Funeral Home has been entrusted with the arrangements.

Twila May (Fry) Hoover
July 22, 1917 - August 5, 2014

Twila May (Fry) Hoover, 97, of Arcadia, passed away Tuesday August 5, in Tipton. She was one of seven children born to Francis Marion and Ella Leora (Booth) Fry on July 22, 1917 in West Bedford, Ohio. She resided in Ohio until 1938, when she moved to Tipton, Indiana. She has resided in Tipton and Hamilton County since that time.

She worked many places throughout her lifetime, including a waitress in Tipton, at The Perfect Circle and worked at the glass factory in Elwood. In 1943 she was employed by the Oakes Manufacturing Company in Tipton where they made poultry and hog supplies. Then the plant changed to John Bean, where automotive supplies were made. Then it changed to FMC Corporation where fire trucks and equipment were made. She retired from there in 1979. She was a member of Bakers Corner Wesleyan Church, of which she proudly and faithfully served as a Board Member and Church secretary for a number of years.

She was married to George Hoover on July 8, 1950. They resided in Tipton until 1956, and then moved to Hamilton County near Bakers Corner. He preceded her in death October 10, 1987.

She is survived by one daughter, Janice (Ronald) Pickett of Sheridan; two grandsons, Dale (Teresa) Pickett of Sheridan, Michael Pickett of Arcadia; two great grandchildren, Josh (Lisa) Pickett of Westfield and Levi Pickett of Sheridan; two great-great grandchildren, Autumn and Sadie Pickett of Westfield; one sister, Bernice (Sayre) Rank of Zanesville, Ohio; and sister-in-laws Janet Fry of Newark, Ohio and Verna Fry of Mt. Vernon, Ohio; as well as several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her parents; husband; four brothers, Carlos, George, Ralph and Robert Fry; and one sister, Edith Pauline VanSickle.

Funeral services will be held at 1:00 p.m. Saturday, August 9, 2014 at Kercheval Funeral Home in Sheridan with visitation from 11:00 a.m until the time of service. Burial will follow at Kempton Cemetery. Officiating the service, will be her great nephew, Pastor Michael E. Dawson officiating, along with Doctor Max E. Kingsolver.

Memorial contributions may be made to Heartland Hospice Care, 931 E. 86th Street, Indianapolis, In 46240.

ee explained, “We have a winning strategy for meeting the needs of those we serve.” Another shared, “I would rate WRCC as an excellent place to serve.”

Last August at the Global Leadership Summit, Bill Hybels boldly shared the transformational journey Willow Creek Community Church had been on during the past five years and the impact it has had on their church. After moving from a nearly toxic culture to a flourishing culture, Hybels says the payoff is, “You will simply not believe how much better a healthy culture performs. Get ready for outcomes you never thought were possible by your organization.”

The BCWI survey, now in its 11th year, has surveyed over 135,000 employees from 575 organizations in the US, Canada, Australia, and South Africa. In the past six months, 98 organizations participated in the survey with 48 achieving Certification. Attaining BCWI certification is not easy, many organizations survey multiple times before receiving BCWI’s certification.

For employees in Christian organizations, working in a fantastic culture energizes their calling and passion for service to others. Employees in Christian organizations are also encouraged to see continuous improvement in engagement levels among their coworkers. Engagement levels improved to 53.6% vs. 51% a year ago, and 47% two years ago according to Al Lopus, President of Best Christian Workplaces. As a result the gap between the engagement levels of Christian and secular workplaces continues to grow.

To earn the distinction as a Best Christian Workplace, organizations participate in the Best Christian Workplace Institute’s employee engagement survey and meet predetermined standards of excellence. The survey covers issues such as job satisfaction, commitment, Christian witness, supervisory effectiveness, work satisfaction, personal growth and development, management effectiveness, customer/supporter satisfaction, teamwork, communication and pay and benefits. Employees confidentially respond to more than 50 questions addressing these topics.

Best Christian Workplaces Institute’s purpose is to serve faith-based organizations by creating processes of discovery, facilitating leadership and organizational health and encouraging behaviors that build flourishing organizations. BCWI is a non-profit research based organizational development and human resources consulting firm based on Mercer Island, WA.

But, the demands go on. I'd guess the next target will be nationalities such as Fighting Irish, used by Cathedral High School, and Arabians used by Pendleton Heights. Let's hope as this movement gets more and more ridiculous, normal folks will demand a stop to this overly sensitive terminology.

Kind of makes you wonder when these do-gooders are going to demand that the State of Indiana change its name. After all the state's name obviously means Land of the Indians.

"We're the philanthropic arm of the hospital," said Oman.

HOW IT WORKS

Many people have had MRI screenings, but others may not be sure how they work. MRI stands for magnetic resonance imaging, and a scanner uses magnetic fields and radio waves to produce images of a person's body. Magnetic field strength is a factor - the stronger the field, the higher the quality of an image will be. The field strength is measured in units of "tesla." A common MRI scanner runs at 1.5 teslas (for comparison, the strength of an average refrigerator magnet is 0.005 teslas).

MRI's are painless and generally harmless, but anyone who has seen a machine can understand why people would feel discomfort about going into one - especially those with even mild cases of claustrophobia. A typical "bore," or opening of a scanner is 60 centimeters, or 23.6 inches. A large-bore scanner has a wider opening of 70 centimeters (27.6 inches), and not only can accommodate claustrophobic patients, but larger ones as well. Some wide bore MRI scanners, such as those in use at Larchmont Imaging in southern New Jersey, operate with a strength of 3 teslas, which allows for higher quality images and quicker generation times.

The foundation will be hosting some different fundraising events, and Oman said that some of the board members will host "some in-home events" to help raise money for the MRI scanner.

The public is also welcome to donate to the efforts. Oman said anyone interested can contact her at 776-7317, or email her at toman@riverview.org.

Ball State University presented this award to the Nickel Plate Arts Community at its Thursday luncheon.

NICKEL PLATE

“A community’s investment in quality-of-place is one of the top-drivers of economic development within that community,” said Bill Davis, executive director of Indiana’s Office of Community and Rural Affairs, one of the organizations partnering with Ball State to present the awards. “It helps attract a talented workforce as well as cultivate increased interest for new businesses to move to the community. These communities are among those that are truly focused on determining their economic futures.”

Towns and cities in eastern Hamilton and southern Tipton counties (approx. pop. 150,000) are served by Nickel Plate Arts (<http://nickelplatearts.org/>), a community arts initiative that supports, promotes and provides outstanding arts experiences in the six communities along the historic Nickel Plate Railroad.

Nickel Plate Arts Initiative: “The Nickel Plate Arts community understands the unique role that arts can play in creating, strengthening and transforming communities,” said Dick Heupel, director of economic and community engagement for Ball State’s Building Better Communities. “We were impressed by the initiative’s reach across counties and the number of partners involved in connecting residents and visitors with local art talent.”

The Primacy of Place Community Awards Program was launched in 2013 to showcase Indiana communities who have made the strategic decision to invest in areas such as arts, education, wellbeing, community design and effective governance to strengthen local economies. The program is part of BBC’s larger “Primacy of Place” initiative that is helping communities attract and retain top talent through quality of life efforts.

The 2014 recipients were chosen by a panel of representatives from the Association of Indiana Counties, Ball State University, the Indiana Arts Commission, Indiana Department of Transportation, the Indiana Housing and Community Development Authority, the Indiana Office of Community and Rural Affairs, and the Indiana Office of Tourism Development.

Award winners will be further highlighted at BBC’s second annual Primacy of Place conference on October 16 at the Sheraton Indianapolis City Centre. This year’s conference will feature keynote presentations by Aaron Renn, an opinion-leading urban affairs analyst and entrepreneur; Ed Burghard, creator of the Strengthening Brand America Project, helping economic development professionals apply product and corporate branding to market communities for capital investment; and Mike Langelier, President and CEO of Techpoint, Indiana’s statewide technology initiative.

Ivy Tech Board of Trustees approves leadership consolidation for Kokomo and Lafayette regions

The Ivy Tech Community College State Board of Trustees has approved the consolidation of the administrative structures of the College’s Lafayette and Kokomo regions. The restructuring is part of a series of regional leadership consolidations that began last year to decrease costs and increase efficiencies in the nation’s largest community college system.

David Bathe, currently chancellor of the Lafayette Region, will have administrative responsibility for a restructured leadership team with duties across the two regions. Following Ivy Tech’s new structure, the Kokomo and Lafayette regional boards of trustees will remain in place to respond to the needs of their regions and campus presidents will be named for the Kokomo and Lafayette campuses to serve as the College’s liaison in the two communities.

Kokomo Region Chancellor Stephen Daily, who announced in July that he will retire Jan. 15, 2015, will assist in the implementation of the consolidation plan that he and Bathe will develop for the region to ensure a smooth transition.

“The two chancellors are working on a strategic plan designed to minimize the impact on faculty and staff and to maximize the region’s ability to serve its students and its communities,” Ivy Tech Community College President Thomas J. Snyder said.

“The Kokomo and Lafayette regional trustees, along with the campus presidents, will continue to work closely with their communities to ensure that the needs of our students and area employers are being met,” Snyder continued. “The excellent services and education provided at our campuses will continue.”

Bathe noted the consolidation is entirely at the administrative level. “Students will continue to receive services at their home campus and will see no impact on their academic experience,” he said. “Area employers, college supporters, and community leaders will continue to have access to the Ivy Tech campus in their community, as always.”

The new administrative structure will oversee campuses and instructional sites at Crawfordsville, Frankfort, Kokomo, Lafayette, Logansport, Monticello, Peru, Rochester, Tipton, and Wabash. It will serve 14 counties: Benton, Carroll, Cass, Clinton, Fulton, Fountain, Howard, Miami, Montgomery, Tippecanoe, Tipton, Wabash, Warren, and White.

“From the perspective of business and industry, the combined region encompasses the area covered by the West Central Indiana Region 4 Workforce Board,” Bathe said. “The Ivy Tech Corporate College offices from Lafayette and Kokomo have already partnered on several projects to promote workforce and economic development, including the federal Workforce Innovation in Regional Economic Development (WIRED) grant to foster workforce and economic development.

“I look forward to working across north central Indiana to build on Ivy Tech’s history of educational and community service fostered by Chancellor Daily,” he continued. “Personally, I also want to recognize Steve for being my mentor and adviser when I became chancellor of Ivy Tech’s Lafayette Region.”

This marks the fifth such regional consolidation that the College has announced. The first took place in April 2013 when the Northwest and North Central regions were merged. In January 2014 the College announced the consolidation of the East Central and Richmond regions along with the consolidation of the Columbus and Southeast regions. And in April 2014 the Wabash Valley and Southwest regions were merged.

“We have been pleased with the consolidation efforts to date,” Snyder said. “Our efforts to become more efficient and streamline administrative duties have been a success thus far. And we are seeing increased local engagement and outreach which is core to our mission as the state’s community college.”

With the consolidation of the Kokomo and Lafayette regions Ivy Tech will now operate with nine regional chancellors, a number that was as high as 14 in the past. Chancellors will continue to oversee the 32 degree-granting locations and 75+ educational sites throughout the state within the various regional boundaries.

The College is in the process of naming Campus Presidents for an estimated 20 educational sites throughout the state, many of the College’s degree granting locations.

This new title replaces the current title of Vice Chancellor/Dean that exists in many of these locations. The Campus Presidents will report to the chancellors within the sites they serve. The focus of the local Campus President will be outreach to the local community.

Keeping you informed... Indiana is seeing a record number of jobs being created

By Rep. ERIC TURNER
“Since the recession, Indiana continues to have one of the fastest growing economies. We are seeing a record number of jobs being created, and this year alone, 173 companies have pledged to expand or grow their operations here, according to the Indiana Economic Development Corporation. In fact, there are over 17,000 projected new jobs coming to our state, up from 11,715 this time last year, which means that more Hoosiers will be able to enter the workforce, strengthening our state and local economies.
“Most importantly, the companies that have chosen to expand, grow or start their business in Indiana are creating good paying jobs. Over the next five years, the average hourly wage of the new positions being created is expected to be over $21. Not only are more jobs being created, but hard-working Hoosiers will be able to find lasting employment to better provide for their families, which is great news for our community.

“These announcements would not occur as often without the meaningful legislation we passed to improve Indiana’s tax climate. I’m confident we are heading in the right direction, and as long as we continue our work to keep Indiana competitive, more companies will choose to expand or grow here, creating job opportunities for Hoosiers.”

Cicero Police report missing python

The Cicero Police Department wishes to inform the public of the report of a missing reticulating python.
The snake is approximately 5-6 foot long and two inches in diameter. A resident in the 200 block of South Byron Street called and reported that the snake had been missing for 10-12 days. The owner stated that it is possible that the snake is still in the residence, but wanted to make the report in the event that it has escaped. Because of its size, the snake could only consume a small animal the size of a chipmunk or small rodent so any threat to humans is minimal. The owner advised that the snake would tend to shy away from human contact. Police are advising anyone encountering the snake not to approach it, but instead contact police at 317-773-1282.

Boys tennis previews...

Young Golden Eagles have strong players, bigger schedule this season

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

The Guerin Catholic boys tennis team graduated some great players from its 2013 squad.

Wiese

Catton

Co. Hepp

But don't worry about the Golden Eagles this year - it looks like they'll be reloading instead of rebuilding. There are no seniors on Guerin's varsity line-up, but there are some strong and experienced players ready to make some noise on GC's beefed-up schedule.

"We graduated a strong senior class, and we have a strong returning younger class," said Guerin coach Karl Krauter.

While last year's sectional line-up was a slim majority of seniors, three of them are back. Luke Wiese competed at No. 3 singles behind All-State player Cam Metzger and Honorable Mention Matt Moe, so it's likely that Weise, a junior, will move into the No. 1 spot.

"He's also been named captain this year," said Krauter.

As for the other two singles spots, the coach said it looks as if two freshmen will move into those positions: Wyatt Metzger and Jake Bratton.

The doubles will be anchored by junior Cole Hepp and sophomore Ben Catton, who played at No. 1 last year. Krauter said he wasn't sure if that team would be the same combination. Another doubles player in the mix is sophomore Drew Cobb, whom Krauter expects to do well this season after working hard over the summer.

"We're starting to get more players that are becoming more year-round players, and doing a lot of work outside of the tennis season," said Krauter.

Guerin Catholic's schedule has been significantly strengthened and increased this year. The Golden Eagles will play 21 matches, by far the most ever on the GC schedule (the IHSAA's limit is 22). Those 21 matches break down to 14 duals and two big tournaments, including the prestigious John Shirley Invitational, which takes place at North Central Aug. 30.

Guerin will play the Panthers, last year's state champion, in a dual meet on Sept. 11. Other top teams on the schedule are Carmel, Park Tudor, Hamilton Southeastern, Cathedral and Northeastern.

"It's going to be a challenge for us the whole year, no question," said assistant coach Joe Lustig.

The Golden Eagles host Westfield in a scrimmage on Thursday, then travel to Park Tudor on Aug. 19 for their first meet of the season.

Guerin varsity roster

Juniors: Cole Hepp, Michael Kenney, Nick Ludwig, Luke Wiese.
Sophomores: Ben Catton, Drew Cobb.
Freshmen: Jake Bratton, AJ Hacker, Clay Hepp, Wyatt Metzger.

Huskies golf wins opener

The Lady Husky girl's golf team kicked off the season with a victory over Western Boone 203- 226 at Bear Slide Golf Club on Thursday.

Medalist honors went to sophomore Caitie Gehlhausen who recorded a solid round of 43. "Caitie has been playing tournament golf most of the summer and is primed for the season," said HHHS coach Kerry Altherr.

UHS announces entry into Pioneer Conference

As reported earlier in the week, University High School is joining the Pioneer Academic Athletic Conference in the next school year.

University released the following statement about its entry into the league:

"University High School announced this week that it will be joining the Pioneer Academic Athletic Conference, effective fall 2015.

This will be the first time that University, an IHSA Class 1A school, will be part of an athletic conference. School administrators hope that joining the Pioneer Academic Athletic Conference will afford student-athletes more opportunities athletically as well as academically, which is a focus for the college preparatory school.

"Joining the Pioneer Academic Athletic Conference is an exciting move for our athletic program," said John Walls, athletic director at University High School. "We've been considering joining a conference for a few years now, but this seems like the right time and the right conference for the Trailblazers to join. We're eager for our athletes to have opportunities to win conference championships, receive all-conference honors, and to be recognized as academic all-conference."

University's addition is part of a four-team expansion of the conference, which currently includes six teams — Baptist Academy in Indianapolis, Greenwood Christian Academy in Greenwood, International School of Indiana in Indianapolis, Crispus Attucks Medical Magnet High School in Indianapolis, Shortridge Magnet High School for Law and Public Policy in Indianapolis, and Liberty Christian School in Anderson.

Joining the conference for the 2015-16 school year, in addition to University, are Burriss Laboratory School in Muncie, Seton Catholic High School in Richmond, and Anderson Preparatory Academy in Anderson. This will put the number of schools in the conference at ten. The Pioneer Academic Athletic Conference was established in 2009."

Miller cross country dedicates new finish gate next Saturday

The Noblesville High School athletic department will conduct a ribbon-cutting ceremony for the new Noblesville cross country finish gate at 8:30 a.m. next Saturday, Aug. 16. The cross country program will recognize all the volunteers who donated time, equipment, product and energy to the unique structure.

Marquez leads opening day at Red Bull Indianapolis GP

Reigning MotoGP World Champion Marc Marquez of Spain led the first day of MotoGP practice for the Red Bull Indianapolis GP on Friday, Aug. 8, turning a top lap of 1 minute, 32.882 seconds on his Repsol Honda at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Marquez, 21, has a perfect record in winning the first nine MotoGP World Championship series races this season. A 10th win on Sunday would continue his streak and tie Australian legend Mick Doohan for the most consecutive wins (10) in a season in the modern era.

The winner of three races already in his career at Indianapolis - Moto2 in 2011-12 and MotoGP last year - Marquez seems right at home on the newly reconfigured 16-turn, 2.591-mile IMS road course that features new pavement on the circuit's in-field section and five modified corners.

"We showed this afternoon that we work well on the new layout and we will be fighting for the victory," Marquez said. "The end of the course and Turns 2, 3 and 4 feel better. I think the biggest improvement is near the end of the course. Between the morning and afternoon practices, I thought the bike was slightly better in the afternoon."

Alvaro Bautista of Spain recorded a trap speed of 212.8 mph (342.5 km/h) on his Honda during the second MotoGP practice session today, which is the fastest ever by a motorcycle at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Before today, the previous standard of 209.2 mph (336.7 km/h) was set by Dani Pedrosa in 2013. The speed trap is located just past the start-finish line on the main straightaway.

The winner of the inaugural Red Bull Indianapolis GP and a nine-time world champion, Valentino Rossi of Italy posted the ninth-fastest time of 1:34.535 on the reconfigured IMS road course, and he appreciates the new and improved circuit.

"For me, I like the circuit very much," Rossi said. "The corners, for me, are a lot faster and a lot more fun. The big step is the asphalt. The surface has very good grip; it's flat. You can control the bike in a better way. I'm very, very happy about the track because the layout is better. It's faster and better to ride the bike. But especially the bigger step is the surface. The new asphalt works very, very well. It has a lot more grip. They did a very good job."

American Colin Edwards, who will retire from MotoGP racing at the end of this season, posted the 16th fastest time of 1:34.994 on his NGM Forward Racing Yamaha.

Dominique Aegerter of Switzerland led Moto2 practice at 1:37.518 on his Technomag carXpert Suter, and Isaac Vinales of Spain paced Moto3 practice at 1:42.507 on his Calvo Team KTM.

The winner of the first of two AMA Pro Vance & Hines Harley-Davidson Series races last year at IMS, Jeremy McWilliams won the pole for Saturday's Race 1 with a lap of 1:49.370.

Action on Saturday will begin with an AMA Pro Vance & Hines Harley-Davidson Series warm up session at 8 a.m., followed by morning practice sessions for Moto3 at 9 a.m., MotoGP at 9:55 a.m. and Moto2 at 10:55 a.m.

Qualifying will begin with Moto3 from 12:35-1:15 p.m., followed by the first MotoGP qualifying session from 2:10-2:25 p.m. and the second session from 2:35-2:50 p.m. Moto2 qualifying will be held from 3:05-3:50 p.m.

The first of two AMA Pro Vance & Hines Series races will begin at 4:20 p.m., with riders competing for 10 laps.

Tribe's signs of life squelched in 11-4 thumping by 'Wings

Mark Hamburger no-hit the Indianapolis Indians (59-62) over his first six innings while both James Beresford and Aaron Hicks homered to fuel the Rochester Red Wings' (65-54) 11-4 win on Friday night at Victory Field.

The reeling Tribe has now dropped 13 of its last 14 home games and are 3-15 in the last 18 contests since July 21.

Thrust into duty for the last-minute scratch of Brandon Cumpton, Indians lefty Adam Wilk worked four solid innings with just two runs on the pair of solo homers before he was breached in the fifth.

Rochester pounded out four runs on five hits in the top of the frame, a barrage featuring three consecutive run-scoring extra-base knocks that widened the lead to 6-0.

Josmil Pinto plated two off the Tribe's bullpen with his single in the sixth to make it 8-0, before three consecutive singles from Andrew Lambo, Brent Morel and Matt Hague broke up the no-hit bid and loaded the bases in the bottom of the seventh.

The Indians then snapped their 16-inning scoreless streak with two runs on a mis-played ball up the middle. Blake Davis added a tally with his sac fly and Lambo picked up Jose Tabata's double one frame later to pull the Tribe within 8-4.

However, the rally was buried by Rochester's three-run ninth.
