A group of scouts view a model of how water travels from different places on land and can pick up pollutants that can contaminate the White River. High water levels turned the White River Clean-up Day into an education day.

White River clean-up becomes White River education

By BRIAN REDDICK

After months of planning, Saturday was supposed to be Noblesville's annual White River clean-up day. Mother Nature wasn't to cooperate this year. According to program manager Tim Stottlemeyer the river was just too dangerous to be around Saturday morning. Stottlemeyer said the river was up about three feet from its normal height and was flowing much faster than normal. With a large percentage of the clean-up volunteers being kids from scouting troops and church organizations it was simply too dangerous to let anyone let alone kids near the fast flowing water.

The day wasn't to be a complete failure though. Stottlemeyer and his team of volunteers along with local sponsors turned the day into an educational experience for the many volunteers that showed up hoping to make a difference in the well-being of a river that is so vital to much of Hamilton County.

Eleven stations were set up along the river between Noblesville's Moose Lodge and the walking path that leads to Potters Bridge Park. Each station was an educational stop for volunteers and visitors to learn more about what

A lesson in math

By JANET HART LEONARD

Last Sunday before the church service started, Chuck was sitting on my left and Alecks was on my right. Chuck asked Aleksa how her Geometry class was going. She said she was enjoying it.

Enjoying Geometry? Well, let's just say that she did not get that from her Gma.

I remember when I first started dating Chuck and he told me that before he was a school superintendent and before he was a principal, he was a MATH teacher. Oh no! I had to humbly confess to him that the only "D" that I ever got on my report card was in Geometry.

I told him that I understood the idea of two lines being parallel. Nonparallel lines were simply cattywampus. He just smiled.

I have asked Chuck many Math questions. Bless his heart he explains them in the simplest terms possible. My People were lined up to try out Zaxby's, which opened its doors Monday in the new Fishers Marketplace. The restaurant known for its chicken fingers had a "deck of cards" promotion, offering free food items for a year for the first 100 customers.

Sunday Special: Fishers Marketplace

New hot spot to eat, shop & live

By RICHIE HALL

It's hard to imagine any piece of land on Fishers' busy State Road 37 corridor sitting idle for very long. Yet for the past several years, that was the case for the tract of land on the east side of the highway between an area that bordered 131st and the new 135th streets.

But that has changed, as the site has become the new home of the Fishers Marketplace. Three businesses have opened in the Marketplace so far (Walmart Neighborhood Market, Lake City Bank and Zaxby's), and there are much more to come. In addition, the Flats at Fishers Marketplace will soon begin moving residents into that brand new luxury apartment complex.

In all the, entire project will span 104 acres.

It's appropriate that the site is called Fishers Marketplace, as it has historical ties brain has an empty set when it comes to theories and exponents. Every solution seems extraneous.

Getting an answer correct was often a challenge but asking me to write how I got it was > a complex conjugate. Why couldn't the teacher just accept it as an axiom. (I have no idea what all that means)

Chuck said he was always fascinated by Trigonometry and Calculus. He enjoys explaining Euclidian Geometry. I love listening but I haven't a finite clue of conditional convergence.

I am so thankful that Chuck's love for me is compounded continuously and never divided by the square root of misunderstanding. We are never diametrically opposed nor are we a decreasing function of laughter.

I do know that the sum rule of probability is that we will divide and conquer any differentials that come our way.

The direct proportion of our ability to adapt to each other's differences has nothing to do with angles or hyperbolas but of a common denominator...love.

Maybe math isn't so complicated after all...especially when you can Google the terms.

to the town. The land was once owned by the late Mac Reynolds. He used that land to create Britton Golf Course, which was open from 1986 to 2006.

The site's master developer is Thompson Thrift, a developer and construction company with local ties - its corporate office is in Terre Haute, and its development office is located on 146th Street in Carmel.

Chris Hake, Thompson Thrift's director of retail development, said there are several other restaurants under construction.

Hake said that within the "next 60 days or so, there will probably be two or three additional restaurants opening." The eatery line-up has something for all tastes: Popeye's, the famous Cajun chicken and shrimp restaurant; Bagger Dave, a burger and beer tavern, and Which Wich, an eclectic sandwich shop - the first image seen on its Web site is for a Báhn Mi sandwich, which includes pulled pork, jalapenos and Sriracha mayonnaise.

But it seems people are wanting different choices in where they eat. If you want proof, look at the reception that Zaxby's has received. The Georgia-based restaurant that's known for its "Chicken Fingerz" opened on Monday, the first restaurant to do so in the Marketplace.

Michael Cudd, the owner of the Zaxby's franchise in Fishers, said that business has been "very robust" in the first week. A visit to the restaurant on Thursday afternoon showed it to be busy and steady.

"We've been very pleased with how it's been received so far," said Cudd. He is the franchisee for all of Hamilton County, and he plans to open other locations over the next few years.

Zaxby's conducted a promotion before its opening, called a deck of cards. The cards would provide a free menu item every week for a year, and they would be given out to the first 100 customers.

"And we had well over 100 people show up for that promotion, starting basically at midnight," said Cudd. "We didn't open until 10 a.m. the next morning, so we had a nice, healthy line at the beginning of the session."

As Cudd was talking, hundreds of cars were driving north and south on SR 37. The Thompson Thrift report noted that over 45,000 vehicles drive on the highway every day. Cudd said that "with all the traffic on 37, we just really felt very comfortable that it would be a great spot for our concept."

The Walmart Neighborhood Market is designed for those who want to take advantage of the company's low prices, but are turned off by the "big box store" concept. Walmart Neighborhood Markets are typically one-fourth the size of a traditional Walmart. Hake said the building is one of the anchors of the entire development.

Lake City Bank's history dates back over 140 years, but it has just now started to make a push into the Indianapolis area. The Fishers location is the company's second; the first is at 100 W. 96th St., right on the county line.

All of these businesses are located within a five-mile radius of thousands of potential customers. Thompson Thrift noted that 144,579 people live within that range of the Marketplace, with a median income of $100,376.

Other locations scheduled for the site are City Barbeque and Aurelio's Pizza. In addition, Children's Learning Adventures, a child care center, has plans to open in the Marketplace, along with Nutrishop, Horizon Bank, American Mattress and Fancy Nails.

With everything right in one place, wouldn't it be convenient to live in the Marketplace? You can, with the Flats at Fishers Marketplace. Andrew Morrison, the complex's property manager, said that the first residential building opens on Monday, and it's leasing pretty fast.

"We're almost 50 percent leased and we haven't even had a move-in yet," said Morrison. "We have already run out of select floor plans. They're moving fast, we don't expect them to last very long."

There will be four residential buildings at the Flats, with all to be completed by July.

Apartments range from 642-square foot studio lots (at $763 per month) to 1,346-square foot three bedroom plans (up to $1,345 per month). There are eight different floor plans, and they have upgraded features: Granite countertops in the kitchen, soaking tubs in master bathrooms.

"A lot of neat little things," said Morrison. "A lot of upgraded things that just make it feel a little bit more like home and less like an apartment."

The location, once again, is a good selling point. Not only are residents able to walk right out their front door and get something to eat, but if they have school-age children, Fishers Junior High School is literally right next door.

the river means to the local community. Visitors learned about the history of the river, animals that depend on the river and how pollution can affect the river over time if it's not kept under control.

Stottlemeyer said the clean-up would not be rescheduled because it simply takes too much time to organize the whole event. The volunteers will be back next year to hopefully have Mother Nature's cooperation in getting the clean-up underway.

Unity in the Body

By LEANN WILSON

“...walk worthy of the calling with which you were called, with all lowliness and gentleness, with longsuffering, bearing with one another in love, endeavoring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace. There is one body and one Spirit, just as you were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism; one God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all.” Eph 4:1-6 (NKJV)

Ephesians 4 teaches that in the church all things have been brought together under Christ. He is the Head. The body is made up of all the rest of us. We have been brought out of the world into His house, the church. We as individuals, within our hearts, house His Spirit. We also as individuals bring with us into the church all our quirks, odd personalities, egos which we are to be shedding ourselves of, preferences, styles and the like. Some of us are as sweet and gentle as can be, others are a little on the rough side, and others are on the very rough side. Yet we are made one by one Spirit as every Christ follower is indwelt with the same Spirit. It is the Spirit that gives us the strength that enables us to patiently bear with one another in love. The church has one Savior. There is not a Methodist Jesus, a Pentecostal Jesus, a Baptist Jesus – there is Jesus, Son of God who is the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. So when you finally get to our heavenly home don’t be looking for the Presbyterian Sky box.

Unity of the brethren is being in one accord, the combining of all the parts (members) into one, it is being in harmony, without diversity in faith. In Romans 12:15-18 (NKJV) we are given these instructions - “Rejoice with those who rejoice, and weep with those who weep. Be of the same mind toward one another. Do not set your mind on high things, but associate with the humble. Do not be wise in your own opinion. Repay no one evil for evil. Have regard for good things in the sight of all men. If it is possible, as much as depends on you, live peaceably with all men.” Given that we are to be in unity it never ceases to amaze me how we can come to so many different conclusions regarding scripture. We are all reading (you are reading aren’t you!), learning and teaching out of the same book. Theologian Brown will tell you scripture X means one thing and Grandpa Jones will tell you it means the exact opposite. Yet, doctrine is extremely important. We have gone from one universal first century church to hundreds if not thousands (according to some resources) of Christian denominations. Denominationalism was birthed purely by man through conflict and disagreements, reformations, and at times through self- interest and manipulation. But keeping unity does not equal allowing anything and everything into the church in order that everyone feels affirmed. No, that is not love and that is not maturity. There are truths that need to be taught. Truths that many in our culture will find offensive but, you being offended does not make the Almighty wrong in His teachings. Capitulating to every wind of doctrine (Eph 4:14) to avoid conflict makes you a doormat and a Christian doormat invites the wicked to wipe their feet off on God’s Word in effect making God their enemy. So instead of snatching them from the fire (Jude 1:23) you’re leaving them to burn! Do you hate your brother and you neighbor so much that you will not speak the truth in love. We as children of God are to find “....out what is acceptable to the Lord. And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather expose them” Eph 5:10-11 (NKJV) and remember “he who perverts his ways will become known. He who winks with the eye causes trouble, But a prating fool will fall. The mouth of the righteous is a well of life,” Prov 10:9-11 (NKJV). The christian catch phrase of the day is – “It’s relationship not religion”. I say it’s both. There is nothing more important than your relationship with God through Jesus but we are never to bring God down to our level – He is not a buddy and He is not the heavenly genie in a bottle or a cash cow. He is God, He is sovereign, and He is Holy. There is true religion – “Pure and undefiled religion before God and the Father is this: to visit orphans and widows in their trouble, and to keep oneself unspotted from the world.” James 1:27 (NKJV). The problem is trying to appear religious without having a relationship with the Father through the Son, that’s being a Pharisee and that is a rabbit trail for another day. “All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be complete, thoroughly equipped for every good work.” 2 Tim 3:16-17 (NKJV). God’s Word is perfect, our understanding is not. There is nothing wrong with discussing and debating doctrine. Proverbs 27:17 tells us iron will sharpen iron. Unity and debate work together only when we have a right heart. A heart committed to God and to one another, showing mutual concern for all the brethren. He gave us gifts to edify and lift each other up (Eph 4:8-13) – not to be used to highlight our abilities or for “filthy gain”! However we are not to argue over words, this is unprofitable to the ruin of the hearers (2 Tim 2:14). Paul had strong words to the believers in Rome saying “mark them which cause divisions and offences contrary to the doctrine which ye have learned; and avoid them. For they that are such serve not our Lord Jesus Christ, but their own belly; and by good words and fair speeches deceive the hearts of the simple.” Romans 16:17-18 (KJV). Without the truth of sound doctrine there will not be unity instead there are disagreements, pettiness, selfish ambitions, back biting, jealousies, gossiping and tumults. It’s not what you say but how you say it that will kindle strife. Matthew Henry describes meekness in relation to unity as being “that excellent disposition of soul, which makes men unwilling to provoke, and not easily to be provoked or offended.” From the lips of the wise - “A brother offended is harder to win than a strong city, And contentions are like the bars of a castle.” Prov 18:19 (NKJV) and “Death and life are in the power of the tongue Prov 18:21 (NKJV). We are to be gentle - Don’t bruise the fruit – if you are not able to speak truth in love then don’t speak. 1 John 4:20-21 (NKJV) states “If someone says, “I love God,” and hates his brother, he is a liar; for he who does not love his brother whom he has seen, how can he love God whom he has not seen? And this commandment we have from Him: that he who loves God must love his brother also.” The following scripture is read at almost every wedding and is a beautiful verse for such an occasion however it is meant to be applied to all our relationships “Love suffers long and is kind; love does not envy; love does not parade itself, is not puffed up; does not behave rudely, does not seek its own, is not provoked, thinks no evil; does not rejoice in iniquity, but rejoices in the truth; bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things.”1 Cor 13:4-7 (NKJV). I truly believe that the reason God devoted so much of scripture to the subject of love and unity is not only because it is of the utmost importance to Him but because it does not come naturally to us. We have to love on purpose. “Therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, put on tender mercies, kindness, humility, meekness, longsuffering; bearing with one another, and forgiving one another, if anyone has a complaint against another; even as Christ forgave you, so you also must do. But above all these things put on love, which is the bond of perfection. And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to which also you were called in one body; and be thankful. Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord. And whatever you do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord” Col 3:12-17 (NKJV)

Study the Word so you know what is and what is not sound doctrine, love your brother and sisters on purpose and “Finally, brethren, whatever things are true, whatever things are noble, whatever things are just, whatever things are pure, whatever things are lovely, whatever things are of good report, if there is any virtue and if there is anything praiseworthy--meditate on these things.” Phil 4:8 (NKJV)

Not The Perfect Mom

Hear His Voice

By TAMAR KNOCHEL

“Today when you hear His voice don’t harden your hearts.” Hebrews 3:7-8 & 15 & 4:7

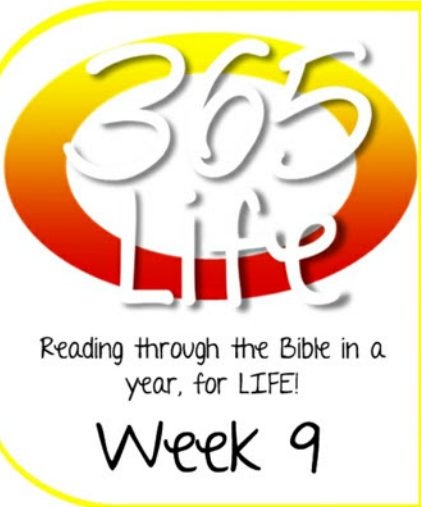

“It’s a new day, a new chapter, a new page, a blank slate to write the story of your life upon. The Word today says to listen to My voice and not to harden your heart, so open your ears to hear and your heart to receive My word for your troubles today. Lean on Me when you’re not strong. I’ll be your friend. I’ll help you carry on.

“I know life is not easy, I never said that it would be. You are walking through the Valley of the Shadow of Death, does that sound easy to you? Yet you walk through it in good company; for I am with you every step of the way. Keep walking, for goodness sake, don’t stop and set up camp there! Lean on Me when you’re not strong and I’ll be your friend. I’ll help you carry on.

It’s critical that you bear in mind that it is NOT the Valley of Death. It’s the Valley of the Shadow of Death. I have removed the fear of death, hell has no sting - I took it; at the tip of a spear and the hammering of some nails. I took death, drank it down in heaping gulps and conquered it so completely that only the shadow of it remains.

I have won. Death has lost. Period. End of story. Buh bye, see ya later. There is no other ending, this is it. Just Me - Jesus - victorious over the Enemy of humanity. I did that for you so that you could face days like today and continue to choose to live through them. I know, your life’s not all sunshine, rainbows and puppy dogs. But in all honesty, if it was, you still wouldn’t be happy. Admit it; you know that’s the Truth. So, into every life a little rain must fall, and with it comes growth. My Beloved, your strength has enlarged with each trial. Don’t give up. Continue striving with your best effort; keep working toward that elusive goal. You may not reach it today, and it may not come to fruition tomorrow either. But although the vision may tarry, wait (and work) patiently toward it in My will. For it will surely take place and it will not be delayed.

Why do you doubt the beauty of My work? Why do you doubt it’s power and importance? You know the power of these words, why are you not sharing them with others? Why are you afraid? Why are you afraid of people? They can not hurt you if you don’t let them! Their opinion of My words shouldn’t matter to you! I commissioned you to deliver messages, how they receive them is not of your concern. Do you understand Me? Look at Me. They should NOT concern you. Your job is to deliver the message. Period. Leave the rest up to Me. OK?”

The Time of My Life

By AIMEE GEBHART
Last Thursday, Ed and I traveled to Texas for a long weekend to attend his sister’s wedding. With the start of the school year and all the chaos that brings for me, it really couldn’t have come at a worse time. I was stressed out trying to write sub plans and the next week’s lesson plans, and I couldn’t wrap my head around missing an entire weekend at home. When would we clean, do laundry, grocery shop, and run errands for the next week? As excited as I was for the big wedding, I just couldn’t stop worrying about all of my responsibilities at home. Then we arrived in Texas. Something about being in a whole other state forced me to calm down and let go of all my anxieties. After all, it’s not too often that I get an extended weekend alone with my husband. So, with a renewed sense of fun that I had forgotten I possessed, I decided to embrace the weekend. And I’m so glad I did. We had the best time. My sister-in-law’s friends took us in like family from the minute we arrived. We were invited into their beautiful homes, fed to the gills, and treated to all kinds of laughs and shenanigans. It was exactly what the doctor ordered. The highlight of the weekend, aside from the actual wedding ceremony, was enjoying the reception with everyone afterward. A little known fact about Ed and me: we love to dance. Now I’m not saying that we are good, but I’d like to think that what we lack in skills we make up for with enthusiasm; so much so that we even attempted to reenact the big “lift” scene from the end of Dirty Dancing. Maybe it wasn’t exactly Patrick Swayze worthy, but we did get some pretty impressive height, if I do say so myself. As for Ed, the doctor feels pretty confident that he will be able to walk again in a few weeks. At the end of it all, we were both sad to have to leave. As much as I was lamenting all the work and schedule adjusting that the wedding weekend caused, it ended up being the most fun we have had in a long time. Plus, it reminded me that I can still be a pretty good time. I guess sometimes distance from your daily stress is all you need to gain a little perspective. Well, that and a really strong dance partner.

The Fishers student section had plenty to cheer about during the Tigers' big football win Friday night at the Mudsock game. The annual rivalry between Fishers and Hamilton Southeastern has become one of the biggest in the state, in all sports.

Biggest rivalries in the state

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

The best part of Friday's Mudsock football game happened late in the second quarter, and it did not happen on the field.

During a time-out, the student sections of both Fishers and Hamilton Southeastern began a back-and-forth rendition of one of the most famous chants of all time:

*We got spirit
Yes we do!
We got spirit
How about you?*

It went across the field, from red to blue, Tigers to Royals, for a couple minutes.

Soon, even the spectators were getting involved. It was entertaining to watch, and was a great example of how much the Mudsock rivalry - an intense yet friendly one - has grown in such a short time.

"As you can tell from last night's game, our community just supports it and, I think our kids take a lot of pride in it," said HSE athletic director Jim Self. "Obviously Fishers kids take a lot of pride in it. I think it's been good for our community."

"Both student bodies, I thought were outstanding. And we got that all week long in all of our competitions. It's not just a football thing, we saw it in volleyball, we see it in boys and girls soccer and it really makes it fun.

The Mudsock trophy is presented in each sport throughout the season, and there's a big all-sport Mudsock Trophy that's given out at the end of the school year for whichever school has won the most individual trophies. As of this fall, Southeastern had possession of all the trophies in each sport, until Fishers broke through by winning Friday's football game.

The trophy is sponsored by Robert "Dub" Clark and his family. Clark is a true Mr. Fishers, having graduated from the original Fishers High School in 1941. He has been a long time supporter of Hamilton Southeastern athletics, and when his alma mater re-opened in 2006, he started rooting for them, too.

Clark helped out with the planning of the Mudsock rivalry, including giving out individual trophies in each sport, with the school getting the most wins earning the big trophy. Clark is a regular presence at both HSE and Fishers sporting events.

"I just love my sports," said Clark. "A lot of these young kids, they kind of idolize the player on whoever team they're playing. That's what makes the sports so good, and they're getting better all the time, because

Home schooled grid players

Perhaps as you scan through the list of high school football each Saturday morning you may have noticed the scores of the Noblesville Lions Club Home School team.

Pretty good team. The Lions started the season with a pair of wins, beating Union Dugger High School 56-0 and the Columbus (Ohio) Crusaders 27-0. The team lost last week to Indianapolis Howe, which this Friday played Guerin Catholic High School here in Noblesville. Friday, the Lions beat Tindley 40-0 at Arlington High School.

Noblesville Lions? What is the connection between Noblesville and this home schooled football team?

"Very little," answered Mike Kidd, co-founder and the team's coach. Kidd, a Fishers resident, 12 years ago was frustrated because he was the father of two sons who wanted to play public school football, and couldn't.

"There were too many restrictions at that time placed by the IHSAA," Kidd said. "Since, the IHSAA has done away with some of those restrictions, but it's still hard for a home schooled student to qualify, and many of the (public and private) schools won't accept football players who aren't fully enrolled in the schools."

So, the Lions Home School team was formed.

"For the first couple of years we practiced and played in right field of a softball diamond at the Nazarene church in Noblesville," Kidd said.

Today, the home base (the practice facilities) are located at a Baptist church in northern Indianapolis.

"We don't really have a home field to play games, but we do have home games," said Kidd. "We rent fields for our home games. We've rented Heritage Christian, a middle school in Fishers and others. We have a homecoming game every year."

There are two other Lions Home School team in Indiana, one at Fort Wayne and another on the south side of Indianapolis.

The local team has both a junior high and high school program.

"Our roster is down in numbers this year, and I'm not sure why," Kidd said. "Last season we had 43 on the high school team and 33 on the junior high team. This year we're down to about 25 and 24.

"We draw players from everywhere," Kidd continued. "We get kids from as far away as Anderson and Kokomo who drive here everyday for practice. We also get players from right here in our backyard."

Kidd said some of the players, maybe a handful, can play at a high level.

"We've had high school football coaches recruit some of our players, and what we're really proud of is that we've had kids to go on and play at the college Division 1 and Division 2."

The program is a private, not for profit, Christian organization.

"We own most of the equipment, such as helmets and pads," said Kidd. "We don't want a player coming in with a helmet used by his uncle years ago."

The fee for a player to participate is between $300 and $400, which includes insurance.

MUDSOCK

more of them are paying more attention to that."

Both schools are in the same conference (the Hoosier Crossroads) and compete in the same sectional in every single sport. But getting the Mudsock trophy means something to them.

"We have the biggest rivalry in the state, so this means a lot to our organization," said Maurice Campbell, a star of the Tigers' football team. Fishers beat Southeastern on the Royals' field for the first time in the regular season with its Friday win.

"And for us to beat them, like I said, for the first time, on their field, in Fishers history, for the Mudsock Trophy, defending it at that, that's big," said Campbell.

The athletes who play in the Mudsock contests are friends and neighbors, but they still do want to win.

Molly Lear, an HSE soccer player, competed in all four Mudsock games. The Royals beat Fishers 1-0 to win that sport's trophy.

"It compares to nothing else," said Lear. "You're playing against people you've grown up with your whole life. And so going out there and playing against them, you've played with them, it's a lot of fun, and the atmosphere's amazing. And it's really competitive."

Debbie Miller, the mother of four daughters who go to Southeastern, also believes that the kids knowing each other and being friends with each other makes the game more exciting. She's watched the Mudsock rivalry develop from the beginning, and notes that it has continued to grow every year.

"It seems like the crowds were a lot smaller than they are now," said Miller. "It seems like with every passing year, the crowds from both schools just keep getting bigger and bigger. They are louder, they get dressed up. The sidelines have become as competitive as the field, which makes the atmosphere fun."

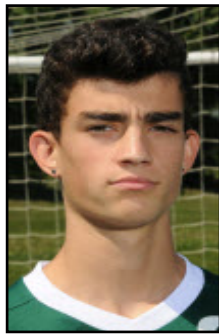

No matter what the team or the school, everyone who plays for a Mudsock has spirit - yes they do.

Teams win all over the state

Hamilton County's cross country teams were all over the state (and in one case, out of the state) on Saturday.

Those long trips were worth it, though, as several teams and runners were winners. One local team didn't have to go far to win, though - the Guerin Catholic girls squad won on its home course.

The Lady Golden Eagles won the All-Catholic Championships, edging Cathedral by two points, 63-65. Guerin was helped by two top five finishes: Rachel Yuska was the individual runner-up and Megan Slamkowski placed fifth. The GCHS boys placed fourth as a team.

Up at the Maconaquah Invitational, Noblesville's boys had five of the top 10 spots, and that led to a comfortable team victory. The Millers won with 30 points; Eric Hoffman and Jordan Warne paced the way with a 2-3 finish.

Noblesville's girls team was a close second (37-42) to Warren Central. Abigail Little shined, as the freshman was the individual runner-up.

Hamilton Southeastern swept everything at the Wildcat Classic, which took place at Indiana Wesleyan University. The Royals won both the girls and boys team competitions, and had the individual winners.

Rachel Nichwitz blasted to the girls race win, finishing in a great time of 17:58.1. Matt Straders won the boys race, clocking in at 15:44.1.

Carmel had a nice day at the Brown County Classic. The girls cruised to a team win, using their depth to score 37 points and take three of the top five spots. Madelyn Dalton was the Greyhound leader, finishing second.

As for the boys, Carmel's Benjamin Veatch set a new meet record, winning the race in a time of 15:16.02. The 'Hounds were second to Columbus North (74-93) in the team standings.

Westfield's boys ran at Brown County, placing a strong fourth. Sam Henthorn was 16th, with Alec Hartman finished 18th.

The Shamrock girls placed fourth as well, at the Ben Davis Invitational. Devon Leahy had a good race, finishing in fifth.
