Fishers murder suspect appears in court

By JEFF JELLISON

Seventeen-year-old Hamilton Southeastern student Maxwell Winkler was arrested Tuesday, charged with the death of 73-year-old Henry Kim.

Kim was found dead near 96th defense attorney Jim Voyles. and Mollenkopf Road in Windemere Park on Saturday night. Hamilton County Coroner's report indicated Kim was shot three times and his throat slashed.

Wednesday Winkler appeared in class A felony. Hamilton County Superior Court III

"These impressive grades reflect the hard work and commitment our students, teachers and principals put into the process of learning every day," said Annetta Petty, executive director of learning for Noblesville Schools. "We continue to strive to better serve all our students, and appreciate this recognition from the state as we challenge ourselves to succeed."

In 2013, all Noblesville schools except three received "A" grades. North Elementary, White River Elementary and Hazel Dell Elementary received "B"s that year. Those schools raised their "B"s to "A"s for 2014, making the all "A"s across the district possible.

Taxes remain among lowest in state... Carmel city budget passed

Carmel City Council passed Mayor Jim Brainard's proposed 2015 budget Monday night, fully funding the $131 million city budget, along with a resolution calling for the tax rate to once again remain the same. Carmel's tax rate will remain 0.7007 per $100 assessed valuation, which in 2014 was the 9th lowest city property tax rate among 117 cities in the state of Indiana.

"I want to thank the Council for approving a fiscally responsible budget that will be fully funded without the need for additional revenues in 2015. Once again I am pleased to see our local tax rates stay the same and remain among the lowest in the state of Indiana," said Mayor Jim Brainard.

In May of 1997 the Hamilton County Sheriff's Office, under the direction of Paul Beal, the former director of EMS for Riverview Hospital, began a program of installing automatic external defibrillators in patrol vehicles. This pilot program was called PARADE (Police as Responder Automated Defibrillation Evaluation). The program was one of a kind but quickly drew attention, and by October of 1998 four additional counties in Indiana had joined the study. The Hamilton County Sheriff's Of-the study showed that law enforcement officers equipped with AED'S were more likely to "save" a person rather than law enforcement officer without the devices. The main goal of the program was to reduce the time from the initial call for help to the first "shock". The average first shock time for police is 6 minutes and 10 minutes for EMS according to the study. On average since the inception of the AED program the Hamilton County Sheriff's Office has used the AED'S between 6 and 9 times a year.

The Board of Commissioners purchased all new devices for our patrol vehicles and fice was lucky to be the first agency in the buildings in 2011. Currently the Sheriff's

The Trojans defeated the Blackhawks 33-27 for the conference championship last Bud Wright has year and then defeated Sheridan 35-7 in the sectional. This year, Tri-Central has defeated Sheridan, 40-21, for another conference championship.

The winner Friday gets the Class 1A, Sectional 44 plaque from the IHSAA.

Wright, who has been doing this type of thing for 50 years, understands that it will take a super effort for his football team to upset Tri-Central.

Who would have thought last Aug. 22 following Westfield's 35-14 season-opening the same two teams a couple months later would be battling for Class the Sectional championship? This time, this touchdowns been scored; lots of tackles made since that August Westfield

Friday evening (7 p.m.), at The Rock in Westfield. Lots

Harrison followed up that loss by losing 33-7 at Western Boone. Since then, Harrison has lost only to McCutcheon, 33-7. McCutcheon won the North Central Conference crown with an undefeated record, and Harrison was second only with the loss to McCutcheon.

Westfield, the state runner-up last season, now is the only Hoosier Crossroads Conference team standing.

"I think she's ready to not just be 'Little Sis,' but be a big force for University this year," said Summitt-Mann.

With such a small team, University will need to be in its best condition possible. But Summitt-Mann also wants a priority to be avoiding injuries, since even one player getting hurt could spell trouble for the season.

"One of the big things that we're stressing, in addition to family atmosphere and culture is, this year we have to stay healthy and we have to work on our injury prevention," said Summitt-Mann. "We're going to be in condition. We're going to play enough games. Everybody's going to get plenty of playing time. But the key is going to be, keeping everybody healthy and injury-free.'

University, a Class 1A school, will open its season Tuesday by hosting Park Tudor. The Panthers are one of seven 2A teams on the Trailblazers' schedule. In addition, UHS will also play at the Speedway Classic on Jan. 3, which is hosted by the 2A Sparkplugs and will feature North Putnam, another 2A team. The 'Blazers will play a 3A team, Brebeuf Jesuit, on Nov. 25 at the Braves' gym.

Despite Sloan's effort, Pacers fall in overtime

By JEFF TZUCKER

The Pacers rode Donald Sloan's career night as long as they could, but it ultimately wasn't enough as the Wizards eked out an 96-94 overtime win.

Sloan, who has continued to step up and show what he can do when given playing time, finished with a careerhigh 31 points to go with six rebounds and seven assists.

As time expired, the Pacers had two good looks to either get the win or force a second overtime, but an open Roy Hibbert jumper from just beyond the 3-point arc on the perimeter fell short and bounced off the rim in to the hands of Chris Copeland. Copeland missed the put-back as the buzzer sounded.

Copeland finished the game with 19 points and 12 rebounds.

In the first half, the Pacers took a 37-32 lead, but ended the half on the wrong end of a 14-4 run as the Wizards took a 46-41 lead heading in to the break. Coming out of halftime, the Wizards continued to stretch their lead to take a 61-49 advantage with 4:18 to play in the third quarter. The Pacers mounted a slow-and-steady comeback to close the gap back to five points, 66-61, at the end of the third quarter.

It wasn't until late in the fourth quarter, however, that the Pacers would even the score up at 77 on a Chris Copeland 3-pointer. From there, it was the Donald Sloan head to Boston to play the Celtics on Friday night.

This game was like many the two teams have played show as he scored the final seven points in regulation for recently: A low-scoring, defensive affair with neither team the Pacers to send the game to overtime tied at 84. In overtime, the Pacers fell behind by five, 93-88 and again at 95-90 with less than a minute remaining as hope began to fade. However, Copeland answered with a bucket with 49 ticks left and Sloan followed that up with two made free throws with 15 seconds left to play to make it a 95-94 game in favor of the Wizards.

With 12 seconds remaining, the Pacers fouled John Wall, who made just one of two free throws to set up the final sequence of Hibbert's missed 3-pointer and Copeland's missed put-back.

With the loss, the Pacers fall to 1-4 on the season and
