Hare to open "Hare Truck Center"

Exciting things are happening at Noblesville's oldest business and the Nation's Oldest Transportation Company. Back in December 2014, Hare was awarded the Isuzu Commercial Truck Franchise for this area. The Service Department at Hare has been working on medium duty trucks for businesses in Central Indiana for a long time, and now with the Isuzu truck franchise awarded, they have the ability to sell the trucks as well.

With Hare Chevrolet hitting all kinds of records in sales and service in recent years, including being the largest GM store in Indiana for a decade, the need for additional space is a significant. The ownership team at Hare consists of the 6th generation of the Hare family, sisters

Cole

Courtney Cole and Monica Peck. The sisters had a desire to find new land and/or building for a truck center but keep it close to their Chevrolet store. The former Goeke dealership located on State Road 32 just east of State Road 37, provided an ideal fit. Slight modifications will have to be done to fit the building for the sales and servicing of larger trucks. Hare will be selling and servicing Isuzu trucks out of the Chevrolet location until the remodeling is complete, anticipated to be finished by Spring 2015. Along with the Isuzu truck franchise, Hare is also a Certified Chevrolet Business Elite dealership. The Commercial Sales team works with businesses of all kinds and sizes to match them with the right vehicles, whether it's a fleet of vehicles, or just one at a time.

Sales & Service Center. John Pence, a long-time Hare service advisor, will be heading up the service side of the business. Long time Noblesville native, Todd Thurston, will be the Sales Manager. Although, most of the staff will be coming from the Chevrolet location, there are job openings for both the Truck Center and the vacated open positions at Chevrolet. All in all, there will be about 10 total job openings. Hare Chevrolet currently employs just over 200 people.

Veterans court passes hurdle

By PETE SMITH

Establishing a veterans court to provide better outcomes for the country's former servicemen and women has been a goal of Hamilton County Superior Court Judge Bill Hughes since August 2013. The idea has faced delays due to state certification, bureaucratic red tape and politics, but on Wednesday evening it cleared its largest remaining obstacle—funding. That's because the county council approved the use of a $30,000 grant from the Glick Fund in addition to appropriating an additional $40,000 from the county's option income tax revenue to help the court get on its feet.

What now could become just the state's sixth veterans court is still awaiting some final approvals from the Indiana Judicial Center, but Hughes said he is hopeful that it could begin hearing its first case in March.

Hughes said that about 400 veterans pass through the county jail each year, and that of these about 30 to 40 percent would be eligible to use the court's services — meaning that the veterans committed only minor offenses.

County ready for HB 1006

By DON JELLISON

Reporter Editor

Hamilton County Commissioner Mark Heirbrandt says Hamilton County is ahead of the curve when meeting the demand of new House Bill 1006, and that is, the commissioner explained, because of good planning by Hamilton County down through the years.

The story dates back to an article published by the Hamilton County Reporter in October of 2013. At that time, the County Jail was about 120 prisoners under capacity.

All of that has changed because of the passage of House Bill 1006 by the Indiana General Assembly.

The law has changed the sentencing of convicted law violators.

"The law took the previous four classes of felony violations (class A,B,C,D) and divided the criminal statutes into six levels," Heirbrandt said. "A Level 6 felony is the lowest level felon and most persons convicted at this level are minimum or medium classification inmates. The new rules dictates that after June 30, 2014 and before July 1, 2015, a court cannot commit a person convicted of a Level 6 felony to the Department of Corrections (state prisons) if the person's earliest possible release date is less than 91 days from the date of sentencing."

Basically, what that means is that many drug addicts, thieves and those with mental problems will end up, not in state prisons, but at the Hamilton County Jail and at other county jails throughout Indiana.

Those with mental problems likely will be the biggest concern because county jails aren't experienced in handling these cases. Also, addition costs will be handed to counties for medications, etc.

When Hamilton County Judge William Hughes in 2014 appeared before the County Commissioners he said that the state is aware it is putting a heavy burden back on the counties and there will be funding coming in the next legislative session. It will, Hughes added, probably be funding for programming as oppose to funding for building space.

That's where Hamilton County is ahead of the situation because of good planning, Heirbrandt told The Reporter.

"The commissioners and council members have prepared well for future expansion of the jail campus," Heirbrandt said. "The Community Corrections facility was originally built with an additional floor which was 'shelled out' to plan for future expansion. By being proactive at that time, we are better prepared for future growth with less investment dollars as we plan for any future renovations at this facility."

The Commissioners also have enlisted a team to review the master plan for the Correctional Campus on Cumberland Road, located on the east side of Noblesville. The group will analyze the impacts of this new legislation and make recommendations concerning future infrastructure and program improvements and or alternatives for dealing with this increased inmate population.

"We selected the team of DLZ & RQAW Engineers at our November 24, 2014 meeting to begin this study," said Heirbrandt.

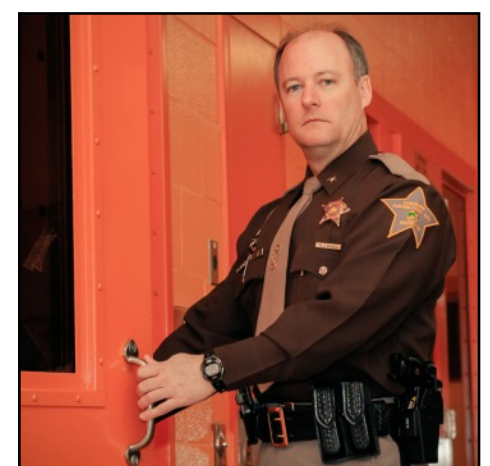

Judge Hughes, when he appeared before the commissioners, predicted the increase of prisoners at the Hamilton County Jail could be as many as 500.

"Using current conviction data from 2013," Heirbrandt continued, "and current inmate population statistics, the Jail Operation estimates that if we change nothing the average daily inmate population could increase by up to 70 inmates per day by 2016, bringing the jail population to 123 percent of capacity."

The jail currently has 284 beds for general population and 12 beds for medical and special housing.

The third floor of the Correction Center

Hamilton County Sheriff Mark Bowen is pictured inside the main unit of the County Jail, which will see an increase in population because of new House Bill building, when completed, would add space for another 250 prisoners.

Also on the jail campus is a Juvenile Center, which often is only half filled. But, laws will not allow the County to house together adults and juveniles.

Heirbrandt said addition plans at the Jail Campus could involve building pods to accommodate the new Level 6 inmates.

"But, again, the Commissioner said, "the entire campus, including the Jail, Juvenile Center and Community Corrections Center, was well planned years ago for the intent of additional expansion if needed.

David Francis

July 31, 1937 - February 4, 2015

David Francis, 77, of Noblesville, died peacefully at home, surrounded by his loving family, on Wednesday, February 4, 2015. He was born on July 31, 1937 to Richard and Elizabeth Francis in Noblesville, Indiana.

David graduated from Elwood High School and proudly served in the United States Navy. He was employed at Guide Lamp as a Supervisor for 29 years, retiring in 1992. Following retirement, David was heavily involved in racing. He enjoyed being a part of his sons' racing hobbies. David's son, JD Francis, raced every weekend for the last twenty years, and David only missed two races during that time. He was known at the Dirt Race tracks as PR. Every racer he met absolutely loved talking with him. He was an avid outdoorsman and loved to fish. This summer, David and his best friend of 51 years, Jim Roy, spent a weekend fishing in Grand Rapids, Michigan with his son Kevin, son JD, and Jim's son-in-law, Rick Geils. Above all, David was a family man. He adored his sons Jon David Francis and Kevin Francis. He will be dearly missed and forever celebrated by a loving family and many friends.

Survivors include his wife, Dorothy Francis, to who he was united in marriage on January 29, 1977; children, Jon David (Camille) Francis, and Kevin Francis; and grandchildren, Madysen Francis and Colleen Cummings. Brothers Richard and Robert Francis also survive. David also helped raise Anthony, Matthew and Kevin Ammerman, his nephews.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by his brothers, Kenny, Don, and twin brother Dale Francis; and the recent death of his nephew, Matthew Ammerman, who was killed in Afghanistan.

The family wants to give a special thank-you to Stacy & Becky of Guardian Angels Hospice for David's recent care.

Friends and family will gather on Saturday, February 14, 2015, from 2:00 to 4:00 pm at the Fishers Conference Center, 9775 North by Northeast Blvd, Fishers, IN.

A private family service was held on February 5, 2015 at Randall & Roberts Funeral Center.

VETERANS

The way it works is that the veterans would pay the court a fee of up to $50 per month in exchange for using a court that emphasizes treatment over incarceration.

The majority of the services the veterans would get access to are provided by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, such as a judicial outreach officer. But the court would facilitate monitored supervision in addition to providing treatment, job training and housing.

Eventually, the goal would be to get the veterans' records expunged so that there would be no future hindrance to employment, Hughes said.

He noted that veterans should see a great benefit from participating in a positive program which aims to offer four rewards for every sanction.

And Hughes said he's hopeful that the fees the court collects will be sufficient to repay the county's $40,000 investment within three years.

Remember, ‘diet’ is a noun, not a verb

By SHARON MCMAHON
“Our bodies are our gardens – our wills are our gardeners.” ~ William Shakespeare

Have you had enough of winter yet? This is the time of year when we yearn for the “green” here in Indiana! I am pleased to say that gardening seems to be gaining popularity and indulging in local, fresh produce is both encouraged and enjoyed. However, today’s column is not directly referring to gardening (believe me, you don’t want gardening or seamstress tips from me!) instead I will discuss the analogy above from Mr. Shakespeare. A garden will only flourish when it is tended, fertilized properly, watered, weeded, and cared for – if our bodies are our gardens, how is your will doing as a gardener?

If there is one thing I would ask that you take away from today’s column it is this – the word “diet” is a noun, not a verb! We tend to think of “dieting” (verb) as opposed to a healthy, nutritious diet (noun) or food plan. Another problem with the word “diet” is that the word is closely associated in our minds with “deprivation.” We humans do not like to be deprived! When you omit something from your food plan, introduce a food item to take its place. A great place to start is the grocery store. Unless you are providing potato chips for the annual family reunion, skip that aisle but be sure to pick up a lovely red pepper in the produce aisle and a small container of hummus to enjoy as a snack. One suggestion is to also purchase small portion cups and divide your hummus into those so that you monitor your snack portions. Now, let me also be clear – we all need to indulge in our “comfort food” occasionally! Thanksgiving, you bet! Some cheese ball, cookies and fudge at Christmas, oh my yes! Super Bowl goodies, of course! Keep in mind that these are specific occasions, not our everyday cuisine.

Dr. Brian Wansink, director of the Food and Brand Lab at Cornell University, in his book, Slim by Design: Mindless Eating Decisions, recommends changing your eating environment. According to Dr. Wansink, a primary predictor of healthy or unhealthy weight is what food is out on the counter in the kitchen. People who keep chips or cookies on the counter, even a single cookie, weigh an average of ten pounds more than their neighbors who don’t. When the cookies are in sight, you must repeatedly make a decision about eating them. You might resist 25 times, consider it on the 26th, and give in on the 27th. Cereal is even more enticing, according to Wansink, because we perceive it as healthier. If cereal is on the counter, you’re likely to weigh 20 pounds more than average, he indicates. Keep those chips and snacks, if they are in your house, behind closed doors and preferably on a high shelf! Is ice cream your thing? If so, try a fruit/veggie smoothie in your blender or food processor – here is one I especially like: Fresh kale, chopped + fresh chilled pineapple chunks + a good quality protein powder + crushed ice + unsweetened almond milk. Blend all in your blender until smooth and enjoy! Experiment to taste; start with small amounts of kale if you need to do so and increase proportionately. You can also substitute frozen bananas or berries for the pineapple. If you are one who likes to keep some yummy items on your kitchen counter, try a container of varieties of green tea, there are many delicious flavors from which to choose. You will enjoy a filling and tasty beverage and at the same time benefit your immune system, a win-win situation.

I will caution you to be wary of shelf-stable and processed foods. Many canned food items are fine to add occasionally to your meals, but be aware of the sodium content. Boxed “meals” in particular are usually very high in carbohydrates. While today’s busy schedules sometimes call for quick family meals this is one which should not be included on a frequent basis. One of my favorite “quick” meals consists of the following veggies which can simply be stirred into olive oil (using a wok is fine, but not necessary) over a low heat: Brussel sprouts (microwave briefly as they are very dense) along with sliced bell peppers, mushrooms, several cloves of garlic (great for your immunity) some sliced potatoes, and one or more of green beans/snow peas/asparagus – whatever you like best. Combine all in a large frying pan (or wok) when the oil is ready. Stir for several minutes. For added flavor, some low-sodium soy sauce and curry could be added. You may have noticed that I have not included a meat item here but you certainly could, perhaps chicken breast (cook thoroughly before adding to your veggies) or salmon would be a delicious addition. You might wish to add some rice as a side dish, although I would suggest brown rice instead of white rice.

You may wonder why I am not mentioning “fast food” and, frankly, I do not have enough space in my column this week to do so! Those menu items should be rarely included in one’s eating plan, although there are a few suggestions which can be incorporated on a limited basis – more about that in a future column.

While endless commercials, ads, and apps would endeavor to convince you that their “proven methods” work for your healthy weight-loss goals, (there is a reason that the “diet industry” is a multi-billion dollar industry!) remember that each one of us is different and we need to find the approach that works best for our personality, schedules, family life, and lifestyle. The changes you make in your eating habits should be changes that you plan to incorporate for a lifetime. A nutrition coach can help you find your best plan to begin and sustain a more healthy eating environment and life-long positive changes. There is no one “diet” or identical plan for everyone. You will be surprised how reduction in your consumption of dairy, sugar, salt, flour, rice, “diet” sodas (that’s an oxymoron if I ever heard one!) and other simple carbohydrates can make a difference. The addition of good protein sources and complex carbohydrates will leave you more satisfied with the way you feel and your appearance – not to mention better health, better sleep, and more energy!

Indiana is known to many as the “Basketball State” and we Hoosiers are definitely proud of that fact! However, Indiana has also been designated 8th in the “top 10 least healthy states” and “41st out of all 50 states in overall health” according to Indianapublichealth.org. Those are statistics that can, and should, change – and we are all part of that change. Let’s work together to reduce Hoosiers’ obesity rate, which is largely responsible for diabetes, heart problems, and many other health issues. We can do this!

If my fingertips could talk...

By JANET HART LEONARD
Ever since I was a little girl I have felt the need to write. It’s my passion.

It really began in the seventh grade in Mr. Purvis’s English class. Each week he would give us challenging vocabulary words and we had to use them in sentences and stories. Thus began my fascination with words. I actually enjoyed writing term papers in his class.

I still love words. I actually feel the need to sit and write my thoughts on a daily basis. I have kept journals for almost twenty years. I sometimes wonder what my kids and grandmunchkins will learn when they read them someday. Oh trust me, there is nothing in them that will shock them, but some things may surprise them. I can just hear Abby say, "Wow, Grandma Janet really felt that way? She sure hid her feelings well." And I did for a long time.

My writing has always been therapy. My emotions were kept at my fingertips until I could get to a keyboard or find a pen and paper. Then my emotions spewed out. Sometimes in a few lines, sometimes in chapters.

It’s now therapeutic to go back and read what I had written so many years ago. I have changed. I often wonder what if I knew then what I know now. And then I laugh.

I often find myself saying that the re-fining process is painful. With age and experience comes a bit of wisdom. Along the way common sense fills in the blanks. The thing about keeping a journal is that you can actually read your progress.

I chuckle as I say to myself "well that would not be my reaction now" or "today I'd handle that in a totally different way!" And sometimes I laugh as I think "I would never put up with that now!"

Some things that had my bowels in such an uproar, now don't matter at all. Everything pretty much worked its way out. Ok, so maybe not to my liking but in hindsight it was either for the best or it just was what it was. I got over it. My feathers got smoothed. My tongue healed from the bite marks...well you get the idea.

And then there were the detours, road blocks, stumbling blocks and scary monsters that got in my way. Let's just say, it's been interesting along my journey.

Abuse Disability vs Ability

By ALEX CORTEZ

Did you know three out of 10 children are physically abused and two out of five are verbally abused? That's excluding neglect or sexual abuse. Can you imagine how much suffering they go through day in and day out? It usually starts because of a simple mistake, a bad day at work, or sometimes just for fun. Most of us go on living in our beautiful dreams, never thinking right next door a six-year-old is being used as punching bag for an alcoholic dad.

Children that grow up being abused like this end up with more than just bruises or cuts; their mental state is also altered in a way where they think it is alright to be abused or for people to take advantage of them. And for many kids they start thinking life just isn't worth living anymore, sometimes leading to the unspeakable. Others begin to act like their abusers and start bullying others or making them do things that they don't want to do. When they do this they often end up leaving the same effect on that person as if they had been abused by their parents, usually starting the cycle again.

Children aren't the only ones that face abuse; many adults of both genders can be abused by someone close to them like their boyfriend, husband, and sometimes their own children. According to <theline.org>, last year more than half of abuse victims were men who let women in their life abuse them. Not only do people find this hard to believe, but many think of the victim as a joke, and when friends of a victim or random people that know him hear about it, they will make fun of him because they think he is a failure of man. Of victims who deal with this, at least one out of 10 men will commit suicide.

For all these scenarios, just one out of 15 victims will report it to someone close like a friend, peer, teacher, or the police. Meanwhile the others are too afraid to tell anyone because of the fear of making their abuser angry. This was the case for an old friend of mine at a previous school we went to together and for the two years I knew him, he was a bully, but at the same time he was my friend. He often came to class with these distinct bruises all over his body and occasionally a black eye. He would always say that he fell or hit his head at the playground. The teachers knew better of course, but every time they would ask if his parents did it he would always decline. And that was the case even after I moved here to Sheridan; as far I know they still haven't figured out or even questioned his parents.

I hate seeing someone suffer like this and not being able to do anything because fear has such a deep hold on him. If you know someone or you yourself are going through this, reach out to someone who can help. There are so many people just waiting to help because no one should have to go through this alone, especially our younger generations. Everyone deserves the right to grow old, happy and healthy. If you would like to know more about abuse please visit a safe zone, a pastor, a trusted family member, or your school counselor. You can also access the Childhelp National Child Abuse Hotline online at <childhelp.org/hotline> or by calling 1-800-422-4453 or the National Domestic Abuse Hotline at <theline.org>.

They say that everyone has a story. A few years ago before tremors made it impossible for my Mother to write, she wrote a book, in her handwriting about her and my Dad and their story. It is fascinating. What a gift and legacy she has for our family.

Recently I started my book. It has been a dream of mine for many years. Not sure who will ever read it but I am enjoying looking back to where I have been over the soon to be sixty years of my life. You should know me quite well after reading my thoughts the past eight years and many of those thoughts will be included in my book.

I think some of my favorite chapters have yet to be lived. I even have a leading man in my life. My fingertips can't wait to see what is going to happen and then tell the story. Stay tuned...

By TAMAR KNOCHEL

Recently I got a job at Sheridan Middle School as Special Ed Instructional Assistant and I wasn't prepared for the amount of teenaged pain I would see around me. And I definitely wasn't prepared for how I would feel about it - I know I'm "home". I'm exactly where I was made to be. While I was at Purdue getting my teaching degree I never dreamed of working with middle schoolers, let alone with the special education kids, and now I can't imagine not working with them. These kids need someone in their life to believe in their abilities when many of the people around them have merely focused on their disabilities.

Why do we do that?

I don't know about you, but that has been a huge part of my own life as well! I've spent waaaay too much time focusing on the things that I can't do instead of concentrating on the things that I CAN. I mean, is that not what God does for us every day? Isn't His the voice that tells us "all things are possible for those who believe"? Why don't we spend more time and energy focusing on what He says rather than what the Whisperers say? You know, the ones that sit on our shoulder and whisper those horrible things that drag us down in the mud and make us spill tears of guilt and shame and regret. All the while we've got the Son of God hanging on a cross literally screaming out His love to His last breath! "IT IS FINISHED!!!!" (John 19:30)

Satan's power is FINISHED! He has NO power over us (John 14:30)! When Adam sinned, his sin affected us all. But the power of Adam's sin is nothing compared to the power of Jesus' love on the cross. The power of our own sins is nothing compared to the power of Jesus' resurrection, His redemption, His love for us. There is NOTHING in all of creation that can separate us from the love of our Savior (Romans 8:38-39).

Nothing.

Your sin is not powerful enough to make God stop loving you.

Did you hear me?

YOU are not powerful enough in your sinful ways; no matter how sinful they are, to make Jesus stop loving you, or caring about you, or even blessing you. He is God. God is love*. And Love is patient and kind. It doesn't act improperly and it is not selfish. God's love for you can not be provoked to discontinue loving you when you are not kind or when you act improperly or when you're selfish. No matter what you do, He will continue to love you in every possible way, shape and form that love takes!

God is love and according to 1 Corinthians 13:5 love keeps no record of wrongs! In Psalm 103:12 God has PROMISED that as far as the east is from the west that's how far you have been separated from your sins and iniquities. Did you know that if you begin walking west, no matter how far west you go, you will never find yourself suddenly walking east. There is NO POINT on the Earth where the east and the west meet. Nowhere. Your sin has been removed from you as far as the east is from the west, period.

In the battle between good and evil, love and fear; LOVE CONQUERS ALL. It's never been about what you can't do, it's always been about what He did.

Crist, Warner each score 20...

Fast start propels Huskies over ‘Rocks

Hamilton Heights got off to a fast start in its county rivalry game with Westfield on Saturday, and that carried the Huskies through to a 75-58 win over the Shamrocks at the Husky Dome.

Heights led 18-6 after the first quarter, and maintained that advantage at the half, leading 32-20. The Huskies added another 19 points in the third, then both teams scored 24 points in the fourth period.

Each team was led by a player that scored 20 points. Hunter Crist poured in 20 for Heights with a great shooting performance: 6-of-8 from the field, 9-of-10 from the free-throw line. Jadon White added 14 points. Grant Weatherford earned a double-double of 18 points and 10 rebounds, plus five assists.

Charlie Warner reached 20 points for Westfield, this included three 3-pointers. Sawyer Olsen added 15 points.

Westfield's Spencer Tebbe (22) battles up the court against Heights' Noah Whyde (10).

Sheridan blasts Pioneers

Sheridan jumped on North Miami early, leading 16-8 after one quarter, and continued the pace while rolling to a 64-37 victory Saturday evening at Hobbs Memorial Hall.

Coach Chris Schrank's Blackhawks led 26-18 at halftime and hen put away the visiting Pioneers with a 20-7 run in the third quarter.

Sheridan had a good shooting night, hitting 24-of-49 shots overall and canning 6-of-12 attempts from 3-point range.

Chris Roberts led Sheridan's scoring with 16 points. He hit 3-of-3 boomers and Roberts also led Sheridan on the boards with nine rebounds.

Also scoring in double figures for the hosts were Brock Kitchel with 15 points and Jake Chesney with 11.

Kitchel collected seven rebounds.

In winning, Sheridan broke a four-game losing streak and moved its record to 5-11 on the year.

Millers lose in overtime

John Kiser (42) scored 22 points for Noblesville in its Saturday game with Mount Vernon at The Mill.

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

It was a strange Saturday night in The Mill. Strange, yes, even in the way Noblesville dropped a 48-47 overtime decision to Mt. Vernon.

Even stranger than that.

Things were pretty normal in the first half. Noblesville led 13-6 after one quarter and trailed 22-21.

The third quarter is when the night got a little weird.

Noblesville scored 12 points in the third quarter, all by John Kiser. The 6-5 Miller drilled 6-of-7 shots.

Kiser, in fact, scored 18 of Noblesville's 20 points in the second half. No other Miller scored in the half until Joey Brewer stuck in two free throws with 1:07 remaining to tie the game at 41-41.

Noblesville, on a rebound by Kiser following a missed Mt. Vernon shot, got the basketball for one last shot. Mt. Vernon coach Travis Daugherty had other ideas. With fouls to give, Mt. Vernon intentionally fouled the Millers three straight times, and Noblesville never really got a decent look at the bucket, sending the game to overtime.

Here's something else you might find a little odd. Daugherty was a pup of a kid when his father, Stan, once coached at Hamilton Southeastern.

Don't go away; there's more to this story.

In the overtime, Brewer again gave his team the lead, this time with 26 second left on a field goal from under.

With 5.1 seconds remaining, the Millers fouled sophomore guard Michael Ertel, who made both free throws for a 48-47 Mt. Vernon lead.

The Millers still had 5.1 seconds to score, right. Wrong.

With 1.2 seconds left, and still with another foul to give, Mt. Vernon again fouled the Millers. Noblesville got the ball in-bounds but never got off a shot.

"We wanted to hit Brewer and then lob the ball to Kiser under the bucket," Miller coach Brian McCauley talked about the last play of the game.

Didn't happen.

"Just like our game with Southeastern, the last play didn't lose the game for us," McCauley said. "We had other opportunities to win the game."

Kiser's final totals?

The big guy finished with 22 points, 20 of which came after intermission.

In a loss to Brownsburg on Friday, Kiser scored 20 points, 16 of which came in the second half.

"John was much more aggressive in the first half tonight," McCauley said. "He just missed some shots. He was attacking tonight, and we set some good screens for him."

The tough loss was Noblesville's third straight and sixth in the Millers last seven games. Noblesville now is 10-9 on the year.

"Obviously, we want to win," said McCauley. "But at this point in the season we're just trying to get better. That's what is important, getting better."

The schedule won't get any easier next week when on Saturday a very good Pike team will come to The Mill. Varsity game time, because of the girls sectional, is set for 3:30 p.m. It will be Noblesville's last home game of the year, followed by regular season ending road trips to Lawrence Central, Avon and Lebanon

Lady ‘Rocks get 8 straight

Westfield held Kokomo to 13 points through the first three quarters while completing destroying the Wildkats 55-28 Thursday evening at Kokomo.

The victory was Westfield's eighth straight as Coach Shane Sumpter's Lady Shamrocks ended the regular season with a 16-6 record.

Kokomo never had a chance as Westfield stormed to a 26-10 advantage going into halftime.

Three Shamrocks scored in double figures, led by Maddy Grennes with 15 points. Haliagh Reinoehl finished with 13 points and a double-double with 11 rebounds and Jalyn Foland added 10 points.

Anneise Drudge dished out five assists and blocked two shots.

Grennes completed a great double-double evening by collecting 12 rebounds. Allison VanDyke scored nine points and had seven rebounds

Another barn burner...

Guerin nips Lapel, 48-46

Guerin's Matt Godfrey (12) put 11 points on the board for the Golden Eagles last Friday against Lapel.

Just another typical Guerin Catholic-Lapel basketball game.

A barn burner.

This one, Friday evening, was held in the Eagles Nest and the host Golden Eagles came away with a 48-46 victory.

With two outstanding teams on the court and two great coaches on the bench, this battle was something to watch.

Guerin's Pete Smith came into the night with 336 victories. Lapel's Jimmie Howell visited Guerin Catholic carrying 535 wins

Smith said his Golden Eagles played "solid" for three quarters, but then Guerin had to hold on for the win.

The Eagles, after Lapel scored just six points in the second quarter, went to halftime with a 25-17 win. Guerin took a 39-30 advantage in the fourth quarter before Lapel went on a 16-9 run in the period.

The Golden Eagles grabbed their only lead on the first quarter, 12-11, on a Matt Holba put back before the buzzer.

Neither team set the nets on fire in the first half.

Matthew Godfrey scored five points in the second period, including the final basket of the half, to give Guerin a 25-17 lead entering the locker room.

In the second half, Lapel hit 12-of-18 shots and Guerin Catholic was 9-of-15.

Holba scored eight points in the third quarter as Guerin took a nine-point lead.

Kamron Herrington led the Lapel charge in the second half with two 3-pointers and another field goal.

Lapel had the ball and final shot to tie, but missed and Guerin was able to run out the clock for the win.

"We negated our solid play the first three quarters by poor communication on offense and some bad decisions," said Smith.

"Our bench play was a big positive, and we did a better job of rebounding than we have in our last several games. All in all, we did enough good things to get the win.

"After a tough night at Sccecina on Tuesday," Smith continued, "we bounced back and played better. I'm just disappointed we didn't finish the game strong."

Holba finished with a game-high 18 points and eight rebounds. Godfrey also was in double figures off the bench with 11 points.

Guerin's bench players outscored Lapel's bench 17-2.

Harrington was the Bulldogs' leading scorer with 17 points, while Triston Carpenter played strong inside and added 13 points and five rebounds.

County wrestlers advance to Semi-State

The Noblesville and Hamilton Heights wrestling teams both had one champion at Saturday's Pendleton Heights regional.

The Millers and Huskies also each qualified five wrestlers for next Saturday's New Castle semi-state. Guerin Catholic had a semi-state qualifier as well, as the Golden Eagles continue to build their tradition.

Noblesville's champ was senior Derek Noon, who had relatively easy day. He received a forfeit in his first round, which automatically gave him a ticket to the semi-state - win one match and you're in. After that, Noon won his semi-final with a 20-second pin, then took the championship bout with a 17-0 technical fall. Noon holds a 38-1 record.

Three Miller wrestlers placed second: Mateo Barrantes at 113, David Kitko at 132 and Stephen Kitko at 145. Matt Smith has third at 138.

Meanwhile, the Huskies David Bryant continued his run at 106 pounds with a regional championship. Bryant won his first round and championship matches by pin, with a semi-final major decision in between.

Riley White was the 138-pound runner-up, with Trezdon O'Neal (126), Clayton Cowan (145) and Isaac Ray (160) all placing third.

Guerin's J.T. Lazzara finished fourth at 132 pounds, ensuring him a place at semi-state.

At the North Montgomery regional, Westfield had four wrestlers qualify for the New Castle semi-state.

Westfield's Evan Eldred was the runner-up at 132 pounds, with Zachary Steele taking third at 126 and Nick Schaeffer getting third at 195. Reid Hutson was fourth at 113.

Millers, 'Rocks finish 2 and 3 at swim sectional

The Noblesville girls swim team finished second at it sectional Saturday.

The Millers had two state cut performances from two of its butterfly swimmers. Kate Holtkamp was fourth in a time of 57.34 and Alexa Akers placed fifth with 57.87, but both were comfortably under the state cut time. Two of Noblesville's relays were second: Alyssa Conley, Julie Kaess, Lydia Conner and Emily Christophersen in the 200 free relay and Conley, Kaess, Taylor Parrish and Christophersen in the 400 free relay.

And don't forget about diving. Dayana Popa finished second in that event, sending her on to the Fishers regional, which takes place Tuesday.

"They did well," said NHS coach Rich Wolfred of his team. The coach said that between Thursday's prelims and Saturday's finals, "everybody had a good swim somewhere in those two days."

The Shamrocks were third as a team, with Verbrugge getting cut times in the individual medley (2:07.25) and breaststroke (1:06.34). She placed fourth in both those events, and was part of Westfield's runner-up medley relay team, along with Molly Ruggles, Carly Ruggles and Zoe Williams.

Hamilton Heights' Brooke Schultz lit up the diving well with a new sectional record of 563.73 points. Schultz was a clear favorite for a regional crown at Fishers on Tuesday. As for the Heights swimmers, both the 200 and 400 free relays were sixth: Lauren Sears, Allison Osborne, Lucy Uhrick, and Claire Sloderbeck in the 200 and Sears, Osborne, Bethany Ireland and Sloderbeck in the 400 free relay.

Westfield placed third as a team, with Emily Verbrugge getting cut times in the individual medley and breaststroke. She placed fourth in both those events, and was part of Westfield's runner-up medley relay team, along with Molly Ruggles, Carly Ruggles and Zoe Williams.

Guerin Catholic scored 104 points at the sectional, a big increase from last year's 61. Guerin's best finish was fifth in the medley relay, which consisted of Baillie Pelletier, Brenna O'Boyle, Emma Cline and Emme Goetz. Pelletier was ninth in the 500 free (winner of the consolation heat), giving her the Golden Eagles' best individual race.

Heights Cultural Exchange Programs takes learning beyond the book

For 14 Costa Rican high school students (aged 16-18) their trip to America was a dream come true. The journey was long but the experience priceless. The group traveled by plane to New York City where they took in the sights and sounds of one the of country’s most notable cities. From there they flew to the windy city of Chicago for a day. They boarded a train to Lafayette, IN where they were met by a school bus to bring them to their final stop – northern Hamilton County where they would enjoy an incredible cross-cultural experience with Hamilton Heights High School students.

We are also looking at taking a group of Heights’ Spanish students to Costa Rica this year to experience firsthand the culture of their new friends.”

Shields credits the students and host families for their involvement in making the experience engaging and welcoming along with the whole school who supported the effort,” noted Shields, who said the program helps bring recognition, interaction, and interest in language study that can’t be experienced from a book. “It was a collaborative effort, from students extending the hand of friendship to our superintendent, Dr. Derek Arrowood, who joined the group for lunch the last day to hear the highlights of the visit. The students said the best part of the experience was making lifelong friends. The worst was not having more time.”

“The last two weeks (plus) have been both exhausting and exhilarating at the same time,” said Jane Shields, who has traveled abroad to Costa Rica, Mexico, and several countries in South America. In fact, she credits exchange experience in the 8th grade as being the inspiration for studying the Spanish culture and language. “On the first night when the Costa Rican students got off the bus and the host students ran up to them and gave them a big hug, I knew that all of the time that went into planning and organizing this program was going to be totally worth it. I give a lot of credit to our host students and families who bought into this experience 100% and also to Zulma and the Costa Rican students who came well prepared to embrace every moment of these two weeks.”

“I have seen the positive influence of this exchange program spread throughout the whole school,” added Shields. “We all had the opportunity to gain a deeper understanding of human values that unite all nations across the world. But, what really makes this cross-cultural experience so exceptional are the relationships that evolve into lifelong friendships. I have really enjoyed getting to know Zulma and I hope I have the opportunity to visit her school in Costa Rica in the near future.”

Nearly all municipal offices to see primaries

By FRED SWIFT

Politicians, election officials, and political junkies of Hamilton County have got to be asking what suddenly caused so many candidates to come out of the woodwork for this year's municipal election.

The 96 candidates who filed by Friday's noon deadline for the May 5 primary election means there will be a contest for nearly every municipal elective office at stake in the all-important Republican primary.

The field includes such well known personalities as former Noblesville mayor Mary Sue Rowland, running for city council; Westfield School Superintendent Mark Keen, seeking a city council seat at Westfield; former County Assessor Debbie Folkerts, candidate for city council in Noblesville and Wil Hampton, TV sportscaster running for city council in Noblesville.

All four of the county's incumbent mayors are running for re-election as well as most other incumbent officeholders. For Fishers Mayor Scott Fadness it's the second election in less than a year. He was elected the city's first mayor in November and took office January 1.

This is election year in all Indiana cities and towns, but nowhere is the primary more critical than in Hamilton County where any GOP primary winner is an overwhelming favorite, with Democrats usually not filling their general election ticket.

For the mayors, John Ditslear in Noblesville, Jim Brainard in Carmel, Andy Cook of Westfield and Fishers' Fadness, the vote in May will be something of a vote of confidence, testing whether the public is satisfied with their performances in their city's top job.

The record number of candidate filing brought one oddity. It is possible that Westfield's next city council could have three Smiths: Bob, Bobby and Tom. Fortunately, confusion should be avoided since each Smith is running in a separate district.

Voters within the boundaries of all municipalities except Arcadia will make their choices in the May 5 primary. Arcadia voters will choose candidates in town conventions this summer. Winners will advance to the November election with winners taking office January 1, 2016.
