Carmel and Fishers chambers of commerce to merge

Recognizing that commerce doesn't stop at municipal borders, the boards of directors for the Carmel and Fishers chambers of commerce have voted to merge. The new organization, formed to more efficiently promote the business interests of their members, will be called OneZone.

"Informal conversations about potential mergers have been taking place for decades, and last year the boards of the Carmel and Fishers chambers took those conversations to a higher level," said Dan LaReau, the St. Vincent Carmel Hospital executive director as chair-elect of the Fishers Chamber of Commerce.

OneZone's 25-member board will include the entirety of both current boards. Mo Merhoff, Carmel Chamber president, will serve as OneZone president, and Dan Canan, Fishers Chamber president and CEO, will serve as OneZone executive vice president.

Members of the current Carmel and Fishers chambers are expected to ratify the of operations and information who will serve as OneZone's inaugural board chair.

Ultimately, the boards agreed that a unified approach to business promotion and advocacy makes sense as regional approaches gain momentum.

"As organizations that focus on the economic success of our members, we recognized that we can increase member opportunities through a combined effort," said LaReau, who represents St. Vincent's Fishers operations and who served last year

Folkerts withdraws from Council race

By FRED SWIFT

One of the candidates for Noblesville City Council has withdrawn from the crowded field of 10 candidates.

Debbie Folkerts, former County Assessor, Monday, apparently feeling the large number of candidates reduced her chances of success, said she was dropping out.

Three will be elected in November. Of the nine candidates remaining, seven are Republicans and two are Democrats. Republican Council incumbents Brian Ayers, Mark Boice and Jeff Zeckel are seeking re-election. Four other Republicans, Ray Ade, Mary Sue Rowland, Dave Johnson and Patrick Berghoff are seeking nomination in the May 3 primary.

Overall, it's a record field of hopefuls for the new council which will have nine members, five from districts and the three at-large. The total number reached 22 in the GOP primary before Folkerts withdrew, plus the two Democrats.

Part of the reason for the large number is some internal competition between candidates generally favorable to the administration of Mayor John Ditslear and others a favoring change on the council. It is difficult to label the candidates on the two sides, with several claiming neutrality.

It's a similar situation in Carmel where there are approximately equal numbers of council candidates who support Mayor Jim Brainard and those who often oppose his policies.

Noblesville developers are proposing more neighborhoods with smaller one-story homes and minimal yards. These proposals are taking into consideration the change in lifestyles brought about by the retirements of the baby boom generation.

New subdivisions aimed at seniors

By PETE SMITH

It has been four years since the first members of the baby boom generation began retiring, and the change in lifestyles is creating a demand for a new of type of housing.

Noblesville developers have taken notice and put forth proposals to build neighborhoods with smaller one-story homes with minimal yards and landscaping to accommodate the needs of people who don't want to spend all of their time or fixed-incomes on maintaining an expensive house.

It's a trend that Noblesville Planning Director Christy Langley said will only continue in the coming years. But decisions that city leaders make today will likely shape how that housing looks and functions with surrounding neighborhoods.

The city council weighed in Tuesday night when it approved two "empty nester" communities.

The first development will be south of Guerin Catholic High School and northeast of the intersection of 146th Street and Gray Road.

Holston Hills will bring 127 new homes to a 58 acre site. The neighborhood would feature minimal community improvements and be marketed toward empty nesters.

board's approval of the merger on Feb. 20 between 7:30 a.m. and 9 a.m. at The Mansion at Oak Hill, 5801 E. 116th St., Carmel and at FORUM Conference Center, 11313 USA Parkway, Fishers. Members will receive more information and a proxy by mail, giving them the option to vote early or by proxy.

"Some members have been asking for years when we were going to merge," said Canan. "Businesses don't pay attention to local borders when they're looking for employees, clients, vendors or customers, and neither should we."

In the past, some businesses paid to be members of both chambers. The merger will allow all members to enjoy the benefits of both organizations while only joining one.

Even the new name reflects this vision of unity. "We chose the name OneZone because it describes what we see for the future: multiple communities, but one place to do business," Merhoff said. "We will be a stronger voice, a significant presence and a business advocate in an ever-changing workplace."

Annual membership dues will remain the same.

"OneZone makes sense for a variety of reasons," said Tanya Foster, a OneZone board member and owner of Kiss Kiss Bang Bang, a salon with locations in Fishers and Carmel. "The merger means that small business members have the opportunity to reach larger audiences for the same investment of time and money."

Matt Frey, a OneZone board member and owner of Bub's Burgers & Ice Cream in Carmel, Zionsville and Bloomington, added, "This is all about giving the business community the kind of support, advocacy and service it needs to continue to grow."

Collaborative efforts among Hamilton County chambers have been taking place for more than a decade, with such events as the all-county annual luncheon and all-county women in business luncheon. In addition, the county's six chambers have combined their legislative efforts for six years with the Hamilton County Business Issues Committee, which focuses on business-friendly legislation at the county and state level.

"We're doing this from a position of strength," said LaReau. "Both organizations are financially solid and membership is growing at a time when many chambers around the country are losing members." Members range from large companies, hospitals and banks to small businesses such as retail shops, hair salons and restaurants and everything in between. OneZone's combined membership will be approximately 1,200.

Incumbents Sue Finkam, Ron Carter and Kevin Rider have been reliable supporters for the mayor while Rick Sharp, Eric Seidensticker, Carol Schleif and Luci Snyder have often opposed Brainard on hot button issues.

Challengers are John Acceturro opposing Finkam, Ron Houck opposing Carter and Rider for an at-large seat, Bruce Kimball vs. Seidensticker, Kenneth Griffin, op-

With no Democrats having filed in Carmel and only two in Noblesville the resulting contests between two factions within the GOP presents voters with the closest thing they are likely to see to a two-party system at the council level this year.

County Sheriff's Office, State Police respond to welfare check in Westfield

The Hamilton County Sheriff's Office and Indiana State Police responded to a welfare check in the 3100 block of West 186th Street in Westfield shortly before 6:30 a.m. Tuesday morning.

The initial call by a third party reported a female not being allowed to leave a home where several people were staying. Based on third party information that firearms and drugs were possibly involved, the Indiana State Police Special Response Team was deployed to the area to assist deputies. Upon approach to the residence, officers peacefully made contact with the resident of the home who then allowed them to check the house. No one other than the resident was found at the home and contact was later made with the female subject who was found to be safe at another location. No injuries were reported during the incident.

Hamilton County detectives are continuing to investigate the initial call to determine the circumstances surrounding the welfare check. No arrests were made during the welfare check and the safety of everyone involved was verified.

together for the first time three separate areas of focus: in Manufacturing, Automotive and Construction. More than 70 local partners have come forward to support the project.

"Indiana's Regional Works Councils are leading the charge when it comes to ensuring our young people are on a pathway to success in the workforce or in post-secondary studies," said Governor Pence. "Members of the Councils have been working with industry partners, high school counselors, teachers, parents, and students to bolster CTE opportunities, align and grow critical sector partnerships, and collaborate on curriculum improvements and design, and I applaud their efforts."

The grants, the second round provided by the Indiana General Assembly, are designed to target new learning opportunities at the regional level, with collaborations between local business and education partners. Driven by the Indiana Regional Works Councils, which were unanimously created by the General Assembly in 2013, the grants provide meaningful work-to-learn opportunities in combination with students earning dual credits and industry certifications in key regional employment sectors. The grants require a 3:1 public to private dollar match in funding and/or services.

The Innovative Curriculum grants support key sectors of Indiana's state and regional economies, including: Agriculture, Advanced manufacturing, Energy, Automotive, Construction, Precision Machining, Robotics and Welding.

Pence named the first round of winners last July, selecting 18 projects for more than $3 million in funding. Between two rounds of funding, more than 2,500 students are being served, and the vast majority of students are getting dual credit to post-secondary study and/or industry recognized credentials in demand by area employers. More than 150 Indiana employers have taken up this cause and have formally committed to high school CTE by donating funds, purchasing equipment, committing to men-

State Police to film at Sheridan High School

Wednesday, February 11th, Sheridan High School will host the Indiana State Police in a partnership to film a school safety video. The video will be added to the nationally recognized program "Unarmed Response to an Active Shooter" developed by the Indiana State Police. The filming will take place from 2:00 PM until 5:00 PM. Residents should not be alarmed by the increased amounts of police presence at the high school Wednesday afternoon.

The purpose of this program is to provide viable options for teachers, administrators and school staff in the event of a violent encounter in a school. During the past two years

ISP has presented this program to over 75 local schools and more than 200 schools statewide. The program is currently undergoing an update which will include video scenarios from Sheridan High School. The video will demonstrate possible options for a violent encounter, and the importance of developing and utilizing an effective response plan for schools. Although originally developed for schools, this program has been expanded to provide valuable insight for churches, large office buildings and business corporations.

Dr. Dave Mundy, Superintendent of Sheridan Schools said, "this is a fantastic opportunity for our schools." He also stated, "Besides just the insight we are getting from the State Police on how to enhance our safety procedures, we are also growing our relationship with the State Police Department. We are fortunate to be chosen for this project and we have tried to assist in any manner we can"

The school will be closed to the public during this process, please report to the main office at the High School if you need to enter. The media is invited to attend, filming will begin around 2:30 PM and will take approximately 2-3 hours.

SENIORS

The second development will be located south of Sagamore Golf Club on the east side of Union Chapel Road.

Chapel Villas calls for 56 new homes on 14.5 acres north of Greenfield Avenue.

Neither project will be age-restricted, Langley said, but both will market their home to older home-buyers.

Mayor John Ditslear said he is a perfect example of the demographic that developers are targeting, because his youngest is now a sophomore in college.

“I think the need is even increasing (for this type of housing),” he said. “I think it’s important that we have choices for people.”

But a third project that was introduced for the first time on Tuesday—The Courtyards of Hazel Dell—will face a much steeper path to approval.

The difference between the projects is not so much one of architecture, building materials, height, or even location. The differentiating factor is density.

The developers of The Courtyards of Hazel Dell propose to build the new community of 29 single-story condominium houses priced between $275,000 and $400,000 with almost no lawn or space between buildings on just 8.8 acres of land on the northeast corner of Hazel Dell Parkway and 161st Street.

The proposed site is currently a farm field, and some neighbors who spoke at the meeting said they didn’t necessarily want to see the city council rezone a piece of property with the lowest density rating all the way to the city’s highest rating.

Neighbor Linda Coin said the density was so great that she didn’t know how people could even visit.

“Where are people going to park?” she questioned, noting the lack of street parking for visitors.

And neighbors aren’t the only one taking a negative view. The city’s plan commission issued an unfavorable recommendation for the project with an 8-2 vote.

Artistic rendering submitted

This rendering is symbolic of the type of home that developers are proposing for a potential new subdivision called The Courtyards of Hazel Dell which would feature dense “empty nester” housing on the northeast corner of Hazel Dell Parkway and 161st Street.

The earliest the city council could decide the project’s fate would be the next meeting on Feb. 24. But its fortune’s would likely need to dramatically improve before then.

Councilor Jeff Zeckel questioned whether the project’s buffer would shield it from the noise pollution from Hazel Dell, where 15,000 vehicles pass by daily.

And City Council President Rick Taylor said he’s against the project.

“It doesn’t fit the area,” he said. “It’s just too high density.”

Ditslear said he had not formed an opinion on The Courtyards of Hazel Dell, but noted that future discussions on density were likely to be project-specific.

Noblesville's Becca Bergman (11) hit two big 3-pointers in the fourth quarter for the Millers, which helped give Noblesville momentum to carry it past Carmel 60-55 in the first round of the Hamilton Southeastern sectional.

Becca-led Lady Millers....

Fight off Carmel, 60-55

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor
Injured and missing last season when a good Noblesville team was one and done in the sectional, Becca Bergman was very much around last evening as the Millers fought off an upset-minded Carmel team to knock off the Lady Greyhounds, 60-55, in the opening game of a loaded girls basketball sectional at Hamilton Southeastern.

It was the only game of the opening session and Noblesville and Carmel put on some kind of show for the opening night audience.

Bergman, the 5-4 senior guard, played huge down the stretch as favored Noblesville fought from behind and moved to 20-3 on the year.

Noblesville will advance to play North Central in the first semi-final game on Friday at 6 p.m. NC drew a first round bye. In a regular season game, North Central led Noblesville for three quarters before NHS blasted to a 17-point win.

The sectional will continue tonight at Southeastern with defending champion Fishers playing Zionsville at 6 p.m. and Westfield and Southeastern going head to head in the nightcap.

Carmel led by as many as nine points early in the game Tuesday evening. Noblesville grabbed the lead on a shot by freshman Emily Kiser with 2:17 left in the third period, giving Coach Donna Keck's Millers a 38-37 lead at the time.

After that it became the "Becca Show." She hit a key 3-pointer for a 41-38 lead and in the fourth quarter. She canned another boomer and followed with two free throws to give Noblesville its biggest lead of the night at 50-43.

"Becca played great," Keck said. "She played like you expect a senior to play in a game like this."

Coach Tod Windlan's Lady Greyhounds came out of the gates smoking. Led by a six-point quarter from freshman Amy Dilk, Carmel finished the period with a 16-8 advantage.

Emily Kmec hit a trio of 3-pointers and scored 13 points in the second period to sail Carmel to a 33-27 halftime advantage.

"I thought we started to wear them down a little late in the second quarter," Keck said. "Carmel is a very good team."

Noblesville started to gain control by outscoring Carmel 16-7 in the third quarter.

With Bergman doing damage with her outside shooting, Katelyn O'Reilly and Alexis Shannon started to power away from underneath. The two NHS juniors came on strong. O'Reilly finished with 18 points and 14 rebounds. Shannon scored 14 points, Erin Wood, the 6-2 senior center, pulled 11 rebounds.

A key to Noblesville's victory was rebounding. The Millers finished with 46 and Carmel had 31 boards.

Kmec, a 6-1 junior forward, had a sensational game for Carmel, scoring 16 points and grabbing 10 rebounds.

Also in double figures for the Greyhounds, with 13 points each were, Amanda Shaw and Abby Abel and Amy Dilk with 10 points.

Abel came off the bench to can 3-of-3 shots from 3-point territory and she also hit a 2-pointer for the Greyhounds in the second half.

Windlan said he was proud of his first Carmel team, which finished with a 17-8 record.

"I am proud of the way the Ladies played with class and represented Carmel High School all season," said the Carmel coach. "They played hard and worked hard all season. They came a long way from last season, and we look forward to next year."

Golden Eagles win opener over Brebeuf

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

One lesson of basketball is that a team should never be afraid to make adjustments.

Yount

The Guerín Catholic girls basketball team tried a new offense in its first-round sectional game with Brebeuf Jesuit at the Braves gym on Tuesday, but found itself down 9-2 in the first quarter. The Golden Eagles went back to their old offense, and after that things went much better: A great third quarter sent Guerín to a 50-42 victory over Brebeuf.

The Golden Eagles will play Herron at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the semi-finals of Class 3A Sectional 26. Bishop Chatard and Marshall will play the first semi-final at 6 p.m.

"We tried to put in a flex offense over the last couple of weeks, and the kids just weren't comfortable with it," said GC coach Scott Miller. The Golden Eagles decided to give it a try against the Braves, who play man-to-man defense, and Miller said they thought they could get screens and open shots - but it wasn't working out, and the switch was made during a time-out.

"We were down 9-2, and our kids just said 'Not working, Coach,'" said Miller. "'We got to go back to what we do best.' And so we switched back to our normal offenses, and I think that put our kids in a little bit more of a comfort zone and allowed us to get back in the game."

The time-out (taken by Brebeuf) happened with 1:39 left in the first quarter. Following that, the Golden Eagles scored nine straight points, with their run going into the second quarter.

Erin Fuller and Annemarie Augustinovicz made baskets to bring GC within 9-6 at the end of the first period. Then, Sarah Yount began the second quarter with a 3-pointer to tie the game, and later hit a jump shot to give Guerín the lead.

Another Yount '3' pushed the Golden Eagles up 18-11 with around 3:30 left in the first half, before Brebeuf made a sudden 8-0 run to take the lead. Kristy Thiem's jumper got Guerín ahead 20-19, but the Braves scored after that and went into halftime with a 21-20 lead.

A free throw moved Brebeuf ahead 22-20, but GC's Tori Sullivan hit a 3-pointer to answer that and give the Golden Eagles a 23-22 lead. It was the technical game winner - Guerín Catholic would never trail again. But even bigger was that the Braves' lone foul shot would be their only point of the third period.

"And being able to shut them down in the third quarter gave us a chance to get on a little bit of a run, get a lead," said Miller. "And that gap that we were able to build at the end of the third quarter, I think was the difference."

Meanwhile, Guerín scored 12 points. Grace Demas got a big basket off a steal to give GC a 26-22 lead, then Augustinovicz hit a buzzer-beating putback, which made the score 32-22 after three quarters.

Brebeuf made a late push in the final minute, getting as close as 44-40 with 29.4 seconds left. But by then they had to foul, and the Golden Eagles were solid from the line. Yount made 6-of-6 free throws in the final 1:20, while Thiem hit two with 8.4 seconds left to put the game out of reach.

Yount scored 16 points, which included her two 3-pointers and a 6-of-7 performance from the free-throw line. Yount, Sullivan and Augustinovicz all grabbed five rebounds. Demas made five steals.

The Golden Eagles are now 9-16 for the season.

Schultz

The sophomore scored a new record of 566.20 points in her 11 dives. Schultz is now one of the favorites at Saturday's IHSAA State Finals at the IUPUI Natatorium.

Two other Hamilton County divers qualified for state by finishing in the top eight. Noblesville's Dayana Popa is returning to the state level by placing third with a score of 438.60 points. Madison Folta of Fishers grabbed the eighth spot, qualifying with 401.70 points.

Folta

Hamilton Southeastern's Sarah Allison also competed at the regional, placing 11th with 360.10 points.

State diving begins at 9 a.m. with the first round, in which 32 divers (eight from each of the four regionals) will compete. After five dives, the top 20 advance to the semi-finals to perform three more dives.

The top 16 after the semis will compete in the finals, diving three more times for a total of 11 dives. That takes place during the afternoon, as part of the state swim meet.

IHSAA issues penalties to Hammond, Griffith boys basketball teams

The respective boys basketball seasons for Hammond and Griffith high schools at all levels have been cancelled for the remainder of 2014-15 season including the state tournament, IHSAA Commissioner Bobby Cox announced today.

The decision among additional penalties comes as a result of incidents on Saturday night at Griffith High School during the varsity boys basketball game between the two schools. With Griffith leading 4-0 in the first quarter, a Hammond player shoved a Griffith player from behind as he was attempting to score causing him to impact the wall head-first. Within seconds, players and coaches from both teams left their benches and some spectators entered the playing floor pushing, shoving and some punches exchanged. The game was called by game officials with 5:32 remaining in the first quarter and Griffith police were called to help restore order at the scene.

The Indiana High School Athletic Association, Inc. maintains by-laws that speak to the administrative responsibilities of a member school during interscholastic competition as well as the conduct, character and discipline of students and coaches. Cox and Assistant Commissioners Phil Gardner and Sandra Walter conducted a meeting with administrators and coaches of both schools today to review specific details of this incident and to chart a course of correction to ensure future incidents of this nature are eliminated. Hammond High School representatives attending were Principal Mescha Lammy, Athletic Director Larry Moore, and Boys Basketball Coach Larry Moore, Jr. Griffith High School representatives attending were Principal Brian Orkis and Athletic Director and Boys Basketball Coach Gary Hayes.

It is with regret yet purpose the following sanctions have been issued to Hammond High School and Griffith High School:

- Both member schools have been suspended from participation in next month's IHSAA Boys Basketball State Tournament. Sectional 17, hosted by Hammond Gavit, shall be redesigned as a five-team tournament. Griffith and Hammond high schools shall not receive any sectional tournament revenue from this year's tournament.
- Remaining Regular Season Contests at all levels are cancelled. For all away varsity contests, both schools shall pay the forfeiture fee of $500.00 to each hosting school on their remaining schedules. Both member schools shall inform all remaining opponents at all levels of their forfeitures of these contests and copies of those written notices shall be forwarded to the IHSAA.
- The contest between the two schools of Saturday, February 7, 2015 shall stand as a double forfeit.
- Coach and Student Education Components - Each basketball coach (paid and voluntary) from both schools shall complete the Teaching and Modeling Behavior course available on the NFHSLearn.com website. Each varsity student-athlete from both schools shall complete the Sportsmanship course found on the NFHSLearn.com website. Both schools shall produce the respective certificates of completion for these courses to the Commissioner for inspection. It is also strongly encouraged that all remaining boys basketball players in both programs complete the Sportsmanship course found on the NFHSLearn.com website.
- Both school's boys basketball teams shall be placed on probation for the entire 2015-16 school year. This probation is a severe type of warning. It is official notice that serious violations have occurred, are a matter of record and future, similar incidents will not be tolerated. Failure to adhere to the stated by-laws of this corporation and/or playing rules provided by the IHSAA and the National Federation of State High School Associations (NFHS) may result in additional penalties including, but not limited to, an entire school suspension of membership from the Indiana High School Athletic Association, Inc.□
