County pumping natural gas

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor
The natural gas filling station is currently in full operation at the Hamilton County Correctional Facility. That was the message loud and clear Tuesday at the Hamilton County Commissioners meeting. Hamilton County first began utilizing this fueling station in December of 2014.

Heirbrandt

The county is currently applying for a 2015 Community Conservation Challenge Grant to up fit its fleet of vehicles. At Monday's meeting, the Commissioners approved Johnson-Melloh Solutions to apply for this $100,000 grant. Currently, Hamilton County has purchased 15 vehicles equipped with natural gas fuel capacity. "We are still waiting for some of the vehicles to arrive, and we plan to purchase an additional 15 vehicles by the end of the year," Commissioner Mark Heirbrandt told The Reporter.

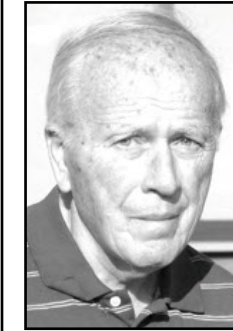

The cost the county currently spends is 55 cents per gallon. "We also benefit by purchasing our natural gas for our county owned buildings at a reduced cost because we buy this commodity on the open market," the Commissioner added. Along with the cost savings for gas, this fuel burns cleaner, so the life of the vehicle is extended as well as providing an environmental benefit which produces less harmful emissions. Also at the meeting, the Commissioners approved a construction management agreement with the firm Envoy to begin preservation improvements to the Old Historical Courthouse. The agreement involves exterior painting/weatherization improvements to the upper sections of the building. Other projects will involve improvements to the front entry of the Government Judicial Center; roof improvements at the 4H Building and at the jail complex, along with upgrades to elevators to meet current ADA requirements.

Local advertising is important to The Reporter

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor
Hamilton County Reporter Publisher

Jeff Jellison seldom tells me when we're about to have a new advertiser come on board. I've learned to live with that. Jeff has seldom told me much of anything since the day he became a teenager. You know what I mean.

So, like you, I was having my Diet Coke and reading The Hamilton County Reporter Sunday morning when a couple of new advertisers jumped out at me. One was Peggy Deakyne and the F.C. Tucker Company. Who, if you've lived in Hamilton County a couple of days, doesn't know the Deakyne family. I remember covering Pete Deakyne when he was a good golfer. Another new advertiser is attorney Will Webster. I've known the Webster family, well I guess I can say, forever. I love a line in Will's ad, "Hamilton County's Hometown Attorney." We don't have contests to name favorite advertisers, but if I was voting on the best slogan by an advertiser it will be Will's and Community Bank's slogan, "Your Hometown Bank." That's what The Reporter is all about, being local. Not just with local news and sports, but with local advertisers.

In fact, there would not be a Reporter without hometown advertising. I go back to the days when Dave Cox of Hare Chevrolet stepped up and said, "I'll join you. You can count on me." That was huge. Double huge. Chuck Crow at Community Bank was next in helping us get started. Another double huge. Then came Gary Reynolds in Fishers, Dave Shepherd in Carmel and Bryan Mills with Community Health. Gary Reynolds attended old Fishers High School with my wife, Mattijane. Dave Shepherd, along with brother Billy and Dad Bill, provided lots of great sports stories for me to write. I coached Bryan Mills in Babe Ruth Baseball. Bryan couldn't shoot a basketball like son Jake, but he threw a pretty nasty fast ball as a baseball pitcher.

In addition, members of the Prosecutor's Office commented on the quality of Crask's reports, his preparation for court proceedings, his willingness to work with the staff of the Prosecutor's office, and his skill in preparing warrants and other paperwork needed in the execution of his duties.

I was really happy when Randall and Roberts joined us, daily. Tommy Randall and Mark Roberts; great kids who now have followed in the footsteps of their fathers in the business world.

Riverview Health advertising in The Reporter is also very big for us. I support Riverview. With my body, they get a lot of business from me.

Don't you just love seeing Annie Cook at the top of page 1, daily it makes me feel good. If Annie's husband, Steve, wasn't such a respected attorney I would share with you some of experiences Steve and I, shall I say, enjoyed growing up together. Son Matt was one of the best catchers who ever played on my Charles Howard team.

Renner & Nixon Body Works, Adriene's Flowers, realtor Steve McKee and Hamilton County Television are daily advertisers. Those businesses simply spell "Hamilton County" from one end of the county to the other.

Sometimes our advertising hits close to home. Like Mike Hutson of Westfield Lighting. I never do a good job of figuring out family ties, but Mike is married to my wife's sister. So, I guess I can claim him as family.

You probably have noticed lots of small businesses advertising in The Reporter. Lots from the Sheridan area, where Jeff got started with this newspaper. Like Charlie's with Price Heating and Air Conditioning. Great family. Great business.

Other Sheridan merchants like Bragg Insurance, realtors Tina Snodgrass, Sheridan Eye Center and realtor Wanda Lyons all helped Jeff get started have been loyal to

The Reporter and Jeff has remained loyal to them. That's why two and a half years later they still advertise with the Reporter.

By now, you've probably gotten the point I'm trying to make. Hamilton County advertisers are important to us.

I hope they are important to you, too. When you support a Hamilton County business you'll get great products and unmatched service. Your money will remain in Hamilton County.

When you support The Reporter, your money will remain in Hamilton County. Our ownership, our employees live in Hamilton County. We pay our taxes to Hamilton County.

We, at The Reporter, do not sell out of county advertising. I would have a hard time selling advertising to, for example, a furniture company in Elwood and then looking long-time friend, and advertiser, Jim Godby in the eye. Same goes with the Cox sisters at Hare Chevrolet. We're not trying to sell cars in Tipton.

We consider ourselves as being a part of a family with you readers and you advertisers. That's what we're all about.

In my one last pitch of the day, we're looking for folks to join our family as advertising sales people. Jeff tries to handle a lot, including selling advertising. There are businesses out there, we know, who would like to advertise in The Reporter and we simply do not have the staff to go out and sell our product. It's hard finding sales people. There is a great opportunity for anyone who can sell and wants to get into the business. If you're that person, give Jeff a call at 408-5548 or me a call at 773-2769.

An update was provided concerning the Judicial Center expansion project. By law, Hamilton County can spend $12,000, but the Commissioners want to spend more.

A request to amend Indiana Code 6-1.1-20-35 has passed favorably through Committee with a 13-0 vote and then through the Senate favorably with a 44-0 vote. This will now go to the Ways & Means for approval as the next step in the process. If it passes favorable through Ways & Means, this will then go to the House for three separate readings. If successfully, the Governor then could sign the new bill into law.

Senator Luke Kenley has been instrumental throughout this process.

Also at Tuesday's meeting, an update was provided by Building & Grounds Supervisor Steve Woods regarding the energy-efficiency exterior lighting improvements at the Health Department, at the Jail Complex; at the Judicial Center and at the County Highway Department.

The improvements will provide an increase in area light levels and provide longer life LED technology to reduce energy and operations costs for Hamilton County.

Steve and Lori Schwartz, pictured with Playa Mazatlan operations manager Lance T. Vient, said that guests from Noblesville like the Schwartzes and the Dillingers have become like family to him. Vient is holding a copy of The Reporter.

Letter to the Editor

Schwartzes, Dillingers are like family at Playa Mazatlan

My name is Lance T. Vient. I am the operations manager for the Playa Mazatlan Beach Hotel, as well as, the fourth generation of family members to the owners that is operating the hotel.

Over the last several years the hotel has had the opportunity to host wonderful guests; four years ago when I came on board for this position I had the opportunity and honor to meet some of these guests, and in most cases have been able to make friends. Very few though have made me feel as honored as the Schwartz family (Steve, Lori and Eddie). After meeting them a few years back I feel like they are family to me, as well as, the Dillingers (Steve, Rene, Shelly and Tom).

After many experiences together we have built a genuine relationship and even have fun on a daily basis with banter amongst us. As I am sure you know, Steve Dillinger is quite the personality, not only for the State of Indiana, but as well for the hotel and hotel guests, he and Steve Schwartz, have provided me with unforgettable memories and experiences that I can only share with them while in Mazatlan, and particularly at the hotel.

Steve and Lori Schwartz mentioned that they would like to submit a picture while in Mazatlan as to "peeve" Dillinger, and I was the first to jump on the band wagon to accomplish this goal. There is not much I like more than keeping Steve Dillinger on his toes, as well, the group he recently brought down to us.

I feel honored that we can host such a repertoire of political personalities from your city and state, and feel blessed to be able to count on them as friends as they work with us, to spread the world about our little known paradise.

Best wishes and safe travels,

Strengthening key regional cities, suburbs would boost economic growth

Press Release

Indiana would boost economic growth by crafting policies to strengthen key regional cities and nearby suburban communities, attracting new businesses and households, says a new white paper from Ball State University.

"Regional Cities, Small Towns and Rural Places: Policy Issues for Indiana," a study by the university's Center for Business and Economic Research (CBER), explains how small towns can better connect to cities, how regional efforts play a role in growing the state's population and which policies may best help Indiana move forward.

Despite a decade of state policy reforms that have considerably brightened Indiana's prospects, prosperity is concentrated in only a few places, said CBER director Michael Hicks, who co-authored the study with David Terrell and Richard Heupel, members of the university's Building Better Communities division.

"Over the past decade, only a dozen of Indiana's counties have enjoyed population growth that is greater than the nation as a whole," Hicks said. "Fifty Indiana counties are in relative decline, seeing population and income grow more slowly than the nation, while 30 Hoosier counties are losing people, wealth and earnings."

"The rapidly growing places in Indiana are concentrated in and around metropolitan areas. Less than an hour's drive from some of Indiana's most steeply declining communities are some of the fastest and most dynamically growing places in the world. For example, Hamilton County, which still boasts numerous farms and small towns, is enjoying population and personal income growth that places it in the company of the most affluent counties in the Washington, D.C., area and New York."

To boost regional development, the study recommends:

Agencies making regionally specific investments to promote population and commercial growth should consider linkages across municipal and county boundaries. State government should prioritize integration with regions where business attraction and retention efforts are consolidated or have fully integrated services.

State agencies should merit funding and operational efforts to entities that have connected regionally.

Hicks said that by thinking regionally, Indiana could boost economic development by connecting larger communities with strong labor markets in surrounding rural and suburban areas, where the vast majority of population growth is occurring.

Hicks points out that Indiana consistently ranks high with respect to business climate measures and has climbed into the highest levels of performance over the past decade, but improvement has not translated into higher incomes and population growth for the state.

"The reason for this is that Indiana clearly has too few places that attract sufficient households to benefit from urban job growth and amenities, known as agglomeration," Hicks said. "These improvements will materially benefit the non-urban core, surrounding small towns, suburbs and rural places, which can offer amenities and residential options to households who work in larger urban centers. State policy must promote the development of government and private sector linkages within these regions, and all state efforts to improve quality of place and human capital should focus on regions that place significant resources towards these efforts."

I-69 meeting scheduled for Feb. 23

The Indiana Department of Transportation (INDOT) will host a public meeting regarding I-69 Section 6 (Martinsville to Indianapolis) on Monday, February 23, 2015 at Center Grove High School, 2717 S. Morgantown Rd. in Greenwood. Doors will open for both meetings at 5:30 p.m. with an open house session, followed by a formal presentation and public comment session in the high-school auditorium at 6:30 p.m.

The meeting will provide information about the scope of the second phase (Tier 2) of a two-part environmental-impact study that began in 1999 to determine a selected route for I-69 Section 6. The second phase, required by federal law, will study the route aligned with State Road 37, which was selected in 2004 during the first phase (Tier 1) of the environmental study. Due to the potential for significant impacts or changed conditions since 2004, this second phase may study a range of different routes.

The public may submit comments in advance of the meeting. Those comments can be submitted using the comment form at www.in.gov/indot/projects/i69/2463.htm, or by contacting I-69 Section 6 directly at 317-881-6408 or section6pm@indot.in.gov.

Special accommodations will be made for individuals needing auxiliary aids or services of interpreters, signers, readers, or large print. Anyone with such needs should contact Rickie Clark, INDOT's office of public involvement, at 317-232-6601, or rclark@indot.in.gov.

Antiques Arms Show this weekend at 4-H Fairgrounds

By JEFF ROBERTS
There will be a call to arms this weekend - antique arms. The Conner Longrifles 32nd annual Antique Arms Show and Living History Trade Fair will take place Saturday and Sunday at the 4-H Fairgrounds Exhibition Center. The show will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Sunday.
Admission is $7 on Saturday and $5 on Sunday, with a two-day pass available for $10. Children under 12 and parking are free, with concessions available.
The Conner Longrifles 32nd annual Antique Arms Show and Living History Trade Fair is the largest indoor show of its kind in Indiana. An average of 170 vendors sell goods ranging from handmade blankets and period clothing to cutlery and firearms and the show includes historic artisan trades all from the period prior to 1899. This show can be enjoyed by young and old alike and is a great American history educational opportunity.
The Conner Longrifles started in 1960 and was connected to Conner Prairie. The initial purpose of the club was to provide militia drills, exercises, and reenactments in the personas of central-Indiana hog farmers of the period, including shooting competitions and demonstrations. During the time of their connection with Conner Prairie, an idea was brought forth that the club should have a Living History Antique Arms Show. This family-orientated club strives to educate future generations about the Longrifle and the importance role it plays in American history.

The club hosted a monthly shooting competition on the Conner Prairie grounds, but as urban sprawl began to close in on the Conner Prairie there were new safety concerns about firing live ammunition at that location. In 2000 the club separated from Conner Prairie and shot at other central Indiana muzzle loading clubs until 2010 when the Conner Longrifles found a shooting range outside of Noblesville to hold their monthly black powder shoots. They shoot the first Sunday of each month and start with a knife and tomahawk throw and a club meeting.
Members of the Conner Longrifles compete in the National Muzzle Loading Rifle Association's national shoot in Friendship, Ind., which occurs in the spring and fall each year with a variety of competitions.

Dillinger on the board...

Indianapolis International Airport named best in North America

People who travel through the Indianapolis International Airport (IND) year-round have helped the community's airport win recognition as the best airport in North America for the fourth year and IND is honored by their vote of support. Airports Council International (ACI) announced that IND has won top airport again, in 2014, as part of its prestigious annual Airport Service Quality (ASQ) awards for performance excellence. ACI also recognized IND as the best airport in North America in 2013, 2012 and 2010.

Hamilton County has an appointment on the Indianapolis Airport Authority, which runs the airport, in Steve Dillinger. Dillinger's appointment is because Indianapolis Metro Airport, a reliever for Indianapolis International, is located in Hamilton County.
"This award is quite an honor," said Dillinger.
The annual ACI ASQ Survey captures air travelers' appraisals of service at more than 300 airports worldwide. They vote on qualities such as the courteousness of airport staff, the comfort of waiting areas, cleanliness and general ambience. The ASQ Survey covers 34 key service areas and it is the industry's most comprehensive measure of customer service, based on the overall satisfaction of passengers' airport experience.

"At the Indianapolis International Airport, it is crucial that we focus on meeting and exceeding passenger expectations in every way and receiving this award for the fourth time only solidifies that we are doing just that," said Michael Wells, IAA board president. "I have to thank our dedicated employees and business partners for working tirelessly to help us reach this incredible honor."

"This award is a reflection of the people who work here. They are the heart of the Indianapolis International Airport," says IAA Executive Director Mario Rodriguez. "There may be larger terminals but the secret formula for IND is not the facility, not the bricks and mortar. It's Hoosiers, the Hoosier work ethic and Hoosier hospitality. We also have a great community of people in Central Indiana who fly in and out of our airport and they convey a kindness that travelers, worldwide, notice."

Noblesville keeps battling, but...

Millers fall in OT to Bears

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

After falling behind after the first quarter at Lawrence Central on Tuesday, Noblesville kept battling.

And the Millers kept getting closer - closer by two points in the second period, one point in the third, all the way back in the fourth. But the Bears wouldn't let Noblesville get the win, as LC outscored the Millers 16-7 in overtime and sent them to a 73-64 defeat.

"You got to be pleased with our guys' fight," said Noblesville coach Brian McCauley. "We didn't fold. We got it to overtime, and then they had a crucial period there where they scored and got a defensive stop and then scored, and we couldn't recover from that."

Just to get to the extra period, the Millers had to rally from a 10-point deficit with three minutes left in the game. McGwire Plumer was the catalyst, as he hit a free throw, then later scored a 3-point basket. In between, Joey Herron came in and scored on a layin. That made it a 6-0 run, getting the Millers back into it at 45-41.

Lawrence Central built its lead back up to seven a couple times, including 53-46 with 54.6 seconds remaining. The Millers outscored the Bears 11-4 after that. Plumer hit another '3,' then John Kiser's basket got Noblesville to within two, 56-54.

Lawrence Central's free throw made it 57-54 with 7.7 seconds left, just enough time for a game-tying 3-pointer. That assignment went to Jake Mills, and he delivered, draining a '3' with less than a couple seconds to spare.

It seemed that momentum was on the Millers' side, but LC put a stop to that quickly. The Bears outscored Noblesville 10-3 through the 1:18 mark of the extra period to take control.

Both teams combined for 51 points in the fourth quarter, which was close to what they had scored in the first three periods. Lawrence Central led 16-12 in the first quarter, coming back after the Millers scored the first five points. Mills hit his first of three 3-pointers, then John Kiser made a layin.

Star of the Game: McGwire Plumer came off the bench to score 10 points.
Noblesville's Record: Won 11, Lost 10.
Next Up: The Millers travel to Avon on Friday for a Hoosier Crossroads Conference game.

Noblesville led 20-18 late in the second quarter, with Kiser scoring six points in that period. The Bears scored the last four points of the half to lead 22-20 at halftime.

LC then led by as much as 28-22 in the third quarter, but a 3-pointer by Herron and a pair of layins by Joey Brewer got the Millers to within 30-29. The Bears answered with a layin, but Sean Wilson made a basket at the buzzer to cut Lawrence Central's lead to 32-31 after three quarters.

"I've always been pleased with how our guys are resilient, they're tough, they find ways to put themselves in a position to be right in the game," said McCauley.

"It was a frustrating game in the end, I think, because had we been a little bit sharper, controlled some of the things we can control, I think we could've found a way to get it done on the road."

Kiser scored 22 points, with Mills adding 14. Plumer scored 10. Kiser's nine boards led the rebounding, with Joey Herron grabbing five. Kiser, Wilson and David Cory each handed out four assists.

Not quite enough; a little too late...

Sheridan falls, 74-to-67

Star of the Game: Brock Kitchel hit three shots from 3-points range; scored 19 points and collected six rebounds for the Blackhawks.
Sheridan's Record: Won 5, Lost 14.
Next Up: Sheridan will play at Western Boone on Thursday.

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

Sheridan trailed a good (12-8) Covenant Christian team by 18 points early in the second quarter; sliced the margin to 10 points by halftime and got as close as three points in the fourth quarter before dropping a 74-67 shootout Tuesday evening at Larry Hobbs Memorial Gym.

"We were down by three and had the basketball and had a chance to win," said Sheridan coach Chris Schrank. "That's all we want, a chance to win."

Schrank said the comeback was a "sign of growth by his Blackhawks. We couldn't have done this earlier in the season.

"We played better tonight than we've played all season," the coach added.

Both teams shot the eyes out of the bucket. Sheridan was 27-of-46 overall for a 58 percent shooting night. That included a 6-of-12 performance from 3-point range.

Sheridan trailed 22-15 after one quarter and ten 44-34 at halftime.

A huge third quarter moved the Blackhawks to within four points, 54-50, before the period ended.

A pair of three-pointers and eight total points from Brock Kitchel and two field goals by Elliott Barker in the fourth quarter kept Sheridan in the game until the very end.

"We had just 15 turnovers tonight," Schrank told his team. "We've cut our average turnovers per game down to 14. That's a reason why we are playing better."

Sheridan's offense clicked behind the 1-2 punch of Kitchel and Jake Chesney. Kitchel finished with 19 points and a trio of 3-pointers. Chesney scored 17 points.

In a very strong balanced attack, Garrett Chesney notched a dozen points and Chris Roberts finished with nine.

Kitchel with six and Roberts with five led Sheridan on the boards.

Jake Chesney had a great floor game, adding five assists and picking up three steals.

Schrank told his team that it would have to turn around this game quickly. A game at Western Boone, scheduled for Saturday, has been moved up to Thursday because of Sheridan's girls playing Saturday in the Lapel Regional.

A pair of Holly free throws knotted the score at 36 with two minutes left in the third quarter and neither team scored again in the period. Hammer Strength Clinics return to NHS Saturday

One of the nation's most highly regarded Strength and Conditioning Clinics is coming back to Noblesville High School.

Hammer Strength Clinics 2015 will be hosted by NHS this Saturday, Feb. 21. The clinics provide coaches and Athletic Directors a day of learning and collaborating with some of the top Collegiate and Professional strength coaches in the country.

The Hammer Strength Clinic offers personal experiences for all attendees (one on one discussions, physical demonstrations, among other things) .This year, the clinics have already locked in the following top notch speakers from The Ohio State University, Indianapolis Colts, University of Nebraska, and Wisconsin.

Mickey Marotti
Assistant AD for Football Sports Performance, Ohio State

Mickey Marotti is in his third season as the assistant athletic director for football sports performance at Ohio State and his 28th season as a coach. He is the person Ohio State head coach Urban Meyer trusts in the critical area of strength and conditioning training and overseeing sports performance, and he is an individual Meyer has worked with or hired four times.

"There are times in the year when the strength staff has more contact with the team than the coaching staff," Meyer said, "and I have complete trust in Mickey Marotti's abilities to prepare our student-athletes to be the strongest, fastest and mentally toughest football players they can be."

Marotti, called a "master" of motivation and mental preparation by Meyer, first worked with Meyer when the two were graduate assistants at Ohio State, in 1987. Marotti earned a master's of arts degree in strength and conditioning from Ohio State before moving on to the University of West Virginia to be a strength assistant. He spent two years at WVU and graduated with a master's of science degree in sports medicine.

Boyd Epley
University of Nebraska

Initially hired by former Athletic Director Bob Devaney to start a strength and conditioning program at Nebraska in 1969, Epley served 35 years as NU's head strength coach helping the Huskers win 356 games in 35 years and five national championships. He then moved into an associate athletic director position to oversee the design and construction of the Tom and Nancy Osborne Athletic Complex and Hawks Championship Center. He retired from NU in 2006.

Nebraska became the first university to have a paid strength coach when Epley was given the title in 1969. In 1978, Epley founded the National Strength and Conditioning Association, serving as president and chairman of the board of directors for five years. The group honored Epley with its first National Strength Coach-of-the-Year Award in 1980, and in 1993 he was presented the NSCA's first-ever Lifetime Achievement Award. In 2009 the NSCA Board of Directors changed the name of the award to the Boyd Epley Award for Lifetime Achievement.

For eight years Epley served as director of coaching performance for the National Strength and Conditioning Association (NSCA) in Colorado Springs, the organization he founded in 1978. There he also secured sponsorships for the NSCA and helped Division I strength coaches gain accredited certification to meet an NCAA requirement.

Epley is the most decorated strength coach in history and for his national contribution in strength and conditioning, Epley was named a 2014 Lifetime Achievement Award winner by the President's Council on Fitness, Sports and Nutrition.

Roger Marandino
Indianapolis Colts

Roger Marandino enters his third season as the strength and conditioning coach of the Indianapolis Colts.

In 2012, Marandino installed a new strength and conditioning program, which helped assist the team to back-to-back 11-5 records and playoff berths, including the AFC South Division Title in 2013. Marandino, who holds 22 years of experience in the field, came to Indianapolis from the Philadelphia Eagles, where he served as the team's assistant strength and conditioning coach for the 2011 season.

From 1995-2011, Marandino served as the director of strength and conditioning for Brown University, which holds the third- largest athletic program in the country. He was responsible for developing and implementing all components of the school's classic Olympic-style program with an emphasis on proper training and technique.

The Lehigh University signee scored 38 points with 12 rebounds and two blocked shots as the Golden Eagles posted a 63-46 win over Heritage Christian. Holba's outburst, two points off the Guerin school record of 40 set by Jordan Rapp in 2010, included 15-of-21 field goals, 4-of-5 3-pointers and 4-of-6 free throws.

The 6-1 Line totaled 38 points with 13 rebounds and eight assists to spark Fairfield to a 71-54 victory over Fremont in its only game of the week. He converted 16-of-29 shots from the field, including three 3-pointers, and 3-of-5 free throws in helping the Falcons improve to 13-6 for the season.

The 5-9 Ervin delivered 30 points with four rebounds, four assists and two steals in leading Floyd Central past Evansville Harrison 65-51 in its only game of the week. The shifty guard repeatedly found a path to the basket, drawing multiple fouls and converting 17-of-19 free throws as the Highlanders moved their season record to 12-5.

Wolfe, a 5-9 guard, averaged 26.7 points and 4.7 rebounds in helping Bishop Luers (11-14) to a runner-up finish of Class 3A Sectional 22 at New Haven. Wolfe opened with 13 points, four rebounds and three assists in a 61-42 win over New Haven. She followed with 29 points, seven rebounds and three assists in an 82-73 decision over Angola. Wolfe then poured in 38 points with three rebounds and five steals, but it was not enough as the Knights fell 66-56 to Fort Wayne Concordia.

The 5-8 Shelton averaged 31.0 points over two games for Mt. Vernon (21-3). The University of Kentucky recruit scored 26 points in a hard-fought 45-43 victory over rival Greenfield-Central. She followed with 36 points, including five 3-pointers and 19 points in the fourth quarter, in a valiant comeback effort that fell short as the Marauders dropped a 69-63 decision to Richmond in Class 4A Sectional 9 at Mt. Vernon. Shelton previously was an IBCA Player of the Week on Dec. 15-20.

Young, a 6-0 wing, is a POW recipient for the fifth time this season after she averaged 32.3 points and 12.3 rebounds over three victories for Princeton (26-1) in Class 3A Sectional 32 at Mt.
