Carmel adds its vote...

It's now up to County Council

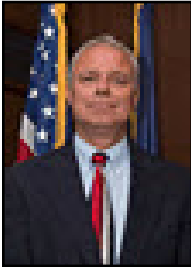

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

The final piece in the Hamilton County Commissioners' attempt to build an emergency training center appears to be in the hands of the Commissioners' own Hamilton County Council.

Earlier this week Carmel joined Noblesville, Fishers and Westfield in its support of the project. Those four cities approved a plan to provide $40,000 a year to support building the facility on land owned by Westfield and located on the west side of Noblesville.

The vote by the Carmel Common Council was, as it was in Noblesville, Westfield and Fishers, unanimous.

The vote by Carmel followed the appearance of two Hamilton County Councilmen, Rick McKinney and Brad

Beaver

Beaver, who expressed their concern about the County's commitment of $3 million to the project.

McKinney told The Hamilton County Reporter that he saw nothing unusual to have appeared at the Carmel meeting.

"The Commissioners have gone out to support their view. That's what Brad and I did at Carmel. I was disappointed that there was not much discussion before Carmel's voting," McKinney said.

"It's not that I don't support the building of a training center," Beaver said. "I just have questions. We're being asked to commit $3 million and I haven't seen anything on paper."

McKinney, too, is asking questions. "Who will own the land? Who will be in charge of running the center? The County has never funded a project like this on land it didn't own. Who do I write the check to?"

McKinney

Currently, the land is owned by the City of Westfield, purchased seven years ago from the Beaver family.

"Westfield bought the land near the river to drill water wells, which supply Westfield with its water," Beaver said.

All questions will be answered, said Commissioner Mark Heirbrandt, before the County Council is asked to vote on funding the $3 million.

"I think you'll see coming out of our Commissioners meeting on Monday a series of dates for us to hold workshops with the County Council," Heirbrandt told The Reporter. "We want to

Midland Trail construction going slowly

By FRED SWIFT

In recent months we've heard a lot about efforts to improve downtown Noblesville parking, a Federal Hill gateway to the city and planning for upgrading the Southwest side of town. But, the long-awaited Midland Trail hasn't be part of public conversation much lately.

With the city so interested in attractive and useful amenities, surely there is no more likely project than this proposed walking and biking trail. The popularity of the Monon Trail and the Potters Bridge Trail attest to the attraction of such linear parks or greenways.

Last year it appeared the Midland had been placed on the front burner. Studies had been conducted, grants sought and property ownership established. This was progress on a project that has been under consideration for 20 years. So, now what?

There is still work to be done, mainly securing money from federal alternative transportation funds and various details. The money is coming, but federal bureaucracy moves slowly in giving back our tax money. So, we're looking at another year before construction.

What could have been a big hurdle was overcome when studies showed that the former railroad bridges over White River and Cicero Creek are adequate for the trail.

Meanwhile work is underway on a north-south trail to link Riverwalk at

Sheridan Schools receive Digital Learning Grant

By JEFF JELLISON

Sheridan Community Schools was recently awarded the Digital Learning Grant from the Indiana Department of Education. The District will use the $100,000 grant to expand its 1:1 Technology Initiative to middle school students.

According to the Indiana Department of Education, the Digital Learning Grant gives up to $100,000 to selected school districts that are either implementing a 1:1 plan or expanding a program already in place.

This year, between Jan. 16 and Feb. 6, the Indiana Department of Education received 88 applications for the grant. Nineteen school districts throughout Indiana were awarded the grant, according to the IDOE.

Lea Jessup, Director of Technology for Sheridan Community Schools stated, "IDOE accepted written applications in mid-January. After reviewing the applications, the IDOE selected 30 schools for round II, which involved traveling to the IDOE to make a pitch or presentation to the

ALICE arms Heights students with essential survival skills

Deputy Brad Osswald, a resource officer with Hamilton Heights School Corporation, explains to students that the primary objective of the ALICE training protocol is to be able to get students evacuated and not be sitting ducks hiding under desks. However, if escape is not possible and students and staff are barricaded behind closed doors to avoid the shooter, there are still steps to take to increase safety and survival.

As part of Hamilton Heights School Corporation's ongoing safety education and training initiative, the corporation has introduced ALICE to parents, students and staff. ALICE isn't a person but a safety protocol.

Providing a safe and secure learning environment for students has always been a priority at Hamilton Heights. The district continues to take leading role in school safety efforts with numerous practices, procedures and protocols to help ensure a safe learning environment. Beginning in the spring of 2014, the district began conducting meetings and training sessions for staff, students and parents on the ALICE safety protocol designed to enhance current lockdown procedures.

The U.S. Department of Education, U.S. Department of Homeland Security and other educational leadership and governmental agencies have recommended that school districts develop a protocol that provides options to students and staff when facing threat or harm from an aggressive intruder. ALICE best fit the requirements.

ALICE stands for Alert, Lockdown, Inform, Counter and Evacuate. ALICE em-grant committee. The pitch was limited to only 4 team members, although we had many involved in the process of developing the plan. Sheridan was represented by Cheri Hume, SCS Technology Integration Specialist; Dr. Jane Newblom, SHS-SMS Principal; Lynn Werckenthien, SHS-SMS Language Arts Teacher; and Sheridan Community Schools Board of Trustees member Todd Roberts.”

1:1 learning initiatives are designed to equip students with portable devices (e.g. laptops, netbooks, tablets or smartphones) for learning purposes. Educators state that when students in the classroom have a laptop, tablet, or handheld computer at their fingertips, a whole new world of instructional possibilities appears.

“Funds will be used to purchase Chromebook devices and cases for our SMS students, any type of software or hardware that might be needed for management, professional development and training for our staff, and miscellaneous costs to support communication and education of our eLearning initiative. Professional development includes training for teachers to utilize a learning management system, develop digital curriculum and applications to support digital teaching and learning,” said Jessup.

answer all their questions. We want the Council to take its time in understanding what is being proposed.

Dan Stevens (Director of Administration) will have lots of information to give.”

Dillinger

Heirbrandt said he expects that the workshop sessions will be open to the public and that dates and locations of the meetings will be announced once they are finalized.

Apparently, there will be no quick vote by the Council. Some had thought the training center would be on the agenda of the next County Council meeting, which is April 1.

“Anyone can place things on the agenda, and I’ve seen fast votes following the first reading,” said Beaver, who has served on the Council for 18 years.

Heirbrandt said no way will that happen. “The series of workshops will answer all questions,” said the Commissioner.

Beaver said that at this point the strong and united vote of Hamilton County’s four largest cities to support the project has not changed his mind.

“I can see where the cities would benefit from having a training center,” Beaver said. “But, they’re being asked to put up $40,000 and we’re being asked for $3 million.”

County Councilman Steve Schwartz, a strong supporter of the training center, said the workshops being planned by the County Commissioners should answer all the questions.

Heirbrandt

“It’s a no-brainer,” said Schwartz. “I support the training center 110 percent. This is Hamilton County so we should have the best of the best to train our people.”

There are different opinions on how the vote, if taken today, would come out. Some believe it’s a 3-3 vote with a seventh councilman undecided.

In a “big brass” meeting conducted by the County Commissioners and attended by judges, mayors, trustees and others throughout the county, Commissioner Steve Dillinger pointed out that cities in the county already are paying more for fire and police training than the dollar figure being asked for funding the training center.

Also at that meeting was Superior Court 1 Judge Steve Nation who said, “We first started talking about this in 1980. We didn’t have the land then. We do now.”

The gathering at the earlier meeting drew a crowd of government leaders, arguably, unmatched in Hamilton County history.

“Very impressive,” said Commissioner Christine Altman.

“Westfield has offered 96 acres for this project. The location is in the center of the county and is in the center of state,” she added.

Logan Street to the east terminus of the Midland south of Division Street.

The multi-use greenway as some like to call the Midland, would follow the right-of-way of the long-abandoned railroad from downtown Noblesville to the Monon Trail on the westside of Westfield. With this link to the Monon, bicyclists could get to Broad Ripple, Butler University or even downtown Indy.

Westfield is working on their section which begins at Gray Road and continues west. Some sections of this portion are now complete. The city of Noblesville has taken responsibility for the eastern portion from essentially the east bank of White River to Gray Road.

Seems like the project has taken a long time. But, another year should bring real action. You have to wonder if it couldn’t have been done sooner.

ALICE

powers staff to exercise options in the event of such a critical incident, based on real-time information gathered during the incident. This enhanced protocol does not dictate to staff or students how they should react, but merely provides options for actions in addition to just lockdown.

Deputy Brad Osswald, a school resource officer in the Hamilton Heights school district, recently shared information about the ALICE program currently being taught in Hamilton County Schools during a public forum at the Hamilton County 4-H Fairgrounds. As it has been designed, ALICE is broken up into five strategies: Alert: Notify as many people as possible within the danger zone that a potentially life threatening risk exists. Lockdown: Secure in place, and prepare to evacuate or counter, if needed. Inform: Continue to communicate the intruder’s location in real time. Counter: Interrupt the intruder and make it difficult or impossible to aim. Evacuate: Remove yourself from the danger zone when it is safe to do so.

Deputy Osswald felt it was important for parents, grandparents and the community in general to know that we have a plan in the school to help children survive in a violent event. “We feel that ALICE is the best program because it teaches options for preparedness as opposed to lock down and wait,” he explained. “It also enhances their ability to use their senses to find the power to survive. It’s a common sense approach that has been complimented with technological additions in the classroom and throughout the buildings to provide communication, interaction and direction in real time.”

Senior Ian Nicholson said exposure to the program has brought about discussion about active shooter situations at Heights. “We’ve discussed various scenarios about where we would go, how quickly we could get out of the building,” he said.

“It’s reassuring to know that Heights is taking steps to ensure increased safety at school,” added Joel Boser, also a senior. Seniors Kayla Majors and Kyle Fowler agreed adding that it’s good to know teachers are also thinking ahead of safe spots and being prepared for his type of situation.”

“The program provides a complete set of general recommendations that are tailored to each building and grade level,” continued Deputy Osswald. “Role play exercises, brainstorming for ideas, creating action plans for different scenarios with the premise of ‘doing something is better than doing nothing’ is this situation. It’s also provided a platform for discussion among students, faculty and staff.”

For example, Heights’ classrooms have been stocked with can goods and students have been encouraged to use these, books and any other item that could distract, stun or even disable the intruder until the police arrive. This knowledge helps give the students a sense of empowerment to protect themselves and will make them feel more secure in case an intruder enters the classroom. There are plans in the works to provide first aid and trauma kits in each classroom as well.

All Heights resource officers will be certified as ALICE trainers with ongoing training and certification for faculty and staff. Training, education and refresher exercises take place year round. ALICE is an integral part of the active shooter response training program that was created by the ALICE Training Institute, a company founded by a former police officer and former elementary school principal. Noblesville Professional Fire Fighters endorse Megan Wiles in 6th District race

Wiles

Megan Wiles, a candidate for the new 6th District for the Noblesville Common Council has received the endorsement of the Noblesville Professional Fire Fighters for the upcoming election on May 5th.

Tony Murray, President of the Hamilton County Fire Fighters Association stated, "Based upon our organization's observations, you are well qualified to hold the office you seek. Our association believes your constituency will be well served by having you in office."

"I am thrilled to have the support of the Noblesville Professional Fire Fighters Association. These men and women do amazing work, along with other first responders, and I am so grateful for their willingness to put their lives in danger, to help and serve others", said Megan Wiles. "As our community grows, we have an increased need for protection. I look forward to working with the Noblesville Fire Fighters to make sure that they are properly prepared to meet the needs of our community."

As Noblesville moves up to 2nd class city status, the Common Council grows from 7 members to 9 members, with a district and at-large representative being added to the Common Council. The new 6th District is located on the east side of Noblesville.

Megan Wiles grew up on the east side of Noblesville and graduated from Noblesville High School and Ball State University. She and her husband, Greg, and children purchased their property in 1998 on Union Chapel Road when they were surrounded by cornfields. She knows that growth will continue to come to Noblesville and wants to serve on the Common Council to make sure what is approved is fiscally responsible and appropriate for our community today and for years to come.

Main Street in Carmel to close Monday for reconstruction

The City of Carmel will begin working on reconstruction of Main Street, just east of the U.S. 31 interchange, beginning Monday, March 23. The $4.4 million project calls for expanding and reconstructing the roadway with new curbs and gutters, storm sewers and sidewalks. All utility lines will be buried. The roundabout at Old Meridian and Main Street will also be expanded to accommodate two lanes of traffic west of Old Meridian.

Main Street will be closed between Old Meridian and Pennsylvania Streets beginning Monday, March 23, until the project is completed, which is estimated as sometime in mid-July, weather permitting. E&B Paving is the primary contractor that will manage the construction.

Access to the Main Street bridge over U.S. 31 will remain open at Pennsylvania Street and serve as the primary detour for this project. Access to St. Vincent Carmel Hospital will be available at the entrance off the Roundabout at Old Meridian and Guilford Streets. Access to the Indiana Spine Group and St. Christopher Episcopal Church will be possible from Pennsylvania Way.

The Main Street reconstruction is a City of Carmel project funded mostly by state transportation funds. It is being done to meet a larger traffic demand brought about as a result of the new interchange at Main Street and U.S. 31. The funds come as part of a new program that allows the state to swap $1 in federal funds with 75 cents in state funds. The city's portion of the project cost will be roughly $1 million, funded through a combination of existing funds from the Engineering Department, Utilities and a portion from a previously issued road bond.

You can stay up to date on city projects by following the city on Facebook and Twitter.

Change of venue for Westfield Primary Candidate Forum

The venue of next week's Westfield Primary Candidate Forum has been changed.

The forum will take place at the Westfield Intermediate School, 326 W. Main St., Westfield. The time and date remain the same: 7 p.m., Thursday, March 26.

Opposed candidates for the following elected offices have been invited to participate: Mayor, and City Council.

Will serve as Crime Scene Investigator Supervisor...

Langland promoted to First Sergeant

On Monday, Indiana State Police Superintendent Douglas Carter promoted Sergeant Leonard Langland to the rank of First Sergeant to serve as the Crime Scene Investigator Field Support Supervisor-East Central Region. Langland was selected after competing in a stringent written and oral interview process.

Langland is a native of Washburn County, Wisconsin and a 1987 graduate of Spooner High School. He attended Columbia College and graduated with a Bachelor's degree in Criminal Justice in 1995.

F/Sgt. Langland is an Army veteran having joined as an Explosive Ordnance Specialist in 1987. He received the Bronze Star for his service in the Gulf War and attained the rank of sergeant prior to his honorable discharge in 1994.

Langland began his law enforcement career in 1996 upon graduation from the 54th Indiana State Police Academy. He was assigned to the Peru State Police Post and patrolled Miami County. In 1999, Langland transferred to the Pendleton State Police Post and patrolled Hamilton County. In 2007 Langland was promoted to Sergeant and attended the Indiana State Police Crime Scene Investigator (CSI) Training. Langland was assigned to the Pendleton State Police Post as the CSI.

In 2001, after serving two years as an Indiana State Police Explosive Ordnance Reconnaissance Officer, Langland was selected to attend the Redstone Arsenal Hazardous Devices School in Huntsville, Alabama. Upon graduation of the six week course he was assigned to the EOD central team and currently serves as an ISP Bomb Technician.

Langland primary duty as First Sergeant in the Field Support Supervisor role will be supervising the four evidence clerks and six Crime Scene Investigators in the East Central Region of the State of Indiana.

First Sergeant Langland resides with his wife and three children in Hamilton County.

Work Zone Awareness Week brings attention to safety

Governor Mike Pence is proclaiming March 23-27, 2015 as Work Zone Awareness Week in Indiana. Work Zone Awareness Week marks the ceremonial start to highway construction season and intends to draw awareness to motorist and worker safety.

More than $1.3 billion will be invested in construction projects to build and maintain Indiana's highways in 2015. As INDOT increases its focus on preservation, drivers will see more work on existing state highway roads and bridges. INDOT's goal is to maximize both the safety and mobility of motorists and workers while maintaining as much access as possible to businesses, residents and emergency services.

INDOT is dedicated to continuously improving work zone safety for workers and motorists. Last year, 11 people were killed and more than 600 people were injured in Indiana highway work zones. Most of these injuries and deaths are caused by rear-end collisions, following too closely or making improper lane changes.

Slow down and avoid distractions
Highway work zones leave no room for distractions and require attentive, cautious driving habits. Do not use cell phones while driving, especially in a work zone. Several studies show drivers using a phone are four times more likely to be in a crash. Other distractions, anything other than driving, can be just as dangerous.

Motorists face fines of up to $1000 for speeding, up to $5000 for driving recklessly or aggressively, and up to $10,000 and/or a prison sentence of up to eight years for injuring or killing a worker. These fines are used to fund additional Indiana State Police work zone patrols.

Pay attention to signs
Indiana State Police have 11 white pickup trucks patrolling in and around highway work zones across Indiana. The pickup trucks resemble typical vehicles normally seen in and around highway construction zones. Motorists are urged to comply with posted and reduced speed limits in construction zones to promote safety for the highway workers as well as the motoring public. Motorists that speed or drive recklessly may meet troopers driving the special pickup trucks or other police vehicles.

Know before you go
Motorists can learn about highway work zones and other traffic alerts at indot.carsprogram.org, 1-800-261-ROAD (7623) or 511 from a mobile phone. Information about projects and restrictions is also available at www.INDOT.IN.gov, by following INDOT on social media, and subscribing to receive INDOT email updates.

Carmel Utilities promoting EPA's "Fix a Leak Week"

Because minor water leaks account for more than one trillion gallons of water wasted each year in U.S. homes, Carmel Utilities is promoting "Fix a Leak Week," through Sunday. Fix a Leak Week is sponsored by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA's) WaterSense® program as an annual reminder to Americans to check household plumbing fixtures and irrigation systems for leaks.

Carmel Utilities has partnered with Home Depot to offer a free leak repair clinic. The clinic will cover how to repair leaks in toilets, shower valves, faucets and hose bibs. You can also learn how to repair leaks in your main domestic lines due to the harsh winter conditions. There will be multiple displays set up with different types of valves and products. This clinic is free and reservations are NOT required. Customers are asked to check in at the service desk the morning of the clinic.

Fix a Leak Repair Clinic

Carmel Home Depot

Carmel, 46032
To help consumers here in Carmel and across the country save water, Carmel Utilities is promoting ways to identify and repair dripping faucets, running toilets, and leaky showerheads. In most cases, fixture replacement parts pay for themselves quickly and can be installed by do-it-yourselfers, your favorite handy person, plumber, or WaterSense irrigation partner. Following are a few water-saving tips:

Reduce faucet leaks by checking faucet washers and gaskets for wear and, if necessary, replace the faucet with a WaterSense labeled model.

Leaky toilets are most often the result of a worn toilet flapper. Replacing the rubber flapper is a quick fix that could save a home with a constantly running toilet up to 200 gallons of water per day.

For a leaky garden hose, replace the nylon or rubber hose washer and ensure a tight connection to the spigot using pipe tape and a wrench.

Landscape irrigation systems should be checked each spring before use to make sure they are not damaged by frost or freezing.

Press Release

Ivy Tech Community College has increased its number of dual credit agreements and now has a direct relationship with 93 percent of Indiana's public high schools. This is up from 88 percent of schools in 2013-14.

Ivy Tech's dual credit program allows high school students to simultaneously earn both college credit at Ivy Tech and high school credit. Dual credit courses are free to students, saving parents even more on their child's college education.

The college has dual credit agreements with a total of 419 high schools and career centers, which is an increase from 388 schools in 2013-14. Dual credit plays an important role in strengthening the connection between high school and college, making the transition between sectors easier for students while providing high school students with a realistic understanding of college-level academic expectations.

"We are extremely pleased by the support we have received from Indiana's public school system," said Ivy Tech President Thomas J. Snyder. "The dual credit program is an integral part of preparing the state's high school students for the rigor of college course work and for the K-14 system, which is becoming the norm in the United States. The dramatic increase in dual credit opportunities demonstrates the commitment by school corporations and Ivy Tech to prepare students for the future."

The college has also experienced a 24 percent increase in the number of Core Transfer Library/Liberal Arts dual credit agreements between last year and this year, as well as a 112 percent increase over two years. The Core Transfer Library consists of courses that will transfer among all Indiana public college and university campuses.

In addition, there has been a 16 percent increase in the number of Career and Technical Education agreements since last year and a 25 percent increase over two years.

The ratio of Core Transfer Library/Liberal Arts to Career and Technical Education agreements has risen to 44 percent/56 percent. This compares to 42 percent/58 percent last year and up from 18 percent/82 percent just six years ago.

Ivy Tech uses dual credit to encourage greater participation in higher education and to help students overcome real or perceived obstacles to higher education.

The most common form of Ivy Tech dual credit involves courses taught in a high school, by a high school instructor, and offered during the regular school day. High school faculty who offer the dual credit course must meet credential requirements and participate in professional development provided by Ivy Tech. To reach a dual credit agreement for a course taught in a high school by a high school instructor, Ivy Tech works with the high school to establish that the high school class and the college class are equivalent, or if necessary, to suggest changes in order to qualify as a dual credit course. This process involves review of course content, lesson plans, textbooks, exams, assignments, facilities and equipment. Dual credit agreements are reviewed every year to promote collaboration and to ensure continuity of professional staff, course content, textbooks, and other key teaching and learning factors.

Ivy Tech enrolled 45,819 Indiana high school students in dual credit last year, saving Indiana students and their parents more than $29.8 million in tuition costs. This year's numbers are expected to be released this Spring.

Holba is “the man” for Eagles as...

Guerin battles Vincennes

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

With all the stats, team and individual, which will be looked at as Guerin Catholic faces Vincennes Lincoln Saturday in the southern Class 3A semi-state at Southport, here’s one to watch.

26-7.

That’s Guerin Catholic’s eight-year record of playing post-season basketball.

When Pete Smith’s Golden Eagles take the court, they’re dangerous. Guerin has been there, done that. Including winning a state championship three years ago.

No current member of the team knows that any better than senior Alex Mazanowski, the only Eagle still around from that 2011-2012 state championship team.

“Maz” didn’t play the past two seasons. Lately he has been bothered with his meniscus that he had surgery on last season. A valuable leader, Mazanowski Saturday will come off the bench.

Now, the man to watch for Guerin Catholic is a senior who wasn’t even at the school or in the community when Guerin Catholic won the state. Senior Matt Holba moved into town last season.

Holba certainly, without question, will be an Indiana All-Star this summer. A signee at Lehigh University, Holba is near averaging a double-double. He is scoring at an 18.4 clip and is averaging 9.5 rebounds game.

“He has been a warrior,” Smith has said several times this season.

Even more impressive in Holba’s stats is that when hot-shooting guard Christian Munson missed two games due to a concussion, Holba stepped up and averaged 25 points and 10.5 rebounds.

Munson is back and the junior wing will be a key for Smith’s club on Saturday. He’s averaging 15.3 points a game.

“Munson was our leading scorer until his injury,” said Smith. “The charge he took on Trevor Waite in the Terre Haute South game with under a minute to go may have been his biggest play of the season.”

Guerin has even more talent to throw at Vincennes.

Starting point guard junior Cameron Lindley missed four games this season while playing soccer for Team USA in Spain and also missed some starts due to the passing of his grandfather in late December. He has verbally committed to the University of North Carolina to play soccer.

Sophomore Matthew Godfrey is Guerin’s third leading scorer and lately has been the team’s No. 2 rebounder.

“The lefty (Godfrey) comes off the bench and can fill in for several positions,” said Smith. “He was 6-of-9 from behind the 3-point line in the two games at the Greencastle Regional.”

Perhaps the best all-around athlete on the team is senior Matt Labus, a three-sport athlete who has started three years on the basketball court, along with three years as football quarterback and four seasons on the baseball team. He will play football in college.

Nick Schneider is an undersized left-handed senior forward.

“Schneider had a great sectional, guarding Aaron Banks of Brebeuf,” Smith said. “His brother, Jasen, was a forward on our 2010 sectional championship team.”

Add to those seven players, Smith also has the advantage of senior Brian Mathews and junior Calen Cunningham coming off the bench.

Smith has indicated that Lindley, Holba, Munson, Schneider and Labus will get the starting call Saturday.

With Vincennes playing most of its games in the south and Guerin staying mainly in Central Indiana, its hard to compare the two teams.

They have played one common opponent. Vincennes, in a late-December holiday tourney, defeated Chatard 57-44. On Jan. 9 in the Eagles Nest, Guerin defeated Chatard 73-50.

Guerin Catholic has played well down the home stretch. The Eagles won three of their final four regular season games, losing only to Pendleton Heights in overtime.

In the post-season, Guerin has won four of five games by double digits. The Eagles battled Tri-West to a 52-46 victory in the championship game of the regional.

Vincennes had to fight for its life in the two regional games, upsetting Greensburg 64-57 in overtime and edging Evansville Memorial 45-44.

Guerin Catholic will take a 20-8 record to the semi-state and Vincennes will come with a 21-6 mark.

According to the experts, neither Guerin or Vincennes should be playing tomorrow. In the final Class 3A poll of the season, the Eagles were ranked 11th and the Alices were ranked only 16th.

“We’ve never played Vincennes,” Smith points out. “Ironically, next season we’re playing in the Vincennes Holiday Tourney.”

Guerin Catholic’s Matt Holba is almost averaging a double-double for the Golden Eagles. Holba is scoring 18.4 points and pulling 9.5 rebounds per game.

Several state medalists returning, qualifying for HSR...

Field events will be big for Tigers

India Johnson was a state medalist for Fishers in the 4x100 relay last season. She is back for the Tigers, and will run on the 4x200 relay at this Saturday's Hoosier State Relays at Purdue University.

Run fast, throw far, jump high and long. It seems the Fishers girls track and field team can do it all this year. The Tigers have got several great runners on their roster, and they will be well-represented at this Saturday's Hoosier State Relays at Purdue University.

But watch out for Fishers in the field events. The Tigers have qualifiers in all four: Long jump, high jump, shot put and pole vault.

"Our field events are really strong," said Fishers coach Andrew Belloli. The coach noted that the Tigers' performances in the field "were pretty key to our winning the meet last Saturday at Wabash."

Fishers' field events aren't just strong, they're experienced as well. Senior Alexxus Smith earned a medal in the IHSAA state outdoor meet last June, placing seventh. Smith cleared 18 feet at state last year; she's already at 16 feet, 10-1/2 inches in the indoor meets.

"She's off to a good start," said Belloli. He said that Smith's success from last season has motivated her to keep it going this season.

"I think she has high expectations on herself this year," said Belloli. "She's very intrinsically motivated right now to do well."

Senior Emily Fletchall will represent Fishers in the pole vault at the HSR. Fletchall just missed a medal at last year's outdoor state, finishing 11th with a vault of 11-3. Going into Purdue, Fletchall is already over that, with a best effort of 11-4.

"She's actually just recently decided that she is going to be vaulting for Miami of Ohio next year," said Belloli.

Junior Megan Graves is tied for ninth among the best of the high jump, with a leap of 5-2.

In the shot put, two Tigers are ranked in the top 12. Senior Blake Inglis is eighth at 37 feet, 1/2 inch, while junior Katie Thompson is 12th at 36-2 1/2. Inglis has recently committed to Olivet Nazarene University.

Inglis and Thompson finished first and second respectively at Wabash, helping Fishers to jump in front of the team standings. Belloli said the Tigers "definitely are expecting the field events to provide a lot of points" and help with winning meets this season.

In the running events, freshman Danielle Harrison is making a splash in her first high school season. Harrison earned the 18th best time in the 60 dash this indoor season, with a time of 8.02 seconds.

Three Fishers relays have qualified: The 4x400 is third, the 4x200 is fourth and the 4x800 is 12th. Two of those relays feature returning state medalists: Paris Carver was part of the Tigers' third-place 4x400 team, with Carver and India Johnson running on the seventh-place 4x100 team.

At the Hoosier State Relays, Carver will run on the 4x400 and 4x200 relays, with Johnson joining her on the 4x200. The other 4x400 relay runners will be Kayla Crose, Adrianna Murphy and Toni Grace, while Crose and Salynda Berndt will complete the 4x2 line-up.

Fishers' 4x800 team will consist of Kennedie Rush, Corinne O'Leary, Liz Rogers and Kamyra Lapsley.

Murphy was recently named one of the IBCA's Supreme 15 for her efforts in the basketball season. She has been a solid performer for the track team, and Belloli said Murphy could be in the mix for a spot on the 4x800 squad.

"She's very talented and extremely hard-working," said the coach. Belloli said that Murphy is the second best long jumper on the Fishers team, with a best leap of 15 6-3/4.

"She can do just about anything she sets her mind to," said Belloli.

The Indiana Girls All-Stars will play exhibitions on June 8 and June 10 against the Indiana Junior All-Stars at sites to be determined. The Indiana All-Stars also will face the Kentucky All-Stars on June 12 at Transylvania University in Lexington and June 13 at Bankers Life Fieldhouse in Indianapolis.

All four dates will be doubleheaders with the Indiana Boys All-Stars. The Indiana All-Stars program was founded in 1939 when the Indiana Boys All-Stars played the state champion Frankfort Hot Dogs. The series with Kentucky began in 1940, and the girls portion of the All-Stars was added in 1976.

The Indiana portion of the All-Star Games is organized and produced by the Indiana Basketball Coaches Association. The Indianapolis Star, with its IndyStar.com brand, is a title sponsor and Best Choice Fieldhouse is a presenting sponsor.

Miss Basketball is selected through a balloting process of coaches and media overseen by game organizers from the IB-CA. The remainder of the team is finalized by All-Star game director Charlie Hall after observing numerous games and events throughout the season, conferring with coaches, school officials and media across the state and reviewing votes submitted by coaches and media who each can recommend up to 12 players.

Groups join Indy Eleven to support multipurpose stadium legislation

Indianapolis Mayor Greg Ballard and Indiana State Representative Todd Huston (Fishers – District 37) were joined by representatives from Indiana Soccer Association, Indy Eleven Professional Soccer and the Brickyard Battalion independent supporters group to announce their support for House Bill 1273, which will enable construction of a new 18,500-seat multipurpose stadium proposed for downtown Indianapolis.

“Soccer is part of the experience that young families are looking for, and to have a professional team and a professional stadium is absolutely critical,” said Mayor Ballard.

The stadium would serve as a permanent home for all Indy Eleven games and more than 30 other sports and entertainment events to be held every year starting with the venue’s anticipated opening in 2017.

Representative Huston filed HB 1273 to extend a sports and entertainment development area to include the future stadium site and a new downtown Indianapolis hotel to be developed by the owner of Indy Eleven. The bill received strong bipartisan support from the Indiana House of Representatives, which voted in favor by 74-21. HB 1273 is currently assigned to the Indiana Senate Tax and Fiscal Policy Committee. Senators Jim Merritt (Indianapolis – District 31) and Pete Miller (Avon – District 24) are the Senate sponsors.

Among those attending today’s rally were players and coaches from several youth soccer clubs. The Indiana Soccer Association governs youth and adult soccer around the state and counts more than 65,000 players, coaches, referees and volunteers from all 93 Indiana counties amongst its ranks.

“The Indiana Soccer membership is committed to supporting the entry level player as well as those who achieve the highest level of play, and is proud of the young men and women who apply the lessons learned from playing soccer to become better individuals, students and citizens,” said Dave Guthrie, executive director of the association. “We are eager to have a world-class venue for the sport here in Indiana, where these talented Hoosiers can one day

Valpo leads favorites into state gymnastics meet

Five teams return from last year’s field of finalists along with two former individual state champions as the 43rd Annual IH-SAA Gymnastics State Finals will be contested Saturday at Worthen Arena on the campus of Ball State University in Muncie. Competition will begin at 1 p.m. following the opening ceremonies.

For the second year, nine teams advance to the state finals for the first time - the top three from the three regional sites.

Those three regional title teams ran away with their respective sectional and regional competitions over the last two weekends and appear to be the favorites this weekend.

Top-ranked Valparaiso won the Chesterton sectional and its own regional and will look to defend its 2014 state title and a state-leading 11th crown in the sport.

Second-ranked Columbus North won the Columbus East sectional and regional and will make their ninth straight appearance as a team this weekend. The Bull Dogs aim to land their first state title since 1974 two weeks after the girls basketball team brought home the Class 4A trophy.

Fort Wayne Bishop Dwenger, ranked fourth in the state coaches poll, collected both the Fort Wayne Concordia sectional and Huntington North regional crowns. The Saints were runner-up last year and finished first or second in three of the last four years at this meet.

No. 3 Portage, making its fourth straight visit, and seventh-ranked Carroll (Fort Wayne), back for its second in a row, are two more returnees from 2014.

Owen Valley, which finished sixth in the final coaches poll, will make its first appearance as a team Saturday courtesy of its third place finish at the Columbus East regional.

Two individuals who have previously stood at the top of the awards podium are among Saturday’s competitors.

Morgan Township junior Kylee Maxwell was last year’s All-Around and Bars titles while Owen Valley junior Anna Watkin won the crown on the beam two years ago as a freshman.

Maxwell was one of the three all-around winners last week winning the competition at Valparaiso. She was joined by Heritage senior Rachael Anderson at Huntington North, and, for the second year in a row, Columbus North junior Katrina May at Columbus East.

demonstrate their accomplishments in front of their Indiana family."

Indy Eleven sold out all 14 of its home games in 2014 with an NASL-leading average attendance of 10,465 fans. That was no surprise to Josh Mason, co-founder of the Brickyard Battalion, a grassroots organization with 4,000 members that helps foster passionate support for Indy Eleven and the soccer community.

"As someone who helped build the initial support for professional soccer in Indiana from the grassroots, it has been hard work over many years," said Mason. "Seeing the passion for the game of soccer today and the momentum the Indy Eleven has created for the soccer community first hand, you would understand how this momentum will sustain itself for years to come, and that's the reward for our efforts."

A venue built to showcase the world's most popular sport has been part of Indy Eleven's strategy for growth and long-term stability since the club's official welcome to the North American Soccer League in January 2013.

"Indy Eleven appreciates the support of soccer fans from around Indiana who have been cheering for our team on and off the field. They understand the need for building a permanent home for professional soccer in Indiana, and the many benefits such a stadium would give Hoosiers," said Ersal Ozdemir, owner of Indy Eleven. "We look forward to working with the Senate to make the bill more effective so that we can bring this world-class facility to the people of Indiana."

The projected $82 million cost to construct the facility is considerably less than similarly sized venues geared towards soccer that have been built throughout North America in the last ten years. The proposed funding mechanism under consideration in the General Assembly will not result in any increase in city or state taxes, nor will it divert taxpayer dollars earmarked for services or programs funded by the City or State.

Sales and income tax revenues generated at the stadium site would go towards payment of the venue's construction costs, as would a payment of 10 percent of ticket revenues from events by Indy Eleven. While an independent feasibility study concluded these revenue streams would pay for the venue's construction debt, it has been proposed that a portion of the new taxes generated by the new hotel site could be used only if necessary to provide greater security for the stadium's financial mechanism.

The proposed stadium and hotel development is expected to generate significant economic activity, which may attract new businesses and encourage existing businesses to remain or expand in central Indiana; protect and increase state and local tax revenues; and encourage overall economic growth.

Supporters of the stadium proposal are encouraged to visit www.stadiumforindiana.com to learn more about the plan and find suggestions for how to get involved.
