SERVE Noblesville, June 24-27

Firestone area is major target

A huge "SERVE Noblesville" week will be held June 24-27.

"This will be a wonderful collaboration of churches, nonprofit and businesses doing a huge variety of service projects throughout the week in Noblesville," said Cindi Benedict, Community Engagement Manager, when making the announcement.

The project will have an extra push in the Firestone neighborhood.

Benedict said the work isn't limited to the Firestone area.

Patrick Propst, pastor of Faith Community Church, is the team leader. Fred Knoll is a major team member coordinating a number of projects.

SERVE Noblesville this year is partnering with Keep Noblesville Beautiful and their annual blitz and also partnering with Habitat for Humanity, which is doing two Apostle Builds during the week.

"There is so much going on, it is hard to distill it down," Benedict said.

Currently, 31 projects will be completed in four days which will beautify the Firestone neighborhood and the Noblesville Post Office; provide shelter for two families; repair homes for at least 10 families in need; provide day camp scholarships to 50 children; assist a school and nursing home; create hand-crafted items for local and international programs, and provide a community garage sale/health information fair to low-income families.

The group will begin each day at 8 a.m. at the Hamilton County Fairgrounds and then fan out across the city.

Those wanting additional information on the project can contact Benedict at 770-2007.

Road trip Fridays! Yay!

By JANET HART LEONARD

29 miles to get back in time. That is how far it is to the Indiana State Museum in downtown Indy. Chuck and I went there on Friday as we began our summer outings on my day off work. How many times have we driven by a place and asked each other, "have you been there?" So many times the answer is no. So now we are making our way to these places, a different one each Friday.

I have always been fascinated with history. I grew up listening to my parents tell their stories of growing up in Kentucky. So much of who I am is because of how my parents were raised. The same with Chuck.

Superintendent says....

"Not school sanctioned"

Superintendent of Schools Beth Niedermeyer says that the Memorial Day "camp out" held by Noblesville students on Noblesville Schools grounds was not a school sanctioned event.

Niedermeyer

"But," Niedermeyer wrote in an email to parents/guardians of Noblesville Schools students, "administrators became aware of it while it was happening and responded immediately."

The Hamilton County Reporter received from Niedermeyer a copy of the email.

"In hindsight," Niedermeyer wrote, "given the few students who violated our code of conduct, we will be more aggressive to ensure it doesn't happen in the future."

The email, sent Saturday morning, to parents/guardians is as follows:

"You might have heard about a camp out event at NHS that has been discussed in local papers. It was not a school sanctioned event but administrators became aware of it while it was happening and responded immediately. When administrators arrived the students were behaving appropriately. Therefore, the decision was made to let them enjoy this student-initiated camp out. In hindsight, given the few students who violated our code of conduct, we will be more aggressive to ensure it doesn't happen in the future."

"Parents are always welcome to reach out to me with any questions or concerns. I have not received any parent calls regarding this event. Based on this response, I assumed there were no questions or concerns about this event."

"Since accepting this position almost a year ago, I have made myself available to parents, teachers, staff and community and will continue to do so throughout my tenure. Feel free to contact me with any questions, comments and/or concerns."

Noblesville starting a Mayors Gallery

By FRED SWIFT

I thought I'd share some topics of conversation heard around the county this week. Items that I found a bit interesting.

Not to be confused with the Rogues Gallery, the Noblesville city administration is putting together what we'll call the Mayors Gallery: photos of all the city's 15 or so past mayors. As you might expect most of the mayors have been men, but two were women: Pat Logan in the 1980s and Mary Sue Rowland in the 90s. It

The Wild Opera House...

Take another bow

By MARY SUE ROWLAND

The Wild Opera House in Noblesville was the anchor of activities, social life and the success of the downtown commercial district in its day.

The Wild Opera House was built not once but twice due to fire in the first theatre that took it to the ground. On the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the demolition of the 2nd Wild Opera House in 1959, David Heighway, Hamilton County Historian suggested a third New Opera House replace the old at the same location. Something interesting has been happening in the last few weeks. Interested people have been looking at a Facebook site called New Opera House Noblesville. In only a few days, the hits and likes have doubled. What does this mean? The site has set the goal of 500 members to the site. If you like the history of the Wild Opera House then like the facebook site and who knows what is next. Go to:

www.facebook.com/groups/151325001584739. Thanks David for offering a vision and a project to give Noblesville Historic Downtown something to really talk about.

Following is an article about the Wild Opera House by David Heighway that originally was published in Hamilton County Business Magazine in 2011. It is reprinted with permission.

"Carmel's Palladium at the Center for the Performing Arts is taking live performances in Hamilton County to a new level. The county has long had an interest in musical and theatrical performances, but didn't have a proper venue until late in the 19th century. In the early years, there may have been early troupes of actors traveling through who would perform in tavern yards and barns. Indianapolis had its first professional performance in 1823 and its first theater (in a rehabilitated newspaper office) opened sometime around 1841. Hamilton County would have been a more likely stop after the first railroad was built in 1851.

The first available site for traveling troupes was "City Hall". This was not a government building, but a name given to the upper floor of the building constructed in 1866 for the Noblesville Masonic lodge, which currently houses Smith Jewelers and Noble Coffee and Tea. This hall was a place for public dinners and performances of all kinds including Carlin's Silver Cornet Band, one of the Noblesville town bands in the mid-nineteenth century.

The first dedicated professional theater in the county was the first Wild Opera House a wooden building constructed at the corner of 9th and Clinton in Noblesville. It opened on September 22, 1884 with a performance by a New York troupe of the play The Two Orphans. (Interestingly, this play was put on at the Belfry Theater in 2008.) Opening night tickets at the Wild Opera House were $1, which was later lowered to 25 cents.

Leonard Wild was born in Germany in 1834, immigrated to Hamilton County in 1855, and started a dry goods and grocery business. He was very successful, later branching out into businesses like milling and banking, buying land and building houses, and, in the end, becoming very wealthy. The locals knew him by his nickname of "Boss".

He didn't seem to be interested in theaters until his first wife died in 1878 and he married Martha Pontious in 1884. Apparently she was the one who wanted to have a good quality theater. After the opera house was built she was said to have gone to every performance and watched from one of the private boxes.

The first opera house did quite well until it burned to the ground in 1891, about 45 minutes after it had hosted the high school graduation. Undaunted, Boss Wild started anew, this time on the site of an old livery stable on South 9th street. He built more solidly this time, with brick walls four layers thick and firewalls between sections.

The front section was a three story building, with stores on the first floor and in the basement, which was 10' deep and had a cement floor. There were professional offices on the second floor, and large meeting rooms on the third floor. The meeting rooms were used by the Commercial Club, the forerunner of today's Chamber of Commerce.

The theater opened on November 25, 1895, with the play "Charley's Aunt", performed by one of Charles Frohman's touring companies. The evening was a great success despite a torrential downpour. One sign of the theater's professional status was its inclusion in Julius Cahn's Official Theatrical Guide, the "bible" of the professional touring companies.

The auditorium behind the office section was two stories high, with a balcony and a truss roof. Between 1895 and 1909, the seating capacity was 800 people. The theater was redone in 1915 and by 1922, with sensible new fire codes in place, the capacity was lowered to 450. The stage was 66 feet by 34 feet with a proscenium 29 feet wide and 20 feet high. The fly space above the stage when the curtain went up, this is where it went was 50 feet high. The whole structure was 68 feet wide and 132 feet long.

Leonard Wild died in 1909 and the theater passed into other hands. His wife, Martha, who was so influential in the construction, died in 1931. The Opera House continued to be the center of entertainment for the county and hosted a variety of programs, including the Noblesville Military Band and other music concerts, magic lantern shows, political events, and vaudeville acts such as magicians, dancers and bathing beauties. Films started being shown around the time of World War I, first as additions to the main program, then as features.

After the Second World War, the Diana Theater was the main movie house in Noblesville and the Wild was falling into disrepair. It had been owned since the late 1930's by absentee landlords in Bloomington. In 1959, the Noblesville Parking Commission wanted to create the first public lot in the city and it was decided the Wild was the most likely spot. The structure proved very difficult to tear down four layers of brick wouldn't just be knocked over. After several attempts, the demolition company finally burned all the wooden support joists and pulled the walls down from inside. The building was reduced to rubble by December, and the newspaper compared the debris to bombed-out buildings from WWII.

Despite the lack of a performance venue, plays and concerts were still conducted by amateur groups. For many years Noblesville had a Shakespeare Society and towns like Atlanta and Sheridan had bands. The Hamilton County Theater Guild was formed forty-four years ago and still produces plays at the Belfry Theater. While some professional groups were formed, such as the Carmel Symphony Orchestra in 1975, the first professional venue built after the destruction of the Wild Opera House was Deer Creek Music Center later called Verizon Wireless Music Center in 1989.

Public performances have continued from a variety of groups such as the Noblesville Cultural Arts Commission, who produce Shakespeare in the Park and band concerts, and Carmel Community Players, (both with 18 years of experience), along with more recent arrivals like the Actors Theater of Indiana, and the Noblesville Symphony Orchestra. Now with the construction of the Palladium and the Tarkington Theater in Carmel, high-quality, professional-level theater buildings are making a return."

Chuck and I spent the most time on the 2nd level where the cultural history of Indiana is located. Our discussions of our growing up, he in Russellville and I in Noblesville, went from story to story as we went past each exhibit.

Funny how you hear things all your life but never really catch what they mean. "Two bits, four bits, six bits a dollar." A bit is twenty-five cents. I did not know that. It was written on an exhibit. Chuck knew it all along and explained that it is where the cheer came from. Chuck is always saying the cheer and including "all for Russellville stand up and holler!" I then say my cheer that I grew up with. "Give me a beffo, give me a beffo, give me a beffo beffo bum. Bum get a rat trap bigger than a cat trap, Bum get another one bigger than the other one, Rah Rah Boom Boom Shish Boom Bah, Noblesville High School Rah Rah Rah!" Over 40 years in education and Chuck had never heard that cheer. I have no idea what a beffo or a beffo are and how they relate to a cheer at a ballgame but in the 70's it was fun to say!

I like Chuck's other cheer. "A bottle of pop, a big banana, we're from Russellville, Indiana." Let's just say that we never have boring discussions.

Back to the cultural exhibits. The history of television in Indiana stirred up memories of when I was a kid watching Captain Kangaroo, Kindergarten College, Cowboy Bob and Janie and Harlow Hickenlooper. And yes, mostly, it was in black and white. And yes, that makes me feel old.

Did you know that a major archeological find was found on a farm in Indiana just a few years back when a ditch was being dug? Did you know that hair was often taken from a deceased relative and braided into a work of art and then framed? Did you know...well you just have to take a trip to the Indiana State Museum and find out.

Oh the places you'll go. Oh the sights you will see. Just gas up the car and take off with your honey. You don't have to travel far and you don't have to spend much money. There are lessons to learn and facts to find out. I'm a writer but not a poet...no doubt!

might surprise some to know that two mayors were Democrats: Gordon Olvey and Robert Wical. There will be an announcement this summer when the collection is ready for show.

There have been news reports that Indiana Congressman Todd Young who represents the 9th District is considering a run for U.S. Senate to replace retiring Sen. Dan Coats. Not widely known is the fact that Young is a Hamilton County product. He grew up in Carmel and graduated from high school there in 1990. His father is a business owner in Noblesville. The Republican congressman now lives in Bloomington.

Democrats who have almost no candidates on their ticket for the November election, have until June 30 to hold a caucus and choose individuals for any or all vacancies. Candidates who want to run as independents have the same deadline to file petitions of candidacy. To date there has been no interest which likely leaves Republicans headed for election to nearly all municipal offices in the county at stake in this year's election.

Dick Nyers, former football coach who started Carmel on its way to a state power in high school sports, will be the guest of honor June 20 at the Carmel VFW Post. The event begins at noon with a $5 luncheon and continues through the afternoon. The public is welcome to attend and visit with Nyers who coached CHS from 1958-68. A former player with the Baltimore Colts, Nyers now resides in Columbus, IN.

Bolden's Cleaners in downtown Noblesville, still closed after a major fire earlier this year, is giving every indication that it will re-open when agreement is reached with insurance company officials. A few weeks ago workers were on the scene clearing debris out of the North 8th Street building. An electrical fire closed the operation and left some customers with questions about the status of items left for cleaning.

Many county residents who travel River Road to and from the Carmel area will find the road closed south of 146th Street for the next two months. Major reconstruction is underway to widen a section of the road in the area of Prairie Trace Elementary School. Street department employees say that with reasonably good weather the improved roadway will be open August 3.

Byron Edward "Eddie" Moore

January 24, 1937 - June 4, 2015

Byron Edward "Eddie" Moore, 78, a long-time resident of Carmel, passed away at home June 4, 2015, after a long illness. His son and favorite niece were at his side. He was born January 24, 1937, in Jackson, Michigan, to Byron and Beatrice (Evans) Moore.

He graduated in 1956 from Ben Davis High School in Indianapolis. He married the former Joann Smith in 1957 and settled in Carmel. They later divorced but remained friends.

Ed's home reflected his love of flowers and cars. He had numerous planters in the front and back, and an eight-car garage, which housed his Towne Car, and two and a half Nash automobiles from the 1950s.

Ed's energy was contagious. He rarely liked to sit down, and literally would come home from work, change, and be out the door. He constantly did things for others, including his mother, for whom he built a home, and tended to her needs for more than 30 years. Ed could have been a comedian or salesman, but he instead chose to work at Ford where he retired in 1991 after over 31 years as a power steering pump final inspector. He also was a regular at the Carmel location of MCL Cafeteria.

Ed seemed to enjoy everything: Pacer games, Charlie Brown and Snoopy, Shirley Bassey and Queen, Longaberger baskets, clipping coupons, going to the movies, talking on the phone, mowing the lawn, and cleaning everyone's gutters. But above all, he loved and worshipped Jesus Christ, and was a member of Grace Community Church.

Ed is survived by his beloved son, Ed, (Elizabeth) Moore, and granddaughter, Laura, of Westfield; special niece, Louise Bracken of Indianapolis; nieces, Judy K. Moore, of Warsaw, Indiana, and Karil Zurakowski of Shelby Township, Michigan; nephews, Clay and Scott Robinson; special friends, Charlotte Mckinzie, and Chuck & Crystal Vanmeter of Carmel; sister, Lynn (Mike) Robinson of Cumberland, Indiana; and scores and scores of friends and acquaintances.

In addition to his parents, Ed was preceded in death by his sister, Sharon Zurakowski.

The family wishes to express a special thank you to Dr. Mary Walsh and her office for their great care of Ed over the past 20 years.

Cryptside Services will be held at 1:00 pm on Wednesday, June 10, 2015, at Crown Hill Community Mausoleum, 700 West 38th Street, in Indianapolis, with Pastor Tim Ayers officiating. Visitation will be Tuesday, June 9, 2015 from 4:00 pm to 8:00 pm at Leppert Mortuary and Crematory Services, Carmel Chapel, 900 N. Rangeline Road, in Carmel.

Ed's care has been entrusted to Randall & Roberts Funeral Homes, Noblesville.

In remembrance of Ed, "Get off the davenport, go plant some flowers, and clean your gutters. Live each day to the fullest, and do something nice for someone else."

Do you know Him?

By LEANN WILSON

"For I bear them witness that they have a zeal for God, but not according to knowledge. For they being ignorant of God's righteousness, and seeking to establish their own righteousness, have not submitted to the righteousness of God" Rom 10:2-3 (NKJV).

The Jews loved God and the old testament is replete with stories of those such as David whom God called "a man after mine own heart" (Acts 13:22) and Moses who was so close to God, God spoke to him "face to face" (Ex 33:11). In the scripture of old there is no doubt of the love the prophets Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and Daniel had for their God. But the Jews' zeal was not in God alone but in his law and in this law is where they sought their righteousness. It was with exacting strictness that the Jews loved the law as if law would bring them anything other than the knowledge of what sin was and what punishment was just according to the standards of God. Relationship and love for God was proven, so to speak, through adherence to law. Then when Jesus came with salvation at hand He came first to His own, and "His own did not receive Him" John 1:11 (NKJV). So zealous were the Jews for their law that in their zeal they crucified the Lord Jesus, the messiah, the one and only begotten Son of God (John 3:16)! In their zeal for legalism they were missing salvation.

In our day and time we come with our fallible minds and search the infallible scriptures with our bias' intact. Some may at times subconsciously (and some consciously) create their own interpretation of the inerrant word, molding and forming the meaning of scripture into what they want it to mean, what they need it to mean, in order to justify their actions, their desires and their lifestyles. Sadly, if one attempts and persists in these attempts to create his own reality this one will never come to a true knowledge of who God the Father, Jesus the Son and the Holy Ghost really are. With warped perceptions and errant understandings one will fail to realize God has said in scripture what He has meant to say and the substance of scripture says what He means it to mean and this meaning does not change according to our worldview or according to our wants and desires. Man thinking himself wise, the decline of society, and the compromise of morality have allowed confusion to creep in, God has not authored this "for God is not the author of confusion" 1 Cor 14:33 (NKJV). This is man – with vain imagination look hard enough and long enough and you will find an interpretation or a commentary, an explanation for scripture to suite yourself, be it hearsay or not is not the question that the man looking to make a fraudulent claim to God's righteousness is looking to answer. There is one way to the Father and that is through the Son (John 14:6) "unless one is born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God" John 3:5 (NKJV)!

St. Augustine wrote "who can invoke thee, knowing thee not? For he who knows thee not may invoke thee as another than thou art." Do you know whom you believe in? Moreover, how can you believe in whom you do not know? Friend how can you claim to love one whose attributes and promises, whose sacrifices, whose patience and whose wrath you have no knowledge of? There may be an infatuation, but love? Everlasting love is brought about by relationship that comes from knowing the object of one's affection. Infatuation fades as the couple walks in differing directions. You can confess with your mouth but if you don't know Him in your heart you have no idea what you have confessed to. Do you know the Shepherd at the door of the sheepfold? There is only one way in and anyone who tries to enter another way the same is a thief and a robber (John 10:1-5). What is your knowledge of God, the Son and the Holy Ghost based on? If it is based on anything other than an understanding of who He is according to His word then it is a lie and a lie believed in is still a lie no matter how sincere your belief in it is. On what basis do you suppose you will get into heaven (Rom 3:21-26)? Do you suppose you are good enough to come before the Holy Father in heaven without an advocate and who is the advocate (1 John 2:1)? Do you know that He is "not willing that any should perish but that all should come to repentance" (2 Peter 3:9)? What do you know of God's plan for salvation not by works but by faith whereby you are clothed in the righteousness of Jesus (Eph 2:4-9)?

"Examine yourselves as to whether you are in the faith" 2 Cor 13:5 (NKJV). We are helpless to establish our own righteousness and we never rise above our own thoughts of God therefore "it is not good for a soul to be without knowledge" Prov 19:2 (NKJV). Faith and salvation are based on the knowledge of who Christ is and what He has done. Those who know Him will call upon Him, those who call upon Him will know Him, and "whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved" Rom 10:13 (KJV). Jesus said "You shall love the LORD your God with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your mind. This is the first and great commandment" (Matt 22:37-38) and "if anyone loves God, this one is known by Him" 1 Cor 8:3 (NKJV)! God desires "all men to be saved and to come to the knowledge of the truth. For there is one God and one Mediator between God and men, the Man Christ Jesus, who gave Himself a ransom for all" 1 Tim 2:4-6 (NKJV) and He beckons "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light" Matt 11:28-30 (KJV). Read His Word and "if any of you lacks wisdom, let him ask of God, who gives to all liberally and without reproach, and it will be given to him" James 1:5 (NKJV). In the words of St. Augustine - "Grant me, O Lord, to know and understand whether first to invoke thee or to praise thee; whether first to know thee or call upon thee. But who can invoke thee, knowing thee not? For he who knows thee not may invoke thee as another than thou art. It may be that we should invoke thee in order that we may come to know thee Now, "they shall praise the Lord who seek him," for "those who seek shall find him," and, finding him, shall praise him. I will seek thee, O Lord, and call upon thee (Confessions of St. Augustine by St. Augustine of Hippo, book 1 ch 1).

Lean night at the girls state...

Carmel ties for 5th

On a lean scoring night for Hamilton County teams and athletes, Carmel pulled out a fifth place team tie with Ben Davis in the IHSAA Girls Track & Field Meet Saturday at Indiana University in Bloomington.

Pike won the team championship with 50 points, followed by Warren Central 48, West Lafayette 42, Fort Wayne Northrop 31 and Carmel and Ben Davis with 27 points each.

Hamilton County didn't win any events.

Eleven Hamilton County athletes in individual events and three relay teams broke into the top 9 scoring.

Hamilton County's best event was the 4x800 relay where Carmel's Maddie Dalton, Haley Harris, Kelsey Harris and Megan Kress placed second and Noblesville was fourth with Abigail Crouch, Abigail Liittle, Megan Line and Susanna Sharples-Gordon. Westfield was just out of the scoring column when placing tenth.

Fishers was ninth in the 4x100 relay with Brooklyn Banks, Paris Carver, Danielle Harrison and India Johnson. The Lady Tigers edged Hamilton Southeastern by one spot.

The county's only scoring in the field events was in the pole vault where Emily Fletchall of Fishers was fifth and Noblesville's Dilan Palmer was ninth.

In the dashes, Westfield's Karen Hubbard finished sixth in the 100 and Southeastern's Camille Christopher was ninth in the 200.

Southeastern's Mia Mackenzie was seventh in the 300 hurdles.

Local athletes were at their best in the distance races.

Then Harris sisters both scored in the 800 run, Kelsey third and Haley eighth.

Southeastern's Rachel Nichwitz finished fifth in the 1600 and Carmel's Haley Harris finished sixth. Haley was presented with the Mental Attitude Award at the conclusion of the meet.

"Harris is an active student-athlete at Carmel as she has been a member of the Greyhounds' state championship teams in swimming and cross country each of the past four years, earning individual state finals berths in each sport each of the past three seasons," said the report on the IHSAA's Web site. "She is a member of Carmel's National Honor Society, boasting a 4.0 GPA. Harris also has volunteered for the IHSAA's Champions Together events with the Special Olympics Indiana."

Two Carmel runners scored in the 3200, Stacy Morozov fifth and Anna Schmitz ninth.

Pike sophomore Lynna Irby repeated as champion in all three dashes (100, 200 and 400). Irby broke Maciel Malone's long-standing 100 record, finishing that race in 11.50 seconds, .02 seconds faster than the North Central legend's time.

Mishawaka senior Anna Rohrer won the 1600 and 3200 runs, setting a new state record in the latter race of 10:11.20

Girls tennis state championship...

Carmel scores third straight title

It was another perfect season for the Carmel girls tennis team.

The Greyhounds won their third consecutive state championship on Saturday, again cruising through their matches at the Barbara Wynne Tennis Center. Top-ranked Carmel beat No. 3 Cathedral 4-1 in the semi-finals, then took care of Munster 5-0 in the championship match.

The 'Hounds only lost seven games against Munster across their five matches, with three of those wins coming by the score of 6-0, 6-0. No. 3 singles Samantha Galloway earned one of those "double bageles," with Carmel's doubles teams, No. 1 Emma Love and Lauryn Padgett and No. 2 Molly Fletchall and Mary Voigt also winning every game of the match.

Against the Irish, No. 2 singles Zoe Woods needed three sets to beat Grace Koscielski, one of the better No. 2 players in the state. At No. 1 singles, Kiersten Carlson won 6-1, 6-4 against Maeve Koscielski in the Cathedral match, then was a 6-4, 6-1 winner over Munster's Nikki Heiniger.

Carlson and the team of Love/Padgett remain undefeated in the tournament, so they will both advance to the individual state tournament, which starts next week. Since Carmel won the state, Carlson and Love/Padgett will each be top-seeded in the individual event.

The Greyhounds' victory was the third for coach Mike Bostic, who is retiring at the end of this season. Bostic was also the longtime boys coach, leading that team to five state championships.

Overall, Carmel's girls tennis program has won eight state championships.

Softball semi-state...

Millers fall to Lake Central

By RICHIE HALL

Reporter Sports Editor

Noblesville's softball run came to an end on Saturday, as the Millers fell to Lake Central 4-3 in the semi-finals of the Harrison semi-state.

The Millers got off to a strong start, but the Indians came back to get the go-ahead run in the sixth inning. Still, Noblesville had a remarkable season, earning its first sectional and regional championships in several years.

The Millers skipped off to a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning. Maddie Moore singled to get on base, was moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Karley Blankenship, then Aly Compton hit a single to get Moore home. Compton wasn't on base for long, as Zoe Schafer knocked in a double to score her.

Noblesville's lead held for three and a half innings, but Lake Central put in three runs in the bottom of the fourth. Paige Carter was walked and Alex Hickey was hit by a pitch got runners on first and second, and they were moved up a base on a Madison Blythe sacrifice bunt.

That brought up Crystal Guzman, one of LC's best hitters, and she singled home Carter. Another single, by Sydney Scherzinger, sent Hickey across home plate. Guzman would later score on a fielder's choice.

"It was a great team that we played today, and they were a lot like us," said Millers coach Mike Ramsey. "I thought I saw a lot of similarities between the two teams. We were just, I think, a break away. I just can't be more proud of how our kids played today. We were right there with them."

Noblesville tied the game up again in the fifth inning. Moore hit a triple straight into center field, then was singled home by Compton. That tied the score at 3-3, and a 1-2-3 fifth inning kept Noblesville in the game.

But the Indians struck out the Millers' side in the top of the sixth inning, then scored twice when they came up to bat. Scherzinger's single got Hickey across the plate. Moore got one more hit for Noblesville in the top of the seventh, but that would be all.

Moore was 3-for-4 on the night, with Compton 2-for-3 while driving in two runs.

Noblesville finished its season with a splendid 21-6 record, including its first sectional title since 2008 and its first regional crown since 2002.

"I'm just happy for our girls," said Ramsey. "They're hurting now, but they should be very proud of what they accomplished and everything they did this season."

Royals fall in topsy-turvy regional game

Hamilton Southeastern dropped a roller-coaster of a regional semi-final baseball game on Saturday, falling 8-7 to former Hoosier Crossroads Conference rival Harrison at Lafayette's Loeb Stadium.

Both teams scored a run in the second inning, then the Royals grabbed the lead in the bottom of the fourth, getting three runs. Harrison responded with four runs in the top of the fifth to take a 5-4 lead, but HSE answered back, crossing the plate twice for a 6-5 lead.

The Raiders took the lead for good in the top of the sixth with three runs. Southeastern scored in the bottom of the seventh, but Harrison held on.

Matt Gorski and Aaron McGee both had three hits for the Royals. Gorski got close to hitting for the cycle, with a triple, double and a single. J.B. Washburn had a double and batted in three runs. Aaron McGee had two RBIs and Owen Callaghan got two hits.

Southeastern finished with a 16-17 record, but that includes a sectional championship, the second in the past three years for the Royals.
