Noblesville needs to take action in improvement plans

By FRED SWIFT
It's time we get some visible signs of action on the host of plans for Noblesville public improvements.

Noblesville is a growing city with the potential for a bright future. It has a good administration under Mayor John Ditslear. It's fine to have announcements of new businesses moving to town and to cut ribbons on new stores opening. But, the public sector needs to get on with projects to accommodate the needs of citizens, both the present population as well as the new people coming.

City government needs to get on with a host of long-announced plans for improving the traffic flow, parking, recreational opportunities, neighborhood revitalization, and new uses for vacated lands.

Some may point to progress already made, and there has been progress over recent years, but the city and surrounding area is growing so rapidly that almost continuous action is required to keep ahead of the needs.

Two very expensive projects being talked about for too long involve upgrading Ind. 37 from Noblesville to I-69 with overpasses or roundabouts instead of traffic lights, and a new White River bridge to alleviate congestion through town.

Money and cooperation with other governmental units is needed for these and other projects.

Thinking 'outside the box' can achieve this. If the state of Indiana is asked to abandon 37 and grant the city or county money to improve it as the state did with Carmel's Keystone, and if the county and Fishers governments join in financially along with federal funds it can be done. Similarly, if county and city government cooperate on a new White River bridge, it can be done. But, formal agreements are needed to get the ball rolling.

New Web site part of HEPL's "refreshed" image

By RICHIE HALL
For the past couple months, patrons to the Hamilton East Public Library have been enjoying some new looks.

The library launched an updated Web site on April 13, and that was part of a general re-branding. Hamilton East, which has physical branches in Noblesville and Fishers in addition to its online presence, now uses the tag line "Ideas live here."

It helps, of course, if ideas can be a little organized and easy to follow. Cheryl Jurgens, HEPL's Community Relations Manager, said that the library's old Web site "was functional," but at the same time "was a little bit cumbersome in finding and getting that information to the people who needed it."

Hamilton East's new Web site is a little more streamlined, with the number of pages reduced from 100 to around 50. In addition, Jurgens said the new site uses "responsive design," which means it adapts to whatever device one is using, be it a phone, laptop or PC.

"The one we have is extremely easy to navigate and it's really organized so that you can kind of get to the information all kinds of ways," said Jurgens. You can check it out for yourself at <http://hepl.lib.in.us/>

The new Web site was put into motion after Hamilton East went through what Jurgens called "an extensive strategic plan last year." One of the things the library wanted was a new Web site, which Jurgens said is essentially HEPL's third branch.

So through the strategic plan and a survey on the Web site, HEPL and its partner company was able to figure it out.

"Obviously we want it so that everybody could use it, but there's some real specific groups

Whether it's at Noblesville (pictured here), Fishers or online, the Hamilton East Public Library is showing its patrons a brand new look. HEPL has a new Web site and a new slogan, "Ideas live here."

Carmel High School Alumni Association elects board members

The Carmel High School Alumni Association, meeting Saturday night, elected board members for the upcoming year. Left to right they are Jo Smith, Ed Wiseman, president; Cathie Reamer, Ted Genders, Natalie Cotton, treasurer; Trudy Weaver, secretary; Kathy Venable, vice president. It was the group's 123rd annual banquet.

The woman on the left is smiling broadly at the camera, while the woman on the right is also smiling and has her hand on her hip. aware that we had made a change," said Jurgens.

Jurgens said that HEPL feels "refreshed and renewed" and wanted the library's image to reflect those feelings. She acknowledges that libraries are different than they were in the past, but also believes that they will always be around.

"We're constantly looking at ways to stay fresh and innovative and interactive," said Jurgens. "A big part of it is, we want to become a real partner in the community. So we work with a lot of outside groups and they work with us, and we have public meeting rooms they can use."

Downtown parking, talked and studied for years, is going to require a parking garage such as those found in other cities with populations similar to Noblesville. Again, creative planning is needed. Why not a non-profit parking corporation which bonds to build the structure and retires the indebtedness with funds from renters of street level stores or offices?

Multi-use trails for walking or biking are so popular today that the city needs to get on with further development of a network of trails now. The so-call Midland Trail has been considered for years. Federal money has been secured. It's time to see action. Other recreational opportunities, such as developing park land already purchased, need to proceed.

A year ago the city administration saw a need to revitalize the southwest part of the old city. Public input was sought and received. It's

Fishers receives 2015 Playful City USA designation

Playability is essential to any thriving community, and the City of Fishers is no different. In Fishers, Mayor Fadness and his team recognize the importance of playability, and under the Mayor’s direction, Fishers Parks & Recreation works year-round to ensure residents have diverse opportunities for play regardless of their age or ability level.

“We are honored to have been named a 2015 Playful City USA community,” stated Mayor Scott Fadness. “Aside from the physical and mental health advantages, playability is crucial to the success of our future. Our long-term sustainability is dependent on having a strong sense of community offering residents opportunities to create traditions right here in Fishers.”

Fishers Parks & Recreation staff work diligently to identify recreation needs in our community. This Saturday, June 20, the department invites residents of all ages to Roy G. Holland Memorial Park for Monsoon Madness. This particular event promises waterlogged fun from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and is free for residents to attend. Outside of events, the department is also committed to bringing diverse amenities to Fishers.

“Recently Roy G. Holland Memorial Park was renovated with a new playground and splash pad, construction is underway at our new destination park, Flat Fork Creek Park, and pickleball courts are being installed at Cyntheanne Park,” stated Fishers Parks & Recreation director, Tony Elliot. “Fishers Parks & Recreation is committed to providing residents with unique opportunities for play year-round.”

Connect with Fishers Parks & Recreation on Facebook and Twitter to be the first to know about upcoming events and happenings. Don’t forget to snap a picture and share it with us, we love to see how residents find creative ways to play right here in Fishers.

Launch Fishers on the move, hosts Entrepreneurship Week Celebration

By RICHIE HALL

There was music, food and fun at the big building that is the new home of Launch Fishers Thursday evening.

And why not? The three-year-old entity that's designed to help entrepreneurs start and grow their businesses has much to celebrate. For one thing, the building that's located at 12175 Visionary Way will be the new home of an organization that has helped several businesses get off the ground and into offices of their own.

One could call Launch Fishers many things - an incubator, an accelerator. "I like to use the term 'launchpad'," said John Wechsler, the man who created the organization. "So we're a launch place for high-potential, high-impact and innovative companies."

Launch Fishers hosted an Entrepreneurship Week Celebration Thursday at its new building. There were 700 registered guests, including Fishers Mayor Scott Fadness, and Gerry Dick of Inside Indiana Business. The speakers included Tommy Richardson, the Chief Technology Officer of Teradata Marketing Applications.

"It's really a dusty boots tour," said Wechsler. "It's a celebration of entrepreneurship week and dusty boots tour."

Wechsler himself is an entrepreneur, and he said the function of Launch Fishers is to give his fellow entrepreneurs a place "to do their thing."

"If you think about it, a real challenge for an entrepreneur today that's working out of their home or spare bedroom is when they get to hiring another employee or two, where do they go to do that?" said Wechsler. "If they're a growth company, it's particularly challenging because their needs change very rapidly over time."

So, these entrepreneurs are welcome to come to Launch Fishers and have their own space. It might be just one or two people at a desk at first, then they can move up to a small office, growing as their company grows.

"And then at a certain point, the objective is that they grow big enough that they move out into their own space and take an office in our community and grow their business right here," said Wechsler.

There's already been success stories associated with Launch Fishers. One of the biggest is Bluebridge Digital, a mobile apps company that has grown from one man - Chief Executive Officer Santiago Jaramillo - who Wechsler said was the first person to "swipe a card" to join Launch Fishers.

"He's now out, he has 9,000 square feet of his own space," said Wechsler. "He has 30 employees and has several million dollars of investment capital to grow that business."

Launch Fishers welcomes all entrepreneurs - "anyone in the entrepreneurial ecosystem," as its Web site puts it. Memberships are $150 for a dedicated workplace - your very own desk and chair - and $500 for an individual entrepreneur, which allows for print/fax/copy and scan facilities, plus various meeting and work spaces.

Hamilton County Reporter Girls Tennis Players of the Year Emma Love and Lauryn Padgett, Carmel

The Carmel girls tennis team has produced some great doubles teams over the years, and juniors Emma Love and Lauryn Padgett continued that tradition this season. Love (left) and Padgett are this year’s choice for the Hamilton County Reporter’s Girls Tennis Players of the Year. The duo finished 20-0 for the season, leading the Greyhounds to a third consecutive team state championship. Love and Padgett followed that up by winning the IHSAA’s doubles tournament. It’s the second year in a row Love has received this award; she won with Molly Fletchall last year.

Andrean, Shakamak return to defend baseball crowns

Two defending state champions as well as two others who fell short a year ago lead the way into this weekend's 49th Annual IHSAA Baseball State Finals at beautiful Victory Field in Indianapolis.

The Class 3A state championship game will lead off the weekend on Friday night at 7:30 pm ET with the Class A, 2A and 4A games contested at 1 pm ET, 4 pm ET and 7 pm ET, respectively, on Saturday. All four games will be played at the home of the Indianapolis Indians, the Triple-A affiliate of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Each game will be televised live on Fox Sports Indiana and streamed at IHSAAtv.org. Greg Rakestraw, Mark Jaynes and Jeremiah Johnson will serve as the broadcast team for Friday night. Jerry Baker, Bob Lamey and Johnson will be on the air for all three of Saturday's contests.

The prime time game on Friday night pits two of the state's tradition-rich and powerful programs in top-ranked Jasper (30-1) and third-ranked defending state champion Andrean (29-6). The two schools have combined for nine state championships with two of the state's winningest coaches leading the way in Jasper's Terry Gobert and Andrean's Dave Pishkur. The Class A final is a rematch of last year's thriller as eighth-ranked defending champ Shakamak (21-6) will get another challenge from second-ranked Rockville (27-6) in search of the school's first state crown in any sport.

In Class 2A, top-ranked South Spencer (24-2) will go head-to-head against third-ranked Lafayette Central Catholic (29-5). South Spencer continues to show it's one of the state's best and will be looking to collect its fourth state crown since 2007. Lafayette Central Catholic, meanwhile, will be gunning for a record-tying eighth baseball title and first in 2A after dominating the Class A state tournament in recent years.

After falling a step short of the 4A title a year ago, Terre Haute North (21-11) has navigated its way back for another shot at the bigschool crown where they'll face Penn (28-6-1) which returns to Victory Field 14 years after its last state championship. Check IHSA.org and @IHSA1 on Twitter throughout the weekend for updates.

Marian University hosts North vs. South All-Star Tennis Cup

Gill

Marian University was the host of the North vs. South High School All-Star Tennis Cup matches Sunday, June 14. Twenty four graduating seniors competed in this 17th annual event, organized by the Indiana Coaches of Girls Sports Association under co-chairs Sharon Rosenburgh and Debby Burton.

After two rounds of play, the North built a 25-14 lead, and eventually won a 36-20 victory. Coaching the North were Julie Hawkins (W. Lafayette Harrison) and Bruce Fleming (Mississinewa).

The victorious North squad was led by three-time state singles finalist Leah Barnes (FW Canterbury) and included Jenna Landis (Concord), Teaghan Dishman & Kaylin Gibson (Delta), Kayla Bailey & Dana Reynaga (Lake Station), Sasha Glickfield (Marion), Abbi Fleming & Mason Stanley (Mississinewa), Haley Harrell & Libbie Porteus (Plymouth), and Amanjot Kaur (W. Laf. Harrison). Barnes, Kaur, Gibson, Dishman, Fleming, Stanley, and Porteus all went undefeated in their three matches to lead the North’s conquest.

The South All Stars were Audrie Hillis & Maddie Jones (Avon), Susie Winternheimer (Bishop Chatard), Meg Shishman (Bloomington South), Audrey Vincent & Caitlyn Martin (Evansville Memorial), Ashlyn Smith (Franklin), Haley Decker &

Taylor Kiesel (Gibson Southern), Molly Laughlin (Mt. Vernon), Hannah McKissick (Northeastern) and Sarah Wilder (Oldenburg Academy). Guerin Catholic’s Kevin Gill was one of the South coaches.

Coaches in attendance voted for District Coaches of the Year. Honorees were District 1 - Julie Hawkins (W. Laf. Harrison), District 2 - Bill Mountford (SB. St. Joseph’s), District 3 - Dan McNally (Bishop Chatard), District 4 - Tim Cleland (Delta), and District 5 - Kyle DeBord (Gibson Southern). From these, McNally was chosen as 2015 Indiana State Coach of the Year.

Of the 24 contestants, it was noted that 18 were also honored as 1st team, 2nd team, or Honorable Mention All State by the Indiana HS Tennis Coaches Assn.

Over 200 Teams at Grand Park for US Soccer Development Academy

The U.S. Soccer Development Academy is returning to Grand Park this Friday, June 19th to hold the Academy U-13/14 Showcase and the Academy U-15/16 and U-17/18 Playoffs and Showcases. This year’s event will feature over 200 teams from 25 states and approximately 400 college coaches throughout the week-long event.

“The U.S. Soccer Development Academy is excited to return to Grand Park for our National Playoffs and Showcase this summer,” said Jared Micklos, Development Academy Director. “Grand Park provides our players and coaches with the opportunity to perform in a premier environment that is ideal for world-class player development.”

In an accommodating setup to maximize the experience for Academy players and clubs, this year’s event will jointly be held from June 19-26. This new format was developed from feedback received from Academy clubs to eliminate the gap that existed after the U-13/14 Showcase, which ended one week earlier than the older-age Playoffs and Showcases in 2014.

The U-15/16 and U-17/18 Academy Championships will be held at the U.S. Soccer’s National Training Center in Carson, California, on July 16 and 18.

The U-13/14 Showcase games will be held June 19-22 with June 21 as the rest day.

The U-15/16 and U-17/18 Playoffs take place on June 23, 24 and 26. The Showcase games for the older-age groups will be played over four days from June 22-25, with half of the teams resting on June 23 and the other half resting on June 24. The Showcase games are for U-15/16 teams that do not qualify for the Playoffs. If both the U15/16 and U-17/18 teams do not qualify for the Playoffs, the club will bring one combined team of (U-15/16/17/18) players. Clubs selecting a mixed-aged team will submit a roster to the Academy office before the event to ensure competition against similar-aged teams.

June Academy Postseason Schedule at Grand Park:
Friday, June 19: 44 U-13/14 Showcase games
Saturday, June 20: 44 U-13/14 Showcase games
Sunday, June 21: Rest Day: Programming and meetings for Coaches and Technical Directors; travel day for U-15/16 and U-17/18 Playoff teams (if needed)
