Sheridan Police discuss recent arsons

By JEFF JELLISON

A crowd of area residents that filled the Sheridan Town Hall meeting room and overflowed into the hallway listened to members of the Sheridan Police Department discuss information on recent arsons that have occurred in the small northern Hamilton County town.

Sheridan Police Chief Bob Shock opened the meeting by stating “We will do our best to answer questions, but this is an ongoing investigation and we may not be able to provide certain information.” Shock continued, “We are asking for your help in trying to find the person responsible for these fires.”

Police presented a timeline of events that dated back to October 2014 that involved graffiti being spray painted on homes, cars, and a fence. The same graffiti has now been found spray painted at the scene of three Sheridan fires. The most recent fire occurred this month.

“With your help we can solve this,” said Shock after asking residents to report any suspicious activity they may see. “What may not seem important to you could be the case breaker for us.” Officer Kevin Garrison stated, “Somebody is going to get hurt. Please call us immediately if you see or hear anything.” Both Shock and Garrison asked residents to call 911 or 317-773-1282

to report suspicious activity. They also reminded people that a reward up to $5,000 is available through the Indiana Arson hotline for information that results in the arrest and conviction of the person responsible for the arsons. The phone number for the Arson Hotline is 1-800-382-4268.

At the meeting police described the graffiti as being the word HEX written in spray paint.

“There are a lot of people scared. I’ve talked to people who have talked about getting out of Sheridan because of this,” said Sheridan police officer Coy Monroe.

Garrison said his department is being assisted by the Hamilton County Sheriff’s Department, Alcohol Tobacco and Fire-arms agency, Fire Marshall’s Office and an investigator from an insurance agency.

Garrison, working with an FBI agent and a private fire investigator, said he has developed a potential profile of the suspected arsonist. “We believe the person is 14-30 years of age. We also have collected DNA evidence,” concluded Garrison

One year ago a fire in downtown Sheridan destroyed a historic building which served as home to PowerMail. “From my conversations with the Fire Marshall’s and ATF the PowerMail fire is unrelated to the recent fires,” said Garrison.

Jonathan Byrd’s Fieldhouse

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

There's so much that came together Wednesday morning in a piece of land that will soon stand next to the new Jonathan Byrd's Fieldhouse at Grand Park.

Imagination and dreaming big. People taking a leap of faith. Old friends working together. And another chapter in what Westfield hopes will be its growth into a premier tourism and hospitality destination.

A ceremonial groundbreaking for the new fieldhouse took place at Grand Park. Construction will begin soon, and by the end of the year, this fieldhouse - to be nicknamed "The Byrd's Nest" - will be a 90,000 square foot destination for players and fans of basketball and volleyball.

The conception of the fieldhouse started two years ago. That's when Andy Card, a local entrepreneur, was coaching his sons in AAU basketball. Card was traveling around the country, seeing different basketball facilities, and the idea began to dance around in his head.

"About two years ago, I met a couple people and it really started on a napkin in a Mexican restaurant," said Card. They kept talking, and soon that napkin idea became the 90,000 square foot indoor hoops facility that, Card said, "I believe will set the high water mark for this kind of facility around the country."

How this wound up at Grand Park is a story in itself. Card came to the park for the first time with the plan to build a pizza store. As he looked around at all the baseball diamonds and soccer fields, he talked to Steve Henke, the founder of Henke Development Group and the exclusive developer of Grand Park.

"Well, where's the basketball facility?" asked Card.

"Well, we don't have one," said Henke.

With that, Card's focus changed from pizza to basketball.

"And then from there we worked with the engineers and the architects to design the facility," said Card.

Card spoke before the ceremonial groundbreaking, before a large number of dignitaries, sports figures and media. Westfield Mayor Andy Cook was there as well.

"I'm very excited," said Cook. "Been working on this six or eight years. It's taken a lot of hard work with a lot of citizens of Westfield to develop what is Westfield's main industry, and that is tourism and hospitality."

"We surrounded ourselves with a lot of current and former NBA players, coaches, got a lot of input on the type of facility that the people would want to come and play in and that's how we designed it."

The new Jonathan Byrd's Fieldhouse will be as state of the art as 2015 allows. There will be eight courts, including a college-eligible court. Card said it will be easy to switch from basketball to volleyball as well, "because volleyball's a big part of what we're doing." The facility will also host futsal, which is a type of indoor soccer and a sport that Card is becoming more popular.

The technology will be cutting edge, as will the lighting, which Card said will be LED, a more economic and less consumptive technology than traditional incandescent lighting. There will be a restaurant at the front of the fieldhouse, as well as a large concession stand that includes healthy alternatives, as well as nachos and hot dogs.

There will also be a 7,000 square foot lounge on the inside, where players can go and relax between games. Also, the fieldhouse will host a 7,000 square foot meeting space, so business people can get as much use out of it as basketball players can.

The fieldhouse's director of operations is Rod Sinn, who moved down from Fort Wayne to join the team. Sinn worked without pay for a year, but this was something he knew was right.

"We almost did this in North Carolina seven years ago," said Sinn. "And it just didn't work out. And as Andy said, we believe things happen for a reason, and sometimes things don't happen for a reason."

A friend of Sinn's from Henke Development called and asked him to come down and look at Grand Park. Sinn traveled down to Westfield and said he "just fell in love with the place." He brought his wife down to look at it, and her decision came five minutes later.

"You have to do this," she said. "It's just been a blessing to be able to be here," said Sinn. "Now, being able to see the ground where it's going to take place is really good. This type of turnout, I think you can see where the success will be."

The construction is being handled by Lauth Properties. Mike Jones, the president of Lauth, said it was "a great opportunity." Lauth has the experience of building basketball and athletic facilities, but there's something more involved with Jones' decision.

"But more importantly, Andy and I are friends," said Jones. "We've been friends for a long time, so I look at it as a great opportunity to partner with Andy on a project that's very, very cool."

Lauth helped Card through the development, and is also acting as the contractor during the process. Jones noted that building facilities are "very challenging to do from a private development standpoint, which Andy was trying to do.

"Typically, they require public assistance to make them work," said Jones. "It's just a very difficult and challenging project, so I applaud Andy for his perseverance, getting the right players and partners on board, on his team to pull it all together."

Jones said the first order of business will be to raise the site "about three to four feet," which means there is "a significant amount of fill being imported" to Grand Park. That will take about 30 days; the fill will be used to build the pad and the parking area. Next up will be the footings and foundations of the building, and while that's going on, the utilities will be brought to the site.

"Then we move on with the structural panels and the structural steel," said Jones. "The roof goes on. Then we start taking care of the mechanical, electrical systems, the lighting, etc."

After all that is finished, then the courts and facilities will be completed. The goal is to have it completed by the time the first tournament rolls around, which is Jan. 15.

Card said there is also a soft opening scheduled right before Christmas, which he said the community will be invited to.

"We're going to plan on partnering with Wounded Warriors, with wheelchair basketball," said Card. "We're going to have a big community event in December and then around Jan. 15's our first big tournament. We have over 2,000 participants coming Jan. 15 for a very large camp."

Cook is also happy to see Grand Park continue to grow, which means more growth for Westfield as well. Already things are starting to take shape in the area surrounding the park.

"What you have right across the street and down just a little bit will be the first hotel, the Cambria Suites Hotel, is scheduled to break ground in September," said Cook. "Adjacent to that is a retail building that will have several restaurants and all in it. And as you drive around the facility, you see what looks like a lot of open ground. Well, that was done so that we can develop the hospitality industry in a well-planned manner to serve the 1.2 million visitors that we expect this year."

Grand Park is meant to develop the hospitality industry. It's meant to develop private sector investment, just like you're seeing in the hotels, you're seeing in the retail. And now you're seeing in the basketball industry. It's a private sector investment coming here to serve Grand Park and our many visitors.

Cook also knows that the addition of the Jonathan Byrd's Fieldhouse will mean more visits to Grand Park.

"Our projection for last year was about 500,000 visits to the park. We actually had over 900,000 visits last year alone. This year, year-to-date, we've had over 800,000 visits to this park. So we're well on our way to our projected 1.2 million visits to Grand Park this year. And the basketball in the years following and the indoor soccer will grow those numbers to at least 1.5 million a year. It'll be one of the top tourist destinations in the state."

Jonathan Byrd's presence will also be a major part of the new facility, as the cafeteria, a longtime Greenwood staple, expands up north. Cook said Jonathan Byrd's is "getting much more active in the catering business.

"They are the official caterer of the Indianapolis Colts," said Cook. The mayor noted that Jonathan Byrd's is investing in Grand Park's indoor soccer building as well.

"They'll have a cafeteria and a full-service production kitchen there," said Cook. "And they'll also have a food service operation here in our basketball arena."

Mildred Louise Stevens

August 17, 1931 - July 11, 2015

Mildred Louise Stevens, age 83, of Sheridan, Indiana, went home to Heaven to join the Lord and all of her loved ones on Saturday, July 11, 2015, at Riverview Hospital in Noblesville. Born August 17, 1931 to the late Clyde and Hazel (Stultz) Sanders. She was raised in the Zionsville / Sheridan countryside and attended Zionsville schools. Family always came first with Mildred. She was a dedicated, loving and caring mother and grandmother. Mildred was the go to person for all of the family when they were in need of help, or just some heartfelt advice. Mildred had many passions in life, including knitting and gardening, but the one she enjoyed most, was getting to babysit her grandchildren. She was a true Christian follower of Christ. With a smile on her face, she was selfless in her care for anyone and everyone who was in need. Mildred never had an unkind word for anybody.

She was a member of the First Baptist Church of Jolietville. On December 21, 1961, Mildred married the love of her life, her husband of 51 years, Richard C. Stevens. He preceded her in death on January 26, 2012.

Mildred will be sadly missed by her 2 sons, Randy R. Stevens and Frank Leap, Jr., both of Sheridan; 6 grandchildren, Emma, Keagan, Nick, Hannah, Frank Leap III "Frankie" and Jason Leap; 3 great grandchildren, Maddie, Ava and Jaden; and her sister, Ruby Mendell of Sheridan; many nieces and nephews; and her dear niece and friend Katie.

She was preceded in death by her parents; her husband Richard; 4 brothers, Kenny, Carl, Bud and Gerald; and 3 sisters, Beulah, Mary and Velma.

Mom, Grandma; we miss you so much. We are sad that you left us, we can't wait to see you again and give you a big kiss and hug again. All of us love you very much. Thanks mom, for allowing me to care for you, it has been an honor and a privilege. I love you, Randy.

Services will be held at 1:00 PM on Saturday, July 18, 2015, at Kercheval Funeral Home, 306 E. 10th Street, Sheridan, Indiana 46069. Burial will follow at Little Eagle Creek Cemetery in Westfield, Indiana. Pastor George Cooper will be officiating. Visitation will be from 4:00-8:00 PM on Friday, July 17, 2015, at Kercheval Funeral Home in Sheridan.

Back-to-School tips to keep kids healthy and safe

(StatePoint) Back-to-school prep means more than a trip to the office supply store. Help kids stay strong, healthy and safe this school year by putting wellness front and center.

"Thinking about back-to-school now can help parents keep kids on track for a healthy summer and start to school," says Dr. Sandra Hassink, MD, FAAP, President of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

With that in mind, Hassink recommends taking the following steps.

Ease into the School Schedule

Ease the back-to-school transition by keeping bedtime and meals scheduled during the summer and adjusting timing as school approaches. If your child has been going to bed later than usual, begin adjusting his or her bedtime earlier toward the end of summer. Depending on age, children and teens need between 8.5 to 9.5 hours of sleep nightly.

For young children, arranging to see their new classroom and meet their new teacher before school starts can calm first day jitters. Go over the school schedule with your child, including how she will get to school and what the plans are for after school time.

Schedule a Pediatric Visit

The back-to-school season is a good time for scheduling a pediatric exam. Create a list of items you want to discuss with your child's pediatrician. This list should include ensuring your child is up-to-date on vaccinations, a crucial part of preventive care.

It's a good idea to build a medical home with a pediatrician by sticking with one doctor or medical practice throughout childhood and adolescence. The doctor will be better informed of your child's medical history and aware of any emerging problems.

Beyond medical testing, pediatricians are well-equipped to counsel patients and parents on emotional and social issues, as well as issues that often crop up during adolescence, such as smoking, drugs, drinking, sexual activity and depression.

"Parents can ask a pediatrician about anything related to the care of their child or teen, medical or not," says Dr Hassink. "The visit can be a good way to bring up these issues."

Consider Sports

Sports can foster confidence, cooperation and healthy habits, and the start of the school year brings many opportunities to join various programs.

Hydration, nutrition and proper conditioning are important for any sport, especially those with intense training in warm weather. Schedule a sports physical with your pediatrician to discuss your child's overall health and how to prevent injuries.

Talk Safety

If your child will be walking to school, travel the route with him to assess its safety. Find out about traffic patterns and crossing guards. Teach your child safety rules like looking both ways. If possible, have your child commute with an older sibling or neighbor. If your child will be riding a bike or skateboard, be sure he wears a helmet. Review basic rules for safer riding. Bus riders should also be mindful of safety rules, like remaining in one's seat and listening to the driver.

More back-to-school tips can be found at www.healthychildren.org.

As a parent, you can take steps to help ensure your children are prepared for a happy, healthy school year.

Indiana Agriculture Report...

Increased rainfall pressures crops

There was a momentary break in rainy weather only for it to return with a fierce vengeance, according the USDA, NASS, Great Lakes Region. Fields that had begun to dry due to the improved weather quickly suffered a relapse of ponding and over saturation. Ponded areas coupled with cooler conditions have expanded the plant mortality area. There were 1.8 days suitable for field work, 0.7 days lower than the previous week.

Winter wheat harvest was delayed for many farmers by frequent rains, keeping the crop moisture high and the fields too damp to support harvest equipment. The excess moisture along with cooler temperatures left some of the matured and harvested wheat sprouting and molding, as well as suffering from aflatoxin and vomitoxin. Delays in winter wheat harvest has put a damper on planting doublecropped soybeans. Brown stem rot was present in several late planted soybean fields. Many farmers were unable to apply nitrogen and much needed fungicide on corn and soybeans, keeping both crops under 50% good to excellent condition. Similarly, reduced herbicide applications and increased rainfall has made weed control near impossible. A spike in flies, mosquitoes, and buffalo gnats have caused problems for some livestock. Feedlot conditions have worsened. First and second cuttings of hay continued to be significantly behind last year, although the fields remained lush and healthy. Cucumber and blueberry harvest has begun. Other activities for the week included finishing up certifying acres with FSA, cleaning ditches, mowing roadsides, and installing spray on fields via crop-dusters.

Regionally, winter wheat mature was 81% in the North, 86% in Central and 99% in the South. By region winter wheat harvested was 5% in the North, 25% in Central and 77% in the South. Soybeans blooming was 16% complete in the North, 11% in Central and 22% in the South. Corn silking was 3% complete in the North, 6% in Central and 21% in South.

Carmel traffic alert...

New traffic pattern on Illinois Street

A new traffic pattern will be put into place on or after today, Wednesday, July 15, along Illinois Street between 106th and 103rd streets as part of the Illinois Street extension project. The change will aid with the construction of the roundabout at 106th and Illinois and the Indiana Department of Transportation's U.S. 31 project.

The new pattern will merge both north and southbound lanes of Illinois Street into the existing northbound Illinois Street lanes. By executing this traffic adjustment, construction crews should be able to remove entirely or reduce the 15-day full closure on Illinois Street needed to connect the new Illinois Street alignment with the existing Illinois Street alignment.

Street Dance winners announced

The 24th annual Street Dance, organized by Noblesville Main Street and presented by Riverview Health and the City of Noblesville, was indeed a night to remember. Record crowds packed the downtown square to enjoy the Kids Zone, Marketplace, Business Showcase, food vendors and a variety of entertainment.

Karaoke with The Bishops was a crowd favorite and each finalist, Josh Rodkey and Kristen Moore, brought a strong contingent of supporters to hear them sing live. Kristen opened the competition with “Girl Crush” by Little Big Town and Josh followed performing “Don’t Stop Believing” by Journey. The crowd was asked to vote via applause. Kristen was crowned the winner and awarded a cash prize of $100.

One entry in the annual car show took home two of the three top honors. Ken Mushen’s 1969 Chevrolet El Camino caught the Mayor’s eye leading to the Mayor’s Choice award. Ken’s entry also won the public’s approval garnering him the People’s Choice award. The Best in Show award went to Bert Souder and his 1953 Ford F-100. Overall 22 cars participated in this annual event.

“We had a tremendous evening and response to the Street Dance this year. Not only did we see several friends and neighbors from Noblesville, we hosted our guests from Noblesville Sister Cities – Nova Prata and Cittadella along with several visitors from Central Indiana to enjoy one of the Summer football....

Fishers: finding a tailback

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

How do you replace a Maurice Campbell, the outstanding Fishers tailback who led the Hoosier Crossroads Conference in rushing last season. Whenever Fishers fans watched a running play, Campbell most likely had the pigskin.

The answer to that question is, you don't. That's why Coach Rick Wimmer this summer is looking at three Tigers for a replacement. All three are likely to see action. One is senior Jeremy Chinn, a defensive standout who will have to share his playing time with the offense. Senior Jermaine Huddleston saw playing time at tailback last year. A third prospect is a junior, Trevor Newman.

"We won't be using just one tailback like we did with Campbell last year," Wimmer said.

Fishers lost an outstanding receiver in Simeon Foster but has one of the best in the conference returning in senior Chris Thomas.

The coach said his Tigers are going through a "busy but good" Summer.

"We spent time at the (Dick) Dullaghan team camp," Wimmer continued. "We had seven workouts in three days, playing Ben Davis, Warren Central, Columbus East, Crown Point and Whiteland."

While the tailback situation will be new, the quarterback spot won't with the return of Zach Eaton, the third leading passer in the conference last season. Wimmer said the senior veteran will have a backup push from Brent Hays, a senior.

Wimmer said the offensive line will be as "deep as we've had for a while" with the return of Titus Martin, Chase Bowser and Gavin Laffoon and other talent in Charlie Bernhardt, Eric Fahrnkopf, and Seth Rogers.

The defense will be led by R.J. Potts, who was outstanding as a safety last year as a sophomore. Chinn also will be in that secondary, and returning at linebacker will be Trent Nielson.

"Our defensive line will be deep," said Wimmer.

Prospects there are Taylor, Steven Chakiry, Eli Kipp, Angelo Howze and a new face, Kris Sanders.

Wimmer said he is excited about the schedule, especially the new non- conference schedule which has North Central, Cathedral and Pike.

North Central and Pike are from the tough MIC Conference.

"We will play Cathedral at Victory Field (baseball home of the Indianapolis Indians)," pointed out the coach. "The Cathedral game will be the first football game ever played at Victory Field."

Indianapolis' Julia Potter soared to a 10-shot lead after the second round of the 93rd Indiana Women Golf Association's State Amateur Championship at Meshingomesia Country Club in Marion.

Birdies on holes 3, 6 and 12 contributed to Potter's 36-hole total of 3-under-par.

After yesterday's round players were placed into six flights. The top 20 and ties compose the Championship Flight at 16-over-par and better.

In that championship flight are Carmel's Maggie Rees, Fishers' Michelle Morgan, Fishers' Brooke Beegle and Westfield's Cailyn Henderson.

Rees and Morgan are in a tie for 10th with 157s and Beegle and Henderson are in a tie for 14th with 159s.

New Gold Card offers senior citizens access to free NHS events

Noblesville Schools announced today that senior citizens in the community will now be able to attend Noblesville High School (NHS) events free of charge through a new Gold Card program.

The card offers free, general admission access to NHS home varsity, junior varsity and freshman athletic events, as well as NHS drama performances. Those interested in reserving home football or basketball seats can do so with a $15 charge.

For drama events, the card must be shown in advance to secure an actual ticket, but for athletic events it will be accepted in lieu of a ticket. The card will not provide admission to Indiana High School Athletic Association events (such as sectionals), athletic events held at other schools, or middle school events. Elementary school events are already free of charge.

To be eligible for a Gold Card, seniors must be at least 60 years of age before the first official day of the school year and currently reside in the City of Noblesville/Noblesville Township.

The card is good for one school year and must be applied for in the NHS athletic office located within the high school at 18111 Cumberland Road, Noblesville. The athletic office is open from 8am-3pm and will begin issuing cards on July 27, 2015. Applicants should bring current identification to provide proof of age and residency.

Hanson and Wood spark IL's rally at Midsummer Classic

Alen Hanson singled and scored the game-winning run in the top of the ninth inning and closer Blake Wood earned the save in his first career All-Star appearance as the International League edged the Pacific Coast League, 4-3, in the 2015 Triple-A All-Star game Wednesday night at Werner Park.

Matt Hague, the Tribe's all-time Victory Field hits leader, donned a jersey other than the Indians for the first time in three career trips to the Triple-A Midsummer Classic, and opened the game with an RBI single for the IL's lone run until the ninth inning.

The PCL tied the game and took the lead on homers in the sixth and eighth frames before Hanson poked a single into right field to load the bases with no outs in the bottom of the ninth.

New York Yankees prospect Kyle Rollier tied the game and singled Hanson to third with one out in the inning. The Tribe's top prospect Hanson then sprinted home on a bloop hit to left field from Lehigh Valley's Tyler Henson to give the IL its 4-3 lead.

Wood took the mound as his team's final available reliever and worked around a pair of walks to author a scoreless ninth and pick up the save.

IndyCar news and notes...

NBCSN viewership up for second straight event

For the second consecutive event, viewership of an NBCSN telecast of a Verizon IndyCar Series race showed a significant viewership gain over the 2014 race. NBCSN's July 12 telecast of the ABC Supply Co. Inc. Wisconsin 250 at Milwaukee IndyFest marked the network's most-watched Verizon IndyCar Series race since Sept. 4, 2011, at Baltimore, with an average viewership of 532,000. That is up 66 percent over the 2014 race at The Milwaukee Mile. On June 27, the MAVTV 500 recorded more than an 80 percent gain over the 2014 race at Auto Club Speedway. Average viewership and ratings for all Verizon IndyCar Series telecasts this season is up over 2014, which showed a 25 percent gain over the previous year. NBCSN telecasts the Iowa Corn 300 live from Iowa Speedway at 8 p.m. ET July 18 as the Verizon IndyCar Series championship remains up for grabs. The network also will telecast races Aug. 2 at Mid-Ohio Sports Car Course and Aug. 23 at Pocono

Raceway leading into the finale Aug. 30 at Sonoma Raceway. The Verizon IndyCar Series championship has been decided in the final race for the past nine years, and the GoPro Grand Prix of Sonoma carries double points just to make it more interesting for contenders. There have been eight different winners in the 12 races this season. Bourdais a Driver of All Types So what does a driver do after winning a race? If you're Sebastien Bourdais and you just won the ABC Supply Wisconsin 250, you hop behind the wheel of your family's motorcoach and drive it to the next event, the Iowa Corn 300. Following a victory tour of Milwaukee morning shows July 13, Bourdais packed up his wife, Claire, children, Emma and Alex, and a the spoils of victory - a 22-pound wheel of cheese - in the motorhome and headed to Newton, Iowa, and another opportunity for Bourdais to continue his ascent in the Verizon IndyCar Series standings. Through three-fourths of the Verizon IndyCar Series season, he's secured two victories and five other top-10 finishes and stands in sixth place in the championship. Bourdais, who gathered up his son and daughter in his arms minutes after prevailing over Helio Castroneves by 2.2366 seconds in the arduous 250-lap Milwaukee race, won for the fifth time on an oval. "It's one of those days where just everything works out," said Bourdais, who led three times for a field-high 118 laps on the 1.015-mile oval. Of course, it's worked out well over Bourdais' Indy car career - 34 victories to tie Al Unser Jr. for seventh all time, four series championships and 33 pole starts - that was bisected by an unsatisfying stint in Formula One.

"I respect the stats because you put yourself on a very special list with very respected and great drivers. But I don't live for stats," said Bourdais. "I don't look and contemplate myself. It's not me. I just enjoy the moment, have fun with it." Driving for powerhouse Newman/Haas Racing from 2003-07, Bourdais won 41 percent of his starts. He returned to Indy car racing part time in 2011 and didn't compete in a full season until 2013 with over-matched Dragon Racing. Now in his second year with KVSH Racing, co-owned by former Indy car driver Jimmy Vasser, Kevin Kalkhoven and James "Sully" Sullivan, the on-track performance is matching his competitive spirit in waves. "(KVSH Racing) gave me a chance to finally get me back in a car that's something able to contend for wins," he said. "Not every weekend, but it's a very competitive field. When you look who can win every weekend, it's actually not so easy. "I'm 36 years old, and I don't feel I've been any better than I am right now. I'm just hoping it lasts as long as it can."

Consistency Leads to Positive Results for Andretti Marco Andretti is the only Verizon IndyCar Series driver this season to complete every lap of all 12 races. That's 1,557 laps without a mechanical failure, issues with the Honda engines or on-track incident. Cumulatively, it represents opportunities for the Andretti Autosport driver to deliver results. Since finishing sixth in the 99th Running of the Indianapolis 500 Mile Race, Andretti has reeled off four top fives in past six races in his No. 27 Andretti Autosport Honda. He placed eighth in the ABC Supply Wisconsin 250. "I attribute the consistency, really maximizing what we have, to the 27 team in general," he said. "My dad (team owner Michael Andretti) is calling awesome races, everybody on the timing stand is doing a great job, the guys are flawless in the pits, my engineer (Nathan O'Rourke) is a rock star. I'm really pleased with the 27 side. "It's putting yourself in good positions, knowing when to go for it and when to not. That comes with experience."

There's extended optimism for this weekend's Iowa Corn 300. Andretti Autosport drivers have won the past five races and six of the eight at the 0.894-mile oval. Marco Andretti has four top-three finishes, including a victory in 2011, in eight starts. "We roll off there with good cars; the team's record there is better than mine," he said. "That's the first thing; you have to have a good car and then you need to execute. Those podiums of mine are great, but we want to win races."

On July 1, Andretti and CFH Racing co-owner/driver Ed Carpenter in the No. 20 Fuzzy's Vodka Chevrolet tested aerodynamic components on the variably-banked track to confirm INDYCAR's race-specific configurations. Andretti said the racing should be similar to the past, which means excitement throughout the 268.2 miles under the lights. "The behavior of the car we were pretty happy with toward the end of the test," he said. "I think we were about a change away from having a car that can win a race."

Drivers 'Get Found' with 'Paper Towns' Best-Selling Author Green

Verizon IndyCar Series drivers Josef Newgarden, Sage Karam and Conor Daly walked the red carpet July 14 at a special event in downtown Indianapolis to promote New York Times bestselling author John Green's latest film, "Paper Towns." Green and actors Nat Wolff and Halston Sage, who both star in the coming-of-age film based on Green's young adult-oriented novel of the same name, were in Indianapolis as a part of their "Get Lost Get Found" tour in advance of the July 23 theatrical release of "Paper Towns." It is the second movie made from one of Green's books. "The Fault in Our Stars" was in theaters last summer and another movie based on his novel, "Looking for Alaska," is in the works. Green, an Indianapolis resident, is a fan of the Verizon IndyCar Series and is known for riding his bicycle to the Indianapolis 500 Mile Race. Newgarden, Karam and Daly, three of INDYCAR's rising stars, walked the red carpet at the Old National Centre before attending the event, which consisted of a fans' question-and-answer session with Green and the actors. Afterward, the drivers snapped photos with Green, the actors and Indianapolis Colts players Anthony Castonzo and Jack Mewhort. Newgarden, winner of two Verizon IndyCar Series races this season and the pole winner at last weekend's ABC Supply Wisconsin 250 at The Milwaukee Mile, was excited to meet Green.

"He's met a lot of the other INDYCAR guys and he's been such a big supporter of the series and (is) a fan," Newgarden said. "That was the best part for me, just getting to meet him and chat with him and see what he does in his world."
