The County Line

Former sheriff's residence is cornerstone of NPA Tour

By FRED SWIFT
The 28th annual tour of homes presented by the Noblesville Preservation Alliance is scheduled for September 20. The NPA says there are eight historic homes on the tour, all in the old town area. I was always told that old does not necessarily mean historic, but I don't want to take issue with my friends at NPA, a worthy organization to be sure.

The one truly historic structure on the tour this year, and every year, is the 1875 former county sheriff's residence and jail located right on the Courthouse grounds. It is actually older than the courthouse by three years.

It escaped demolition in the 1980s when a new jail was opened and the old structure appeared to serve no useful purpose. Fortunately, the county historical society stepped forward and offered to maintain it as a county museum which it is today.

As a young newspaper reporter in the late 1960s I visited the place almost daily. It was the most informal and unsecured jail one can imagine. I would walk in the open back door, look at the daily log, walk on back to the kitchen where the sheriff, his wife, a perhaps another visitor were having coffee.

Casual conversation would usually reveal any news from overnight. It was easy, friendly and very much like a real-life Mayberry. No one worried about terrorists or jail breaks and there never were any.

But, the interesting story of the building involves three men confined there who all made real history, none of it good.

Charles Manson was a teenage runaway from the Marion County Juvenile Center in 1947 when he was caught and jailed here before being sent to the Boy's School. He went on to involvement in an infamous 1960s murder spree in California for which he remains in prison today.

D.C. Stephenson, during the early 1920s the self-proclaimed most powerful man in Indiana as head of the Ku Klux Klan, was held in the jail during his murder trial and at various times thereafter when he appeared in Circuit Court seeking release from state prison. He was eventually released and moved to Tennessee where he died in 1963.

William Dudley Pelley, leader of the national pro-Nazi Silver Legion prior to World War II, was jailed here in 1942 after being charged with treason and sedition. He then spent eight years in prison before his release and return to his Noblesville home where he died in 1965.

The sheriff's residence portion of the building which includes seven rooms, is furnished with antiques except for a display room and a library. The cellblocks remain as they were when the last inmates left nearly 40 years ago.

The structure served as sheriff's headquarters, residence and jail for more than a century. About 15 different sheriffs lived in the building, the last being Cliff McCory. One of the sheriffs was a Democrat if you can imagine that, elected when the Republican candidate announced that if elected he would not carry a gun. Voters apparently thought that might not be a wise idea.

3rd of 4 shows...

Music & All That Jazz continues this Friday

Noblesville Main Street and Executive Director Chris Owens are pleased to announce that Music & All That Jazz will return to the courthouse square for the third of four shows this Friday, August 21, 2015.

The David Hartman Band is a local favorite and will be the featured group this week. The hometown guys always serve up a jazzy blend of standards, pop/rock and original tunes. The band consists of Jason Jasper on sax/EWI/vocals, Don Smith on trumpet/vocals, Tom Fowler on guitar, Greg Gegogaine on bass, David Hampton on drums and David Hartman on guitar. If you like an eclectic mix of music – from Allman Brothers, Wes Montgomery, The Beatles, AC/DC, Monk, Duke Ellington, Latin, Swing, and Blues – you will be tapping your feet to this band's originals and arrangements.

The final performance in this year's series will feature The Tucker Brothers Band on September 4th.

Noblesville Main Street invites our community to the beautiful historic courthouse square for fun evenings this summer. All performances are 7-9 p.m.

Fishers' ConsulTeam announces plans for 56 high-wage jobs

Fishers-based ConsulTeams, LLC announced plans today to create 56 new high wage jobs and invest approximately $775,000 by December 2019. The company offers businesses and aspiring entrepreneurs the opportunity to connect with leading talent quickly, easily and affordably.

"Indiana's tech sector is advancing because companies like ConsulTeams recognize the strengths of the Hoosier State," said Victor Smith, Indiana Secretary of Commerce. "Our state's low taxes and low cost of doing business create a predictable business climate, allowing growing companies to expand and create new jobs with confidence. And with top universities like Notre Dame, Purdue and Rose Hulman training tomorrow's workforce, we have Hoosiers ready to fill the highly-skilled jobs this industry demands."

Established in 2015, ConsulTeams is a privately held company, founded by experienced executives Haresh Gangwani and David Cochran, serving a diverse clientele. ConsulTeams, LLC, a unique Web-based micro-consulting SaaS marketplace, announced today that it has selected Fishers, IN as its headquarters. Still in early stage development, ConsulTeams has recently added two new professional staff positions and intends to grow substantially over the next few years.

Haresh Gangwani, ConsulTeams CEO and Co-Founder stated that "Central Indiana has long been a launching pad for industry-leading technology enterprises and our business model, based on improving access to expertise, is a natural byproduct of working in an area so rich in both entrepreneurship and talent. We're excited to have the opportunity to build on this great foundation."

The Indiana Economic Development Corporation offered ConsulTeams up to $875,000 in conditional tax credits and up to $25,000 in training grants based on the company's job creation plans. These tax credits are performance-based, meaning until Hoosiers are hired, the company is not eligible to claim incentives.

"We are excited that ConsulTeams has decided to build its business in Fishers," said Mayor Scott Fadness. "The vision of their leadership fits perfectly with the entrepreneurial spirit that is alive and well here. High-potential start-ups like ConsulTeams are quickly becoming the economic drivers in central Indiana, and I'm glad they selected our community."

Purdue, IU students...

Expect delays if moving in via S.R. 37 or I-65

The Indiana Department of Transportation advises students moving in to Indiana University and Purdue University to plan extra travel time on I-65 between Lebanon and Lafayette and State Road 37 between Martinsville and Bloomington.

I-65 north closed from Lebanon to Lafayette

I-65 northbound merges to one lane and is diverted onto U.S. 52 north of Lebanon at Exit 141. The northbound lanes are closed to all traffic between U.S. 52 and State Road 25 (Exit 175) due to structural concerns caused by bridge construction in Lafayette. The I-65 southbound lanes, however, remain open.

Detoured traffic should follow U.S. 52 north to a temporary signal at State Road 28. Traffic should turn left onto S.R. 28 to follow the detour to West Lafayette via U.S. 231, or drivers may proceed north through the signal to Lafayette. Drivers should be aware that Sagamore Parkway, the former U.S. 52 through Lafayette, is reduced to one lane in each direction for construction.

S.R. 37 lane closures from Martinsville to Bloomington

Drivers should anticipate State Road 37 lane closures from Martinsville to Bloomington for pavement rehabilitation and other construction. Additional lane closures will occur on weekends between 7 p.m. Friday and 6 a.m. Monday.

South of State Road 39 in Martinsville, S.R. 37 is being upgraded to Interstate 69. The state's contract limits work zone deliveries during move-in week, and includes financial damages for long traffic backups.

NextGear adding 200 jobs at Hamilton County headquarters

NextGear Capital, an automotive financial services provider for auto dealers, announced plans to add up to 200 new jobs by 2018.

The company plans to make substantial investments exceeding $50.88 million to lease and renovate its corporate offices in Carmel to support its growing customer service and technology divisions. Additionally, NextGear Capital plans to upgrade its technology infrastructure and software to better serve its more than 20,000 customers.

"Indiana stands out as a regional leader for job growth, and companies like NextGear Capital repeatedly choose Indiana as a home for their expansions because of our pro-growth policies and low-regulation business environment," said Governor Pence. "One of our greatest strengths is in our workforce, and after meeting with the hardworking Hoosiers who make NextGear Capital's success possible back in March of 2013, I'm excited to announce today this additional expansion here in the Hoosier State."

The announcement marks the company's second expansion in recent years. In 2013, Pence joined NextGear Capital to announce the company's headquarters expansion in Carmel, creating up to 169 new Hoosier jobs. The company has since exceeded those plans, now employing more than 430 Indiana-based associates. NextGear Capital is currently hiring customer service and technology associates. Interested applicants may apply at <http://jobs.manheim.com/careers/nextgear-capital-jobs>.

"NextGear Capital's success can be attributed to our talented workforce, both here and across the country, who work diligently every day to ensure our customers' needs are met and embody the work ethic and family values that Indiana is known for," said Brian Geitner, president of NextGear Capital.

NextGear Capital serves more than 20,000 automotive dealers with inventory financing services across the United States, Canada and the United Kingdom. The company is a part of Cox Automotive, which includes industry-leading brands Autotrader, Kelley Blue Book and Manheim. Originating more than $13 billion in dealer inventory financing last year, NextGear Capital has become a global leader in inventory finance for independent auto dealers. Recently, the company's chief technology officer Bryan Everly was named CTO of the Year for Private Companies with over $100 Million Revenue by the Indianapolis Business Journal and Tech-Point.

The Indiana Economic Development Corporation offered NextGear Capital Inc. up to $1,600,000 in conditional tax credits and up to $85,000 in training grants based on the company's job creation plans. These incentives are performance-based, meaning until Hoosiers are hired, the company is not eligible to claim incentives. The city of Carmel supports the project.

"We were thrilled last year when NextGear Capital moved into its new corporate headquarters in Carmel, which we took as a reflection of the strong high-tech business community we enjoy," said Carmel Mayor Jim Brainard. "NextGear Capital has been one of Indiana's true technology success stories and today's news of another expansion in its workforce is great news for Carmel and all of central Indiana."

Growing companies like NextGear Capital continue to select Hamilton County for their job creation plans. Earlier this summer, nonprofit computer coding school Eleven Fifty Academy and corporate coding firm Eleven Fifty Consulting announced plans to grow their operations, committing to create a combined 92 new jobs in the coming years.

U.S. 31 update...

Old Meridian Street ramp re-opens, 103rd Street access soon to close

On Wednesday, crews opened the ramp from northbound US 31 to Old Meridian Street following a closure that started last month. Motorists may once again access Old Meridian Street on this one-way ramp from northbound US 31.

103rd Street to close permanently on or after September 6

Beginning on or after September 6, crews plan to permanently remove access to/from US 31 at 103rd Street. When the traffic signal at US 31/103rd Street is removed, southbound US 31 access to the eastbound and westbound I-465 ramps will become free-flowing from south of 106th Street.

As part of the final configuration of US 31, 103rd Street will become a cul-de-sac on either side of US 31, and nearby access to/from US 31 will remain available via I-465, 106th Street and 116th Street. The 103rd Street closure will not begin until after the City of Carmel opens 106th Street at Illinois Street (expected in early September).

Access to/from US 31 and St. Vincent Health/Heart Center will remain available via 106th Street. See the map illustration below for suggested routes to St. Vincent Health/Heart Center from northbound and southbound US 31 following the 103rd Street closure.

Graphic courtesy Indiana Department of Transportation

Suggested access to St. Vincent Heart Center and St. Vincent Health

Route from northbound US 31

Route from southbound US 31

To access St. Vincent Heart Center and St. Vincent Health from southbound US 31, turn right on 106th Street, and then head south on Illinois Street for the hospital entrances.

Hamilton Heights and Mt. Vernon, down through the years, have slugged it out with some great games on the hardwood.

Now, Friday evening, the Huskies and the Marauders will meet on the gridiron in a season opener at Fortville.

It will be the first football meeting between two successful football programs.

Heights seems to always be successful. Coach Mitch Street's club is coming off a 9-3 season which ended in a 28-20 loss to Guerin Catholic in the championship game of the sectional.

Doug Armstrong turned around Mt. Vernon football when he became the head coach four years, going 5-5. Since that time the Marauders have gone 26-9 and three years ago won a sectional championship.

Heights lost a ton of talent from last year's team, led in scoring (120 points) by Grant Weatherford. Also gone is Jesse Kerfoot, who carried the football 100 times for a total of 688 yards.

But, typically of Heights football, Street's seems to have reloaded the guns.

In the running game, sophomore Jesse Brown returns after carrying the ball 43 times for 161 yards; junior Clayton Cowan with 156 yards in 41 carries, and senior Nathan Roth 52 carries for 256 yards.

The slinger at quarterback, senior Ethan Jones, last year passed for 1,208 yards and 14 touchdowns.

There's another Weatherford in the picture, junior Sterling Weatherford, a tight

Guerin Catholic Football...

Charlebois is new gun slinger

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

Last season Matt Labus passed for over 2,300 yards for Guerin Catholic’s football team. A year later, this season, Labus is gone and it’s a challenge of “next man up” for Coach Tom Dilley at the quarterback slot.

In Guerin’s scrimmage session last Friday that “next man” was Elliott Charlebois, a 6-2, 190-pound junior. He ran for one touchdown and he completed three touch-down passes, two to Arion Shinaver and one to Jack Freudenthal.

“The Gold Rush offense was led by Carter McGinnis, Sam McDaniel, Brennan Thieneman, Dawson McMahon and Elliott Charlebois,” said Dilley.

McGinnis carried 120 times and gained 544 yards last season. He rushed for seven touchdowns.

McGinnis, Charlebois, Shinaver, Vinny Ferrucci and Freudenthal all will be in the starting backfield when Guerin Catholic opens its season Friday on the road at Martinsville.

Dilley says his defense has improved this summer.

“The defense also improved during camp and performed well in the scrimmage,” said the coach.

Jake Labus recorded an interception for the Purple Haze and Zach Shewmaker recovered a fumble.

In a three-game series, Guerin Catholic has had its problems with Martinsville. The Golden Eagles lost 28-24 last year, 48-13 two years ago and 37-30 in the first meeting three years ago.

Martinsville had good teams all three years, going 7-4, 7-3 and 7-3. Last year Martinsville defeated Bloomington North Carmel will host 2A No. 6 Guerin Catholic Saturday night at Murray Stadium. Southeastern travels to the South Bend Saint Joseph tournament this week, playing No. 18 Chesterton, No. 8 Penn and Homestead, which received votes in the 2A pre-season poll.

Montoya a master of 500-Mile races

Even though he has seen what was a commanding championship lead become tenuous, Team Penske's Juan Pablo Montoya maintains an unwavering mental approach for the final two races of the Verizon IndyCar Series season.

"The best way to earn points is winning, and we can only control what we do, not what others do," said Montoya, who enters the ABC Supply 500 at Pocono Raceway on Aug. 23 with a nine-point lead over Rahal Letterman Lanigan Racing's Graham Rahal and a 34-point margin on Target Chip Ganassi Racing's Scott Dixon. "It's unfortunate that we have given back some points over the last few races. Our results at Iowa and Mid-Ohio weren't anything that we could control. The No. 2 Verizon Chevy team gave me good cars and we had ourselves in decent positions to have good finishes."

If history is a guide, Montoya has an edge this weekend at Pocono, winning from the pole there in 2014. In 10 previous 500-mile races during his Indy car career, Montoya has won four times, led in all 10 and his average position of finish is 3.3. Last year's Pocono race had but a single caution period and set an Indy car record for 500-mile races with an average winning speed of 202.402 mph.

The top 10 drivers in points are still mathematically eligible for the title heading to Pocono. With double points available in the season-ending GoPro Grand Prix of Sonoma available on Aug. 30, any driver within 104 points of the leader after Pocono still has a shot heading to Sonoma Raceway.

"It's going to be right down to the wire," said Roger Penske, owner of Montoya's car and those of fellow championship contenders Helio Castroneves and Will Power. "Dixon is very good out there. Rahal is on a bit of a roll right now. We just have to keep our head on, and I think Montoya is the kind of guy you want on your driver's team when it comes down to a fight."

and went on to win the title in a tie-breaker over Dario Franchitti.

Other championship facts heading to the ABC Supply 500 at Pocono Raceway:

- Montoya has led the championship since winning the opening round of the 16-race season at St. Petersburg in March. His largest margin over second place was 54 points following the 12th race, the ABC Supply Co. Inc. Wisconsin 250 at The Milwaukee Mile on July 12. The nine-point edge Montoya currently holds over Graham Rahal is the narrowest since Montoya led Will Power by five points following the Angie's List Grand Prix of Indianapolis, the fifth race of the season, on May 9.

- There are 10 drivers still mathematically eligible for the 2015 championship: Montoya, Rahal, Scott Dixon, Helio Castroneves, Power, Sebastien Bourdais, Marco Andretti, Josef Newgarden, Tony Kanaan and Simon Pagenaud. Five of those drivers - Montoya, Dixon, Power, Bourdais and Kanaan - have previously won an Indy car title.

- Since Indy cars first raced at Pocono in 1971, the winning driver at the track has gone on to win the championship six times: Joe Leonard (1972), A.J. Foyt (1975 and 1979), Tom Sneva (1977), Rick Mears (1982) and Dixon (2013).

- A Team Penske driver has led the championship with two races to go in six of the last seven seasons. Those drivers are: Ryan Briscoe (2009), Power (2010, 2012 and 2014), Castroneves (2013) and Montoya (2015).

- The nine points that separate Montoya and Rahal is the fourth closest margin with two races to go since 2007. The 34 points between Montoya and third-place Dixon is the closest margin between first and third since 2009.

Honda Celebrates 20th Anniversary of 1st Indy Car Win

Honda Performance Development celebrates the 20th anniversary of its first Indy car win this week. On Aug. 20, 1995, Andre Ribeiro drove his Honda-powered Tasman Motorsports Reynard to victory in the New England 200 at what is now called New Hampshire Motor Speedway.

It marked an incredible turn of fortune for HPD, which failed to qualify a car for the 1994 Indianapolis 500 Mile Race, then nearly won the '95 Indy 500 with Scott Goodyear - until Goodyear was penalized for passing the pace car during a late caution period. Perseverance and hard work paid off with Ribeiro's win, the first of what is now 216 and counting for Honda in Indy car competition.

"When I started with HPD, it was at the depths of our despair, if you will, as we just had not qualified for the (1994) Indy 500," said Steve Eriksen, currently HPD's COO and vice president who was a Honda associate at the time. "We set about resolving our issues and trying to be successful and, in fact, the next year rolled around and we were heading out to Surfers Paradise (Australia) and I'm not going because I'm with the test team and there was a test at Indy."

"I remember that test vividly because it was the first test that we ran over 230 mph around the track. We did it on a test day when there were no other competitors there and no public and we pulled the transponder out of the car because we didn't want anyone knowing how fast we were going. We did our lap, videoed it and photographed it and came back to pit lane. That was sort of the defining moment that said, 'We've done it, we made it.'

...Take My Children By The Hand

My children started school this week. It's going to be strange and new to them for a while. And I wish you would sort of treat them gently. You see, up to now, they have been king and queen of the roost. They have been boss of the backyard. I have always been around to repair their wounds and to soothe their feelings. But now things are going to be different. This morning, they are going to walk down the front steps, wave their hands and start on their great adventure that will probably include wars, tragedy and sorrow. To live their lives in the world they have to live in will require faith and love and courage. So, World, I wish you would sort of take them by their young hand and teach them the things they will have to know. Teach them - but gently, if you can. They will have to learn, I know, that not all men are just, that not all men are true. Teach them that for every scoundrel, there is a hero - that for every crooked politician, there is a dedicated leader - that for every enemy, there is a friend. Let them learn early that the bullies are the easiest people to lick. Teach them the wonder of books. Give them quiet time to ponder the eternal mystery of birds in the sky, bees in the sun and flowers on a green hill. Teach them that it is far more honorable to fail than to cheat. Teach them to have faith in their own ideas, even if everyone else tells them they are wrong. Try to give my children the strength not to follow the crowd when everyone else is getting on the bandwagon. Teach them to listen to all men, but filter all they hear on a screen of truth and to take only the good that comes through. Teach them to close their ears on a howling mob - and to stand and fight if they're right. Teach them that the word AMERICAN ends with...I can! Teach them gently, World, but don't coddle them because only the test of fire makes fine steel. This is a big order, World, but see what you can do...They're such nice children.
