A little gumption goes a long way

By JANET HART LEONARD

And so I am sitting at the kitchen table. I am writing and pondering.

The scent of an Apple Honey Butter candle adds flavor to the bagel spread with pumpkin cream cheese and I'm sipping pumpkin flavored coffee.

And life is good. Perhaps I understand the value of good because of the challenges of bad.

The thunder rolls. It will be a soggy morning at the Farmer's Market but it won't stop me.

I've learned that not much of anything stops me from what I really want to do...or need to do.

I was telling a story to a couple of "new chapter of my life friends" this past Wednesday evening.

Yes, it was a middle of the week, even though we had to work the next day, gathering. We were celebrating my friend Georgia's final radiation treatment for breast cancer. Yippee! We did the Happy Day Dance! We wanted the celebration on THAT day! No excuse for it being the middle of the work week.

Anyway, back to my story that I was telling Terri and Georgia. Many years ago, when I had a lot less gumption, I had to go into a meeting where I did not want to be. I had seen a wrong being done and I felt my courage had risen to the occasion. My calmness came as a surprise. I simply spoke from my heart. There was 90% compassion and 10% I'll show you who's boss in the room. The compassion won. A major wrong was righted.

Compassion, mercy, grace and kindness are sometimes seen as weaknesses. Oh, but they are not. They are much needed in a world so full of self-

Imagine the old North Central Co-op grain elevator as a carousel automated car-parking system. That's one of the ideas that local developed Rocky Shanehsaz has for the historic facility. The Hamilton County Area Neighborhood Development (HAND) has plans to turn the property into affordable apartments, but Shanehsaz said that the Co-op gave him first rights to buy.

Rocky says...

Misrepresenting preservation

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

The disagreement among Wabash-based North Central Co-op, local businessman Rocky Shanehsaz and Hamilton County Area Neighborhood Development (HAND) basically is simple.

*Shanehsaz claims that once Co-op was ready to close its grain operation, he would have first rights to buy. The opportunity to purchase has not happened. Shanehsaz's plans were to boost business at his Model Mill business, which is located just north of the grain facility.

*Since, HAND has moved in with plans to use the property to build 54 affordable apartments, and to "save" the grain facility as part of that proposal. HAND has said it hopes to preserve the first two levels of the wooden grain elevator.

Complicating and slowing the project came on Monday when HAND approached the Hamilton County Commissioners for funding and Shanehsaz appeared at the meeting to claim "foul." The Commissioners tabled the request.

"I'm not sure when it will be brought back to us," said Commissioner Steve Dillinger. "It will have to come from HAND. I support HAND's (apartment) project with the old Sheridan school, but I'm not sure I can vote for this one. It seems like to me we're using taxpayers' money to hurt a private businessman. Rocky has done a great job with the Model Mill. He's trying to build on to his business."

Noblesville Mayor John Ditslear earlier this week told the Hamilton County Reporter that he supports what HAND is attempting to do in building the apartments. Ditslear said there is a need for low income apartments in Noblesville.

When HAND Executive Director Nate Lichti was asked by the Commissioners why he hasn't gone to the City for funding, he said, "They don't have the money. The County does."

The funds in question are $250,000 from Hamilton County and another $225,000 in grants that the County would need to approve.

Shanehsaz, at the meeting, said granting HAND the funds would be unfair competition to what he is trying to do. Shanehsaz has accused HAND of saving some of the wooden grain elevator just to qualify for federal aid.

Letter to the Editor...

Trash fee is just another word for tax

Hello,
I recall attending a council meeting and I think they were still being televised when the current Mayor advised that once and for all he would never and he said never bring up taxing the residents or asking for another trash fee/tax. Pretty emphatic at the time of his earlier defeat regarding his trash tax/fee request.
What has changed? We seem to have unlimited funds for numerous other city projects but not for the trash expense? Really?
More of the same after elections? Who really knows but I for one am opposed to any new fees or taxes regarding the picking up of trash from taxpaying residents of the city.
Tell me or better yet illustrate we have elected councilors with some common sense and spines who will say "No No No" to this once again request for a new fee or trash tax. Politicos always suggest a tax is not a tax when it's called a fee but this is just an additional tax clothed and presented as a fee. Tax caps as an excuse? How about living within your means as the electorate is required to do.
I believe that one of the purposes of the tax caps is suggesting $$$$$$ limitations on the elected.

ishness and bitterness and cynicism. What are our kids learning from us? What are those in authority teaching our children? Are they forcing their opinions and decisions onto those who are less vocal and less able to stand up for themselves? How do we instill a bit of gumption into young people without them learning from us?
Perhaps I will share my gumption story with my grandmunchkins someday. I'm sure there will be laughter as I tell the story. So grandmas DO wear big girl panties!
I tell my grandmunchkins that they will never do anything that will make me love them less. I tell them that kindness isn't always easy but it is always right. I want them always to see our conversations are a safe place.
I also want them to see that it's ok to stand up for what you believe and if they don't have the gumption, just call Grandma. She's still got some left over and I still have those big girl panties tucked into a drawer!

PRESERVATION

Shanehsaz wants to use the property for a facility to add to his hosting weddings and surround the building with parking carousels. He said using the carousels will cost much less than building a parking garage. He also wants to add a high-scale restaurant to the top floor of the Model Mill Banquet and Conference Center. He said that restaurant would serve 400 people.
Shanehsaz already is needing parking facilities.
“Since 2004 I have been negotiating with Co-op for the purchase of the Noblesville Grain Silo and Elevator,” Shanehsaz told the Hamilton County Reporter in an exclusive interview. “At the time Co-op was not ready to sell due to their continued use as storage for grain. I met extensively with the Board of Directors and Management and finally was given the right of first refusal should the elevator and silos become available for purchase. I requested a copy of the appraisal, which I have, that was conducted in 2004 in order to establish a price for the property. This information and proposed use of the site was relayed to the Noblesville City Administration and subsequently the idea was coined as ‘visionary’ by Mayor Ditslear.
“Fast forward to October, 2014, Co-op had decided to terminate the use of the silos for its original use as grain storage. I immediately contracted the President of the Board of Directors Co-op, Mark Tullis, and expressed my intense desire to purchase the property. I was told that due to the many environmental issues, Co-op was unwilling to sell the property ‘as is’ but was willing to consider to sell after remediation of the asbestos, lead paint, grain dust, industrial chemical and other hazards. It was determined that in order to avoid any future liabilities, a total demolition and environmental clean-up was necessary.

The parking carousels that local developer Rocky Shanehsaz has planned for the old grain elevator would surround a building that would be used for adding to his wedding-hosting business.
“After more than half of the demolition process was complete, HAND began to express interest. Being a supporter of HAND, I began discussing alternative site options for the HAND project with Director Lichti. After several emails and meetings I offered to provide HAND with two alternative sites which included Adams Elementary School in Sheridan and 398 South 8th Street in Noblesville which is adjacent to HANDS existing projects. Mr. Lichti agreed that both options were viable sites and provided documentation for purchase agreements which I agreed to.
“The silo and grain elevator are currently being sold under misrepresentation of a preservation project, when in reality it is going to become Section 8 Housing. Only one floor of the nearly 12 story building would be preserved and of this one floor the portions that are designated to be preserved still fall under the building code for safety and may have to be removed anyway. This doesn’t sound much like a preservation project at all. Not to mention the astonishing $570,000 estimated acquisition cost that comes for the taxpayers’ pockets. There is also the cost of remediation that, you guessed it, also comes from the taxpayers,” Shanehsaz said.
Editor’s Note: Read more about why Shanehsaz believes the site isn’t suitable for Section 8 housing; how his Mill Top Banquet & Conference Center has brought thousands of dollars to Noblesville, and much more in the next edition of the Hamilton County Reporter.

The Hamilton Southeastern girls golf team won its third consecutive sectional championship Saturday, holding off Fishers by three shots to win the Anderson sectional at Grandview Golf Course. The Royals advance to the Lapel regional next Saturday at Edgewood Golf Course.

Girls golf sectional...

County sweep at Grandview

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor
The names change, the seniors graduate, the freshmen join the team.
But no matter what, Hamilton County's girls golf tradition continues. At Saturday's Anderson sectional, the top three teams were all from the county, and all three advance to next week's Lapel regional.
Hamilton Southeastern claimed its third consecutive sectional title, and eighth overall, and had a medalist performance from Ciara McAree. The Royals got a close battle from Fishers, which placed second. Noblesville made the county sweep official by taking third, and a young Hamilton Heights team performed well, and got its star golfer, Caitie Gehlhausen, back to regionals.
This year's sectional returned to Grandview Golf Course, after a one-year stay at Edgewood Golf Course. last year. But Edgewood was on the mind of the golfers, as it will be the new site of the regional, which will be played on Sept. 26. McAree, a senior veteran said that "winning as a team gives us a lot of confidence, because our regional's definitely tough."

"It's a lot of good teams, so I'm really excited," said McAree. She had a nice day on her way to the first-place medal, finishing with a 73.
"It was good," said McAree. "I had a couple bad ones, but five birdies definitely helped out."
Southeastern finished with a team score of 321. Phoebe Cha helped out with a 79, that included two birdies. Nicole Dillow made three birdies and Chelsea Morrow had one.
"I thought we did a nice job," said HSE coach Steve Guenin, complimenting McAree on her "solid" play.
"She made lots of birdie putts out there, it was nice," said Guenin. "A lot of good things, kind of up and down. We had some struggles on a couple of holes, but they did a nice job of keeping everything together."

The Royals had to hold off the Tigers, who carded a 324 for runner-up honors. Morgan Lewis was the second-place individual with a 75, while Kennedy Brooker was right behind, taking third with a 76.
"We were right there," said Fishers coach Danny Smith. "We had a few shots that got away from us there at the end. But I can't be any more proud of these girls for the work that they've put in to make themselves better."
"We are such a young team. I have four sophomores and one junior on this team right now. These girls have jelled as a team and they're doing a phenomenal job this year."
Brooker made three birdies on the day, with Lewis getting one. Anna DelPrince had a birdie as well.
Noblesville wasn't far behind the top two, shooting a 334 to secure third place.

Peyton Gigante, a Miller senior, led the team with a 79. That included a birdie. Melissa Baker and Sarah Hayes both had 82s, with Hayes getting two birdies and Baker one.
"Everything went as planned," said Noblesville coach Mike Abbott. "Three thirty-four, with the wind that we played in today, is actually a pretty good score. I thought the scores would be a little bit higher than what they were."
Abbott was pleased with Hayes' round of 82.
"That kind of helped out a lot," said Abbott. "And everybody else just played as we expected to."
The Huskies' Gehlhausen, a junior, advanced to the regional last year and is hoping to make it all the way to state this year. She carded an 81 to claim the second of the

Gehlhausen

"I'm just happy to have made it out alive, and I hope to do much better next week on my road to state," said Gehlhausen.

The Huskies carded a team total of 381, well under Heights coach Kim Drake's stated goal of getting under 400. Syd Lucas helped out with an 87.

"I think by and large, everything went really well," said Drake, who said he was "real pleased" with everyone's play.

Girls soccer...

Millers get Senior Day victory, GC picks up two wins

The Noblesville girls soccer team cruised to a Senior Day victory on Saturday, beating Brownsburg 5-1 in a Hoosier Crossroads Conference game.

The Class 2A No. 4 Millers scored their first goal quickly, with Madison Parrish finding the back of the net in the sixth minute. Abby Truesdel also scored in the first half, off a corner kick. Goals in the second half came from Taylor Crowe, Mad-die Rauch and Amber Wolf. Delaney Riester assisted Rauch's goal.

Noblesville is now 5-0-1 in the HCC and 8-1-4 overall. The Millers travel to 2A No. 1 Carmel on Monday for a big game.

Guerin Catholic, the No. 14 team in 2A, hosted the All-Catholic Invitational at Grand Park on Saturday.

The Golden Eagles got two victories. First, Guerin beat 2A No. 18 South Bend Saint Joseph 4-0. Lauren Rice scored two goals, Cassidy Lindley scored one goal and had two assists, and Kendal Ajdaharian scored one goal. The Golden Eagles outshot Saint Joseph 14-0.

"Our girls are starting to execute the way we have been expecting them to play," said GCHS coach Rainford Hunter. "One of our plans coming into this game was to challenge our outside attacking midfielders to look for opportunities to dribble inside and to challenge everybody else to make creative runs off the ball whenever the attacking midfielders drives to the inside. We worked on this and wanted to see how the girls would execute doing this. The coaching staff were satisfied with what we saw. We also did really well with our possession game and ball movements utilizing the entire width of the field prior to mounting attacks on goal."

The Golden Eagles upset 2A No. 7 Evansville Memorial 2-0 in their next game. Lauren Rice scored both goals, with Lindley assisting on one. Guerin outshot Memorial 12-0.

"From the start we didn't allow Evansville Memorial to play their game. We wanted to make sure we impose our game on them and I believe we did that really well today. It's always risky to high press a quality team, because you can get burned by it, but we felt we had nothing to lose since they were the higher ranked team coming into the game. We created many scoring chances although we were only able to put two in, but the score could have been more had we finished the chances we were creating. Our defensive game was also very good today as we limit Evansville Memorial to very few scoring chances."

Volleyball...

Royals sweep to Warren Invite win

The Hamilton Southeastern volleyball team won the Warren Central Invitational on Saturday.

The Class 4A No. 3 Royals did not drop a set in winning four matches. Southeastern opened against New Palestine and won 25-13, 25-18. Hayden Huybers had 12 kills, Caroline Kirchmer had three kills and Lauren Boswell had two kills.

The Royals then defeated Lebanon 25-10, 25-4. The backcourt of Olivia Burgess, Grace Kane and Natalie Mills dominated the backcourt keeping the Royals in system. Mills had two aces and Huybers had seven kills and four aces.

In the afternoon pool the Royals defeated Terre Haute South 25-13, 25-14. The outside tandem of Caitlin Kane and Meredith Phillips combined for 15 kills. Kenzie Hinshaw had 21 assists.

The final was a rematch against New Castle in which the Royals dominated 25-12, 25-10. Huybers went off for 12 kills. Outside Caitlin Kane had six kills and Meredith Phillips had four kills. Lark Jones had two kills and one big block to change the momentum. Olivia Kegley closed the match with three aces.

The Royals are now 19-2, and ranked 46th in the country by prepvolleyball.com.

"I felt today we had great focus and purpose," said HSE coach Jason Young. I like how we prepared and executed our game plan. This team has been a joy to coach."

Meanwhile, Southeastern's junior varsity traveled to Lawrence North and also came home with a championship.

The JV Royals won all three matches winning in impressive fashion defeating Bishop Chatard 25-13, 25-19, Decatur Central 25-13, 25-7 and Lawrence North 25-16, 25-18.

"Abby Aswithier and Lauren Clendenen both cracked games wide open with their serves," said Young. " Sarah Chastain and Kat Wagner dominated the defensive wings. Middle Maura Dankowski, Mya Whaley and Taila Trabue got the Royal offense and block going throughout the day."

Southeastern's JV is now 11-3.

Noblesville finished third at the Franklin Invitational on Saturday, going 2-2.

The Millers beat Greenwood 25-15, 25-18 and Connersville 25-16, 25-17, falling to Franklin Community 25-17, 25-7 and Seymour 20-25, 25-18, 15-13.
