Possible concept for Judicial Center

Artistic rendering provided

The above picture is an example of a possible concept for the West Side of the Hamilton County Judicial Center. Architects are in the process of assessing data they have collected from department heads before returning to the Hamilton County Commissioners with design options. No decisions on the final footprint or exterior design have been made and probably won't be until next year.

Memorandum filed in court...

Mac's side of the picture

The following are parts of a memorandum filed in support of Plaintiff's (Dave McCollough) in opposition to the defendants' (Noblesville Schools and Principal Jeff Bryant) motion for summary judgment. All comments are those taken under oath in an affidavit from McCollough or under oath from depositions given by others to McCollough's legal council. Every word in the memorandum could not be published by the Hamilton County Reporter because of testimony from youths under the age of 21. The complete memorandum is posted on The Reporter's web-site.

Readers should keep in mind that this is a memorandum filed for and by McCollough showing reason why the case should go to court. As of now, the trial is scheduled in January. The following includes parts of the memorandum. Those giving testimony include: McCollough; Michael Hasch, athletic director; Tony Oilar, assistant athletic director; Steve Stephanoff, assistant superintendent; Jeff Bryant, principal; Pete Dewar, head athletic trainer; Libbie Conner, at this time superintendent of Noblesville Schools; Craig McCaffrey, assistant principal;

Sharon Trisler, at that time public relations director of Noblesville Schools. ----- "Coach David McCollough loyally served as head boys basketball coach at Noblesville High School for 20 years from 1994-2014. During that 20 years he never received a negative evaluation." (Affidavit of McCollough. ----- "Coach McCollough was considered to be a Hall of Fame coach. He was widely considered to be one of the best basketball coaches in Indiana." (Deposition from Hasch). -----

From the Editor: Don Jellison

Out of respect to new Noblesville Schools Superintendent Dr. Beth Niedemeyer and to Noblesville Schools, on Friday the Hamilton County Reporter informed Dr. Niedemeyer that we had received the memorandum in support of David McCollough in opposition to Noblesville Schools' motion for summary judgment. We informed Dr. Niedemeyer that we planned to run highlights of that memorandum in our Sunday edition and that we would run the entire memorandum on our Web site. Saturday evening, we received a response from Noblesville Schools asking us to publish their answer and to publish their summary for judgment materials. We will do that in our Wednesday, Oct. 7 edition. We do not publish a newspaper on Monday and our Tuesday edition is a print edition. We have elected not to run McCollough's opposition in the limited space we have in our print edition. We will follow the same decision with Noblesville Schools. Thus, since our next opportunity to do so will be Wednesday, we will publish Noblesville Schools' material at that time.

Choose your words wisely

By JANET HART LEONARD
"You will never be..."

I did not finish that sentence because it doesn't matter what was said. What matters are the feelings that it left behind after it was said to me many years ago.

"Sticks and stones may break my bones but words will never harm me." Really? That's a bunch of bologna soaked up in hog wash. Words can hurt. Something may be said only once but if your heart hears it, and it hurts, then it can echo many years later.

My husband has a saying "no good deed goes unpunished". I know it can be true, sad but true. For some people, whatever you do for them will never be enough.

You may do nine things wonderfully right but someone will find a wrong in the tenth. Some people look with a critical eye upon everything you do. It's the way they are wired. They need rewired.

There are people in my life with whom I tend to walk around on eggshells, knowing at any moment they will erupt and spew ashes of criticism. I call them "gotcha people". I don't understand them. Heaven forbid we find fault with them.

Some people seem to feel the need to remind us quite loudly that we are not perfect. Guess what. No one is. Soft words of critique are sometimes needed and done, in the right way, will bring change. Words that make you feel "less than" will never make you want to change. It simply and sadly brings about feelings of insecurity and failure. There will always be something else they will criticize. It's often a way of control. (That's a whole other column)

I am blessed with a husband who has the gift of words of affirmation. He reassures me that I am valuable, that I am good enough and that he loves me in spite of my imperfections...and always will. He has no idea how much his compliments mean to me. I often tell him that I don't know what I have ever done to deserve him. He just smiles.

I try to choose my words wisely. I pray every morning as I go to work, "please Lord help me to choose the right words to say today." You see, words do matter. Just ask my heart.

MEMORANDUM

As of 2013, Noblesville Athletic Director Mike Hasch believed that Coach McCollough would be the coach at Noblesville High School for life." (Hasch deposition).

"On Wednesday January 29, 2014 Coach McCollough was notified by Jeff Bryant, Noblesville High School principal, that a disgruntled player, XXXXXXXX, had alleged that Coach McCollough threw a basketball in the manner of a baseball thrown at the player in anger and intentionally struck the player in the head with a ball during practice on January 28, 2014." (Affidavit of McCollough).

"In a meeting with Principal Bryant on Wednesday January 29, 2014 McCollough denied the allegation and reported that he had never thrown a ball at a player in anger in any practice and never hit a player in the head with a ball. Principal Bryant told Coach McCollough that he was going to conduct a thorough investigation into the incident." (Affidavit of McCollough).

"Coach McCollough was suspended by Bryant on January 31, 2014 for five days." (Bryant deposition).

Noblesville Schools Superintendent Libbie Conner first heard about the incident involving Coach McCollough on Friday January 31 when Jeff Bryant called. Principal Bryant told Superintendent Conner and Assistant Superintendent Stephanoff that Coach McCollough threw a ball in anger in practice and hit one of the students. At the time of Coach McCollough's suspension, Superintendent Conner believed that Principal Bryant had conducted an investigation into the matter and that he had witnesses."(Conner deposition).

"Principal Bryant did not conduct an investigation at all prior to suspending and terminating Coach McCollough." (McCaffrey deposition).

"Assistant Athletic Director Tony Oilar, Coach McCollough's direct superior, was not involved in handling the January 2014 incident or its aftermath. He conducted no interviews, was asked to do nothing, did nothing, was not asked his opinions and did not give his opinions." (Oilar deposition).

"On Friday January 31 2015 Superintendent Conner told Coach McCollough that 'we just need to get out in front of it' by having a press conference. Because he was sick the press conference did not take place Saturday morning as scheduled. It is not disputed that Coach McCollough was actually sick." (Conner deposition).

"Sharon Trisler, the public relations director for Noblesville Schools since 1993, then communicated with Coach McCollough and worked out a joint statement from Noblesville Schools and Coach McCollough to be issued to the public instead of a press conference. The joint public statement worked out by public relations director Trisler and Coach McCollough said that Coach McCollough had 'allegedly' thrown a ball and hit a player." (Trisler deposition).

"Coach McCollough was 'adamant' that the word 'allegedly' was an important word. The word conveyed a completely different meaning to the average person than if the word 'allegedly' had not been in there. Use of the word 'allegedly' seemed to show Coach McCollough was denying that it happened. When you take the word 'allegedly' out of the statement he is admitting it happened." (Conner deposition).

"Principal Bryant was upset that Coach McCollough's original statement had the word 'allegedly' in it." (McCaffrey deposition).

"Taking the word 'allegedly' out of Coach McCollough's statement lead to a very different meaning of the quote." (Hasch deposition)

"Jeff Bryant was unhappy about the statement because it contained the word 'allegedly.'" (Trisler deposition).

"Saying I 'allegedly' did something conveys to the average person a very different meaning than saying I did something." (Bryant deposition).

"Principal Bryant then made it 'very clear' to public relations director Trisler that he wanted her to take the word 'allegedly' out of the statement. In the practical realities of Noblesville Schools, Principal Jeff Bryant was Sharon Trisler's de facto superior." (Trisler deposition).

"Because Principal Bryant wanted her to, and let her know that it needed to be done, Sharon Trisler changed Coach McCollough's statement without Coach McCollough's knowledge or permission or consent to remove the word 'allegedly.'" (Trisler deposition).

"After she changed Coach McCollough's statement to take out the word 'allegedly' the statement still contained quotes around Coach McCollough's statement, purporting to show that it was a direct quote and that Noblesville Schools intended that it be conveyed to the public if it was direct quote from Coach McCollough." (Conner deposition).

"Trisler now wishes she had not done this." (Trisler deposition).

Athletic director Mike Hasch would never change a direct quote in a public statement to the press without that person's permission." (Hasch deposition)

Again, the Hamilton County Reporter wants to make it clear that the above are affidavits and depositions in a memorandum filed in Hamilton Circuit Court. Because of space limitations in our newspaper and other reasons such as depositions from minors, the Reporter has used only parts of what was listed as "facts" in that memorandum. The complete 17-page memorandum of "facts" has been published on the Reporter's web-site.

Northview Church named second-fastest growing Church in America

It has only been two years since Northview Church was named the fifth-fastest growing church in America. This year, Outreach Magazine's annual poll placed Northview Church as the second-fastest growing church in America. The church's rapid growth has ranked them as the 64th-largest church in America.

Outreach Magazine, now in its 13th year, is an evangelical Christian periodical based in Carlsbad, Calif. Its pages celebrate the habits and activities of growing churches. The magazine stems from Outreach, Inc., founded in 1996, which provides ideas, innovations and resources for community outreach. Each October, Outreach Magazine lists the 100-largest and 100-fastest growing churches in America.

Northview Church is a nondenominational church in multiple locations, with foundational beliefs shared between all campuses. They're a church whose mission is to connect people with God and connect people with people. Northview Church currently has four locations, including Carmel, Fishers, Lafayette and Westfield. In the last year, they also launched an iCampus. This is an extension of Northview Church's weekend services to an online audience. It has its own campus community, complete with a campus pastor and ways to get connected in the church. Each campus has its own unique church environment, while they receive the same message from the lead pastor each Sunday.

News: The Noblesville School Board Monday night approved an appropriation of $218,000.00 for completion of construction of of the new North Elementary School Sports: Jack Butler reported to Noblesville High School with perhaps not the most promising outlook for an athletic career. And Jack would be the first to admit it. Butler was a little fellow when he was graduated from junior high—much too small for football. He was a runner, but, so many believed, not really strong enough to make a mark on the athletic picture. But dedication was the key word for Jack Butler. Not many Noblesville High athletes, or for that matter, athletes from any high school ever became as dedicated to a sport as Butler did. Along with another hard-working young man, Tom Clark, Butler ran and ran and ran, Tommy and Jack ran throughout the spring and they kept up during the summer. They ran across the fields, down alleys and up the main streets. Today, Butler still is a little fellow. He doesn't look strong enough to complete a 100-yard dash, but today he has the fastest time ever recorded by a Noblesville High cross country runner. And he's only a sophomore.

Atlanta still has “a lot of potential”

By MARY SUE ROWLAND

The year was 1976, Vol. 1 No.1 of “The Hamiltonian County Magazine, does anyone remember? The editor was Valerie Walters with contributing editors Joan Voukides, Juliana Moorehead, Box Boxell and M. William Lutholtz. The first edition feature story was headed “Atlanta Booming Again”.

It tells the story of a visionary, Lowena Tate Layton who in 1973 bought 11 buildings (almost the entire town) in the downtown area and was quoted to say, “Atlanta has a lot of potential”. Atlanta does have a lot of potential, even today. Last week the town grew to a couple hundred thousand people who attended the Earth Festival started during the “potential days”. The 1973 vision included Joe O’Malia Country Store, there were plans for an old fashioned drug store, a small glass factory and more antique shops, a weekend mini-mall where handcrafters can set up stalls. The Golden Oak Turkey Parlor opened in October 1973 to signal the start of the new era for Atlanta.

All of the ideas and dreams faded through the years as fires burned the Surrey Inn, a new steak restaurant in those days, almost as soon as it was open. The gas wells of the 1880’s and 1890’s dried up almost overnight taking the town from well over 2,000 people to 700 today. The old days had a tin mill, glass factories and other industry active during the gas boom.

Lowena Layton would have been proud to see how many people came to Atlanta if only for the weekend for the festival. Her dream has been fulfilled by some very dedicated local citizens and the town’s officials who keep going each year to host so many visitors. They work hard to make money from the festival that helps to run the town for the balance of the year. This is what Northern Hamilton County is all about. Because the town has so few people, the taxes collected does not come close to keeping the town going and providing services to the citizens. The festival helps to make ends meet for the town.

Just a little side story, the Atlanta street sweeper need unfinished repairs last weekend and cleaning up after such a crowd that attended the festival would have taken weeks to clean the streets by hand. Tipton, the big sister to Atlanta showed up with their street sweeper to help their neighbor to the south. That is what Northern Hamilton County is all about...or was that mentioned earlier?

Atlanta does have a lot of potential. It is the all American small town with people who know everyone in town and can tell stories about the old days and a few good stories about their friends and neighbors. Atlanta is also the home of Beck’ Hybrids Corn Seed, the largest family owned seed corn company in the United States. Just down the road (276th street) is Reynolds Farms Equipment, another longtime family owned business dealing in farm equipment sales and repair. There are still many farms and farmers in Northern Hamilton County from those very early days to today.

You see Atlanta, Indiana is on the map!

It is not easy to live or work in Atlanta these days. The downtown is pretty sleepy and only one weekend a year does it come alive. Reading that first article about Atlanta in The Hamiltonian County Magazine from 1973, it is hard not to notice that nearly every business who advertised in that first publication is long gone. With such a long history of great times and times when pretty much everything changed overnight, it is still on the map. Many other towns in Indiana and the Midwest just became ghost towns when everyone picked up and moved leaving small towns empty. This is not going to happen in Atlanta. It has not grown much and the grocery store and shops are gone but there are many people who have not given up and they will never let their town down. The Hamiltonian was correct to feature Atlanta in their first edition. It is a good place with “a lot of potential” just like Lowena said.

Girls golf state finals...

‘Rocks soar to best-ever finish

The Westfield girls golf team had its best-ever finish at the IHSAA girls golf state finals this weekend at Prairie View Golf Club in Carmel. The Shamrocks finished in second place with a two-day score of 677.

As good as the players on Westfield's girls golf team have been this year, it's easy to forget that they're still very young.

But in between rounds at this year's IHSAA girls golf state finals at Prairie View Golf Club in Carmel, it seems like the Shamrocks grew up overnight. After a sluggish Friday round, Westfield got it together to post a 23-shot improvement and finish as state runner-up for the first time in school history.

The 'Rocks carded a team total of 677. The only team ahead of Westfield was Evansville North, which successfully defended its team championship by 26 shots.

The Huskies are a senior-dominated team, while four of the five Shamrocks at state are sophomores.

"We did a good job with having a good mindset when we came into it," said WHS coach Trevor Neu. That included the Shamrock players knowing "what they felt like they needed to do to battle the conditions a little bit better," said the coach.

The weather conditions for the tournament were nasty - it was windy, the temperature never got past 50 degrees on Saturday, and it was cloudy. But those conditions are typical of the state tournament. Neu said the girls discussed what they needed to do among themselves, and the coaches reiterated that this morning.

"And we came out with a great mindset and shot a score that was a lot more indicative of what we've done all year," said Neu.

Case in point: Cailyn Henderson. The sophomore was unhappy with her round of 85 Friday, but she turned it around and carded a 74 on Saturday. That lifted her to a 10th-place individual finish with a two-day total of 159.

"I think that she would probably tell you that she was really frustrated with her round yesterday," said Neu. "She went right back out last night when we finished and worked on her swing, and working on things to fix that swing. She has the ability to go low and do those things. She kind of showed that today."

Henderson had two birdies on the day. Meanwhile, Adrienne Montalone and Margaret Wentz improved from their Friday 85s. Montalone dropped nine shots to a 76, with a birdie, and Wentz cut three shots to an 82. Morgan Baechle (the lone junior on the state squad) had a birdie as well on Saturday. Emma Clary dropped six shots.

"That was definitely the strength of our team this year, is how consistently we played," said Neu. "Adrienne was the same way. She improved her score from yesterday by a ton. She shot mid to low 70's all year, and went out today and put up a really good number, too."

Three county players make All-State Team

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor
The honors didn't end after the state championship trophy was handed out at the girls golf state finals Saturday at Prairie View Golf Club.

Once the IHSAA had its say, the Indiana Coaches of Girls Sports Association named its All-State Team. Three Hamilton County golfers are among that list: Fishers sophomore Morgan Lewis, Westfield sophomore Cailyn Henderson and Hamilton Heights junior Caitie Gehlhausen.

It had already been an eventful day for Henderson and Lewis. Henderson had just led the Shamrocks to a state runner-up finish as a team, and placed 10th individually. That gave her two medals for the day.

"It feels pretty good since we've never done it before," Henderson said of Westfield's historic finish. She was also glad to have improved so much from her Friday round to her Saturday round. Henderson rebounded from an 85 on Friday to a 74 on Saturday.

"Yesterday's round was pretty bad," said Henderson. "It was better today, but I was just hanging in there, with the weather and all."

As for her season, Henderson considered it a "pretty good" one. "Had some ups and downs, but overall it was good," said Henderson.

Lewis, meanwhile, made some history of her own. She hit a hole in one on the Par 3, 109-yard 12th hole, the first time that had every happened in the 43 years of the IHSAA's girls golf state finals. That and making the All-State team made it a memorable Saturday.

"It was a great day, even though it was really cold and windy," said Lewis. "But it was a really fun, really good day. I'm really happy that those two things happened."

Lewis was also thrilled upon hearing her name be called for the All-State team.

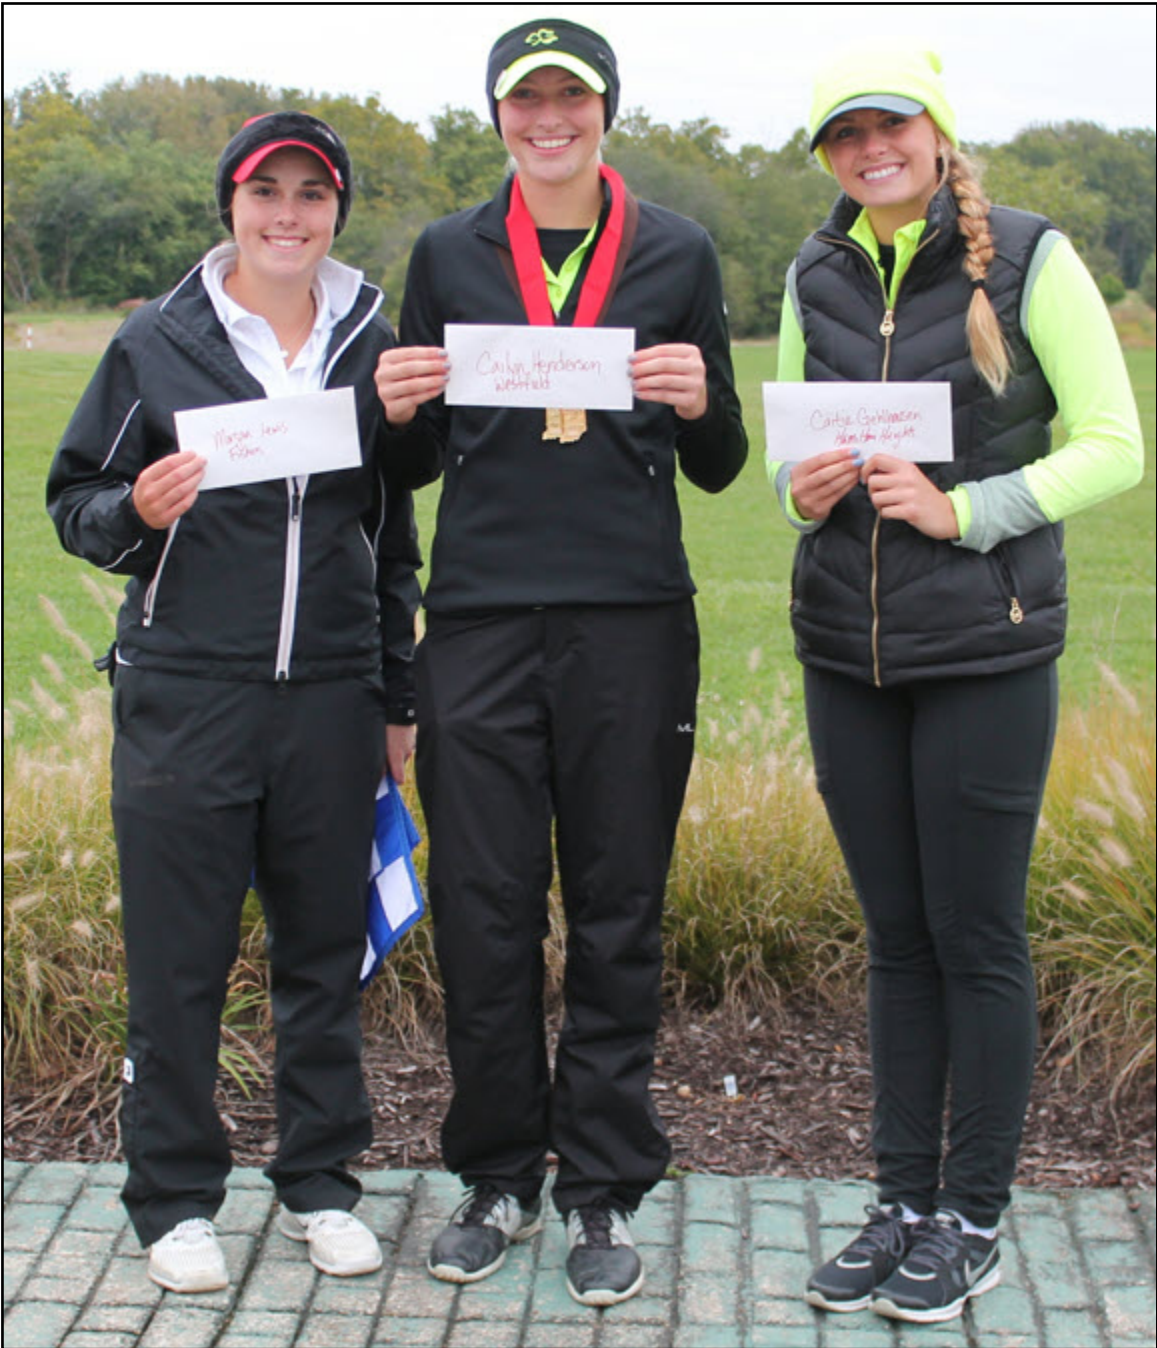

"I had a chance, I thought, but I didn't think I was going to make it because I know there's really good competition in Indiana," said Lewis. But I was really happy when they called my name up."

Gehlhausen just missed going to state, but was there supporting her friends. While a high finish at the state meet guarantees a place on the All-State team, players can also earn points towards the honor by virtue of how they do in regular-season meets.

"I'm extremely excited," said Gehlhausen. "I knew I was in the running for it, but I didn't know until the announcement that I got it."

Gehlhausen has been a top player for the Huskies ever since her freshman year.

"This made it a great ending to the season," she said.

Meanwhile, Fishers was making its first ever appearance at the state meet. The Tigers wound up 10th with a score of 711 - and also made some history too.

Sophomore Morgan Lewis made a hole in one on the 12th hole, the first time that has ever happened in the history of the girls golf state meet. Lewis aced the 109-yard Par 3 hole with a pitching wedge.

"It was great," said Lewis. "I didn't even think it was going to go in. I didn't even know what to hit when I first got up there. And I just hit a pitching wedge, and it went right in, and I started crying."

Lewis led Fishers with a two-day total of 166, making a birdie in addition to her hole in one. Just like the Shamrocks, the Tigers are young: Four of the five players on Saturday were sophomores, with Kate Alt the only junior. Alt's two-day total was 179.

Fishers found itself part of a massive fleet of teams that were within a few shots of each other during the round. At one point the Tigers were third, and even their 10th-place finish was 12 shots back from fourth-place Evansville Memorial's 699.

"I felt like we played pretty well under the conditions we had, especially with Morgan throwing in a hole in one for us," said Fishers coach Danny Smith. "That was a phenomenal, phenomenal thing for us."

Fishers started from the 10th hole, which means Lewis' ace came early.

"I made sure that the girls knew about it," said Smith, although they knew already - "you could hear it all over the course," Smith noted.

"The girls started to rally behind her, and they started playing well," said Smith. "The conditions just started wearing down."

Hamilton Southeastern's Ciara McAree competed as an individual. The senior, who had a great career for the Royals, finished with a two-day total of 163, placing her 18th overall.

"It felt better than it did yesterday," said McAree, who carded a 39 on the back nine on Saturday. "That's all I really wanted, was to just come out and play better than I did the day before."

Tiger boys win HCC meet, county girls place 2-5

Soccer...

Sectionals begin Monday

The biggest week in high school soccer begins Monday, with the sectional tournament kicking off.

Sectional week is a big one in Hamilton County, as several of the state's top teams in both boys and girls soccer wind up playing each other. That's almost always the case in the girls' side of things.

For example, three ranked teams are playing at Class 2A Sectional 16 at Hamilton Southeastern. The third-ranked Millers open play against Anderson on Tuesday. A win will send them to a semi-final with Pendleton Heights on Thursday, which would be after a likely battle between No. 4 Hamilton Southeastern and No. 7 Fishers. When those two teams played in the Mudsock game earlier in the year, it ended in a 0-0 tie.

It's no less competitive at 2A Sectional 17, which is hosted by Carmel. In this four-team group, No. 8 Zionsville takes on No. 11 Guerin Catholic in the first Thursday semi-finals. The top-ranked Greyhounds play Westfield in the second semi.

In Class 1A girls action, No. 17 Hamilton Heights opens with Tipton on Tuesday, in the first round of the seven-team Sectional 40 at Sheridan. The host Blackhawks play Muncie Burris, also on Tuesday. University plays in Sectional 42 at Park Tudor, taking on Broad Ripple. Bishop Chatard, at No. 12, is the sectional's only ranked team.

In the boys tournament, all three Hamilton County teams at the Class 2A Sectional 16 at Noblesville will be in action on Wednesday. The Millers host 17th-ranked Hamilton Southeastern, then Fishers plays the winner of Monday's game between Anderson and Penldeton Heights.

Guerin Catholic, which moved up to 2A this season after winning back-to-back 1A state championships, is hosting Sectional 17. First up is a game between Westfield and No. 10 Zionsville, then the Golden Eagles play No. 6 Carmel.

As for Class 1A boys, Hamilton Heights awaits the winner of Monday's game between No. 20 Muncie Burris and Liberty Christian. The Huskies, who received votes in the latest poll, will play on Wednesday.

University and Sheridan are both playing in Sectional 47 at Heritage Christian. The Trailblazers take on No. 5 Park Tudor in Wednesday's first semi-final, while the Blackhawks play the No. 9-ranked host Eagles in the second semi-final.

GC girls beat quality Ohio team

The Guerin Catholic girls soccer team defeated Bishop Fenwick, an Ohio team, 2-0 on Saturday.

Kendal Ajdaharian and Lauren Rice both scored a goal for the Class 2A No. 11 Golden Eagles, with Cassidy Lindley assisting on both goals.

Guerin Catholic coach Rainford Hunter said his team "continues to play well going into our upcoming tournament next week."

"We dominated a quality team from out of Ohio which is usually a difficult task considering how physical the Ohio teams usually are," said Hunter. "Our ball possession and ball movement was very good today and we liked the manner in which our girls are not only playing the game, but are also thinking the game as well. Our girls played a controlled and patient game and we were very deliberate in what we were trying to do once we got into the final third and the penalty box."

Carmel boys cruise past Homestead

The Carmel boys soccer team finished its regular season Saturday with a 4-1 victory over Homestead Saturday.

Ethan Abbott scored two goals for the Class 2A No. 6 Greyhounds. Mathew Skaar and Charles Price each scored a goal and made one assist, with Tyler Majeski and Jared Richey each making one assist.

"I cannot be any more proud of my team and program. What a win and performance today," said Carmel coach Shane Schmidt. "We came (in) this morning a bit banged up and played without numerous starters and only three substitutes and everyone stepped up to the task, played extremely well, and put forth maximum effort."

The Greyhounds finished their regular season 12-2-1.
