Commissioners say no to HAND

Sometimes you win a few. Sometimes you lose a few. And, there are times you’re not sure of winning or losing.

So it has been early last week for HAND and for local businessman Rocky Shanehasz for control of the Noblesville Grain Elevator property located on the north side of Walnut Street between 8th and 9th Streets..

On Monday evening, HAND appeared in front of the Hamilton County Commissioners, requesting:

- *Asking that the Commissioners pledge $225,000 of CDBG funding (federal grant money that the Commissioners control) from its existing housing budget towards the Noblesville Granary. These funds will go towards the acquisition of the property because of funding restrictions of CDBC funds.
- *Asking the Commissioners to pledge $250,000 towards the Noblesville Granary and 300,000 towards Blackhawk Commons (the old Sheridan high school) for the provision of quality affordable housing, preservation of historic properties, and the economic development of two distressed areas. We ask for these funds to be available upon the receipt of a tax credit reservation on or around Feb. 25, 2016. HAND will record a covenant on the property assuring the County that these developments achieve their expected aims. If not delivered, and maintained for 20 years, HAND will repay the County the $555,000 in full.

The Commissioners said yes to the CDBG $225,000.

The Commissioners said yes to the $300,000 funding from the general fund to the Blackhawks Common project.

The Commissioners said no to the $250,000 request for the Noblesville Granary project.

The basic reason for the no given to the Noblesville Granary project was that in doing so the Commissioners would be giving money for funding of a project that

Heights teachers vote to ratify two year contract

The Board of School Trustees of the Hamilton Heights School Corporation and the Hamilton Heights Classroom Teachers Association ratified the 2015/2017 contract last Wednesday and it was approved unanimously by the Board of School Trustees the following morning.

“We feel the adjustments made to the contract will enable the district to attract and retain highly qualified teachers placing as much money as possible on the compensation model designed without deficit spending,” said Peggy Jackson, Hamilton Heights Chief Financial Officer, who worked diligently behind the scenes on the adjustments to ensure a positive outcome for the teachers and district.

Overall compensation will increase 2.02% in 2015-16 and 2.05% 2016-17. The salary range for 2015-16 increased to $35,000 to $70,437.67 and $36,583.19 to $70,437.67 for 2016-17. In addition, adjustments were made to teacher’s benefits to allow for a cost shift to salary and reducing the corporation contribution level.

The corporation will pay 75% of Dental, Vision, LTD, and Life change as opposed to paying all but $1. The corporation shaved 5% off and will realize a two year savings of $124,697 on health insurance by paying 80% for the High Deductible Plan and 75% for the PPO Plan. The Dental plan changed from a reimbursable plan administered by the corporation to Delta Dental costing an additional $43,816 over a two year period.

The on-going and retirement Veba Contribution were eliminated resulting in a two-year savings of $93,866 as was the perfect attendance bonus saving the corporation $14,800 over the two year period. In addition, a grievance procedure was added back into the contract and sick bank payback capped at 25 days.

Compensation awards will be based on teachers scoring effective or highly effective on the evaluation. Teachers may earn an additional award for being chosen “HHSC Teacher of the Year” for Leadership.

Salary increases and benefit adjustments will cost the district $295,661 for the 2015-2016 and 2016-2017 school years.

“The positive outcome of this contract is a strong testament to the caliber of personnel we have working in our district and their passion for our students overall experience at Heights,” added Dr. Derek Arrowood, Hamilton Heights Superintendent.

A total of 335 schools from across the U.S. were named as National Blue Ribbon Schools based on their overall academic excellence or their progress in closing achievement gaps among student subgroups.

The County Line... Redistricting reform forum scheduled for October 14

By FRED SWIFT

A public forum on a topic of particular interest to Hamilton County is set for October 14. The topic is redistricting reform, something in which the general public usually shows very little interest, but should. The political people show a lot of interest in redistricting because it can determine their party’s future in office.

The County League of Women Voters and Common Cause are co-sponsoring the forum at the Noblesville Public Library at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday the 14th. The event may help focus some interest on the subject which is so often overlooked by voters who realize its consequences only when they find they have a new state representative or state senator.

Hamilton County has been a victim of gerrymandering for years. The county is divided among 10 state legislative districts which were drawn in 2011. Several of these districts were drawn to help Republican candidates in neighboring

Choose your words wisely

By: JANET HART LEONARD

"You will never be..."

I did not finish that sentence because it doesn't matter what was said. What matters are the feelings that it left behind after it was said to me many years ago.

"Sticks and stones may break my bones but words will never harm me."

Really? That's a bunch of bologna soaked up in hog wash. Words can hurt.

Something may be said only once but if your heart hears it, and it hurts, then it can echo many years later.

My husband has a saying "no good deed goes unpunished". I know it can be true, sad but true. For some people, whatever you do for them will never be enough.

You may do nine things wonderfully right but someone will find a wrong in the tenth. Some people look with a critical eye upon everything you do. It's the way they are wired. They need rewired.

There are people in my life with whom I tend to walk around on eggshells, knowing at any moment they will erupt and spew ashes of criticism. I call them "gotcha people". I don't understand them. Heaven forbid we find fault with them.

Some people seem to feel the need to remind us quite loudly that we are not perfect. Guess what. No one is. Soft words of critique are sometimes needed and done, in the right way, will bring change. Words that make you feel "less than" will never make you want to change. It simply and sadly brings about feelings of insecurity and failure. There will always be something else they will criticize. It's often a way of control. (That's a whole other column)

I am blessed with a husband who has the gift of words of affirmation. He reassures me that I am valuable, that I am good enough and that he loves me in spite of my imperfections...and always will. He has no idea how much his compliments mean to me. I often tell him that I don't know what I have ever done to deserve him. He just smiles.

I try to choose my words wisely. I pray every morning as I go to work, "please Lord help me to choose the right words to say today." You see, words do matter. Just ask my heart.

Blackhawks to discover Costa Rica in 2016

The Spanish classes of Sheridan High School will have the opportunity to embark on a nine day trip to Costa Rica in the summer of 2016. The school booked the trip through EF Tours, a travel agency that organizes the everyday activities the group will attend. The teachers, students, and parents embarking on this trip are much anticipating this great learning experience. Spanish teacher, Mrs. Bontrager states, "I'm most looking forward to taking several students, who have not only not traveled out of the country, but who have also not traveled on a plane even, and just to show them part of the world that they might only have this chance to see. Regarding our itinerary, I would say the thing I'm most excited to do is visit a local school and to just see how Costa Ricans live day to day and to see what their lives are like, and to see my students interacting with local people." An interview with sophomore, Emma Hawn, also reveals her excitement: "I'm really excited to travel out of the country for the first time and to see how different Costa Rica is from the U.S. Also, I am looking forward to the coffee tour because I am interested to see how coffee beans are produced."

Atlanta has a lot of potential

The year was 1976, Vol. 1 No.1 of "The Hamiltonian County Magazine, does anyone remember? The editor was Valerie Walters with contributing editors Joan Voukides, Juliana Moorehead, Box Boxell and M. William Lutholtz. The first edition feature story was headed "Atlanta Booming Again".

It tells the story of a visionary, Lowena Tate Layton who in 1973 bought 11 buildings (almost the entire town) in the downtown area and was quoted to say, "Atlanta has a lot of potential". Atlanta does have a lot of potential, even today. Last week the town grew to a couple hundred thousand people who attended the Earth Festival started during the "potential days". The 1973 vision included Joe O'Malia Country Store, there were plans for an old fashioned drug store, a small glass factory and more antique shops, a weekend mini-mall where handcrafters can set up stalls. The Golden Oak Turkey Parlor opened in October 1973 to signal the start of the new era for Atlanta.

All of the ideas and dreams faded through the years as fires burned the Surrey Inn, a new steak restaurant in those days, almost as soon as it was open. The gas wells of the 1880's and 1890's dried up almost overnight taking the town from well over 2,000 people to 700 today. The old days had a tin mill, glass factories and other industry active during the gas boom.

Lowena Layton would have been proud to see how many people came to Atlanta if only for the weekend for the festival. Her dream has been fulfilled by some very dedicated local citizens and the town's officials who keep going each year to host so many visitors. They work hard to make money from the festival that helps to run the town for the balance of the year. This is what Northern Hamilton County is all about. Because the town has so few people, the taxes collected does not come close to keeping the town going and providing services to the citizens. The festival helps to make ends meet for the town.

Just a little side story, the Atlanta street sweeper need unfinished repairs last weekend and cleaning up after such a crowd that attended the festival would have taken weeks to clean the streets by hand. Tipton, the big sister to Atlanta showed up with their street sweeper to help their neighbor to the south. That is what Northern Hamilton County is all about...or was that mentioned earlier?

Atlanta does have a lot of potential. It is the all American small town with people who know everyone in town and can tell stories about the old days and a few good stories about their friends and neighbors. Atlanta is also the home of Beck's Hybrids Corn Seed, the largest family owned seed corn company in the United States. Just down the road (276th street) is Reynolds Farms Equipment, another longtime family owned business dealing in farm equipment sales and repair. There are still many farms and farmers in Northern Hamilton County from those very early days to today.

You see Atlanta, Indiana is on the map!

It is not easy to live or work in Atlanta these days. The downtown is pretty sleepy and only one weekend a year does it come alive. Reading that first article about Atlanta in The Hamiltonian County Magazine from 1973, it is hard not to notice that nearly every business who advertised in that first publication is long gone. With such a long history of great times and times when pretty much everything changed overnight, it is still on the map. Many other towns in Indiana and the Midwest just became ghost towns when everyone picked up and moved leaving small towns empty. This is not going to happen in Atlanta. It has not grown much and the grocery store and shops are gone but there are many people who have not given up and they will never let their town down. The Hamiltonian was correct to feature Atlanta in their first edition. It is a good place with "a lot of potential" just like Lowena said.

counties. Democrats do the same thing, only in reverse, when they are in charge of redistricting.

Since Hamilton County produces an overwhelming plurality of Republican votes, the GOP always wants to maximize this advantage while Democrats want to minimize it. So, areas of Democrat votes are added in one place or Republican votes subtracted from another'

In either case the outcome is not necessarily good for the citizen who may find himself in a district with, for example, a Marion County senator or a Boone County representative. That legislator may or may not have the best interests of this county at the top of his priority list.

So, some groups and a few legislators are pushing for redistricting reform. A legislative interim study committee is currently at work seeking to suggest a remedy for the current situation which oddly enough became the norm after the U.S. Supreme Court rendered its 'One Man, One Vote' ruling decades ago. Previous to that, districts were largely drawn along county lines, not often changed and often varied greatly in population.

Now census figures are used every 10 years to carefully and politically create districts with equal populations even if the dividing lines run along a city street or creek bank. This runs contrary to guidelines which call for legislative districts to represent a "community of interest" which generally means not gerrymandering.

a local businessman, Shanehasz, also is attempting to develop.

HAND would like to build apartments and retail stores on the land. Shanehasz, who owns the Model Mill just across the street from the property in question, would like to expand his business with a facility for outdoor wedding and additional parking. The property still is owned by North Central Co-Op.

Shanehasz claims since 2004 he has been negotiating with the company for the purchase of the Grain Elevator.

HAND says it has a written document to purchase the land, once funding is in place.

HAND and Shanehasz Tuesday evening moved to the Noblesville Common Council meeting. Neither was allowed to speak about their projects while the Council considered an ordinance for a change of zoning from “12” Heavy Industrial to “DT Downtown”. That request passed on first reading and will be voted on at the next Council meeting.

HAND has planned additional meetings, including a public meeting this Thursday, Oct. 1, concerning the Noblesville Granary at the Noblesville Township Trustee Community Center at 5 p.m.

HAND also will meet with the Sheridan Plan Commissioner on Oct 6 at 5 p.m.; at the Hamilton County Council Meeting on Oct 7 at 7 p.m.; at the Sheridan Town Council meeting for a rezoning request on Oct 8 at 7 p.m.; and then a return trip to the Noblesville City Council on Oct. 13 at 7 p.m.

On the first two days of this trip, the group will attend a coffee tour where they will learn how Costa Rica is able to develop some of the best coffee beans in the world. Next they will visit the Poás volcano and from there, they will bathe in a hot springs. Arranged for the third day of the trip are a kayaking adventure next to another volcano and a hike to the La Fortuna waterfall. The next two days, the group will be visiting a local school where the children will welcome them with traditional dances. Then they will zip-line through the Santa Elena Cloud Forest. Later, they will each plant a tree to help the environment revitalization efforts. On days six through eight of the trip, they are scheduled to attend an aerial tram ride, explore the beaches and lagoon of Manuel Antonio National Park, and go on a river boat tour. Day nine is the final day of the trip and the group will depart for home.

Personally, I am very excited for the opportunity to visit a foreign country for the first time with so many of my classmates. The trip is still months away, but my friends and I discuss it on a daily basis. The thing I am looking forward to most about this trip is probably meeting and interacting with the local people. Visiting their country and experiencing their culture will be a big eye-opener. Most days I go about my life without even thinking about the billions of other people on the earth. I hope that this trip will not only widen my knowledge of culture, but expand my understanding of the world. Another thing I am excited for is to experience their scenery and local wildlife. It will be interesting to see how much their tropical plants vary from our temperate ones. Overall, the scheduled activities and cultural experience have me, along with my classmates and teachers who are attending the trip, much anticipating this adventure.

Girls golf state finals...

'Rocks soar to best-ever finish

By RICHIE HALL

Reporter Sports Editor

As good as the players on Westfield's girls golf team have been this year, it's easy to forget that they're still very young.

But in between rounds at this year's IHSAA girls golf state finals at Prairie View Golf Club in Carmel, it seems like the Shamrocks grew up overnight. After a sluggish Friday round, Westfield got it together to post a 23-shot improvement and finish as state runner-up for the first time in school history.

The 'Rocks carded a team total of 677. The only team ahead of Westfield was Evansville North, which successfully defended its team championship by 26 shots. The Huskies are a senior-dominated team, while four of the five Shamrocks at state are sophomores.

"We did a good job with having a good mindset when we came into it," said WHS coach Trevor Neu. That included the Shamrock players knowing "what they felt like they needed to do to battle the conditions a little bit better," said the coach.

The weather conditions for the tournament were nasty - it was windy, the temperature never got past 50 degrees on Saturday, and it was cloudy. But those conditions are typical of the state tournament. Neu said the girls discussed what they needed to do among themselves, and the coaches reiterated that this morning.

"And we came out with a great mindset and shot a score that was a lot more indicative of what we've done all year," said Neu.

Case in point: Cailyn Henderson. The sophomore was unhappy with her round of 85 Friday, but she turned it around and carded a 74 on Saturday. That lifted her to a 10th-place individual finish with a two-day total of 159.

"I think that she would probably tell you that she was really frustrated with her round yesterday," said Neu. "She went right back out last night when we finished and worked on her swing, and working on things to fix that swing. She has the ability to go low and do those things. She kind of showed that today."

Henderson had two birdies on the day. Meanwhile, Adrienne Montalone and Margaret Wentz improved from their Friday 85s. Montalone dropped nine shots to a 76, with a birdie, and Wentz cut three shots to an 82. Morgan Baechle (the lone junior on the state squad) had a birdie as well on Saturday. Emma Clary dropped six shots.

"That was definitely the strength of our team this year, is how consistently we played," said Neu. "Adrienne was the same way. She improved her score from yesterday by a ton. She shot mid to low 70's all year, and went out today and put up a really good number, too."

TEAM SCORES: Evansville North 332-319=651, Westfield 350-327=677, Chesterton 353-339=692, Evansville Memorial 354-345=699, Cathedral 356-344=700, Center Grove 348-354=702, Bloomington South 354-355=709, Zionsville 350-359=709, Columbus North 353-356=709, Fishers 358-353=711, Penn 356-356=712, Crown Point 360-357=717, Leo 378-

Three county players make All-State Team

By RICHIE HALL

The honors didn't end after the state championship trophy was handed out at the girls golf state finals Saturday at Prairie View Golf Club.

Once the IHSAA had its say, the Indiana Coaches of Girls Sports Association named its All-State Team. Three Hamilton County golfers are among that list: Fishers sophomore Morgan

Lewis, Westfield sophomore Cailyn Henderson and Hamilton Heights junior Caitie Gehlhausen.

It had already been an eventful day for Henderson and Lewis. Henderson had just led the Shamrocks to a state runner-up finish as a team, and placed 10th individually. That gave her two medals for the day.

"It feels pretty good since we've never done it before," Henderson said of Westfield's historic finish. She was also glad to have improved so much from her Friday round to her Saturday round. Henderson rebounded from an 85 on Friday to a 74 on Saturday.

"Yesterday's round was pretty bad," said Henderson. "It was better today, but I was just hanging in there, with the weather and all."

As for her season, Henderson considered it a "pretty good" one.

May: "It was a weird game"....

Royals hold off Millers, 20-12

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

Hamilton Southeastern's 2015 Homecoming football game will not be forgotten any time soon.

In a rainy, strange and at times scary Friday evening, the Royals held off a spirited Noblesville team 20-12. The Millers, despite losing quarterback Luke Melloh to an injury in the third quarter, played determined against Hoosier Crossroads Conference leading Southeastern, but a late touchdown by HSE's star running back Aaron Matio sealed the win.

"It was just a weird game," said Royals coach Scott May. "We never really got going. I thought they did a good job defensively, and they struggled a little bit offensively, but so did we. It was just kind of a defensive battle."

Southeastern clinched at least a share of the HCC title with its win. The Royals are now 5-0 in league play.

After a scoreless first quarter, HSE got on the board with David Tsetse making a seven-yard run into the end zone. That was followed by several trades of possession, but Noblesville made its move with 1:16 left in the half. Melloh and Jarel Youree took turns running the ball from the Royals' 42 to the 3, and that's where Youree scored from. His score came with 14 seconds left in the half.

Southeastern pulled back ahead in the third quarter, when a resolute drive ended with a five-yard touchdown run by Matio. The Millers were hoping to respond, but that became secondary after Melloh was injured in the third quarter.

"He's good," said NHS coach Lance Scheib. "Our hearts and thoughts and prayers go out to him."

McGwire Plumer stepped into the quarterback position after Melloh's injury.

"I thought for a young man that's not ever been a quarterback on a Friday night, I thought he played fantastic," said Scheib.

Noblesville closed the gap in the early stages of the fourth quarter, with Youree running in from 23 yards to score. That cut HSE's lead to 14-12. The Millers then held the Royals to a three-and-out, but HSE got the ball back on an interception.

Southeastern started its next possession from its own 3, and made its way down to midfield. Once at the Royals 49, Matio zoomed into score from there, a 51-yard touchdown with 2:25 left. Noblesville's last possession resulted in a turnover on downs, and Matio got one more first down to ensure HSE's win.

Matio totaled 143 yards in 21 carries, including the two touchdowns. While those are good numbers, May was unhappy about his team's nine penalties, which totaled 83 yards.

Youree led Noblesville with his two touchdowns, part of a 159-yard rushing night. The Millers dropped to 3-4 after the loss, but Scheib thinks his team is better than that record says.

"It's the story of our year," said Scheib. "We're there, we can't find a way to get over the hump. We're a really good football team, and to be 3-4 right now is something that's disappointing, because we're better than 3-4. But we're playing great football. We've got to find a way to get over the hump and make plays, and that starts as we move forward with Brownsburg."

Noblesville, which is now 1-3 in conference play, hosts Brownsburg next Friday.

Big night for Chesney... Bad 1st half for Sheridan

Sheridan coach Bud Wright still is searching for a four-quarter football game from his Blackhawks.

The Blackhawks, again, got off to a slow start last evening in a game at Tipton, losing to the Blue Devils 35-21.

After trailing 21-0 at halftime, Sheridan outscored Tipton 21-14 in the second half.

"We're still playing parts of games," Wright said after Sheridan fell to 2-5 on the year

"We'll play a couple of quarters well after getting off to a bad start."

The two teams' stats were fairly even. Tipton ran 52 plays in rushing for 281 yards and Sheridan ran 41 plays in rushing for 202 yards. Sheridan passed for 58 yards and Tipton for 48 yards.

Sheridan scored twice in the third quarter. Quarterback Jake Chesney ran 27 yards for a touchdown and then with only four seconds left before intermission K.J Acevedo bounced across from the seven.

Chesney scored again in the fourth quarter on an 11-yard run.

Chesney had a big night carrying the football. He ran 25 times for 151 yards. He also completed 4-of-7 passes for 58 yards.

Sophomore Brody Perry caught two of Chesney's tosses, good for a total of 42 yards.

The Blackhawks will return to Larry Wright Stadium next Friday to host Taylor, which will be the Sheridan's last regularly scheduled game of the season. The final week of the regular season will be playoff week in the Hoosier Heartland Conference.

The Noblesville girls soccer team clinched the Hoosier Crossroads Conference title by beating Hamilton Southeastern 1-0 on Wednesday. The Millers finished the HCC with a 5-0-1 record. It's the first conference title for Noblesville since 2009.

Millers beat HSE, win HCC title

For the first time since 2009, the Noblesville girls soccer team is the Hoosier Crossroads Conference champion.

The Class 2A No. 3 Millers clinched the HCC title by beating fourth-ranked Hamilton Southeastern 1-0 on Wednesday. It was certainly a tough way to go for Noblesville, as five of the top eight teams in the Class 2A rankings are in the HCC. That means third-ranked Noblesville had to work hard and play top-level soccer all season to win the conference title.

The Millers finished with a 5-0-1 record in the conference. Noblesville would have won even if the game had ended in a tie, but the Millers would much rather have the win.

"The opportunity for the girls, as hard as they've worked, to win this really says something towards their attitudes and their commitment to this team," said Noblesville coach Mike Brady.

The Millers got the goal they needed with 14:06 left in the second half, when senior Hannah Lee found the back of the net.

"It bounced off one of our players, and I just shot it," said Lee.

"That's just being opportunistic, being in the right place at the right time," said Brady. The scoring opportunity came off of a corner kick, and Lee sealed the deal.

"Each of these players can step up in the right moment and do the right thing, and tonight it was Hannah's time," said Brady.
