Heritage Picnic returns to Southwest Quad

It may have been a little chilly on Saturday, but the celebration was warm and inviting at the Heritage Picnic, which took place that afternoon at Southside Park. Family entertainment, live music, games, prizes and free food all were a part of the celebration

The following were contributors and sponsors: Servpro, IDI, Gathering, HAND, Church, Church, Hittle and Antrim, Noblesville Parks Nickel Plate Arts and Ginger's Café.

Games and activities included Nickel Plate community mural project, face painting, corn hole, carnival games, etc. There was also a hay maze, which is pictured at left.

Food featured a hog roast, while music was provided by the Big Daddy Caddy. Turn to Page 2 to see more pictures from the Heritage Picnic.

Noblesville Main Street's First Friday recap

Noblesville Main Street is pleased to announce the winners of several events in conjunction with this year's October First Friday.

The annual Soup Cook-off featured seven local restaurants each offering a different recipe for attendees to sample. Noblesville Main Street wishes to thank Rosie's Place, Copper Still, Matteo's, The Ville, Ginger's Café, Barley Island and Courtney's Kitchen for braving the cold and serving their warm soups. Ultimately, the public vote went to Copper Still Kitchen & Bar, which served Chef Tom Saddler's potato, kale and sausage soup.

After the event concluded, Noblesville Main Street announced the winners of the Scarecrow Contest via its Facebook page. Those winners are as follows:

First Place Adult - Scared Crow by Judy Way

First Place Youth - Fireman Sam by Porter Hahn

First Place Business - Owl Witch by Linden Tree

Most Hipstoric - Hipstoric Girl Scouting by Stacey Noelle's Troup 682

Best Community Pride - Go Purple Scarecrow by Prevail

People's Choice (chosen by voting at FirstFriday event) - Hipstoric Girl Scouting.

CanStruction was also a featured event throughout the day at four downtown locations, including the Visitors Center, Lil Bloomers, Kiln Creations and Church, Church, Hittle & Antrim. The public can view these four sculptures on display during normal business hours through October 11 and vote for their favorite by donating canned goods on site at each location. The structures will come down October 11 and all cans will be donated to local food pantries.

Noblesville Main Street started CanStruction three years ago to raise awareness of hunger in Hamilton County and increase supplies at local food pantries. Kroger is a major partner in executing this annual event.

"Having fought hunger in local communities for 132 years, Kroger is well aware of the scale of the challenge, hunger's connectivity to other issues facing our neighbors in need and the impossibility of solving hunger alone," said John Elliot, Kroger's Public Affairs Manager. "We need broad-based community involvement over the long-term, and CanStruction is one of many ways to raise awareness, engage more diverse hunger relief partners and introduce more food into the hunger relief system,"

Elliot, a Noblesville resident and member of Noblesville Main Street, said he was particularly pleased to see local merchants step up and join this fight.

Noblesville Schools responds

In the Sunday, Oct 4 edition of the Hamilton County Reporter this newspaper published a court-filed memorandum in support of plaintiff David McCollough's response in opposition to defendants Noblesville Schools' and principal Jeff Bryant's opposition to defendants' motion for summary judgment.

The memorandum since has been placed on the Hamilton County Reporter's web page.

Before doing so, the Hamilton County Reporter informed Noblesville Schools that this would happen on Oct. 4.

On Saturday evening, Oct. 3, the Reporter received a statement from Noblesville Schools and also a request to publish their summary judgment motion.

The court-filed summary judgment motion, in full, has been placed on the Reporter's web-page. The statement from Noblesville Schools follows:

"The decision to not renew Mr. McCollough's coaching contract following the 2013-2014 basketball season was made because we believed the basketball program needed to take a different direction. This was not a decision that was made lightly.

"We prefer to handle matters like this through legal channels rather than public statements, but particularly feel the need to respond openly to ongoing attacks regarding the personal credibility of Principal Jeff Bryant.

"Since Mr. McCollough's summary judgment response has been shared with the community, we hope our summary judgment motion, which has been public record since December 2014, will be shared in this manner as well so that the community can hear both sides of this issue.

"Mr. McCollough's summary judgment response fails to acknowledge that in his own version of the events, provided to Noblesville Schools in February 2014, he openly admitted that he threw a ball toward a player in frustration. He also signed a statement at the time of the investigation indicating the same, and acknowledging that his behavior was not appropriate. This has been in the public record since December 2014 when Noblesville Schools filed its summary judgment.

"Superintendent Dr. Beth Niedermeyer and the Noblesville Schools Board of School Trustees stand with Principal Bryant and are confident he acted responsibly and with integrity in the handling of this matter.

"We look forward to resolving this issue through the legal process.

Will open in Meridian Corporate Corridor...

Health care startup Cureatr expands into Carmel

Cureatr, a health tech company offering a Care Transition Notifications™ network paired with a robust care coordination platform has opened a new Carmel location to serve its Midwest expansion. The announcement was made during a press conference held at Carmel City Hall Monday morning.

Founded in 2012 in New York City by a physician and a Silicon Valley technologist, Cureatr delivers real-time care transition notifications to healthcare providers, payers and care managers anytime their patients receive care. This network addresses the new risks and responsibilities of healthcare reform by giving care teams real-time, actionable information that is needed to reduce preventable hospital admissions and readmissions. The company, headquartered at 285 West Broadway in New York City, opened its new Carmel office this summer at 13295 North Illinois Street, Suite 229, located in the Meridian Corporate Corridor.

"As we have expanded, we recognized we needed to hire people who understand how to foster data-driven with leading payers and provider organizations. We were fortunate to find a great talent pool in Indiana with relevant health IT experience and a shared vision for where Cureatr is taking care coordination," said Joseph Mayer, MD, chief executive officer and founder of Cureatr, Inc. "We consider our expansion in Indiana well-aligned with many of our near-term and long-term growth goals. We recognize there is a lot of talent outside New York, and our office in Carmel gives us a base of operations from which to recruit and build a talent base."

Dr. Mayer met his co-founder Alex Khomenko, a seasoned Silicon Valley entrepreneur, during their undergrad studies at Stanford University. Prior to founding Cureatr, Dr. Mayer worked as a resident and researcher at Mount Sinai Medical Center, a prominent New York hospital. It was during his time there that he identified the systemic problem, inherent across all healthcare enterprises, which is the critical need for better care coordination and communication. Mr. Khomenko held engineering leadership positions with 23andMe and PayPal, prior to launching Cureatr.

Cureatr is lightweight, cost effective and is available via mobile devices, such as smartphones and tablets, as well as on desktop computers. As Dr. Mayer told Wired Magazine earlier this year, "If you look at the greatest challenge for physicians or any provider, it's really that period leading up to, during and after your loved one or patient has a hospital admission or discharge. It's probably the highest cost and the highest risk period; so from a clinical and a financial perspective, it's really a critical thing we need to fix to fix healthcare."

<http://www.wired.com/2015/06/cureatr/>

Cureatr chose to open its new office and expand to Carmel, based on the extensive talent and resources this area offers. Given Indiana's predominance of healthcare workers, Cureatr hopes to draw from an experienced talent pool, as well as from Purdue University's engineering program, and Indiana University's School of Informatics program. Cureatr is currently engaging legal services from Faegre Baker Daniels, in Indianapolis, as well as, graphic design services from Wilkinson Brothers, located in Carmel.

"We began working with Cureatr several months ago when we learned of their interest to expand to the Midwest. We held meetings here and in New York; we invited company officials here to tour Carmel and they were impressed not only with our favorable business environment but the fact that we pay attention to quality of life issues that will help them recruit the best and brightest employees," said Carmel Mayor Jim Brainard. "Adding an office here in Carmel is not only good for Cureatr's goal to expand partnerships and serve clients in the Midwest, it is also good for Central Indiana."

Dr. Mayer's previous experience and successes with tech startups has perfectly positioned him to develop Cureatr at this time. He has conducted extensive research in informatics, specifically in healthcare data loss prevention and clinical decision support, which led him to found Inomaly in 2007. Before founding Inomaly, Joseph founded Unwired, taking the company from startup to being awarded a government contract to build a regional wireless broadband network in the Netherlands.

Victor Smith, Indiana Secretary of Commerce added: "Cureatr joins a trend of tech firms from across the country that are choosing to locate operations and high-wage jobs here in Indiana. Across the state, Hoosiers are driving innovations that are changing the ways we live and do business. Indiana's pro-growth business climate and skilled tech workforce stand ready to help companies like Cureatr grow and advance technologies to power our world."

With Plumer at QB

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

Playing in the Hoosier Crossroads Conference week after week, teams are faced with many challenges. This week on Senior Night in the Millers final home game of the regular season, Noblesville will face a double-barrel challenge.

First, trying to stop one of the state's top scoring machines. Brownsburg will come to Hare Chevrolet Field with the 14th best offense in the state. The Bulldogs are averaging 45.4 points a game.

Brownsburg also is allowing 41.6 points a game.

Second, Noblesville will try to put points on the board with a quarterback who is starting his first varsity game. Junior McGwire Plumer will replace two-year veteran Luke Melloh, who is sidelined for the year with an injury.

Melloh was injured in the Southeastern game last Friday. Plumer stepped in and hit on 2-of-8 passes for 40 yards.

With the change in quarterback, speedster Jarel Youree keyed Noblesville's offense last week, carrying the pigskin 22 times for 159 yards.

Noblesville lost, 20-12 to HSE, which clinched at least a tie for the conference championship and currently is unbeaten in the HCC.

"I thought we matched the physical play of HSE throughout the entire game, which gave us the opportunity to win the game in the fourth quarter," said Noblesville coach Lance Scheib.

"I thought our offensive line played its best game of the year," Scheib continued. "I was pleased with how well we ran the ball. When you are physical up front and can run the ball, you are in every game."

Running the football; controlling the football, and keeping the pigskin out of the hands of the high-powered Bulldogs could give Noblesville a chance to win this week. Those things, plus an improved Noblesville defense which has been playing well.

"I have been pleased with the progress of our defense," Scheib said. "I thought we adjusted to Southeastern's pace of play and matched up well with their athletes."

Brownsburg has been nearly unstoppable the last two weeks with victories over Westfield 59-30 and Zionsville 66-41.

But, the Bulldogs are just 3-4 on the year. Their other victory was over Franklin 68-7. Their losses have been to Pike 55-34 Lawrence North 65-47, Avon 56-21 and Fishers 37-23.

Noblesville has defeated Lawrence North 55-50 and Zionsville 23-21 and lost to Fishers 38-13 and Westfield 18-14.

The Millers, like Brownsburg, have a 3-4 record.

Brownsburg is led on offense by 6-3 junior quarterback Hunter Johnson, who has passed for nearly 2,000 yards, and by Toks Akinribade, a 6-1, 205-pounder who has run for more than 800 yards.

Melloh was both a running and throwing threat for the Millers.

"We are playing the hottest offense in the conference," Scheib said of Brownsburg. "They raked up over 800 yards in offense last week and over 700 yards the week before. We will need to be at our best to slow them down."

"We must be able to run the ball to keep their offense off the field. We must be able to adjust to their pace of play on offense and not get rattled with their up tempo style," the Noblesville coach added.

Noblesville owns a two-game win string over the Bulldogs, beating Brownsburg in a 36-35 overtime thriller last year and winning 26-6 two years ago.

Royals travel to Ohio....

HSE takes conference break

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

It could be a very interesting, and exciting, end to Hamilton Southeastern's regular season football schedule.

This Friday the Royals will travel outside the state to take on Bishop Hartley High School in Columbus, Ohio.

The following week HSE will meet high-scoring Brownsburg at Victory Field. A win in that game will give Coach Scott May's club a full share of the Hoosier Crossroads Conference championship. Southeastern currently is 5-0 in the HCC. Avon is 3-1 with games still remaining against Zionsville and Noblesville. Zionsville is 0-4 in the conference and Noblesville is 1-3.

Southeastern is coming off a close call, 20-12, victory against Noblesville.

"We're very happy our guys found a way to win another game," said May. "Noblesville did a nice job of attacking us and they played hard."

"We have to cut down on penalties. We would make a good play and then a flag would take us back the other way. It is the detail thing we have to do right all the time."

Bishop Hartley won its first four games and then the last two weeks has lost to St. Francis 38-27 and Beavercreek 28-24.

At Columbus, Southeastern will find an opponent which likes to run the football. Their leading rusher, Robert Hickman, has carried 123 times for 846 yards.

Southeastern, on the other side of the coin, likes to throw the football. Quarterback Carter Poiry has passed for over 1,500 yards. Greg Miller has catches for over 500 yards and Aaron Matio catches for nearly 500 yards.

"Hartley is a very good team that wants to run the ball," said May.

"On film, they look very physical and have some very good athletes."

"They run the tightest offensive package I have ever seen and do a really good job of it. On defense, they are aggressive and play physical."

Hamilton Southeastern hasn't lost since falling to Carmel in the opening game of the season.

Brock Burns will be one of the starting safeties for Hamilton Southeastern in its Friday game at Bishop Hartley in Columbus, Ohio.

Cross country sectional...

Ranked county teams chasing regional berth

By SCOTT LIDSKIN

EDITOR'S NOTE: Scott Lidskin was a longtime girls cross country coach for Westfield, guiding the Shamrocks to state championships in 1998, 2005, 2006 and 2007. After retiring from coaching, Lidskin started his own Web site, www.hoosierxc.com, to provide coverage of Indiana cross country. Here is his look at the upcoming Noblesville Sectional.

October is the month of hopes and dreams for high school cross country athletes across Hamilton County. This Saturday, the IHSAA post-season tournament will kick off with sectional action and the most competitive sectional in the entire state is right here in our backyard: The Noblesville Sectional. There will be 13 teams battling it out on the beautiful White River Elementary School cross country course, with the top five placing teams (and the top 10 individuals who are not on an advancing team) earning the right to advance to the Noblesville Regional.

This year will be no different for Hamilton County cross country teams as there are six girls teams and five boys teams currently ranked in the www.hoosierxc.com top 25 statewide rankings. No other sectional boasts more ranked teams. To advance from this sectional, teams will truly have earned their coveted spot at the following Saturday's regional.

The boys race will kick off first at 10:30 a.m. and will feature the No. 1 Carmel Greyhounds. Carmel placed second at last year's state finals and they begin this post-season focused on moving up one more spot to earn the coveted state title. That quest begins with this sectional race.

The 'Hounds are led by the defending individual state champion, senior Ben Veatch. Whether Veatch actually races at the sectional however, is yet unknown. Frequently, top athletes of top teams will rest during the sectional round of competition and let their teammates handle the qualifying duties. Carmel will face stiff competition from No. 2 Fishers, No. 3 Hamilton Southeastern, and No. 7 Westfield. Yes folks, that means that four of the top seven teams in the entire state reside right here in Hamilton County. Throw No. 18 Noblesville into that mix and this is why the Noblesville Sectional is the best around. We didn't even mention Guerin Catholic, one of the better "small" school cross country programs in Indiana. If Veatch does toe the line on Saturday he will get his first match up with Hamilton Southeastern's Gabe Fendel. The HSE sophomore has won both the Hamilton County individual title as well as the Hoosier Crossroads Conference title so far this season.

Hamilton Southeastern's Gabe Fendel has been far and away one of the top cross country runners in Hamilton County and the Hoosier Crossroads Conference - and the state of Indiana. He will join his third-ranked Royals team at the Noblesville Sectional this Saturday.

The girls race is possibly even more intriguing than the boys race at the Noblesville Sectional. Their race is scheduled for 11:15 a.m. and six of the top 25 teams on the www.hoosierxc.com rankings will face off. This means that a top 25 caliber team will be knocked out in the first round of the IHSAA tournament.

Like in the boys field, the girls race will feature the No. 1 Carmel Greyhounds. Junior Sarah Leinheiser has been the front-running Hound thus far in 2015 and she has established herself as one of the state's best with some sub 18:00 performances. Carmel is talented and deep and while No. 14 Hamilton Southeastern, No. 16 Noblesville, No. 20 Fishers, No. 21 Westfield, and No. 24 Guerin Catholic all will take a shot at the Greyhounds, it will be difficult for any of those fine teams to dethrone Carmel. The best story-line in the girls race is the battle for fifth place. Fishers, Westfield, and Guerin have gone back and forth against each other all year, yet one of those teams will unfortunately see their season come to an end. Leinheiser has teammates Maddie Dalton and Christina Geisler to push her for the individual title as well as Noblesville's Abi Little.

If you can't get out to White River Elementary School on Saturday morning, www.hamiltoncountytelevision.com will do a live web-cast of the meet starting at 10:15 a.m. Simply log on to their website for coverage!

Volleyball...

'Rocks win all-county match, HSE now No. 2 in state, No. 13 in nation

The Westfield volleyball team picked up a pair of wins this week.

On Monday, the Shamrocks were 25-16, 25-13, 25-15 winners over Pike. Claire Stitz finished the match with 13 kills, Cassidy Ferrer and Kari Losch both had 13 digs, and Liene Miller had three blocks. The Westfield junior varsity won 23-25, 25-11, 15-8 and the freshman team was a 25-19, 25-21 winner.

The 'Rocks beat Hamilton Heights in a Tuesday all-county match, 27-25, 25-18, 21-25, 26-24. Stitz hit 21 kills, Losch made 30 digs, Miller had four blocks, and Caroline Sinicki served up three aces and dished out 41 assists.

Sarah Sipe put down 21 kills for the Huskies. Kenna Burman had 16 kills and 26 digs, with Shelby Hoover providing 19 assists. Ashlyn Bedwell had 17 assists and 18 digs.

Westfield won the JV match 25-15, 24-25, 15-8.

Hamilton Southeastern, which has moved up to No. 2 in the Class 4A rankings, won a straight-set match over Greenfield-Central 25-19, 25-17, 25-17 on Tuesday.

Hayden Huybers had a 17-kill performance while hitting .406 on the night - pushing her close to the 1000 career kill mark. Olivia Burgess made 18 digs and also served an ace. Setter Kenzie Hinshaw had 29 assists to lead the Royal attack. The win pushes the Royals to 28-2 on the season and they are currently prepvolleyball.com's 13th ranked team in the country.

The Royals' junior varsity took care of business winning in straight sets 25-16, 25-9 behind the defensive efforts of Sarah Chastain, Abby Switzer and Riley Huffman.

A strong front row performance from Dorothy Schmok complimented the back court speed to bring the Royals to 15-4

Southeastern's freshman team had a good run against Cathedral before falling 20-25, 25-19, 15-9.

"The volleys were long and defense was strong with tips being picked up by the Ds and Libero players, but too many mistakes led to a 19 - 25 and 9- 15 set loss to give the Irish the game," said HSE coach Jason Young.

Scotlyn Mieling and Abbi Danielson led in kills and Meric Haase led in blocks. The HSE freshmen are now 19-3.

Noblesville fell to 3A No. 10 Mount Vernon 25-19, 29-27, 25-22 on Tuesday.

Josie Sanders hit 13 kills for the Millers and also served four aces. Allie Phillips handed out 20 assists. Stephanie Meysembourg had 21 digs, and Ashley Birkheimer made 2.5 blocks.

Fishers swept Brebeuf Jesuit 25-15, 25-19, 25-20 on Tuesday.

The Tigers looked ready to go right from the beginning of the match as they started out the very first point of the match with an ace from senior Rachel Desmarais. Fishers kept up the pressure with accurate serving leading to eight aces, as well as continually keeping the Braves out of their system. With that and the Tigers aggressive play at the net they were able to register 11 kills and 4 blocks as a team in the first set. The Tigers came out swinging in the second set, jumping out to an early lead. Sophomore Mallory Hernandez had a very strong second set going for five kills on six swings for an .833 hitting percentage. Senior middle hitter Brooke Leonard also had a strong

Fishers JV football beats Cathedral

The undefeated Fishers junior varsity football team defeated Cathedral 7-6 on Saturday.

The Irish scored on their opening possession to take an early lead. The Tigers defense shut down the Irish from that point not allowing them to score the rest of the game while forcing three key turnovers. Offensively, the Tigers worked hard all game against a very good defense from the Irish. Fishers was able to move the ball most of the game but struggled to finish in the red zone. The Tigers finally got into the scoring column on a 40-yard touchdown pass from Joel Smyth to Brian Kantner. After a Luke Uribe extra point, it put the Tigers ahead for good.

After a Tigers turnover on downs in the fourth quarter with a min left, the stellar defense took over for a final drive. After allowing the Irish to move the ball Mike Prewitt picked off a pass in the end zone to seal the Fishers victory.

The Tigers will return to action this Saturday when they host the Shamrocks from Westfield. The game will kick off at 10 a.m.

Dunn, Vogel, Pacers joining effort for Game 3 Fever sellout

Indiana Pacers Head Coach Frank Vogel and star players Paul George, George Hill and C.J. Miles have continued their personal efforts to help pack the house for the Indiana Fever, and former Fever coach Lin Dunn has joined the effort this week to help the push toward a sellout crowd for Game 3 of the WNBA Finals on Friday at Bankers Life Fieldhouse (8 p.m.).

Vogel, George, Hill and Miles contributed resources prior to Indiana’s home game in the Eastern Conference Finals, also. With the help of the Fever’s former coach and hall-of-famer Lin Dunn, 2,300 tickets have been purchased to help local fans attend Friday’s game against the Minnesota Lynx.

In a rematch of the 2012 Finals that earned the Fever their first WNBA championship, Indiana currently leads the best-of-five-game series 1-0, after a 75-69 win Sunday in Minneapolis. The Lynx beat the Fever 77-71 on Tuesday. Game 3 is Friday and Game 4 is Sunday in Indianapolis (8:30 p.m.).

Complimentary tickets will be distributed to fans on Wednesday at the Bankers Life Fieldhouse Box Office, beginning at noon. Fans may collect up to a maximum four tickets per person. Additional tickets are available at the box office or at FeverBasketball.com and all Ticketmaster outlets, beginning at just $12 for balcony seating.

In search of its second WNBA crown in four seasons, the Fever franchise is hosting a viewing party for Tuesday’s Game 2 in Minnesota, at Blind Owl Brewery (5014 E. 62nd Street). Fans can pick up cheer cards, win raffle prizes and enjoy building camaraderie with local fans prior to Game 3 in Indy.

Wednesday, Fever fans will gather at City Market from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., with mascot Freddy Fever stirring the spirit with cheer cards and a prize wheel during the midday lunch.

Friday will be declared locally as FEVER FRIDAY by Indianapolis Mayor Greg Ballard, encouraging fans and local residents to wear RED during the work and school day. In conjunction with Food Truck Friday on Georgia Street, a Fever rally will be conducted for fans who want to pick up cheer cards or spin a Fever prize wheel. The rally lasts from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

The Fever Playoffs are presented by Old National Bank. Fans are encouraged to wear RED to Friday’s game, the same as in 2012 when the Fever won its first WNBA championship and the first pro basketball championship in Indiana since the ABA Indiana Pacers in 1973.

Participating in their WNBA-record 11th consecutive postseason, the Fever enter Tuesday’s Game 2 with more playoff victories (34, tied with Los Angeles) than any franchise in WNBA history. Bankers Life Fieldhouse has been host to more WNBA playoff games (30) than any other venue. On Friday, star forward Tamika Catchings is expected to break a WNBA postseason record by participating in her 65th career playoff game.

Breast cancer awareness at IMS...

Mann to help turn start/finish line pink

The white start/finish line at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway will turn pink at 10 a.m. on Thursday, Oct. 8, in recognition of National Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Pippa Mann, a four-time Indianapolis 500 starter and ambassador for Susan G. Komen, will be on hand to help paint the finish line and accept a monetary contribution from IMS to support the fight against breast cancer.

Mann will be joined by breast cancer survivors, Susan G. Komen Central Indiana leadership and IMS President J. Douglas Boles.

As a member of Dale Coyne Racing in 2014, Mann announced a partnership with Susan G. Komen and drove the No. 63 Susan G. Komen Dale Coyne Racing Dallara/Honda in both the 2014 and 2015 Indianapolis 500s. From Opening Day at IMS in 2015 through Indianapolis 500 Race Day, Mann's car, helmet, firesuit and more were turned pink in an effort to raise awareness of breast cancer.
