4 days with grandkids makes 1 week

By JANET HART LEONARD
Pitter Patter Pitter Patter.

I heard two sets of feet running across the floor in the bedroom above our room. I looked at my phone. It was 5:21 a.m.. Oh no, way too early to take on the day.

Five year old Aiden and almost three year old Leah were hanging out with Grand Chuck and I for four days. I had said it was for a week but Grand Chuck said I was exaggerating again.

Grand Chuck somehow convinced them to go back upstairs and try to sleep some more. I love that man! About 7:00 down the stairs they came.

Aiden asked if Grand Chuck can make his famous scrambled eggs. Of course!

Here was the conversation that followed. I am sure that you can figure out who said what.

"Milk? No, chocolate milk. Don't spill your milk. Sorry Grandma Janet. It was an accident. Leah, eat two more bites. Aiden, yes, you can have more eggs. You guys need to brush your teeth. Leah, where is your toothbrush. Upstairs. Why? (Leah shrugs her shoulders) Leah those pants don't match your top. Yes they do Grandma Janet. Leah do you need to potty? Aiden you can't have Oreos for breakfast. Why? Because I said so. Leah, your shirt is on backwards. No it's not. Put your shoes on. No, they are not on the right feet. Aiden, where is your coat. At school. Why? I left it at Finn's house. He brought it to school. Why didn't you wear it home? Grandma, I wasn't cold. Leah do you need to potty? Leah, please let me help you zip your coat. No Grandma Janet, I need to hold it over my head because it's raining. Go get in the car. Ok, do we have everything? Leah where is your blanket? Upstairs. GrandChuck will you go get Leah's blanket? Yes, both of them. And her stuffed toy that looks pitiful."

It may have been two against two but I assure you that we were outnumbered.

Whew, we got to preschool on time. I got to work on time. Well at least one of the four mornings we did.

CARMEL SWEEPS AT STATE CROSS COUNTRY

Third in a series as HAND Conference approaches...

Affordable housing in Hamilton County

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Hamilton County Area Neighborhood Development (HAND) will conduct its Neighborhoods NOW Conference on Nov. 10. HAND has created descriptions of the four prominent themes of the conference. The third runs today; the next one will appear in a future edition.

Home values are increasing in Hamilton County, but how does it impact our community when 1 in 5 households in Hamilton County are paying more than one-third of their income on housing – a level that's generally defined as "cost burdened?"

While not often recognized, many Hamilton County residents face significant financial burdens with housing, such as seniors, Millennials recently graduated from college with high education debt, and working families that are both low and middle income.

Stressed household budgets leave folks less capable of preparing for a crisis, accessing preventative health care or planning for retirement. Many homeowners risk foreclosure or defer important home maintenance. These same factors impact performance in the workplace, increase healthcare costs and lower property values. It also helps explain the abundant need at food pantries across the county.

Building a diverse housing stock provides opportunities to improve the quality of life and strengthens the county as a whole. The "Housing Wage," or wage a renter would need to earn in order to afford the fair market rent, is $12.25 for a 1-bedroom apartment in Hamilton County. However, 23% of the jobs in Hamilton County pay less than the housing wage. A worker earning minimum wage ($7.25) needs to work 68 hours per week to afford a one-bedroom apartment.

While the overall poverty rate in Hamilton County is much lower than the state average, there is an overall perception that poverty is concentrated in the northern part of the county. In fact, 77% of the people living in poverty reside in the four cities (see chart on Page 2).

A recent United Way report, ALICE: Asset Limited, Income Constrained, and Employed, indicates that 17,446 households in Hamilton County meet their criteria for at-risk households. These households struggle

Ward receives Thomson Reuters Public Sector Champion Award

Hamilton County Assessor Robin Ward has been honored recently with an award from Thomson Reuters. She was named one of the 2015 Public Sector Champions by the company for her work in tax administration. Ward was awarded the Excellence in Business Process Transformation Award for her work in streamlining tax administration.

Per a company statement “The name of the game for government officials sometimes boils down to the need for speed—paired with accuracy, of course. Hamilton County recognized the need to streamline managing administrative data in the office by integrating the Assessors Cama System with their tax and billing system data. Previously, it took several days of time-consuming manual processes, delaying the taxpayers’ review time for updated administrative data.

Hamilton County Assessor Robin Ward led the integration of the ProVal solution in her office, subsequently streamlining the flow of information from the assessor’s office to the public. Now administrative entry takes less than a day. By freeing up staff and resources, quickly resolving issues, and bringing accurate values to the tax and billing system, she and her team can confidently say they serve the public better.”

Ward, who was also recently been named the 2015 Indiana Assessor of the Year, has been employed with Hamilton County for 21 years and is currently serving her 2nd term as County Assessor. She is a Level III Certified Indiana Assessor-Appraiser. Robin served as Noblesville Township Assessor from 1999-2008. She is a member of the Association of Indiana County Assessors and past president of the Indiana Assessors East Central District and is currently serving as District Representative. She is also a member of Indiana Chapter International Association of Assessing Officers.

Lady Huskies have new coach....

Season opener postponed

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

New Lady Huskies basketball coach Omega Tandy has been with the team only about three weeks. Since arriving in Hamilton Heights, Tandy has seen good news and may-be not so good news.

She likes what she has seen on the court. She likes the way the Lady Huskies are adapting to the new style of play.

Tandy wishes Taylor Boyd, her 6-3 junior center, was healthy. Boyd likely will be sidelined for the season with an injury. Also sidelined, for the present, is standout soph-omore point guard Lexi Branham. She is targeted to return on Nov. 9.

Overall, Tandy says she is “excited.”

Tandy has a history of success, both as a player at North Central High School and at Cleveland State University and then as an assistant coach at Lawrence Central and at Ben Davis. At Ben Davis, while working with Hall of Fame coach Stan Benge, the Giants won a state and national championship.

So, it goes to say, Tandy knows how to coach. She has some good, young talent returning.

“These kids are so smart,” Tandy said. “They’re pick- ing up the adjustments we are making.”

The loss of Boyd will be tough. She averaged 8.6 points and 6-4 rebounds a game last season. Boyd was the fourth leading rebounder in Hamilton County during her sopho- more season.

Branham, now just a sophomore, was a key player to last year’s team. Running the point very well, she scored at a 7.7 clip and dished out 3.5 assists a game.

The leading scorer returns. She is sophomore, Kayla Kirtley, a 6-foot guard who last year averaged 12.3 points a game.

Also returning with talent and experience are senior Bri Henson, who for now is running the point; junior Ashton Runner, who last year averaged 8.4 points and 4.0 re- bounds a game; senior Amy Griffey, who scored at a 3.0 clip; and sophomore Ana Collar, who did well while play- ing in 22 varsity games.

In a scrimmage on Saturday, Tandy started Henson, Runner, 5-10 junior AireAnna Stretch, Collar and Kirtley.

The coach has plenty of time to make changes. A Nov. 5 season opener against Yorktown has been postponed because Yorktown still is playing in the post-season vol- leyball tourney.

“We’ve been fighting the clock, but having the York- town game postponed is a blessing,” said Tandy. “Now we won’t have to play until a Nov. 9 game at Tri-Central.”

First year coach, veteran team....

Westfield set for a run

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

Ginny Smith isn’t exactly a new coach, not in the way fans might think of a new coach. She spent five seasons as an assistant at Westfield before taking off a couple of seasons to start a family.

Now, Smith is back, replacing Shane Sumpter who has moved on to coach the Westfield boys.

“I’ve been around the program for a while,” said Smith as she prepares her Lady Shamrocks for a Wednesday season opener at Northwestern.

Northwestern is a new opponent on Westfield’s schedule. Smith players aren’t new.

“We have a new offense but we have a veteran group who can make adjustments,” said Smith.

“We have seven seniors and three juniors and we’ll be playing a couple of sophomores before Christmas,” said the coach.

“We’ll have good senior leadership.”

The seniors are Abby Reeder, Annaleise Drudge, Haliegh Reinoehl, Maddy Grennes, Jalyn Foland, Allison VanDyke and Paige Shockley.

Reinoehl is 6-2 and Grennes and VanDyke both are 5-10, so Smith isn’t expecting any rebounding problems.

Reinoehl at 9.1 boards a game, led Hamilton County in rebounding last season. Grennes averaged 4.7 boards a game.

No scoring problems, either. Vandyke, at 14.0, was the county’s seventh leading scorer. Reinoehl scored at a 12.2 clip and Grennes averaged 11.5. Foland scored at a 6.1 clip and Reeder averaged 5.3 poms a game.

“We’re a big team with big guards,” said Smith.

There are three juniors on the roster, Allison Dotson, Emily Katter and Morgan Clary.

The two sophomores Smith hopes will develop by mid-season are Ryann Bunting and Sophia Kreag.

“We have some adjustments to make and should do that by late November,” Smith said.

Westfield finished 16-7 last year, so with the veterans returning it appears Smith’s first varsity club is headed for a very good season.

Historic sweep for Carmel

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

Just when you think Carmel and Hamilton County cross country can't make any more history, they do.

The Greyhounds made an unprecedented sweep of the team and individual state champions at Saturday's IHSAA State Finals, which took place at the LaVern Gibson Cross Country Course in Terre Haute. In addition, Carmel's boys team led a 1-2-3 finish of county teams, with Fishers the runner-up and Westfield placing third, the Shamrocks' highest ever finish at state.

The boys race was first this year, and so was the Greyhounds senior Ben Veatch. He defended his individual championship by racing home in 14:59.8. Veatch won by seven seconds, a much more comfortable finish than last year, when he squeaked to victory in .07 seconds.

"It's been great," said Veatch, "We've had a lot of setbacks this year with losing two of our leading seniors, Thomas Revard and Teddy Browning. The resiliency this team has shown, a lot of young guys stepped up and grew up and this is the best team I've been a part of."

Veatch also won the Mental Attitude Award.

"It's awesome, knowing what it stands for and it's a great honor, especially with all the guys that have won it in the past," said Veatch. "My role model (Bobby Browning) who won it (in 2013). I've just been trying to be the best man I can be."

Sophomore Ben Miller, showing a glimpse of the present and future, placed 25th in 15:57.0, earning All-State honors. Carmel finished with 110 points, ahead of Fishers' 158.

"We knew coming in that we were matched up with them pretty tight," said Carmel boys coach Colin Altevogt. "Obviously having the guy win puts us in a good position early. For everything our guys have been able to do this season and how resilient they've been, we're really, really excited to come out today and perform well and run as well as we did."

The Tigers were led by senior Trevor Thompson, who finished 26th in 15:58.0.

"We ran really well," said Fishers coach Nathan Warnecke. "We knew that Carmel was the primary competition today. Carmel ran really well. When you look at our times, I think a lot of our boys had the best time they've ever had on this course, so nothing to be ashamed about, very happy with the way our boys ran today."

The Shamrocks scored 210 points, edging out Fort Wayne Carroll's 212 and defending team champion West Lafayette's 221. Westfield had two All State runners: Senior Alec Hartman finished 14th (15:40.1 and junior Aaron Bennett was 24th (15:56.8).

"Oh, it feels fantastic," said Shamrocks coach Greg Albert. "They've sacrificed everything. They really made it a huge priority in their lives to do this. And we've been planning it since last November, and then as coaches for 12 years, trying to get up there. We're super ecstatic, and wanting to give God the glory today for sustaining us and getting us through."

"It was just really fun with the team and all," said Hartman. "I was really surprised, actually, to be doing this well, but guess it's good coaches, good training."

Southeastern's boys placed sixth, with sophomore Gabe Fendel placing ninth (15:33.0).

Noblesville had two individuals race at state: Junior Eric Hoffman was 115th (16:43.8), and senior Cole Martin placed 168th (17:17.0.)

In the girls meet, the Lady Greyhounds made some history of their own. Carmel had three finishers in the Top 25 and totaled 70 points, well ahead of Fort Wayne Carroll's runner-up total of 158. It's the sixth consecutive team state championship for Carmel, the first time any team has won so many races in a row.

The race winner was junior Sarah Leinheiser, who continued her remarkable post-season run with an individual championship. Leinheiser finished the course in 17:30.8.

"It's kind of indescribable," said Leinheiser. "It's amazing, like the realization hasn't really come over me yet, like I won the race. It's amazing. I'm so excited about it."

"I credit it all to God, honestly. You could say that I've done a lot more training this year, I've eaten better, I've done a lot of stuff like that, but in the end, it's just a miracle."

Joining Leinheiser with All State honors are senior Stacy Morozov, who finished fifth in 18:11.0 and junior Christina Geisler, who placed 15th in 18:26.5.

"It's awesome," said Carmel coach Mark Ellington. "It's exciting. It's a testament to all the girls that have worked hard and have sacrificed and raced well over the last, actually, I would say seven or eight years. We had that one year we were runner-up."

Hamilton Southeastern placed 10th as a team, with junior Sabrina Bippus pacing the Royals. She finished 38th with a time of 19:02.5.

"I think the girls ran really well," said HSE coach Joe Golden. "To get ourselves in the Top 10 was a great performance for the year. They started the season ranked about 24th, 25th, I think, and just get better and better throughout the season."

Noblesville's girls finished 15th. Sophomore Abi Little placed 19th in 18:29.7, earning All State honors.

"It feels really good, especially since last year I was so close to making it, and making it this year just made it, like, 10 times better," said Little.

Fishers finished 20th as a team. Miya Wai was 64th in a time of 19:15.5

Westfield senior Devon Leahy raced as an individual, finishing 26th (18:47.2).

The Royals rallied from a 10-4 deficit in Game 5 winning eight straight points. Makenzie Hinshaw broke a school record with 57 assists on the match. The defense set the tone with 103 team digs. Olivia Burgess had 27 digs and Caitlin Kane had 21.

"It was a gutsy performance and the third time this season this group has done that," said HSE coach Jason Young. "This group never quit and came back to win this great match."

"I am so proud of this group," said Young. "They broke the school record for wins with 35. My Seniors helped change the culture of our program to elite status. Hayden Huybers, Natalie Mills, Lauren Boswell and Elaina Ededuwa all had a part in leading this program to this point. The future is bright for Hamilton Southeastern Volleyball."

Pacers overwhelmed by Jazz in the second half

By GREG RAPPAPORT
Courtesy nba.com/pacers

After surging to an early halftime lead against the Utah Jazz, the Pacers (0-3) were defeated 97-76 on Saturday night at Bankers Life Fieldhouse.

Things got off to a good start for Indiana, as the Pacers were able to force seven turnovers in the first quarter and get to the free throw line 20 times in the first half; compared to just four trips to the line for the Jazz.

But to start the second half, the Jazz went on a 14-2 run and outscored the Pacers 28-12 in the third quarter. It took a full five minutes for Indiana to get on the board in the third, but Paul George — who scored 16 points on the evening — was still able to energize the crowd with a one-handed slam to closeout the quarter.

"They hurt us inside in the second half and we weren't able to capitalize on the other end," said Vogel of the 21-point loss. "We weren't able to execute offensively in the third quarter. We didn't match their physicality. We let them beat us to our spots."

Utah, led by the combination of Derrick Favors (18 points, seven rebounds) and Rudy Gobert (17 rebounds, nine points), helped the Jazz control the glass all evening, leading to a 47-34 rebounding advantage in Utah's favor.

In the fourth quarter, the Pacers fell victim to another scoring drought — this one lasting from 9:23-4:41 — which enabled the Jazz to build upon its big third frame.

"I can't put my finger on it, but we definitely had more energy in the first half," said Myles Turner of the second half. "Like I said, though, we're going to improve."

The Pacers' starting unit starting unit had three players crack double-figures in scoring, including a 17-point, six rebound performance from point guard George Hill.

The loss, Indiana's third-straight to start the season, seemed to be another indicator that the transition to a faster offense is still a work in progress.

"We have to make sure everybody stays together and understands we have a chance to be a good team," Vogel said. "We have to work harder to get open and move the basketball."

Inside the Numbers

Six Jazz players scored in double-figures (Gordon Hayward, Favors, Rodney Hood, Trey Burke, Alec Burks and Joe Ingles).

The Pacers committed 24 team turnovers.

Four Pacers scored in double-figures with George Hill leading the way. In all three games this season, Hill has been the Pacers' leading scorer.

Up Next

For the second game in a row, the Pacers square off against a Butler hero, this time against former Bulldogs coach Brad Stevens and his up-and-coming Boston Celtics Squad on Wednesday night at 7 PM.

Royals win World Series Game 4

The Kansas City Royals are one game away from winning the World Series, as they beat the New York Mets 5-3 Saturday in Game 4 of the series at Citi Field.

The Mets led 3-2 through seven innings, but Kansas City broke the game open by scoring three runs in the top of the eighth inning. Salvador Perez had three hits on the night. Ryan Madson got the pitching win.

Michael Conforto hit two home runs for the Mets.

Game 5 starts at 8 p.m. tonight.
