City Council unanimously approves...

Topgolf to build new venue in Fishers

Global golf entertainment leader Topgolf International will be coming to Fishers, its first location planned in Indiana. After unanimous approval from the Fishers City Council at its Tuesday meeting, Topgolf® plans to begin construction on the 65,000-square-foot venue later this year with an expected opening of spring 2017.

Topgolf is the only entertainment center of its kind, offering competitive golfing games for all ages and skill levels and advanced technology to track the accuracy and distance of players' shots. Those who just want to relax can enjoy the upscale, laid-back ambiance that boasts more than 230 high-definition flat-screen TVs and an extensive food and beverage menu. The proposed Fishers venue would be located along 116th Street near Cumberland Road.

"As we look to expand in the Midwest, Indianapolis is a key market that has been on Topgolf's radar for a long time," said Topgolf Vice President of Real Estate Development Zach Shor. "Fishers offers a Dennis only candidate to declare...

Election filing slowed last week

By FRED SWIFT

The pace of filing for elective office in the upcoming primary slowed to a trickle in the past week. The only candidate filing for public office was Bill Dennis, longtime Westfield area resident and retired barber. Dennis is seeking a seat on the Hamilton County Council in the Republican primary.

Dennis is likely to make the sixth candidate in the field for Council. Three will be nominated May 3 for at-large seats on the Council. Incumbents Brad Beaver, Jim Belden and Rick McKinney are all planning to run again. Two challengers, Jeff Hern, George Kehl and now Dennis have already filed.

Presently the Council is deeply divided on a number of issues, so control of the next Council will likely be decided in the GOP primary. Often Beaver, McKinney, Fred Glynn and Paul Ayres vote together while Belden, Steve Schwartz and Amy Massillamany are found on the other side of an issue.

Except for the Dennis filing last week, the only other declarations came for hopefuls running for the political party positions of precinct committeeman or delegate to state party conventions.

Candidates for any office at stake in 2016 have until noon on February 5 to file their intentions with the County Elections Office at the Government and Judicial Center in Noblesville.

For eyeglass donations...

Sheridan Lions say thanks

The Lions Club of Sheridan sends out a big "Thank you!" to all the community residents who donated used eyeglasses to the club last year. Club member Vance Wallace reports that in 2015 the Sheridan community donated over 500 pairs of eyeglasses for recycling, a remarkable number considering the small Sheridan population.

One of the major programs of Lions Clubs International deals with vision services for the needy. As their motto says, "We want everyone to see a better tomorrow" and that is why Lions Clubs support sight screenings and services including vision screenings, eye banks and eyeglass recycling. According to Wallace, the eyeglasses donated here in Sheridan can end up any place in the world.

Sheridan Lions have multiple drop-off boxes for used eyeglasses within the Sheridan community, including at the public library and the schools. In addition to recycling used glasses, Community members should also be aware that in some situations the local Lions club will also assist with the purchase of new eyeglasses for needy individuals. Wallace also says that the Lions club accepts donations of used hearing aids. Like glasses, the hearing aids are used worldwide to improve the lives of needy people.

The Sheridan Lions Club meets first and third Wednesdays of each month in the Shelter House at the Community Park (300 block of East 6th Street) at 7 pm. Persons interested in further information about Li-

Letter to the Editor

Trash fee presented in a misleading way

As Noblesville residents, I believe we need to look closely at the city’s proposed new “trash fee”. I may be wrong, but I strongly suspect it has been presented to us in a way that is misleading. For example, the mayor states that “the city has always paid for residents to have trash and recycling for free”. What? In almost the same breath we hear about how the tax caps have caused the city budget to be stretched and cut as much as possible. But we ALREADY ARE paying for the trash/recycling through our property taxes. Plain and simple, we’re being asked to pay twice! They haven’t been giving us anything “free”.It’s misleading if information is omitted. The main information given by the city doesn’t even mention that the fee will go up every year until 2020. Mayor Ditsler stated they “have done their best running a lean government”. Is that what he calls it when the city gives THREE MILLION DOLLARS to a new business being next to Federal Hill Park? That money would have paid for a lot of trash pickup.We have wonderful parks in our city. I understand that building Federal Hill Park will have advantages for extending the downtown to the other side of the river and help improve the city west gateway. I like concerts, playgrounds and room for the Farmer’s Market, but don’t these expenses show how easily the city spends budget monies on “wants” more than “needs”? Consider the roundabouts. I like them, too, but do we need so many? Some of them have necessitated the tearing up of perfectly good and expensive roadwork. We need to know more about how the money will be used. They’ve said it will “improve the downtown infrastructure (including alleys that have not been repaired since 1995), tree replacement program, increase our support of law enforcement and their crime prevention efforts, and increase our funding of road repaving and sidewalk repair throughout the city.” I’d like to see language that limits how the trash fee money can be used. What’s to stop it being used for “incentives” or something like putting roundabouts on all four downtown corners? Would things like this be considered “improving the downtown infrastructure?” I think we need to know the money won’t go for nonessentials. Personally, I have a fear that if this new fee passes, the city won’t try very hard to negotiate fees with our trash collector because it won’t be part of THEIR budget. Instead, it’ll be OUR problem. The city put out a news release that says “... it is worth noting that homeowners will pay less with a trash fee and tax caps then they would if caps did not exist.” This sounds fine unless you stop to think about it. The purpose of the tax cap is to limit the amount local governments and most school districts can increase property taxes. So if more money is wanted, our city decides to add a “fee” rather than a “tax”. This blatantly goes against the intent of the tax cap! Who’s to say that as the city wants more and more money we taxpayers won’t see added “fees” for the fire department, policy protection, parks, and salary increases for the mayor? Initially, the 50% “65 and older” discount for the new fee also seems like a good thing. A survey of some of my “over 65” friends revealed that not a single one knew about being eligible for a property tax discount which means they wouldn’t get the trash fee discount either. Do you think seniors will get a refund for the past property taxes they didn’t have to pay? If the city wants to look good for giving this discount, then it needs to work to help the eligible people know and apply for it. I’ve heard the argument that it’s only $10 which might otherwise be wasted on snacks or whatever. True for some, but certainly not for everyone. As is, the family with a full time job or two and maybe three or four children will pay just as much as a single person with limited income who only puts trash out once a month because it takes a month to fill it. I’d like to know if the trash fee can be apportioned according to usage. I’d like to know if it can be shared between the city and its residents. I find it disturbing that this added “fee” (i.e., tax) would immediately be put before a council with several new members. They haven’t had time to study in detail how this all works. They might have more hesitation about asking opposing questions because they aren’t “experienced” yet. I hope it’s not because they’re more pliable now then they’ll ever be. Lastly, why didn’t a hint of this “fee” come up prior to the election? It’s bragged that more and more businesses and families are moving into our town. Isn’t this supposed to translate to “Noblesville residents have it better than before”? If all these families and businesses pay taxes, isn’t that suppose to be good for the city’s budget? Apparently not. Now if I saw an officeholder refuse to take a recently passed salary increase, I might believe there’s nowhere else new money can come from. However, it’s the manner in which this new trash fee has been presented to us that makes me suspicious. I don’t like the way we’re being treated. Please consider and explore these issues. Listen at the city council retreat this Saturday, Jan. 23, from 8:30 am until noon. Voice your concerns at the next regular council meeting on Jan. 26th. Both take place at City Hall.

centralized location in the state and close proximity to Indianapolis. It’s a vibrant community that is frequently recognized as a top place to live and work, and we hope to provide residents a new destination for entertainment.” The three-level location – which would be open year-round – includes up to 3,000 square feet of private event space and 102 climate-controlled hitting bays that can host up to six players at one time. Shor estimates that Topgolf Fishers would serve approximately 450,000 visitors in its first year of operation. Nearly half of all Topgolf guests describe themselves as “non-golfers.” “Topgolf is an innovative leader in the industry with a one-of-a-kind product, and we are very excited about the proposal,” said Fishers Mayor Scott Fadness. “The project fits our vision for the city and will offer a unique, state-of-the-art entertainment option for our residents and visitors to this community. Frequently lauded by national media as one of America’s fastest-growing private companies, Topgolf fits our vision.” Topgolf’s economic impact in its local communities is remarkable, creating 450 full- and part-time jobs at each venue and serving as an anchor tenant that tends to attract other popular franchises to the area. In fact, its economic output in Fishers alone is expected to exceed $264.5 million over a 10-year-period, according to a third-party audit. “The special thing about Topgolf is that you don’t have to be a golfer to have fun at our venue,” said Shor. “We have something for everyone, from a KidZone program for families to social leagues and live music for adults. Topgolf is a perfect spot for a family day out, a date night, a business meeting or even just dinner with friends.” Residents can track Topgolf’s progress in Fishers at facebook.com/topgolffishers and @Topgolffindy on Twitter and Instagram.

TEACHERS

Akers’ project will focus on the creation of an informational children’s book about sea turtles and the launch of a Little Free Library, both in memory of his daughter Grace who passed away last year. Crapnell will use her fellowship funding to analyze the environmental health of U.S. volcanoes, working alongside other scientists in Wyoming, Washington and Hawaii, and ultimately publishing her research findings on a scientific website. “As an administrator at Noblesville High School and now in the district office, I have seen the benefits of Teacher Creativity Fellowships, said Annetta Petty, executive director of learning for Noblesville Schools. “Teachers who have been able to pursue their passions have gained experiences and energy that have, in turn, informed and energized their teaching. The symbolic value of the Teacher Creativity Fellowships is also noteworthy: this special opportunity exclusively for teachers honors their profession and their personal commitment to helping students.”

Coach Pete Smith's squad was down with 11 seconds left when Smith was whistled for a technical foul, and Roncalli closed the game out.

"It was a poor time to express my displeasure with the officials," said Smith. "I regret that I didn't just stay quiet about things, and told the team that afterwards."

A pivotal stat in the game was three-point shooting. The Rebels connected on 7 out of 12 from behind the arc, while Smith's squad was a cold 20.7 percent (6-of-29), and overall shot only 30.9 percent from the field.

Guerin Catholic drops to 5-11 on the season, and will take on Brebeuf Jesuit Friday night at home.

The Blackhawks travel to Clinton Central for Conference this Saturday.

Defense plays better...

Pacers hold on to beat Phoenix

On Tuesday night in Phoenix, the Pacers did what they've struggled to do in recent weeks: put together a strong defensive performance and close out a win on the road. Indiana (23-19) snapped a three-game losing streak with a 97-94 victory over the Suns (13-30) at Talking Stick Resort Arena.

The Pacers seized control early into Tuesday's contest with a 15-0 run that broke a 17-17 tie, scoring the final eight points of the first quarter and the first seven points of the second. The Blue & Gold never trailed the rest of the way and led by as many as 20 points in the third quarter, but that doesn't mean there weren't a few nerve-racking moments for Pacers fans down the stretch.

Indiana had blown fourth quarter leads in each of its last three road games, and sure enough, the Suns clawed their way back within striking distance. Phoenix cut the Pacers' lead to just five points on Devin Booker's 3-pointer with 55.9 seconds remaining.

But this time, the Pacers did enough to hold off the opposition, as Monta Ellis knocked down a pull-up jumper 16 seconds later to thwart the rally. The Suns eventually got within three after Brandon Knight hit a circus shot with three seconds to play, but Ellis calmly knocked down both free throws on the other end to seal a much-needed victory for Indiana.

"We still have a lot of work to do, but we needed a win," rookie center Myles Turner told FOX Sports Indiana's Jeremiah Johnson after the victory.

"Before the game, (head) coach (Frank Vogel) put up on the board 'Just get a win.' You can draw up the X's and O's, you can do that, but at the end of the day, it's about how you play."

Fittingly, the Pacers won this game with their defense. Vogel had lampooned his team's defensive effort as "an embarrassment" after they allowed 45 fourth quarter points in Sunday's 129-126 loss in Denver, but Indiana was much better defensively in Phoenix.

"A significantly different performance in a lot of different areas, so I'm happy with that," Vogel said after the win.

The Blue & Gold held the Suns to just 34.6 percent shooting on the evening, the lowest field goal percentage by a Pacers opponent in any game this season. The Pacers also forced Phoenix into 22 turnovers on the night, with five players collecting two or more steals.

Ellis led five Pacers players in double figures with 20 points in the victory. Paul George added 19 points, eight rebounds, four assists, and four steals. Fellow starter Glenn Robinson III added 10 points on 3-of-4 shooting.

The Pacers once again got a big boost off the bench from their rookie duo of Myles Turner and Joe Young — both of whom were coming off the best performances of their career in Sunday's loss in Denver, where they combined for 40 points.

Turner scored 15 points on 7-of-11 shooting and blocked four shots. Young, playing virtually all of his minutes alongside his fellow 2015 draft pick, added 11 points, five assists, and two steals in just a little over 19 minutes.

The rookies' contributions were all the more important given who the Pacers did not have for the majority of Tuesday's contest.

The Pacers now have two days off to prepare for their next game, which figures to be the biggest test of their current four-game road trip. Indiana visits defending NBA champion Golden State on Friday night at 10:30 PM ET.
