County trying to get ahead of the problem...

Extent of county heroin 'epidemic' hard to assess

By FRED SWIFT
How serious is the heroin "epidemic" in Hamilton County? It's regarded as a definite problem, but even the experts are having difficulty finding just how many people are using, overdosing and dying from the drug.
The word epidemic has been used by some public officials to describe the increasing use of heroin. Emergency Medical Service workers are often the first to find a person who has been using and overdoses. Such cases usually end up in a hospital emergency room.
From there it becomes more difficult to keep track of the number of recoveries or deaths that can be attributed to heroin. For example, some medical professionals are reluctant to use the term "heroin overdose" as the cause of a death. The cause may be listed as failure of a certain organ: kidney, heart, etc.

In addition, it is believed that a number of local drug overdose cases are treated in Marion County hospitals. Whether a patient recovers or dies, records do not have to be reported to Hamilton County.
Hamilton County Coroner John Chalfin can name 14 deaths last year likely due to the use of heroin. But, this could be far from the total. He is hoping to get a revision in the form of the state's death certificate that will require identifying the drug overdose for what it is.
Of the 14 locally confirmed deaths last year, heroin victims ranged in age from 20 to 70, but the majority were young males in their 20s, a statistic that follows the national trend. So far, the county has not found a great spread of HIV due to the use of dirty needles as has been reported in some areas.

County Health Department educator Jim Ginder is working in county schools trying to get ahead of the drug problem.
In addition, most first responders in the county now carry a Narcan kit with them. Narcan is an Opiate antidote usually administered as a nasal spray designed to revive a person whose respiratory system has shut down due to drug overdose.
Narcan has been disbursed to schools and other locations where it can be administered quickly. It can even be purchased in drugstores for home use.
With the number of heroin users unknown, it is difficult to know whether education, law enforcement and the availability of Narcan is slowing the spread of heroin use, but it appears to remain one of the community's greatest challenges of the decade.

Crash claims Westfield woman's life

A two-vehicle fatal crash at the intersection of Mule Barn Road and 206th Street is under investigation by the Hamilton County Sheriff's Office. The driver of one of the vehicles involved was pronounced dead at the scene while other participants sustained varying degrees of injuries.
An initial report by crash investigators indicates a gray Mercury Sable driven by Travis Correll, 30, Peru, was travelling eastbound on 206th Street. A green Honda CR-V driven by Patricia Douglass, 52, Westfield, was northbound on Mule Barn Road. The report alleges Correll failed to yield the right-of-way to traffic on Mule Barn Road. According to witness statements, the Sable failed to stop at the stop sign on 206th Street and struck the Honda on the driver's side causing both vehicles to leave the road and come to rest on the northeast corner of the intersection. No one was ejected or trapped during the crash.
Douglass was pronounced dead at the scene from injuries sustained in the crash. Correll was treated by medics and released at the scene. One passenger in Correll's vehicle was taken by air ambulance to St. Vincent Hospital in Indianapolis for treatment of pain and other injuries while a juvenile passenger was transported by family members to Riley Hospital for a check.
As in all fatal and serious injuries crashes, tests were conducted to determine if alcohol or drugs may have been involved in the crash. Toxicology results are pending.
This incident remains under investigation by the Hamilton County Sheriff's Office Crash Team. Anyone with information should contact the team at 317-773-1282.

OPEN LETTER FROM NATE LICHTI

Outgoing Hamilton County Neighborhood Development (HAND) executive director Nate Lichti has penned an open letter to Hamilton County that discusses two proposals. Read it on Page 2.

Open letter to Hamilton County...

Lichti encourages people to get involved

Dear Hamilton County:

I wanted to express my gratitude to the people of Hamilton County for extending me your trust during my service as the Executive Director of HAND. My first time in downtown Noblesville was when I interviewed for the position in 2012, and since then I've gotten to know this community in exceptional ways. In addition to city leaders and neighborhood advocates, the Good Samaritan Network, Chambers of Commerce, and Hamilton County Leadership Academy (HCLA) all provided great introductions to the best of what Hamilton County has to offer.

As you continue to lead the State in so many ways, I encourage you to maintain a long view and pursue comprehensive strategies that will lead to a healthier, more vibrant region. Through a participatory process, HAND has developed a comprehensive set of strategies to deal with prominent community issues such as: Growth, General Affordability, Sustainability and Senior Housing. In building these partnerships, HAND has proven to be a true community asset, and I hope you will continue to invest in and support HAND's mission.

Once the new director begins, I encourage you to get involved in helping to define concrete action steps that can be taken. These actions require resources, and HAND has come a long way without substantial local support. This will need to change for HAND to maintain a robust presence across the county. HAND's Board of Directors is going to lead a campaign to generate long-term support, and I hope communities step forward to address these needs.

Local support could allow HAND to focus on delivering services, partnering with neighborhoods and designing local solutions. I hope communities can jump on board and find ways to make meaningful pledges so everyone can move quickly into the more important conversations – what local solutions would we like to explore?

HAND's Board recently reaffirmed its commitment to two local solutions - the Noblesville Granary and Blackhawk Commons. After assessing the results and learning just how close each project came to getting funded in February, we know these projects have a very high probability of getting funded in 2017. Since they also provide the greatest potential community impact and best housing options possible, HAND will continue to explore these possibilities.

Another potential path to long-term, substantial change comes in connection to the recent COIT disbursement approved by the State. Local communities maintained control over 25% of the $65 Million, so I'm going to throw one idea into the hopper: What if 10% of the funds were deployed to start a Hamilton County Housing Trust Fund that would support the development of innovative, quality affordable housing projects?

These Trust Funds are a common way to pool community resources to support projects that provide real impact. Once capitalized, a county-wide Housing Advisory Council could provide recommendations on what investments would have the greatest benefit. If not these funds, how about another ongoing source?

For example, Hamilton County could start a program to help teachers, firefighters and police officers to purchase housing in the communities they serve; provide emergency and transitional support to victims of domestic violence; develop housing that Millennials can afford; and more. Smart private developers could easily leverage these funds to generate $3+ for every $1 committed locally (HAND typically achieves a $20:$1 leverage). Let's not let your fears of what might happen stop you from addressing real pressing problems faced by those living with unstable housing.

I trust you will continue to support HAND by thinking globally and acting locally. Everyone in Hamilton County can play an important role by supporting the soon to be unveiled public awareness campaign. Started by an HCLA team, the campaign will spread the message by distributing decals to be displayed by HAND's supporters. Churches, schools, and civic groups can help spread the message that Hamilton County can be sustainable, diverse and livable by promoting a "Housing for All" strategy.

With your help, HAND will be an essential community partner that helps you build quality, safe and sustainable neighborhoods. I urge you to get involved, pledge your support, and contribute real solutions to the cause.

With gratitude,
Nate Lichti

Noblesville to host Earth Day ArborFest April 23

The City of Noblesville will host its Fourth Annual Earth Day ArborFest from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, April 23 at Shelter 5 of Forest Park, 701 Cicero Road. This one-day event will celebrate the community, its trees, the earth, and ways to improve and properly care for them.

“This free event is a great way for families to have fun and learn ways to protect and enhance our environment,” said Mayor John Ditslear.

Activities planned include planting and giveaways of free Tulip, Red Dogwood and Red Oak tree seedlings; speaking with local environmental exhibitors; learning about composting; tree identification; a Noblesville fire truck and an electronic car from Hare Chevrolet will be on display; and a large watershed map of the City of Noblesville where residents can locate their homes on the walkable map. Visitors also may enjoy a fundraiser breakfast and lunch provided by the Noblesville Sunrisers Kiwanis.

“It’s a fun drop-in event to learn about the environment and pick up your tree seedlings,” Noblesville Parks Naturalist Karen LaMere said.

For a small fee, residents can recycle their documents and large electronic equipment. Televisions, microwaves, computers and other electronics may be dropped off at the Forest Park Aquatic Center parking lot. A shredding company will have locked tubs available for disposal of papers. The tubs will be taken offsite for shredding.

At 11 a.m., Mayor John Ditslear will dedicate the city’s “Trees of Hope” to commemorate Indiana’s Bicentennial as part of Boy Scout Nick Svendsen’s Eagle Scout project. The 10 Hamilton County “Trees of Hope” serve as a living commitment to environmental sustainability for future generations of Hoosiers and pay tribute to Indiana’s establishment of the state parks system 100 years ago as part of the centennial celebration.

Nickel Plate Arts will have their Welcome to Fairyville event and other activities in partnership with this event at 107 South Eighth Street in downtown Noblesville. The Fairyville Trail will stretch from Nickel Plate Arts to Forest Park. For more information, visit <http://nickelplatearts.org/fairyville/>.

Carmel celebrates Earth Day with children's art display

To celebrate Earth Day and promote environmental sustainability, Carmel Green Initiative (CGI) hosted the 7th annual Earth Hour-Earth Day Art Contest in partnership with the City of Carmel, Carmel Arts & Design District, and the Carmel Clay Public Library. Children's Earth Day art displays are located at the Carmel Clay Public Library, the Monon Center, Muldoon's in the Arts & Design District, and Whole Foods Market in Clay Terrace. The exhibits will be on display until May 2.

"To celebrate Earth Day, we encourage families to visit the children's art exhibits. These exhibits give our youth a voice, empowering them to inspire others to live sustainably," said Leslie Webb, president of Carmel Green Initiative. "Check out the amazing and inspiring artwork about saving energy, recycling, growing your own food, planting trees, riding bikes, carpooling, using less coal, and many other ways to care for the environment for everyone."

CGI's environmental education program uses creativity and art to teach about the impacts of energy use and why it's important to be good stewards of the environment. Close to 4,000 youth have participated since the program began in 2010.

"We incorporate environmental education content from E.P.A. Energy Star Schools to inspire youth to save energy through simple actions such as turning off lights, the TV, and the computer when leaving the room. These are things kids can do," said Webb. "We hope the exhibits create awareness in the community to help build a more sustainable community." Select artwork is also posted on the CGI website.

Mayor Brainard will recognize winners on Sunday, May 1, 2016 at the Carmel Clay Public Library. This year's finalists include Payton Sevensing, Kindergarten, Sharvika Peram, 1st grade, Jude Lund, 2nd grade, Ethan Smith, 3rd grade, Careen Ateea 4th grade, Theresa Hommel, 5th grade, Amy Zhou 11th grade, and Ryan Middleton, 12th grade. From the PRWeb press release: "RYZE provides claim adjusting services to 200+ customers and handles an average of nearly 150,000 claims per year. The Company provides its clients with a national platform utilizing its base of more than 1,000 claim adjusters and services all facets of the claims management process – daily loss adjusting, catastrophic (CAT) claims management, flood adjusting, TPA services, complex claims and various other specialty services.

RYZE aims to leverage its strengths to become the premier claims adjusting company in the U.S. "This is a powerful merger of industry leaders that are clearly very complementary," said Karla Elliott from Eagle. Noblesville comes back against Westfield...

Miller clinch HCC series

Noblesville's Bryce Masterson runs into home during the Millers' baseball game with Westfield Friday at Don Dunker Field.

Noblesville found itself down early in the second game of its Hoosier Cross-roads Conference baseball series with Westfield Friday night at Don Dunker Field.

But the Millers used some timely hitting in the middle innings to get ahead, and eventually win the game 8-3. Since Noblesville beat the Shamrocks in the series' first game on Thursday, the Millers have now clinched this series, its second series win of the season.

Westfield came out and got on top early, thanks to a two-run home run from Ryan Pepiot. That top of the first homer put the 'Rocks in front through the middle of the fourth inning.

That's when Noblesville made its move, scoring twice in the bottom of the fourth to tie things up, then pouring in four runs in the fifth to take the lead for good.

"We just kept grinding the bats out," said Millers coach Justin Keever. "Drive the pitch count up, kept grinding, kept grinding, drew a lot of walks."

Alex Cleverly had a huge night, going 2-for-2 at the plate and batting in four runs.

"We knew that if we stuck to our approach and balls would start falling, we'd start getting some hits," said Cleverly.

"Alex Cleverly was real big for us tonight," said Keever. "Four big RBIs for us."

Michael Carmosino, Jackson Thurman and Austin Shirley all hit a double, with Thurman's hit resulting in two RBIs.

Freshman Reese Sharp pitched four innings to get the win. He tossed three strikeouts and allowed just three hits.

"I had a plan, and I had to help them, and I had to get the guys back in the game," said Sharp.

"Real happy for Reese and Clev tonight," said Keever.

Milo Beam also hit a double for Westfield.

The series concludes at 11 a.m. today at the Shamrocks' field.

Battle for the Mudsock today

The stage is set for today's rubber game showdown in the Hoosier Crossroads Conference, Mudsock baseball series between Fishers and Hamilton Southeastern.

Coach Matt Cherry's Tigers evened the series by upsetting state No. 1 ranked Southeastern 9-4 Friday evening at HSE.

The third and final game of the series is today at 11 a.m. at Fishers.

Fishers used a combination of timely hitting and pitching to pull out the victory. The Tigers scored seven runs with two outs, including five 2-out RBIs. Fishers pitchers worked out of three different bases loaded jams without allowing a run, including a 4-6-3 double play in the second inning by Craig Yoho, Andy Bennett and Taylor Soper.

Sophomore starting pitcher Luke Albright threw five innings in the victory. Albright struck out six and allowed three earned runs. Yoho pitching a scoreless sixth and recorded two outs in the seventh. With the bases loaded and two outs, Soper came on to strike out the only batter he faced to record his first save of the season.

Offensively, the Tigers bats came alive. Matthew Wolff delivered the most damage with a 2-for-2 effort, including an RBI triple and a two-run home run. Ryan Metz added a 3-for-3 night with an RBI sac fly. Bennett contributed a double and two RBIs, while Yoho added a RBI single. Brendan Toungate belted a double.

The Tigers took a 1-0 lead in the second and scored two more in the third. The Royals scored two in the bottom of the third. The Royals added two more runs to make the score 6-4 before Wolff's home run extended the lead to 8-4 in the top of the sixth.

JB Washburn paced the Royals at the plate, going 3-for-4. He singled in the third, fourth and sixth innings. Jackson Howard went 2-for-3 at the plate.
