Hampton Inn breaks ground in Westfield

The City of Westfield is pleased to announce that a new Hampton Inn by Hilton will be built near the US 31 and SR 32 interchange off of Westfield Park Rd near the Westfield Business District.

“The new US 31 project combined with the success of Grand Park has transformed Westfield’s economic structure,” said Mayor Andy Cook. “Last year there were nearly 62,000 hotel room nights booked in central Indiana because of Grand Park. Developments like this Hampton Inn will be able to keep some of those visitor dollars in Westfield.”

Scheduled to open in the spring 2017, the $12.2 million, four-story Hampton Inn will feature 93 guest rooms. Additional features include as an outdoor patio with fire pit and a spacious indoor swimming pool.

“We are honored to partner with Hilton Worldwide in bringing the Hampton Inn franchise to Westfield”, said Chris Wilkes, Partner and Senior Vice President with Holladay Properties. “With Westfield’s ever expanding corporate base, along with the hotel’s location along the new US 31, we feel that this hotel is well positioned to service the key business travel segment. Additionally, this Hampton Inn will benefit strongly from the significant travel and tourism activity generated by Grand Park.”

The project is a joint venture of Holladay Properties and Schahet Hotels, Inc. (SHI). Holladay will be leading the design and development of the new hotel while SHI will manage the hotel once complete.

“We are excited to be partnering with Holladay Properties on this great project, and we look forward to becoming a part of the vibrant Westfield community,” said Greg Schahet, SHI’s President and CFO.

Holladay Construction Group will be serving as the General Contractor during the construction period. A groundbreaking for the hotel took place Wednesday.

Hamilton County Drug Court celebrates successes

May is National Drug Court month. Hamilton County has a Drug Court and our Drug Court celebrates the month and the court’s successes.

Today there are 2,966 drug courts in the United States and its territories, 38 of which are right here in Indiana. Hamilton County’s Drug Court began five and a half years ago, in November, 2010. While following Indiana statutes and court rules, our Drug Court unites the legal and treatment resources in our community to intensively supervise and insure treatment for nonviolent and non-dealing drug addicted offenders. This represents real criminal justice reform in action.

Instead of warehousing those offenders in our jail or prisons, where their rehabilitation is difficult to achieve, the 16 professionals who comprise the Hamilton County Drug Court team assist the participants to become drug free, to stop committing crimes, and to stay out of jail. They also help the participants to become responsible, productive members of society, with jobs, good habits, and rebuilt family relationships. The Hamilton County drug court has saved lives, prevented crimes, reunited families, and been responsible for the birth of drug-free babies, education achieved, and employment gained and kept.

In addition to the court assisting the participants learn personal responsibility and achieve long-term sobriety, the court promotes public safety and reduces criminal justice costs by using evidence based practices. Research shows that Drug Courts work better than jail or prison, better than community supervision, and better than treatment alone. Nationally, 75 percent of the offenders who complete drug court programs are not re-arrested. At the end of 2015, 81 percent of Hamilton County Drug Court graduates had not re-offended.

Our Hamilton County Drug Court is a judicially supervised court docket which requires participants to remain in treatment for long periods of time, while being closely supervised by the professionals on the drug court team. Drug Court participants must meet obligations to themselves, their families, and society throughout the 18–24 months that they remain, if successful, in Drug Court. To ensure accountability, they are often and randomly tested for substance use, required to meet regularly with their case managers and treatment providers, and appear frequently in court for Judge Bardach to review their progress. They are rewarded for meeting goals, and swiftly sanctioned for not meeting their clearly stated obligations.

Primanti Bros. opens in Noblesville

The City of Noblesville – with the help of Mayor John Ditslear – has worked to secure the first Primanti Bros. restaurant in Indiana – becoming the organization’s farthest restaurant from its home base in Pennsylvania. The restaurant and bar opened on Wednesday and is located near Hamilton Town Center at 13871 Cabela Parkway. Mayor Ditslear will performed a ceremonial ribbon cutting on Tuesday afternoon

The 4,600-square-foot full-service restaurant and bar will bring approximately 100 new jobs to Noblesville.

“We couldn’t be happier to partner with the City of Noblesville for our first restaurant in Indiana,” said David Head, Primanti Bros. CEO. “We’re excited to show the community our idea of a good time – awesome food, great value and an atmosphere conducive to hanging out with friends and family.”

The location in Noblesville is the first of a planned five locations in the Indianapolis region.

“We are excited to bring Primanti Bros. to Indiana and offer another unique dining experience here in Noblesville,” Mayor Ditslear said.

The new location in Noblesville will serve approximately 250,000 guests in its first year.

“We’re growing, but we don’t take ourselves too seriously,” said Head. “We’ve got big, two-handed sandwiches like nothing you’ve seen before, a full menu of burgers, pizza and wings and a stocked bar with some of the best specials around.”

Since 1933, Primanti Bros. has been a dining institution in Pittsburgh. The Greg and Cathy Habegger try one of Primanti Bros.’ “Almost Famous” sandwiches. The restaurant opened Wednesday with a ribbon cutting on Tuesday.

“Almost Famous” Primanti Bros. sandwich is built between two slices of crusty – yet soft – Italian bread. It’s piled high with a choice of grilled meat, an optional egg, secret recipe coleslaw, fresh-cut fries and two tomato slices.

Unlike the restaurant’s original location, the Primanti Bros. in Noblesville will open as a full-service restaurant with a large bar, many televisions and an indoor/outdoor patio.

Community event to celebrate Noblesville IndyCar drivers Monday

The City of Noblesville will host a meet and greet event for IndyCar drivers Conor Daly and Bryan Clauson from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Monday, May 23 at Shelter No. 5 of Forest Park. The Dale Coyne Racing teammates share Noblesville as their hometown.

“As Conor and Bryan prepare for the momentous race, we want to remind them that our city is firmly behind them and proud of their accomplishments,” said Noblesville Mayor John Ditslear. “We hope this free community event is well attended and provides a period of relief to the drivers from the stress of Indianapolis 500 racing preparations.”

The event will feature a short introduction and question-and-answer period before the drivers interact with the public by signing autographs (materials will be provided) and take pictures. The Noblesville Parks & Recreation Department will have crafts and games available for children at the event in addition to the nearby playgrounds. Light refreshments also will be served to guests.

The two hometown drivers are attempting to compete in the 100th Indianapolis 500 race on Sunday, May 29. Each participated in last year’s race, Clauson also ran in the 2012 Indy 500, and Daly ran in the 2013 Indy 500 as well.

Bryan Clauson

Conor Daly

“Having not one but two drivers from Noblesville in the field of 33 at the greatest spectacle in racing is an astonishing feat,” Ditslear said. “We are so proud of Conor and Bryan. We encourage the community to come out, meet the drivers and wish them well as they prepare for the historic 100th running of the Indianapolis 500.”

Carmel to participate in Bike to Work Day

This month of May, the City of Carmel is celebrating National Bike Month and Friday, May 20, has been designated National Bike to Work Day. Carmel residents and those who work in Carmel are encouraged to bicycle to work or park their vehicles at the Monon Community Center and ride to work from there. The Monon Community Center's parking lot will be available for bike to work commuters to park their cars while they ride to and from work on that day.

To make the morning ride to work even more enjoyable, Commuter Connect, Market District, the Indianapolis Metropolitan Planning Organization, the City of Carmel, and the Carmel Clay Parks and Recreation Department are hosting a free continental breakfast at the Monon Community Center at Central Park from 6 to 9 a.m. It will be free and open to all Bike to Work Day participants. This gathering will be especially convenient for those using the adjacent Monon Greenway to get to their workplace.

Carmel has a long history of embracing biking for both recreational and commuting purposes. The city has been designated a bronze level Bicycle Friendly Community by the League of American Bicyclists from 2006 through 2019.

"Each year we make improvements to our trail system to make it easier and safer for those who want to enjoy cycling for recreation or as a form of transportation. Many of our residents of all ages like the option of moving around the city using our more than 175 miles of paths and trails. Cycling also allows one to better appreciate the natural and architectural beauty of Carmel and experience the connectivity we are creating through our trail system," said Mayor Jim Brainard.

Communities across the country are asked each year to celebrate May as National Bicycling Month by the League of American Bicyclists. In April, the Carmel City Council declared May as Bike Month and Bike to Work Day in Carmel. In addition to Bike to Work Day, the city has been promoting bicycle safety throughout the month. Bicycling is the most energy-efficient form of travel ever devised and can accommodate almost any level of fitness. It is also good for the environment as it helps reduce air, water and noise pollution. Studies have shown that more than half of all Americans live less than five miles from their place of work, a reasonable distance to bike for people in average physical shape.

Cleaner and easier to navigate...

City of Noblesville launches new website design

The City of Noblesville's website, www.cityofnoblesville.org, is now live with a new design that users should find cleaner and easier to navigate.

"We thought it's time for a fresh look. I'm very pleased with the way it turned out and how user friendly our website has become," Mayor John Ditslear said.

The new homepage has a similar template to the previous site with drop-down menus at the top. New buttons highlight areas that visitors search for most – including paying bills, meeting agendas, forms, maps, employment opportunities and a place to provide feedback. The site also features social media feeds to the city's Facebook and Twitter accounts alongside news releases and upcoming events. The site is modernized with a responsive design, which changes size to fit any mobile device – iPad, tablet or phone.

"The new front page should make information easier to access so visitors can easily find what they are looking for," Information Technology Director Misty Shearer said.

This is the first major overhaul of the website since 2004. The last time the website was updated was 2011 to rebrand with new colors.

"We spent months auditing the website – cleaning it up and removing duplicate data. We drilled down page by page which we haven't done in years," Shearer said.

DRUG COURT

country, suffers from increasing numbers of people, young and old, who are addicted to drugs, specifically opioids and alcohol. Sheriff Bowen recently estimated that there has been a 45 percent increase in heroin related deaths in our county and that Hamilton County ranks fourth in the state in the total number of opioid overdoses. Hamilton County also continues to have a substantial problem with individuals operating while intoxicated. Our Drug Court addresses these problems. Ninety-three percent of our Drug Court participants are either heroin addicts or alcoholics with multiple operating while intoxicated convictions.

Our Hamilton County Drug Court team remains committed to using best, evidence-based, practices to engage in real criminal justice reform. The members enthusiastically work with high risk, challenging participants to keep them out of what is otherwise and too often just a revolving door system of offenders entering and re-entering our jail and prisons. Judge Bardach and the rest of the team find their very intensive efforts some of the most rewarding work that they do, especially when they can see the successful participants and graduates overcome their many quality of life issues and become law-abiding, contributing members of society and their communities.

The Hamilton County Drug Court anticipates the graduation of four participants on June 13, 2016. The graduation ceremony will take place in Hamilton Superior Court 6 at 12:30 p.m.

Ten days away from the Indy 500...

Fans encouraged to arrive early for full 100th Running experience

Indianapolis Motor Speedway fans are encouraged to arrive earlier than in previous years for the 100th Running of the Indianapolis 500 presented by PennGrade Motor Oil. A whole morning of thrills and entertainment is planned for ticket holders looking to beat traffic and avoid longer lines by coming early.

"The 100th Running of the Indy 500 only happens once, and fans won't want to miss a moment of this epic day," said Indianapolis Motor Speedway President J. Douglas Boles. "A full morning of fun, including SportsCenter broadcasting live from Pagoda Plaza and the Borg-Warner Trophy's epic March to the Yard of Bricks, is planned for spectators of all ages. With higher attendance than in recent years, it's a smart idea to leave home in the early morning hours and set yourself up for a day of shorter lines, less waiting and great experiences."

Gates at IMS open at 6 a.m. following the traditional cannon blast. All fans are encouraged to arrive by 8 a.m. or at least two hours earlier than their normal arrival time.

"This Race Day, we're celebrating with our largest crowd in decades," said Hulman Motorsports Senior Vice President of Events Allison Melangton. "To avoid unnecessary delays and to have the best experience possible, plan to get here in the early morning hours or at least two hours earlier than usual."

Many enjoyable opportunities are available to fans right as gates open or shortly after, including:

Indianapolis Motor Speedway Museum open at 6 a.m.: The IMS Museum, featuring a special "50 Years of Team Penske in Racing" exhibit, will open to visitors at 6 a.m. Learn more about all of the museums attractions here: <http://www.indyracingmuseum.org/>.

Enhanced fan Midway open at 6 a.m.: This year's fan Midway features several exciting attractions, including the IMS Kids Zone and interactive activations from PlayStation, Mattel, New Era, Coca-Cola and more. The action-packed Chevy Stage is also in the lot adjacent to the Midway.

100,000 Milk Bottles: Prairie Farms and the Indiana chapter of the American Dairy Association will distribute 100,000 milk bottles to fans on Race Day for an epic Milk Toast with the winner of the 100th Running. Don't miss your chance to be a part of history! Be first in line to grab a milk bottle.

SportsCenter from Pagoda Plaza: ESPN's SportsCenter will broadcast four live episodes from IMS this Month of May, with two being taped on Race Morning. The first episode tapes from 8 - 9 a.m. and you'll want to be in the Plaza early for a prime spot, behind the set and on-camera! If you want your friends and family to see you on national TV, this is the place to be.

Borg-Warner Trophy March to the Yard of Bricks at 8 a.m.: The Borg-Warner Trophy will begin an epic March to the Yard of Bricks at 8 a.m. from the basement doors of the IMS Museum. Line up outside the museum for a chance to see the Trophy - escorted by the Gordon Pipers - begin its journey.

Rolling Stage: This year, for the first time in recent memory, a rolling stage with musical entertainment will begin circling the track at 10 a.m. New York a cappella group Naturally 7 will play in Turns 1, 2 and 4.

Epic pre-race, be in your seat for it!: This year's pre-race will feature two fantastic flyovers, military tributes, "Back Home Again in Indiana" sung by Josh Kaufman and the Indianapolis Children's Choir, the national Anthem from Darius Rucker and Mario Andretti and Keith Urban teaming up for the "Fastest Seat in Sports" ride.
