Be sure to watch your pet’s health

By SHARON MCMAHON
“I love a dog. He does nothing for political reasons.” - Will Rogers

While this particular quote says little about my topic, I do like it! (Smile) AND how nice to be reminded that there is a creature on the planet that “does nothing for political reasons.” This is going to be a L O N G six months! Actually my topic this time relates to our pets’ nutritional health and fitness. Those of you who normally read this column for fitness and nutrition tips and who are not pet owners may want to skip this one - or maybe not! Who knows, someday you may be a pet owner.

While I must fully disclose that I am not in any way licensed or certified to give medical advice for pets, please bear with me it that as a long time pet owner I do have some “lay” experience in caring for dogs, cats and just a bit as a horse owner as well, and actually there is some crossover in people and pet advice!

Just as we humans become far less healthy with our sedentary lifestyles and poor eating habits, our dogs and cats suffer likewise. Some of you may have recently seen – as it was prevalent in the media – the case of the dachshund which was grossly overweight and near death as a result. The dog had been overfed with people food to a large extent and had no activity as well. Thankfully the dog ended up with new owners who took immediate charge of the situation. Dogs, in particular, are very interested in table food, but cats can also overeat, usually in their case by being fed too much of their regular feline food. And, just like humans, dogs and cats are prone to develop diabetes, heart conditions, arthritis and various other maladies associated with aging, overeating and poor food choices. Keep in mind that you will do your pets no favors by overfeeding or offering human food to them. Additionally, many substances should absolutely be forbidden for pets, such as chocolate, raisins, nuts, alco-

Contentment...a way of life

By JANET HART LEONARD

Knock Knock. Who's there? Contentment. If only it were that easy. Contentment doesn't come knocking at your door. You have to find your way to it.

It's the decisions you make along your journey that help you find it.

It's enjoying the moment even when your circumstances aren't comfortable. However, at times, you must decide what to do with your circumstances.

It's finally realizing that it is ok to say "no" when you wish you could say "yes" to people. You can't be everything to everyone all the time. Even your soul gets tired when you say "yes" to too many things. Some people will take advantage of your good heart many times over.

You find contentment when you start to see things from a different perspective.

The Flood of 1913 caused widespread damage across Noblesville and Hamilton County. Johnstown, located in the southwestern part of Noblesville, was among the hardest hit areas.

The Flood of 1913

County-wide damage

Editor's Note: This is the second and final part of a story written by Faith Wellman which appeared in the Sept. 29, 1988 100th anniversary edition of the Noblesville Ledger.

In Federal Hill (the area north of the hospital), water rose to the second stories of houses and some homes were swept away.

Just south of the present park, water rushed through the viaduct with such terrific force that it carried with it trees, logs, poles and endless debris.

Hardest hit was Johnstown, located in the southwest portion of town. It was a section that had been flooded so often every time the river rose or heavy rain fell.

The waterworks in Noblesville closed down and people were without fire protection, and the disruption of power service left homes in darkness.

Not content to wreck its fury on the living, the remorseless flood waters of 1913 also disturbed the bodies of the dead. At the old cemetery at the end of Cherry Street (Riverside), which had just recently been cleared and restored, monuments were toppled over and swept away, human bones washed up the cinder paths completely annihilated and the banks leveled.

With railroad and interurban tracks gone, with every bridge either fallen or barely holding, with telephone poles down, Noblesville was so completely isolated from the rest of the county communities that it was not until the waters began to recede that reports from around the county came in.

The Cicero Creek bridge was gone and the county treasurer, a Cicero resident, had been water bound in his home for three days.

In Sheridan, the streets were covered with the turgid waters and there was no mail service for a week.

Between the Westfield Pike and Federal Hill, a Westfield resident, venturing out in his car, felt the earth begin to give way and jumped from the car to see it swirled away and finally completely submerged.

Arcadia, Westfield and Cicero were all without lights, and on the streets of Carmel boats moved to rescue those from upper stories of houses where families had fled to escape the rising waters.

Much livestock throughout the county perished.

As soon as the first estimate of damages became apparent, the more fortunate turned to the aid of the less fortunate. The Noblesville Daily Ledger set up headquarters for a

You don't always live happily ever after. Life isn't always fair. You can't change people who don't want to change. You can't please some people, no matter how much you give and give...and then give some more. (just ask God).

Angry and unhappy people will do their best to steal your joy. They will invite you into their misery. Don't go there. It's a sticky tar pit.

If you are in a relationship and you find yourself feeling "less than" or drained...well, you know what you need to do. The decision is yours. If you would not want your children, when they grow up, to be with someone like whom you are with...well, think about it. You can't be anyone's savior. That's not your job. Neither is it your job to make them happy. (can I get an Amen?)

Even a friendship can be toxic when you lose yourself in the relationship. Don't let people change who you are. Sometimes people are only loyal as long as they need you. At some point you need to say. "I'm done"...and be done.

Regular activity is very important for dogs and cats. Cats can become too sedentary if they are bored. It is important to play with your cat, provide toys and areas to climb for them, and keep them interested. Dogs should be walked (good for you too!) on a regular basis, as well as provided an area to run and receive fresh air. Of course different breeds and sizes can require more or less, which is something pet owners should research. As we are in allergy season here in Indiana – something to which many us can relate – our pets can also suffer from allergies, which can manifest in their respiratory systems and sometimes as skin lesions. I hope that you also provide heartworm preventative as well as a tick and flea preventative for your pets – and please keep in mind that your dogs and cats require completely different preventatives, do not interchange those as that can be deadly. Don't forget their dental health – check with your veterinarian to schedule routine checks of teeth and gums and possible need of teeth cleaning.

As our pets age, they face many of the same issues that we face. Arthritis is certainly one that can affect both senior dogs and cats. Navigating steps, climbing up their favorite high places, and even getting up from their pet bed or floor can be painful. Your pets' mobility is important to their quality of life. Swimming can be great exercise for dogs, and make sure your cat has toys which make them pounce and flex their paws. We must watch our aging pets carefully, tune in to their needs and make sure that we do not ever let them suffer beyond our capacity to help them. My Sweetie (see photo) turns 16 in July! Happy Birthday, Sweetie!

Those of us who love our pets think of them as extended family. In our house that includes Sweetie, Guy, and Leo. It is incumbent upon us to look out for them and provide nutritious food, activity, and health care. I would caution dog owners who frequently take their dogs on social outings – ball games, flea markets, and other events – that unlike you they cannot dress for the weather. If it is too warm, please leave

Give your children the gift of (financial) knowledge

By COREY SYLVESTER
It's almost Father's Day. If you're a dad with young children, you can expect some nice homemade cards and maybe even a baseball cap. But, of course, your greatest reward is spending time with your kids and watching them grow. In return, you can give them a gift – the gift of knowledge.

Specifically, in the months and years ahead, teach them the financial skills that can help make their lives easier and more rewarding.

For starters, encourage your children to become savers. You can do this in a couple of different ways. First, set a good example. You might explain to your kids that you want to buy a certain item, but you are waiting for it to go on sale. Or, if it's a particularly big-ticket item, like an ultra high-definition television, tell your children that you simply can't afford it now, but that you are putting away some money each week until you can. You might even make a chart showing your progress.

Another way to help your children become better savers is to provide them with a monetary incentive. To illustrate: For every dollar they put into a "piggy bank" or an actual savings account, tell them you'll put in, say, 50 cents. They are likely to be pleased and excited by how much faster their money grows with your contribution, and they may well become more motivated to save. Furthermore, you'll be giving them a valuable lesson for later on in life, when Construction update...

Paving to begin Wednesday on southbound I-69 between exits 205, 210

Here's an update on construction taking place on Interstate 69 in Hamilton County. Interstate 69 from Exit 205 to Exit 210

Milestone Contractors plans to begin next week patching existing pavement on southbound Interstate 69 between Campus/Southeastern Parkway Exit 210 and State Road 37 Exit 205.

At the same time, Milestone will begin paving a new asphalt overlay on northbound lanes. Both operations are scheduled to begin on or after Wednesday, June 8 and will require overnight alternating lane restrictions from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. six nights a week on Monday through Saturday nights.

One lane of I-69 will remain open at all times, and two lanes will remain open during peak daytime travel times. The speed limit on I-69 through the work zone is reduced to 60 mph and further reduced to 50 mph when workers are present.

Scheduled to begin later this month, after existing pavement is resurfaced, crews will start work to rehabilitate interstate bridges. Traffic lanes between Exit 205 and Exit 210 will be shifted toward the outside shoulders to set temporary concrete barriers and begin construction of an additional travel lane in the median.

Campus/Southeastern Parkway Exit 210

Milestone is mobilizing cranes and other equipment at the Campus/Southeastern Parkway interchange, setting temporary concrete barrier along I-69 and driving piles for widening the bridge over I-69. Steel piles are being driven into the ground to provide foundational support for the widened abutments and center pier. People in the area may hear recurring loud impact noises as the pile driving equipment pounds the beams into the ground.

Exit 210 traffic is scheduled to be shifted for construction beginning after Independence Day (July 4). The first phase of construction will begin building the new ramps and will prepare for shifting traffic into a double-crossover diamond configuration, which is intended to improve traffic flow during widening of the bridge deck and construction of the permanent interchange improvements.

News: The 1967 baccalaureate services for Noblesville High School seniors will be at 8:00 p.m Sunday, June 4th in the high school gymnasium. Delivering the sermon to the graduating class will be Rev. J.E McCoy, pastor of the First Christian Church, who was selected “High Hopes” for his subject.

Sports: Greg Mitchell, a very sound baseball player who isn’t really regarded as a home run hitter, belted two shots out of the park and young Tony Cook displayed the type of pitching everyone knew he was capable of as Hamilton Heights’ Huskies pulled the first big upset of the Noblesville sectional by surprising strong Marion County entry Lawrence Central, 5-4, in a game played Thursday afternoon at Forest Park.

they work for a business that offers to match their contributions to a 401(k) or other retirement plan. Unfortunately, many young people, upon taking on their first “career” jobs, either under-contribute to their retirement plans or ignore them completely – thereby making it more likely that, later on in their working lives, they will have to come up with much bigger sums each year to accumulate enough resources for a comfortable retirement.

Learning to save is certainly important – but children should also learn about investing. To help get your children interested in becoming investors, point out that they can actually own shares of companies with which they are already familiar – the companies that make the games they play, the movies they watch and the food they eat. In fact, you could even simulate the investment process by letting them choose a stock and then follow it. To make the results more tangible, use “play” money to represent an initial investment, and add or subtract to the pile to track the ups and downs of the real stock. You might even explain some of the reasons for the stock’s movements; for example, if you and your child are following the stock of an entertainment company, and that company produces a blockbuster movie that leads to sequels, spinoffs and merchandise tie-ins, you can point out how these developments have pushed up the company’s stock price. You might also explain that while these short-term price movements are interesting – and maybe even fun – to follow, investing is actually a long-term endeavor, and the best investors often hold stocks for many years before selling them.

By following these suggestions, you can help your children acquire good financial habits – and seeing them put these skills to good use can provide you with many happy Father’s Days in the future.

What happens at Juvenile Court

By RAYMOND ADLER

The following is a general statement of law you should consult an attorney about any specific fact situation.

Your child's in trouble. Your child has been arrested or perhaps even locked up at the juvenile detention center on Cumberland Road in Noblesville. What happens now?

A delinquent child is a person under 18 years of age that has committed an act which, if committed by an adult, would constitute a crime. A child can also commit a delinquent act for status offenses such as running away, truancy, underage drinking, and being incorrigible or ungovernable. A child who commits a status offense is not a delinquent child unless the Court finds that the child needs help that the child is not receiving, and will not voluntarily accept, and the help is unlikely to be provided without court intervention.

Not all cases go to juvenile court. Certain tobacco and local ordinance infractions can be handled outside of Juvenile Court. The process is to first meet with an intake officer who takes information about your child's case and sends it to the prosecutor and the court. The intake officer gathers facts and recommends whether the case should be dropped, sent to a diversion program, handled as an informal adjustment or taken to a court.

The probation officer assists the court in making recommendations and oversees children placed on probation. The Judge or Magistrate makes determinations while the State is represented by the prosecuting attorney. In certain cases, the court can appoint a person to represent the child such as a Guardian Ad Litem or Court Appointed Special Advocate, a GAL or CASA. You may hire an attorney to represent your child or, alternatively, your child may be appointed a public defender if you cannot afford an attorney.

If a police officer has good legal reason to believe your child has committed a delinquent act, he may give your child a legal paper ordering the child to report to the juvenile court. In certain circumstances, your child may be arrested. A child can be locked up in the Hamilton County Detention Center only if there is reasonable belief that the child will not appear in court for later hearings. A child can also be detained in instances where the alleged offense is very serious or remaining locked up in the juvenile center is found necessary to protect your child or the community. There may be detention hearings where the court will determine whether your child should be released from the detention center. The court could order your child released or continue to be detained.

Your child cannot give up his or rights without your consent, the consent of your child's attorney, or a court order. The police cannot question your child without permission. However, the law does allow your child to be fingerprinted and photographed if he or she is arrested for an act that would be a felony if committed by an adult and your child is at least 14 years of age. Your child may be fingerprinted for comparison purposes if fingerprints are found during an investigation and the police officer has a good legal reason to believe the prints belong to your child. You have the right to have the fingerprints and photographs destroyed or surrendered to you within 60 days of your request if no delinquency petition is filed or if the case was dismissed because of mistaken identity.

The court has numerous options available to it in Juvenile cases. It can order the parents to participate in programs or provide funds. It can emancipate the child. For status offenses, the court can order supervision by the Probation department or order outpatient treatment. In more troubling cases, the court can remove your child from your home and place the child in a different home, shelter or care facility or award wardship to another adult person. Any of these outcomes, along with numerous others, are possible within the context of a Juvenile case.

Election Day is just around the corner

By GAREN BRAGG

Editors note: The Hamilton County

Reporter would like to welcome Garen Bragg to our roster of guest columnist. Garen T. Bragg is an insurance producer at Bragg Insurance Agency and an officer in the Army National Guard. He graduated Purdue University's College of Technology where he was a conservative activist and served on the Tippecanoe County Republican Party's steering committee. All opinions expressed here are solely his own.

Although it is only June, election day is just around the corner. Many passive political observers won't give much thought to Hamilton County, writing it off as a Republican stronghold where the GOP will doubtless win again. A closer look however will show that while a Republican victory in the county isn't in doubt, this is a battleground where the margins of that victory are crucial for every state wide vote, including the presidency. In order for any Republican to win he or she must rack up enough votes in Hamilton County to offset the large numbers of votes that Democrats win every year in Lake and Marion counties. Therefore Hamilton County, one of the five most populous in the state, controls the outcome of Indiana elections.

The last time Indiana voted Democrat in a Presidential election, it was largely due to the nearly 40 percent of Hamilton County that voted for then Senator Barack Obama. While a 60-40 victory is outstanding in just about every other popular vote, in this instance it helped swing the typically Republican state in favor of the Democrats.

In addition to the large number of votes at stake, as one of the wealthiest counties in the United States, Hamilton provides a large amount in donations to political campaigns. Money is the lifeblood of a modern political campaign because whoever raises and spends more is far more likely to win. These donations that come from Hamilton County also serve to direct the course of the political conversation, and victories in the state.

More important than controlling winners and losers of elections is determining state policy priorities. Republicans need to win by wide margins in Hamilton County, and Republicans control both the legislative and executive branches of the state. This means that in order to keep winning statewide elections, our elected officials will ensure that the policy priorities of the citizens of this county will be a primary consideration. This should cause Hamilton County voters to pause and carefully consider what kind of message they are sending to Indianapolis. As we come closer to election day just remember, your vote really does matter – especially in the political battleground that is Hamilton County.

Wear Orange campaign comes to Carmel’s Founders Park

Founders Park in Carmel was one of several sites in Indiana that participated in the Wear Orange campaign on National Gun Violence Awareness Day on Thursday.

The group Moms Demand Action hosted a gathering at the park, which featured talks from a Carmel police officer and a survivor of gun violence.

"The main goal of today is to raise awareness about gun violence in this country, and just the fact that on average, 91 Americans are killed every day, not including the countless number of people that are injured by gun violence every day," said Beth Sprunger with Moms Demand Action. "We're just trying to raise awareness and just to get people to see that there's a problem and know that there's ways that we can change it and that if we work together, as a country, that we can bring change and try to solve this problem of gun violence that we have in our nation."

A good-sized crowd was on hand to participate in the event, with many wearing orange to show their support.

"I'm really excited with how many people we had," said Sprunger. "The police officer from Carmel that came to speak, and we had a survivor that came to speak. Tons of kids, parents, grandparents, moms, dads, everyone was out here to support us today, and I'm really happy with our turnout."

Boys track and field...

Carmel defends state championship

The Carmel boys track and field team defended its state championship Saturday at Indiana University. The Greyhounds got a double win from Ben Veatch in the 1600 and 3200 runs, and a win in the pole vault from Ryan Lipe.

In a super-close IHSAA boys state track and field meet Saturday, Carmel's super-stars came through.

A double win by senior Ben Veatch in the distance events and a huge vault by Ryan Lipe helped the Greyhounds edge out two teams and defend their state championship at Indiana University. Carmel scored 43 points to take home the big trophy, with Ben Davis and Michigan City each scoring 41 points to tie for runner-up honors.

The Giants' 41 points were achieved with success in the early events, while Carmel had to wait a little bit to get its points. But it was apparent that the 'Hounds had enough thanks to solid performances in five events.

First up was the 4x800 relay, the opening event of the day. Carmel placed seventh in that race; the team of James Pescio, Jon Balda, Teddy Browning and Spencer Gudgel got the Greyhounds on the board with three points.

Next up was Veatch in the 1600 run. He held off Hamilton Southeastern's Gabe Fendel to win that race in 4:08.38. Fendel, a sophomore, placed a close second in 4:09.18, which is believed to be one of the top 1600 times in the entire country.

Carmel's third scoring event was the 300 hurdles, where defending state champion Jalen Walker placed second. Still, that was another eight team points, and that pushed the Greyhounds up to 21. Meanwhile, everyone was still awaiting word on the pole vault, which was moved indoors to the rainy weather conditions.

Once the pole vault results came in, it was worth the wait. Carmel junior Ryan Lipe was the champion, with a winning vault of 17 feet. Ryan's brother Mitch Lipe finished eighth, and that was a net total of 12 points for the 'Hounds. Ryan Lipe is the first Greyhound athlete to win the pole vault.

So now Carmel had 33 team points, still behind Ben Davis and Michigan City. Those two schools had no entrants in the final two events, the 3200 and 4x400 relay. The Greyhounds had qualifiers in both races. But it turned out, all they needed was a winner in one of those event. Veatch, of course, knows a thing or two about winning races.

And Veatch came through for Carmel in the 3200 run. He used a huge kick in the last 400 meters to win the longest race of all, finishing in a time of 8:58.18. That gave the 'Hounds another 10 team points to move their total to 43, thus clinching the state championship. It's the first time Carmel has defended a boys track and field state title, and also marks the third state championship in the sport for the school. The Greyhounds won their first boys track title in 2000.

Hamilton Southeastern finished in the Top 10 at state, tying with Whiteland for eighth place by scoring 21 points. Fendel gave the Royals eight points with his runner-up finish in the 1600, and senior Ethan Bray did the same in the pole vault. Bray's vault of 16-6 gave him second in that event. Ben Wagoner placed fifth in the 3200.

Hamilton Heights scored 16 points, tying for 12th, all thanks to Michael DeFoe. The senior placed second in the 110 hurdles in a time of 14.16 and the 200 dash, which he ran in 21.68.

Westfield finished 15th as a team with 15 points. The Shamrocks opened the meet by placing second in the 4x800 relay; the foursome of Aaron Bennett, Alec Hartman, Nick Leahy and Sam Henthorn ran that race in 7:45.17. Hartman came back to finish third in the 800 run.

Fishers scored four team points, thanks to Noah Rogers in the long jump. Rogers finished sixth in that event with a best jump of 22 feet, 5.5 inches.

Noblesville had three entries at state, with Jalen Garner finishing the highest. Garner, a senior, placed 11th in the 300 hurdles.

Team scores (Top 10 and all county): 1. Carmel 43, T2. Michigan City 41; Ben Davis 41, 4. Center Grove 33, 5. West Lafayette 32, 6. Lawrence North 29, 7. Bluffton 28, T8. Hamilton Southeastern 21; Whiteland 21, 10. Pike 18, T12. Hamilton Heights 16, 15. Westfield 15, T53. Fishers 4.

GC’s Jonathan and Harrington advance to doubles state tournament

The Guerin Catholic No. 1 doubles team of Ashley Jonathan and Reiley Harrington is advancing to the state finals of the IH-SAA doubles tournament.

Jonathan and Harrington qualified for state after winning the Kokomo regional on Saturday. The Golden Eagles team cruised through the regional, beating the Homestead team of Maddy Heiney and Emily Sagstetter 6-0, 6-3 in the semi-finals, then defeated Alexandria's Megan Miller and Anna Etherington 6-0, 6-0 in the final.

Jonathan and Harrington will begin play in the doubles state tournament on Friday, when the quarter-finals take place at Park Tudor.

Heights softball, Carmel baseball postponed to Monday

Rain struck out the baseball and softball action at several of the IHSAA post-season sites on Saturday.

The Hamilton Heights softball team was rained out at the Class 3A Twin Lakes semi-state. The Huskies were to follow the first semi-final, which Kankakee Valley won over Fairfield 13-6, but rain pushed the game back, and eventually moved it to Monday.

Heights will play Mishawaka Marian at 1 p.m. Monday, with the winner advancing to play Kankakee Valley at 6 p.m. that night.

Meanwhile, the Lafayette baseball regional never even got started. Carmel was to play the first game against Fort Wayne Northrop, but the game was postponed to Monday after several hours of waiting.

The Greyhounds and Northrop will play at 11 a.m. Monday, followed by the second semi-final between Zionsville and Homestead. That game will take place at 1 p.m. The championship game is set for 8 p.m.

Plummer, Smoliga take 100 backstroke titles at Arena Pro Swim Series at Indianapolis

USA Swimming National Team members David Plummer (Oklahoma City, Okla./New York Athletic Club) and Olivia Smoliga (Glenview, Ill./Athens Bulldog Swim Club) posted impressive 100-meter backstroke victories Saturday at the Arena Pro Swim Series at Indianapolis.

Plummer cruised to a comfortable win in a lifetime-best 52.40 seconds, currently the fastest time in the world for 2016. He touched more than two seconds clear of runner-up Rex Tullius (Port Orange, Fla./New York Athletic Club), who was second in 55.07.

“I’m really happy with it. We’ve been working a ton on holding tempo, trying to get that speed up to where it needs to be and just holding it right at the quickest tempo I can hold,” Plummer said. “I feel like it’s really starting to come around, especially that second 50. I feel really good about that; I’m excited about where I am.”

Just ahead of Plummer’s swim, Smoliga won the women’s 100m back in her own lifetime best of 59.41, good for No. 6 in the world in 2016 and currently the top time by an American this year. Hannah Stevens (Lexington, Ohio/University of Missouri) was second in 59.67. Smoliga also was second in the 50m free in 25.07, just over 10 minutes before her 100m back victory.

After posting a personal best and a win in the 200m free last night, Leah Smith (Pittsburgh, Pa./Unattached) picked up where she left off Saturday, comfortably winning the women’s 400m free in 4:03.33, good for second in the world in 2016 behind world record-holder Katie Ledecky. Smith is now the No. 4 American all-time in the event.

National Team member Kelsi Worrell (Mt. Holly, N.J./Unattached) completed a sweep of the women’s butterfly events in Indianapolis, winning the women’s 200m fly in 2:09.25 after taking the 100m fly on Friday. Melanie Margalis (Clearwater, Fla./St. Petersburg Aquatics) won her second breaststroke race of the weekend, taking the women’s 200m breast in 2:24.68. Nic Fink (Morristown, N.J./Athens Bulldog Swim Club) completed a sweep of the men’s breaststroke events, winning the 200m breast in 2:09.89.

Olympian Connor Jaeger (Fair Haven, N.J./Club Wolverine) won the men’s 400m free in 3:49.45, while Josh Schneider (Cincinnati, Ohio/New York Athletic Club) took the men’s 50m free in 22.16.

Held at the Indiana University Natatorium on the Campus of IUPUI, the June 3-5 meet consists of prelims at 9 a.m. EDT and finals at 6 p.m. EDT. A live webcast of the entire meet will be available at usaswimming.org.

Other winners Saturday in Indianapolis included:

- Zheng Wen Quah of Singapore in the men’s 200m fly in 1:57.64
- Arianna Vanderpool Wallace of the Bahamas in the women’s 50m free in 24.84

Complete results from Indianapolis can be found here.

The Arena Pro Swim Series at Indianapolis is one of seven stops of the 2015-16 Arena Pro Swim Series. As part of USA Swimming’s partnership with swimwear leader Arena, the circuit will feature a record $350,000 in overall prize money. Swimmers may earn awards for top-three finishes in all individual Olympic events across the series. At each meet, $1,000 will be provided for a first-place finish, $600 for second and $200 for third. In addition to the single-event prize money, the overall male and female winners of the season-long Series will earn a $10,000 bonus.

For the third consecutive season, longtime USA Swimming partner BMW will award the grand prize of a one-year lease of a BMW vehicle to the highest-scoring eligible male and female U.S. swimmers.

Male and female overall Arena Pro Swim Series champions will be honored at the conclusion of the 2015-16 series based on the number of points accumulated throughout the seven meets. Participants will be awarded points in each individual Olympic event throughout the duration of the Series (Five points for first, three for second, one point for third place).

Noblesville's Jack Lang has signed a National Letter of Intent to play soccer at Bradley University, a Division I school in Peoria, Ill.

Noblesville’s Jack Lang signs with Bradley University

Noblesville High School 2016 graduate, Jack Lang, signed a National Letter of Intent to play Division I soccer for Bradley University led by head coach, Jim DeRose, in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Bradley is a top-ranked, private university located in Peoria, Ill. with a strong men’s soccer tradition. Under Coach DeRose, the team has won multiple MVC championships, has been nationally ranked, and has made several NCAA tournament appearances, all while placing a strong focus on academics.

Lang played varsity soccer and track at Noblesville High School, earning All-Conference, All-District, All-County, All-State, and Academic All-State honors. He was a high school All-American candidate entering his senior season when he turned his focus to the United States Soccer Developmental Academy program charged with the development and identification of prospective Olympic and Youth National Team players.

As part of the Indiana Fire Academy team, Lang was able to develop and play at the highest level with and against some of the top players in the country.

“I am so thankful to the Indiana Fire and Coach Presser for the chance to play at this level. I know I have improved tremendously, and it has opened up opportunities for me to play Division I soccer while continuing my education,” said Lang.

“Jack’s athletic ability has never been questioned in regards to what level of play will suit him going forward in the college ranks. What has impressed me the most is Jack’s adaptability and how quickly he was able to identify with the tactics of the Academy and perform on a national scale,” said Indiana Fire Academy Director Phil Presser. “Coach DeRose and the Bradley Braves will be very satisfied at how quickly Jack will make adjustments and compete for the starting lineup.”

Lang plans to study Construction through Bradley’s nationally recognized Caterpillar College of Engineering and Technology.
