A revitalization plan for Downtown Noblesville

By MARY SUE ROWLAND
Hamilton County could become the only county in the state with two Cultural Districts as Noblesville Common Council passed a Resolution designating a Cultural District in the historic downtown area at their regular meeting on Tuesday. This action joins Carmel as a current State of Indiana Cultural Arts District. Other cities in Indiana with such a designation in addition to Carmel Arts and Design District are Bloomington Entertainment and Arts District, Tippecanoe Arts and Cultural District, Columbus Arts District, Nashville Arts and Entertainment District and Madison Arts and Cultural District. More than ninety cities in the United States have planned or implemented a cultural district positioning the arts at the center of urban revitalization efforts. A cultural arts district is a well recognized mixed-use area of a city in which a high concentration of cultural facilities serves as the anchor of attraction. Cultural arts districts are found in small communities such as Riverhead, New York with a population of 8,814 or New York City with 7.3 million people.

The Indiana Arts Commission will be petitioned to designate the Noblesville Cultural Arts District as a State-wide Cultural District by the Councils passing of the Resolution. Over four years work began with the newly named Noblesville Arts Council to begin efforts to improve and Hannah Wilson case...

Messel convicted of murder

A Bloomington man was found guilty of murder in the death of a Fishers woman Wednesday.

Daniel E. Messel, 51, had been charged with killing Hannah N. Wilson after her body was found in April near Plum Creek, east of Lake Lemon in rural Brown County. Wilson was 22 years old, a senior at Indiana University in Bloomington and a graduate of Hamilton Southeastern.

The trial took place at the Brown County Courthouse in Nashville, beginning on Aug. 1. Both the prosecution and defense gave their closing arguments on Wednesday morning. Jurors deliberated about four hours before returning their guilty verdict. Messel showed no emotion as the verdict was read. Family members of Wilson were in attendance, and cried as they learned the verdict.

After finding him guilty, the jury subsequently judged that Messel is a habitual offender. That will add 20 more years to his sentence, meaning that Messel could face anywhere from 65 to 85 years in prison for Wilson's murder. The Bloomington Herald-Times reported that Messel has four prior convictions, one for forgery in 1989 and three others for battery in the 1990s.

Messel is scheduled to be sentenced on Sept. 22.

Legacy Christian welcomes first freshmen

By FRED SWIFT

The following are some news briefs and observations that should perhaps be of interest to our Reporter readers:

The first day for the first class of a new high school in Noblesville was last week. Legacy Christian High School accepted its first freshman class on Wednesday, August 3. Next year a second freshman class will be enrolled and by 2019 the school will have a full high school division. Legacy has operated for several years at the former Forest Hill School building on Lakeview Drive as a private, accredited elementary school.

Westfield Washington Schools will place a tax referendum on the November 8 election ballot. Voters in the district will be asked to vote for or against a special school tax of 20 cents per hundred dollars of assessed value on real estate. Currently the special tax enacted seven years ago, and expiring next year, is 23 cent per hundred. So, if approved homeowners will find a slight reduction in taxes, and of course if the referendum is defeated the reduction would be the full 23 cents.

The Town of Sheridan is considering selling its municipally owned water and sewer utilities. Several communities in the state, including Westfield, have done this in order to raise money and rid themselves of the cost and problems of operations. Usually such utilities are sold for several million dollars which, in this case, the financially strapped town could use for needed public improvements. A final decision on the sale is expected before the end of the year.

enhance the arts with an emphasis on the creation of a downtown cultural arts district. Nineteen organizations served on the Arts Council representing artists, art organizations, city and county government, area businesses, city and county economic development groups along with the local schools and library. The group also created a Blueprint for a 10 Year Master Arts plan that meets the communities Comprehensive Master Plan. Alaina Shonkwiler, Assistant Director of Economic Development has served as the Noblesville Arts Council’s convener since 2015 and has been an active participant in cultivating the Cultural Arts Working Group since 2012. She presented the Resolution to the Common Council at their meeting.

In a letter of support to the Noblesville Common Council from the Noblesville Chamber of Commerce, Bob DuBois, President/CEO wrote, “Tonight you have before you a resolution to establish a Cultural Arts District in downtown Noblesville. The designation codifies what has been in place for quite some time in both the requested new district and throughout Noblesville. As the county seat, Noblesville has been the gathering place for the creativity and celebration of the arts for many decades. Establishment of the district is both a tribute to the past work of organizations like the Hamilton County Artists Association, Noblesville Cultural Arts Commission, Noblesville Preservation Alliance and the Belfry Theatre, as it is an endorsement of a path forward outlined in the Cultural Arts Blueprint. The good work of the Nickel Plate Arts, Noblesville Main Street, Noblesville Parks, Hamilton County Tourism and other organizations and citizens have demonstrated a clear commitment to supporting, celebrating and nurturing the creative and cultural economy.” Legacy Fund, Vice President for Community Investment, Liz Tate also sent a message to the Common Council by writing, “For the past 25 years, Legacy Fund has been working with nonprofit organizations, government agencies, civic leaders and visionary philanthropists in Hamilton County to facilitate positive change in our community. This certainly encompasses arts and culture initiatives. Legacy Fund seeks to fund projects and organization that engage resident and visitor with cultural amenities in the region and Noblesville cultural projects and organizations are known for doing just that. In fact, Legacy Fund has invested over $500,000 to support arts and culture project in Noblesville”. The Hamilton County Tourism Inc., President/CEO, Brenda Myers letter of support added, “About a decade ago, when the city decided to invest in the Hamilton County Artist Association’s Birdie Gallery, more than seven years ago when the city decided to invest in the Noblesville Welcome Center and alleyway activation and more than five years ago when the city worked with us to create the Nickel Plate Arts Center, it was all proof of this community’s desire to support a vibrant and attractive arts culture”. Not only were letters written of support for the Resolution to create a Cultural Arts District but the supporting cast was in attendance at the meeting. Millions of “Art” related activities and investment has been made to date in the Noblesville community. Creating a designation offers new opportunity for economic development, commitment and revitalization of the historic downtown for citizens and visitors alike by recognizing what has been there all along – a growing art community adding to the value of a special place. The action taken by the Noblesville Common Council is the next step in making it official. The application for approval will be presented on August 30th to the Indiana Cultural District for consideration.

schematic design on a multi-million dollar expansion of the Government and Judicial Center. The long-discussed addition to the 24-year old facility, will be built on the west side of present building and will have what’s been called an "architecturally pleasing" west face toward White River. Officials say additional courtrooms and office space are needed. Construction is likely to begin next year.

Did the state Republican Party make a mistake in choosing Lt. Gov. Eric Holcomb to be its nominee for governor rather than Hamilton County’s Congresswoman Susan Brooks? There are rumblings within the party over recent polls that show Democrat John Gregg even or ahead of Holcomb who seems to lack widespread name recognition. In addition, Holcomb has very little campaign money. Brooks was seen as an attractive and effective campaigner with the potential for attracting many more female voters.

As we know there is no FairTrain this year due to safety concerns on the aged railroad track. It’s a sad situation not only for the would-be riders, but also for the Indiana Transportation Museum which depends on the State Fair-time revenue. While safety is of utmost concern, unexplained is the report from museum officials that Federal Railroad Administration investigators did not judge the running of Fair-Train to be unsafe.

Olympic athletes are great examples that...

Stretching is the foundation of all exercise programs

By SHARON MCMAHON
“Never put an age limit on your dreams.” – Dara Torres, gold medalist in swimming in 2000, 1992 and 1984, silver medalist in 2008 and 1988 and bronze medalist in 2000 and 1988

I don’t know about you but I am completely caught up in the Olympic events (some events more than others!) and I believe that these amazing athletes are both inspirational and motivating for many of us. Just watching their incredible feats makes us want to get moving! Obviously, most of the athletes are young and at the apex of their conditioning and performance. Their energy, focus, and drive are at optimum levels. However there are several individuals competing in Rio who are also examples for those of us who may be just a little past our optimum performance! Take, for example, Mary Hanna, 61, an Australian competing in Equestrian, as well as Phillip Dutton, 52, representing the USA in Equestrian. An amazing example of grit and performance is Oksana Chusovitina, 41, of Uzbekistan, a gymnast performing in her fifth Olympics! Two track and field contenders are Jo Pavey, 42, of Britain and Bernard Lagat, 41 representing our USA. All remarkable, dedicated, and talented individuals who know what perseverance and focus can accomplish.

Let us also recognize and celebrate the athletes who amaze us with their incredible skills and capabilities while they also contend with “disabilities” which they then use to overcome many obstacles to reach their goals. They leave us in awe and respect for their hard work and endurance.

I have written previously about the importance of stretching as the foundation of any fitness regimen and I have used the Olympic athletes, as well as professional and collegiate sports figures, as examples. ALL athletes, regardless of their sport or activity, rely on a foundational stretching and flexibility program. Without that, injuries and ineffective performance are the result. So – that is something all of us who are actively engaged in any level of sports activity, including walking, have in common with Olympic athletes. As we age, the flexibility component becomes even more important as our bodies are slower to train and to recover from activity. Additionally, many athletes practice deep breathing which helps them with their focus and energy; which again is something we should all practice. I don’t know about you, but I enjoy having something in common with so many outstanding athletes!

I admit that I have spent a little time lounging on my sofa, enjoying some trail mix and a cold beverage while I watch our USA Olympians bring home the medals and make us proud (and yes, I do believe that America IS great already!) and in doing so I am also encouraged and energized to get up, get moving, and stay fit!

Hats off to all the dedicated Olympic participants and to those of you who celebrate their accomplishments and all that is great about our wonderful country. Go USA! (Watch for another “Sweetie” McMahon column soon – she had quite a response to her last article and has asked to sub for me soon while I am on vacation. She will share her unique perspective from a canine point of view!)

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

The word of the season for Westfield volleyball is "seniors."

Eight seniors will be taking to the court for the Shamrocks this year. It's a good group as well. The senior list includes the top four in kills from last year: Claire Stitz led the way with 261 kills, while Abigail Huser put down 248 over 61 sets, an average of 4.1 per set. Cassidy Ferrer had 166 kills, while Liene Miller hit 158.

The other four seniors are Natalie Ravenell, Delaney McAfee, Page Dickinson and Ally Baldwin. Westfield coach Michelle Mapes-Hewitt said that all eight seniors "will all have vital roles this year" for the 'Rocks.

Also returning are two setters, junior Caroline Sinicki and sophomore Kinsey McAfee. The duo combined for over 800 assists last year, with McAfee handing out 423 assists and Sinicki dishing out 398.

"With very talented Freshman, Junior Varsity, and Varsity teams, coaches are excited for this upcoming season," said Mapes-Hewitt.

Fishers girls cross country preview...

Young Tigers team ready to make impact

As a freshman, Miya Wai was the No. 1 runner for the Fishers girls cross country team last season. Wai is back for her sophomore year as part of a young and talented team.

The Fishers girls cross country team marked its 10th season last year, and it was one of the best ever for the Tigers.

Fishers battled its way through the toughest post-season path, eventually qualifying for the state meet, where the Tigers finished 20th.

"We had numerous girls set new personal bests and our highest number of girls earn varsity letters," said Fishers coach Beth Jahns.

While the Tigers graduated three varsity runners, there are still plenty of athletes back and ready to make an impact this season. This includes three juniors and two sophomores.

One of the sophomores is Miya Wai, who was Fishers' No. 1 runner last year. Wai placed in the top 10 at the Noblesville sectional and regional, then in the top 20 at the Carmel semi-state. Wai also joined juniors Kamya Lampsley and Liz Rogers on the Tigers' 4x800 relay this past spring, which placed 10th in the state.

On the cross country course, Wai has run as fast as 18:40, while Rogers and fellow junior Corinne O'Leary have both clocked in at 19:04. Another sophomore, Debbie Shera, has run 19:20.

"This year will be a very exciting season with having experience in our varsity to help lead the new freshmen to excellence," said Jahns. "Some key races will be against HSE & Noblesville at the County meet as well as Zionsville as our first meet of the season and again at HCCs. Additionally, Pendleton Heights finished 11th last year at the State meet, and so the Arabian Round Up in late August will be a good challenge for our team."

Fishers key runners
Juniors: Kamya Lampsley, Corinne O'Leary, Liz Rogers.
Sophomores: Debbie Shera, Miya Wai.
Freshmen: Lilia Bodnar, Abby Carter, Tori Kalman.

Fishers schedule

10: at Ben Davis Invitational, 9 a.m.
17: Flashrock Invitational, 9:30 a.m. at Northview Church

University boys soccer program...

Maturing ‘Blazers looking for great year

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

What a difference a year is making for the University boys soccer team.

Last year, the Trailblazers were a young team. This year, they have seven seniors, including several players that are coming up from the junior varsity ranks. Those JV players have been doing what they need to do to improve, and that pleases UHS coach Wes Priest.

"Last season we were young, and it's amazing what a year can do for your prospects," said Priest. The coach noted that those JV players have "worked hard over the winter and summer and will contribute right away at the varsity level," which will benefit the 'Blazers.

Three seniors are back for University, including captains Samuel Rudd at midfielder and Tyler Wott at defender. Another senior is Jacob Benson, a central midfielder. Junior forward Ryan Williams is being looked at to have a big season - he was far and away the leading scorer last year for UHS with nine goals. Sophomore Ethan Bandick, another central midfielder "is another player we will rely on heavily," said Priest.

In all, six seniors will start for University, and Priest said "we haven't had that kind of maturity in several years, so we're looking forward to a great year."

University roster
Seniors: Alex Bandick, Jacob Benson, Anoop Chinthala, Patrick Na-remore, Samuel Rudd, Duncan Turner, Tyler Wott.

Juniors: Jacob Alford, Thomas Burgess, Agastya Das, Rodrigo Espinoza, David Flickner, Jay Maturi, Randy Morton, Ryan Williams.

Hamilton Heights girls soccer preview...

Huskies want back in the winner’s circle

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

The Hamilton Heights girls soccer team is used to winning championships.

So the Huskies were a little disappointed to not win another conference or sectional title. And the Heights team is working hard to make sure it gets back in the winner's circle.

"With this year's leadership and experience, we hope to make last year an exception and get back competing for Conference and Sectional titles," said Huskies coach Travis Kaufmann. "This past spring and summer have already been a great building time physically and relationally for a team that has their sights on a number benchmarks that will only be reached by playing together as a team."

Heights has six returning starters. Among them are seniors Gracie Long, Abby Hardacre and Audrie Catron. Long and Hardacre are captains, along with junior Lauren Stirn.

"Already the captains have done a tremendous job of encouraging and raising the bar during conditioning and practices," said Kaufmann. "The captains along with other senior and junior leadership will really set the tone for this fall's team.

Other returning starters are junior Madison Bickett and sophomore Elaina Page. Hardacre was Heights' leading scorer last season, putting in seven goals. Another senior, Makel Smith, added four goals.

"Hamilton Heights also is seeing an infusion on quality youth from the sophomore and freshmen ranks," said Kaufmann. I anticipate members of both classes making a significant contribution to this year's squad."

The Huskies will scrimmage at 9 a.m. Saturday at University, then open their season Monday by hosting Western Boone.

Juniors: Madison Bickett, Kinsey Dimmock, Madi Hasler, Lauren Stirn.

Free to Breathe Run/Walk is Sept. 25

Hundreds of local residents are joining forces to fight lung cancer, united in the belief that surviving lung cancer should be the expectation, not the exception. These everyday superheroes will be meeting at the Indianapolis Free to Breathe 5K Run/Walk and 1-Mile Walk presented by St. Francis Health on Sunday, September 25 at Fort Harrison State Park. All proceeds from the event support Free to Breathe, a lung cancer research and advocacy organization dedicated to doubling lung cancer survival by 2022.

It's easy to join the ranks of these lung cancer heroes. Simply register, raise funds, and run or walk. "By fundraising and joining us on event day, you are bringing hope to those touched by the disease," said volunteer event chair Brandi Dale of Indianapolis. "More treatment options are needed, and the innovative research we're funding can help ensure everyone diagnosed with the disease has a fighting chance."

The Free to Breathe events community has raised over $14 million to support groundbreaking research and educational programs since 2005. This year the organization will be funding two new lung cancer research grants totaling over $1.2 million dollars.

Last year, community members, teams, and companies across the region supported the Indianapolis Free to Breathe 5K Run/Walk and 1-Mile Walk by raising over $26,000. The event committee hopes to surpass that total in 2016, which will go a long way in supporting programs specifically designed to ensure that more patients become survivors. Every dollar counts to the more than 224,000 people diagnosed in the U.S with lung cancer each year. In Indiana alone, an estimated 5,520 residents will be diagnosed with lung cancer in 2016.

This year's event will feature a 5K run/walk and 1-mile walk. The day will also include a celebration of life during the opening rally, silent auction, kids' activities and fun for the whole family. Special recognition will be given to top finishers and fundraising heroes. Gather your superhero squad, and join us for an inspiring day focused on doubling lung cancer survival. To register and begin fundraising, visit the following website: www.freetobreathe.org/indianapolis
