Sheridan goes solar

Over the past several months many indito check on the Solar Power Project being developed at both Sheridan High School/Middle School and Sheridan Elementary. While early season rain slowed the beginning of the project, the collaboration of the school corporation and Johnson-Melloh Solutions has pushed for everything to remain on schedule for solar power to be supplied to the entire school district by the end of August. At that point Sheridan Community Schools will be the first and, at this point only, Indiana school district completely run on solar power.

"Sheridan came to Johnson-Melloh Solutions with a plan, and we were fortunate to assist them with a brand new, 1.8 mW Solar facility, plus LED energy-saving lighting. A crew of 30 Johnson-Melloh Solutions team members completed this project in just at 4 months," stated Bob McKinney, president of Johnson-Melloh Solutions. Through the project Sheridan Community Schools has worked to update several other items to be more energy efficient as well. New lighting has been added to all the athletic facilities, hallways, classrooms, the entire exteriors of the buildings, as well as, new windows are being put into

According to studies Sheridan Schools viduals from both in and out of the town of was consuming nearly 2.8 million kWh Sheridan have driven by Sheridan schools annually at a cost of about $280,000. In addition, Sheridan was battling electricity inflation that would force Sheridan to make budget cuts they did not want to make. When Sheridan turns on the solar plants at the end of this month, they take control of their energy production and freeze the cost for the next 25 years. This is a win for the school, the community, and the environment. Director of Business for SCS, Mrs. Robin Popejoy stated that, "Being able to exactly budget our electrical cost for the years to come goes a long way in allowing us to continue to be fiscally responsible to our community. It will push more dollars to the classroom and allow us to continue to upgrade facilities as needed."

Besides the fiscal impact that is being provided to the school district, Sheridan is cognizant of the environmental impact it will have. Sheridan's solar plants will provide annual environmental benefits equiva-

- Eliminating 2.1 million pounds of coal from being burned, or
- · Eliminating the emissions for the electricity consumed by 291 homes annually

INDOT to conduct hearing on...

Roundabout at SR 37 and Strawtown Ave.

The Indiana Department of Transportation will hold a public hearing at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 23 at the Hamilton North Public Library, 209 W. Brinton St., Cicero.

The doors will be open at 5:30 p.m. in order to view displays and talk to the representatives prior to the start of the hearing. The purpose of the public hearing is to offer all interested persons an opportunity to comment on current design plans for proposed intersection improvement at State Road (SR) 37 and Strawtown Avenue, 6.3 miles north of SR 32/SR 38, located in Hamilton County.

The project proposes a single lane roundabout with a central island featuring a mountable curb. A paved truck apron will allow larger vehicles, such as WB-65 tractor-trailers or more commonly referred to as an interstate semitruck to maneuver through the roundabout. Curb and gutter will also be constructed throughout the roundabout limits. Construction of the project will

2016 census data released for Westfield

Westfield's 2016 special census data is now available, and the city's population has grown considerably since 2010.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, Westfield's population as of January 8, 2016 was 36,854. This represents a 22 percent increase since the last census was taken in 2010, when the city's population was 30,068. "The new census numbers confirm trends we've been witnessing for some time," Mayor Andy Cook said. "Our community is growing leaps and bounds year after year."

The 2016 census also shows that Westfield's housing count was 14,034 as of January 2016. This is a 25 percent increase from the last census, which placed the housing count at 11,209.

Westfield's city council voted to move forward with a special census last year, in an effort to track the community's rapid growth for funding purposes.

The 2016 census project came in under its projected budget, and the city expects to see an increase in revenue beginning in 2017 due to the new data. This will continue through 2022, at which time the 2020 census data will take effect.

Earlier this year, Westfield was ranked in the top five fastest-growing communities in the Indy Metro area according to census data analyzed by the Indiana Business Research Center at the Indiana University Kelley School of Business.

Indiana mayoral offices shifting from Democrats to Republicans

Democrats have lost ground to Republicans and independents in the last two mayoralelection cycles in Indiana. Democrats have decreased their share of mayoralties from 57 percent in 2003 and 2007 to roughly 45 percent in 2011 and 2015, according to a new report from the Center for Local Elections in American Politics (LEAP), part of Rice University's Kinder Institute for Urban Research.

"Mayoral Elections in Indiana 2003-2015" examines a host of indicators regarding mayoral elections in the Hoosier State. The report analyzed mayoral races in 474 general elections and 706 primary elections in more than 120 Indiana cities.

In addition to the partisan shift, the report also found that more than 20 percent of in turnout in mayoral elections during the all mayoral elections in Indiana go uncontested. This issue is especially acute in the state's smallest cities. For example, in cities with less than 5,000 residents, nearly 29 percent of mayoralelections were uncontested, compared with 13 percent in the state's largest cities.

Melissa Marschall, director of the Center for Local Elections in American Politics and a professor of political science at Rice, said because the vast majority of mayoral elections in the U.S. are nonpartisan, Indiana provides a rare opportunity to study partisan dynamics and trends at the local

"The old adage that 'There is no Republican or Democratic way to pick up the garbage' rings true to many Americans," Marschall said. "Concerns about potholes and snow removal may be top priorities for local residents, but in fact, we know very little about how partisanship, party cues or larger political forces in state and national politics shape local politics and elections."

Marschall raised several questions to demonstrate that point: "Was the partisan shift in Indiana's mayoralties in 2011 a reaction to Democrats winning the White House in 2008? A response to federal policy? Or was it driven primarily by local factors? We can learn a lot about both national and local politics by studying Indiana's mayoral elections.'

John Lappie, postdoctoral research fellow at LEAP, elaborated: "An interesting finding from Indiana is the fact that cities do not tend to be overwhelmingly red or blue, but instead, more purple in nature. More than 60 percent of Indiana cities elected both Democratic and Republic mayors between 2003 and 2015; only 29 elected all Democrats and even fewer (18) elected all Republicans."

The report also found that:

• Republican candidates tended to do best in midsized cities (10,000-20,000 residents) and worst in larger (more than 50,000 residents) and smaller cities (5,000-10,000 residents).

• There was a gradual but steady decline 2003-2015 study period. In that time, turnout in November general elections dropped from an average of 29 percent in 2003 to 22 percent in 2015; primary turnout declined from 20 percent in 2003 to 14 percent in

• In Indiana, the relationship between median household income and turnout runs contrary to expectations. Typically, election turnout increases as median income within communities increases. In Indiana, turnout is roughly 26 percent across all income categories.

The data for the report is based on election results from the Indiana Secretary of State website. Indiana holds general municipal elections in November of odd years and primaries in May of odd years. Mayors serve four-year terms.

The Indiana study is the third of several reports on municipal elections to be released in 2016 by the Kinder Institute's Center for Local Elections in American Politics. Forthcoming reports will examine trends in municipal contests in Virginia, Louisiana, Minnesota, South Carolina, North Carolina and Washington.

The research is supported by the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation. The full report is available online at www.leapelections.org and http://kinder.rice.edu.

require approximately 0.06 acre of new permanent right-of-way. A building is proposed to be removed in the southwest quadrant as part of the project which is currently occupied as a two story residence and the project will include the relocation of residents.

The proposed maintenance of traffic plan for this project will allow SR 37 to remain open via the use of a temporary signal and by constructing one half of the roundabout at a time. Through movements along Strawtown Avenue will be restricted during construction. It is anticipated that each half of the project will take 45 days to construct, therefore impacting traffic for approximately 90 days. Driveway access would be maintained to all local properties. School corporations and emergency services will be notified prior to any construction that would limit access. Indiana Members Foundation awards $8,500 in grants

Indiana Members Foundation, the charitable arm of Indiana Members Credit Union, recently awarded $8,500 in grants through its Joan Wolfe Legacy Grant Program to four organizations. Joan Wolfe worked for Indiana Members Credit Union for 27 years and was a huge supporter of Indiana Members Foundation's mission to provide school children with the necessities essential for learning and succeeding in their education. Joan lost her fight with Cancer in March of 2013, but her fight to help children succeed continues with the Joan Wolfe Legacy Grant Program.

The purpose of the Joan Wolfe Legacy Grant Program is to assist schools and community organizations that help children to achieve success in learning. The 2016 grants were awarded to the following organizations during a luncheon hosted at IMCU's headquarters on Tuesday, July 26,

- Christel House Academy, Inc- $1,000
- Playworks Indiana- $2,500
- Riley Children's Foundation-$2,500
- Visually Impaired Preschool Services, VIPS Indiana- $2,500

The funding for the grants comes from the Foundations fundraising efforts. Applications are accepted and reviewed April 15 – May 31 and awarded the 2nd Friday in July.

Record-breaking Royals return eight

By RICHIE HALL

Reporter Sports Editor

Last year was a record-breaking season for Hamilton Southeastern volleyball.

The Royals compiled a 35-3 record and advanced all the way to the Class 4A semistate championship. What's more, despite some key players having graduated, including Indiana University middle hitter Hayden Huybers, there are several players back from last year.

"This is a veteran group with 8 returning players from last season on a mission," said HSE coach Jason Young.

Among the returners are two big hitters. Junior Meredith Phillips hit 278 kills last season, while senior Caitlin Kane put down 276 kills. Kane was also the service ace leader last year, with 57.

Other key players returning are junior Lark Jones with 67 blocks, senior Olivia Burgess with a team-high 409 digs, and senior Makenzie Hinshaw, a recent University of Tennessee-Martin commit, with a team-high 1146 assists.

Also back for the Royals are senior Caroline Kirchmer, a right side attacker who has committed to Eastern Illinois, and junior Grace Kane, a Campbell commit.

Southeastern begins its season Monday at Carmel.

Sheridan's volleyball team was very young last year, with mostly freshmen and sophomores in the line-up.

The Blackhawks are still young this year, but they do have some experience under their belts now. Seven Sheridan varsity roster varsity players are back for Sheridan, including one Senior: Hunter Birsfield. senior, Hunter Birsfield.

A solid junior class will be led by Maddi Christy and Lauren Railer, both of whom were the kill leaders last season. Railer also led Sheridan in service aces and digs. Rachel Adams and Josie Devaney are returning juniors, and Rachel Hunt and Maddie Zola are sophomores who played varsity last season.

Blackhawks coach Cindy Railer said that last year "was a rebuilding year" for her team, and Sheridan is still "expecting to continue to rebuild this year."

"The Coaching staff is looking forward and expect- September ing some positive results this season," said Cindy Railer. 1: at Eastern, 7 p.m.

University cross country preview...

'Blazers looking for advancement, new records

Even though they compete in arguably the toughest cross country sectional in the break our girls' school record very early in state, the teams from University have gotten some notice.

The Trailblazers have advanced a handful of runners on to the regional over the past couple years, and that trend will likely continue this season. University's girls have a solid freshmen who will add to an experienced team.

The top boy for UHS will be junior Grant Syrek. He advanced to regional last year and ran a 16:48 at that level. Also back are two sophomores, Neil Pettinga and Ben Westerkamm. Trailblazers coach Jenny Cox said there are "several promising freshmen," including Noah Laramore, Jacob Sager and Cordell Wilson, while seniors Maxwell Ammerman and Xavier Lance will provide leadership.

As for the girls, there are several varsity runners back. Seniors Audrey Geipel and Michaela McKasson return, as do sophomores Lydia Copeland and Lauren Flickner.

"We also have several new runners who have really stood out in conditioning," said Cox. Among those is freshman Jada Swearingen, who Cox said will be the team's top runner and "has potential to Sophomores: Lydia Copeland, Lauren the year."

Two more girls, sophomore Lucia Ponader and freshman Robin Karwath "also have immense potential but are new to competitive running," said Cox.

"Like always, our goal is to build a boys has their No. 1 runner back, and the love of running and to create lifelong runners," said Cox. "We hope to get runners out of our difficult Sectional once again and hope to see both the girls and boys school records broken again this sea-

Carmel girls soccer preview...

New players get their turn for Greyhounds

They have been ladies-in-waiting for the past year or two, but this year's players on the Carmel girls soccer team our peak at tournament time," said Dixon. will finally get their turn.

The Greyhounds return 13 letter winners, but due to the Carmel roster strength of last year's senior class, there are only four starters back. Those four have made quite an impact, however. Senior Jessi Cowen was Carmel's leading scorer last year. Meanwhile, a trio of juniors also will be part of the action - assist leader Katie Soderstrom, all-state candidate Emily Roberts and Taylor Rudin.

"As often happens in high school sports, we have a bunch of talented players who had to wait their turn because they came in behind a super class of girls who graduated this June," said Greyhounds coach Frank Dixon.

But now those players will be the starters, and they will begin the season Wednesday by hosting Hamilton Southeastern, then traveling to Guerin Catholic on Saturday.

"We will be very competitive and hope to be reaching 20: at Guerin Catholic, 7 p.m.
