We should get together more often

By MARY SUE ROWLAND

Eight years has passed since the Plan Commission, Noblesville Common Council, Architectural Review Board and the Board of Zoning Appeals gathered for a conclave to discuss where the city of Noblesville is in the planning and economic development process and where does the city want to be today and tomorrow? Sarah Reed is the Director of Planning for Noblesville and started the discussion for those attending. Fishers, Carmel and Westfield were also compared to the City of Noblesville concerning process and number of days of review before a new development is approved. Understand there are the “rules of development” known as standards and then the “opinions” of various boards and officials concerning how communities should development. Determining if the “rules” need to be changed is one issue and just how many boards and meetings will it take to meet the “opinions” interjected as the process goes along is another. The citizens have a voice also in the process.

A citizen (name withheld) wrote recently to the plan commission concerns about the process recently. Part of the concerns follow: “I continue to be disappointed at the lack of similar energy that the city’s assets of two golf courses, several custom home development, wetlands, plan for trails and the new park are met with the highest integrity on surrounding development plans despite the constant threat of re-zoning, spot zoning and caving to the developers who want to get in, get rich and get out”. This was only part of the citizen’s concerns but you get the idea. Additional considerations are schools and traffic based on the impact of the development and additional taxpayer dollars spent to accommodate the needs of development.

During the past eight years, not much was happening in Noblesville but now things are changing and now the emphasis is all about making the process better to accommodate the growth and the community. Presentations were made on duties of the each board by City Attorney, Mike Howard. A concerning message was that with the current tax caps passed by the State of Indiana has made a commu-

Time Out

Bud put me in my place

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

A couple of years ago I quit asking Bud Wright when he planned to retire. Bud will start his 51st season at Sheridan tonight; 52 years overall.

The last time I asked, Bud snapped back at me, “When are you going to retire?”

Good point.

I don’t remember it, but I must have reported on Bud’s first coached game at Sheridan. I was the only sports guy at The Ledger at that time, so it had to be me.

Bud, just as he is today, was fun to work with 51 years ago. Things were different back then. My weapon was a typewriter. All of the county games were reported to The Ledger via telephone.

Embassy Suites breaks ground in Noblesville

Embassy Suites by Hilton, a global brand of upscale, all-suite hotels from Hilton, and Sun Development & Management Corporation today celebrated the groundbreaking of the Embassy Suites by Hilton Indianapolis/Noblesville. Slated to open in late 2017, this property is expected to be the third for the brand in the state of Indiana.

Local officials, including the City of Noblesville Mayor John Ditslear, and members of the business community joined Global Head of Embassy Suites, Alan Roberts and Chief Executive Officer of Sun Development & Management Corporation, Bharat Patel; Director of Economic Development for the City of Noblesville, Judi Johnson; and Executive Director of Hamilton County Tourism, Brenda Myers for the symbolic ceremony. Once construction is complete, the hotel will be comprised of seven stories and 192 spacious suites, offering guests access to an indoor pool and on-site restaurant. The hotel will also feature a state-of-the-art conference center with nearly 21,000 square feet of versatile meeting and function space that can accommodate up to 2,000 attendees for business and social events.

"We are excited for Embassy Suites to break ground on this catalyst project that will bring more amenities, jobs, out-of-town visitors and business guests to the City of Noblesville," said Noblesville Mayor John Ditslear. "Embassy Suite’s high-end hotel and conference center is a perfect complement to our nearby high-tech business parks and the vibrant retail village in and around Hamilton Town Center. With its opening planned for late 2017, Noblesville will have achieved one of its top objectives for the vision we’ve been working toward at Exit 210."

Patel said that construction had already begun on the new hotel. Half of the building’s foundation is already done, and other ancillary work has been mostly finished as well.

"Most of the roads are done," said Patel. "Curbing is done. The outlots for the restaurant are already there. So we’re actually well on our way." Patel noted that construction is about a month ahead of the groundbreaking.

Located at the southwest corner of the intersection of Olio Road and Tegler Drive, near Exit 210 on Interstate 69, the property is in close proximity to several corporate headquarters including Nestlé, Roche Diagnostics Corporation, SMC Corporation

Work to begin on 116th Street and Gray Road Roundabout

Local road improvements will continue on the east side of Carmel next week as construction crews will begin a fast-track reconstruction of 116th Street and Gray Road.

The intersection will be closing on August 29th, 2016 for a project that will transform the intersection to a roundabout designed to move traffic more efficiently. The closure will be in place for about 75 days, weather permitting.

By completely closing the intersection, this project can be completed in about half the time, less expensively and with better safety measures for road crews.

The roundabout will also increase the potential for alternative transportation connectivity. The work schedule will allow for the time needed to move major utilities, work through elevation changes, and shift the project away from Flowing Well Park, which is federally protected from encroachment.

The official Detour will use Hazel Dell Parkway and Keystone Parkway to accommodate north-south traffic, and east-west traffic will use 96th Street or Main Street.

The majority of the project is expected to be done and traffic flowing on or near November 18th, 2016, however there will need to be landscaping and plantings done next spring to avoid frost/cold kill of the new landscaping, that work is expected to finish no later than June 1, 2017.

For the Pancreatitis Foundation...

Avon man set to bicycle coast-to-coast for Noblesville girl

On Sept. 17, Avon resident Mark Light will take off from San Diego, Calif. on a 3,000-mile solo bicycle ride to St. Augustine, Fla. He expects the coast-to-coast journey through the Southern Tier to take about 60 days. The ride is the combination of a personal challenge to complete a ride of that scope as a chronic pancreatitis patient, and a fervent desire to help a 3-year-old Noblesville girl and her family burdened with the emotional and financial pain and expense of pancreatitis.

After fourteen years and two near-death experiences of his own, Light is an expert by experience in what it means to have acute and chronic pancreatitis. It is considered one of the most painful and life-threatening medical conditions. A flare up generally means the patient is hospitalized, not eating or drinking for days at a time, heavily medicated with strong pain killers like morphine, and most of the time, nauseous, vomiting and in extreme pain.

Light's experiences dealing with the intense pain, hospitalizations, treatments, and surgeries altered his perspective on life and personal fortitude. Although he was not particularly athletic growing up, facing death in the eye in 2012 prompted Light to take on the challenge of hiking the Grand Canyon rim-to-rim. The successful hike became an annual event, and he took up cycling at home. The cycling turned into a passion that allowed him time to clear his head, build his strength and alleviate stress. His rides kept getting longer and he decided that one day he would attempt a solo ride coast-to-coast.

In addition to setting and achieving his own personal and physical challenges, during this time Light co-founded the Pancreatitis Foundation with the purpose of spreading awareness of the disease and to provide emotional and financial support to pancreatitis sufferers and their families.

The subject of pancreatitis brought Light to Chris and Elizabeth Theisen and their daughter. Emily Jo, called Emme "the Warrior Princess" by friends and family, had been born prematurely with a host of health issues. Because pancreatitis is not commonly considered a disease that affects children, Emme's diagnosis was delayed, but once confirmed, Light understood intimately the pain and agony the little girl was living with every day. "It's difficult to face this disease as an adult," Light said. "I can't imagine what it must be like as a child, or even worse, as a parent having to see your child suffer."

"We get a lot of support from family and friends and it's a tremendous help day-to-day," Emme's father, Chris Theisen, said, "but the understanding from someone who truly understands what is happening when we say Emme is in the hospital undergoing this or that treatment is invaluable for us. The compassion from Mark has been incredible."

The ride is being called Peddling Coast-to-Coast for the Warrior Princess. After Aug. 8 was named Emily Jo Theisen Day in Defuniak Springs, Fla., which is the hometown of Emily's uncle, Dave Rivard, information about Emme and the ride is beginning to trend online with the hashtag #emmesmiles.

"With news of the ride getting out," Theisen said, "we are seeing all these people we don't even know latch on to Emily's story and what she is going through. Mark's commitment to taking action and following up on making this happen has been amazing. The outpouring of interest and support from what Mark has begun has helped us deal with her going through this as well. We have gotten to see a lot of good in the world."

"As a pancreatitis sufferer," Light says, "every one of the 3,000 miles between San Diego and St. Augustine will be a personal victory for me and provide hope for Emme. If people donate one penny for each mile of the ride, that's only $30; less than it costs for a week's daily coffee. But if 2,000 people donate $30, the Theisen family will be able to pursue the surgical treatment that could mean Emme will finally have a day without pain – and believe me, that's priceless."

Light will leave California on Sept. 17, 2016, with anticipated arrival in St. Augustine by Thanksgiving, Nov. 24. Readers can go to www.emmesmiles.com to learn more about the ride and make donations.

The mission of the Pancreatitis Foundation is twofold. First, to spread awareness of the disease. Second, the Foundation is dedicated to providing support for both the patient and their family. When someone has pancreatitis, the entire family is engaged in the illness. "Pancreatitis is horrible" Light said. "It is exceedingly painful and puts a strain on families both emotionally and financially. The Pancreatitis Foundation will grow to provide the support families need to help them cope with the challenges of this terrible disease." For more information, go to www.thepancfoundation.org.

A great opener....

Hounds, Royals at Carmel

By DON JELLISON
Reporter Editor

The best season opener tonight as Hamilton County opens its high school football season will be played at Carmel when Hamilton Southeastern crosses White River to meet the host Greyhounds.

It's a big rivalry, you know? Maybe. And, maybe.

I have a friend who constantly reminds me that for a game to be a rivalry, both sides need to win their share. In all honestly, this isn't the case with Carmel-Southeastern. The Greyhounds have dominated.

The Royals and Greyhounds have met 17 times. Carmel owns a 15-2 edge. Southeastern won the first game, 15-7 in 1997.

From 2001 to 2014, the two teams didn't meet during the regular season. Southeastern defeated Carmel 17-7 in a 2005 tourney game.

Before the lull in the schedule, Carmel won the last game, a 7-5 slugfest in 2001. When the two teams started playing again, 2014, Carmel won 14-7. The Greyhounds won 28-7 last year.

Two of Carmel's touchdowns last season were passes caught by Greyhounds who will return tonight, wide receiver Ethan Merriweather and tight end Kurt Rafdal.

The biggest different look, perhaps, in both offenses is at the quarterback slot. In the game last season, Carmel's Mike Viktrup passed for two touchdowns and ran for another. Carter Poiry, in the fourth quarter, ran for Southeastern's lone TD. Viktrup and Poiry have graduated.

Although it isn't necessarily that way with teams like Carmel and Southeastern which are loaded with huge linemen, speedy backs and talented defenders, the quarterback position most often is the key position in high school football.

Kurt Rafdal
Carmel

Adam Mullett

Garrett Myren

Carmel coach John Elliot says he will play two. The starter likely will be senior Elliot Charlebois, with junior Jake McDonald a step behind.

Kind of the same deal with Coach Scott May at HSE. The starter will be senior Adam Mullett. The backup will be sophomore Garrett Myren.

The Associated Press poll, the long-established media poll, has Carmel ranked No. 2, behind Center Grove. Southeastern is No. 7.

Maybe that's enough to make the game tonight a rivalry.

One thing is for certain. Given good weather, the Greyhounds and Royals will pack in a huge crowd at Carmel Stadium.

Westfield cross country preview...

Shamrocks' depth could yield success this season

Senior Aaron Bennett is one of four state runners that is back for the Westfield boys cross country team this season.

After a solid summer of training, the Westfield cross country teams are ready to see if that will result in a fall harvest of fast times, tournament victories and post-season success.

Both teams have reason to be hungry this season. The Shamrock boys put together their best season in history last year, finishing third at the IHSAA state meet. Several of those runners are back and ready to keep Westfield's momentum going.

Meanwhile, Westfield's girls have been doing well, but are looking to end a state meet drought. The good news? The Shamrocks are a deeper team this season.

Another good thing for Westfield is the return of Scott Lidskin. The longtime Shamrock coach guided the girls team to four state championships (1998, 2005-06-07) and myriad other honors. Lidskin is back as the coordinator for Westfield cross country.

The Shamrock boys have three seniors back who ran at state: Aaron Bennett, Desmond Herrell and Noah Shourd. Junior Derek Maue also competed at the state meet as well. Bennett placed 24th, which automatically gave him All-State honors.

"We are coming off of our best season in program history and are looking to build off of that momentum," said Lidskin. "Depth could be a real strength of this team. Our boys have put in a great summer and are eager to see what 2016 will bring."

Westfield's girls advanced out of the very tough Noblesville sectional, but finished sixth at the very tough Noblesville regional - only the top five advance from that level. However, five of the seven runners from that regional team are back. That includes seniors Lauren Bailey and Gabby Brown, and junior Gabby Dilick, all of whom advanced to the Carmel semi-state as individuals. Other returnees from that team are juniors Madison Smith and Carly Bogdajewicz.

"Our girls have had an excellent summer and look forward to the challenges of the 2016 season," said Lidskin. "We have really improved our depth for this fall. We have not been to the state meet since 2013 and we hope to end that drought...though we know that we are in a highly competitive area for girls cross country."

Westfield boys roster
Seniors: Aaron Bennett, Kevin Greene, Desmond Herrell, Bradley Parisi, Trevor Pirics, Jude Phillips, Drew Schmitz, Noah Shourd, Nate Stefflug.
Juniors: Jon Huntley, Nick Leahy, Derek Maue, Thomas May, James McClure, Will Puterbaugh.
Sophomores: Gavin Clinkenbeard, Noah Douthit, Asa Koch, Duncan McGraw, Jacob Mears, Sam Novak.

Huskies pull out win over Pendleton

The Hamilton Heights tennis team took down the Arabians of Pendleton Heights in a tight match Thursday night, as the home team pulled out a 3-2 victory.

The Huskies got an early win from Noah Wallace at No. 3 singles but needed come-from-behind wins from Austin Sauerteig at No. 1 singles and Hawkins Hochstedler at No. 2 singles to get the win. Huskies hold off WeBo in opener

The Hamilton Heights girls soccer team opened its season on Wednesday night with a 4-2 win over visiting Western Boone.
Heights took a 2-0 lead in the first half before Western Boone tied it before halftime. The second half saw a stingier defense from the Huskies while the offense stayed patient with its ball control attack. The Huskies' offense played a solid game of passing and ball movement that created a number of very good scoring opportunities. That patience paid off with a couple of second half goals within a couple minutes of each other.
Scoring for the Huskies were Elaina Page with two goals and Lauren Stirn and Emily Stirn each with one goal. Audrie Catron and Page added assists. Jenna McGrew had nine saves in goal.
