New economic development specialist

Head

The City of Noblesville is pleased to announce the hiring of Aaron Head as its new economic development specialist. Head, a lifelong resident of Noblesville, began his new position on August. 17.

"I am so grateful to be able to serve the community that I love. Having the opportunity to work in a position that will positively impact the quality of life for fellow residents is a really great feeling," he said.

Head's new duties will consist of data collection and research on Noblesville's available sites and buildings to provide current and quick inventory. He will focus on developable ground and prioritize its marketing potential. Economic Development Director Judi Johnson said Head will be her department's liaison with planning, engineering and external utility providers. He will continue to use his planning expertise to assist in project development. Johnson said Head will use his relationship building skills to drive interest in business attraction, retention and expansion.

"The integrating and alignment of planning and economic development practices are very important for future growth opportunities," said Johnson. "Aaron's past planning experience, along with his passion for his hometown of Noblesville, will serve the citizens well as he works to grow the local economy."

Head and his wife, Amanda, graduated Noblesville High School in 1999 and 2000 respectively. They have two children, Tiffany, 9, and Jake, the newest family member at 9 months. Head received his bachelor's degree at Ball State University. For the past 10 years he has worked for the City of Fishers Community Development Department as an associate planner. Head serves on the H.A.N.D. Neighborhoods NOW Advisory Committee.

Lots of victory and a little agony

By JANET HART LEONARD

It's been a long two weeks. I'm exhausted. And I was just watching the Olympics. Midnight is not a familiar place for me and the sun came up way too early the next day.

"Ugh, oh my goodness, whew, oh my stars, mercy sakes" were the exclamations coming from my mouth during so many of the events.

To see those gymnasts soar, flip, twist and turn in ways that seem impossible and then cement their feet into a landing, well, it is mind and body boggling. The closest my body has ever been able to make those moves was...in the winter, slipping on the ice and believe me when I say, "I did not ever stick the landing."

To flip and land on a four inch beam. To cross hand over hand and soar on the uneven bars. To toss their body into the air and spiral, barely touching the mat and then bouncing back up like a jack in the box. Well it is beyond comprehension. And yet they do it.

Celebrate the gold, cherish the silver and bask in the glory of a bronze.

Kerri Walsh Jennings, after losing for the first time, in the Olympics, in beach volleyball, said it best "we didn't lose, we won the bronze." She said that to win the bronze she had to fight with everything she had. She goes on to say that it was the most challenging thing that she has ever done as an athlete to overcome the devastation of not winning the gold medal. Then she said, "I'm a big girl. I signed up for this."

I loved watching the reactions of the athletes who medaled. I felt for the ones who came up short on their goals. Ok, so I did want to smack a few cameramen who got up close to the athletes who were struggling with their emotions after failing to accomplish their goals. Give them a moment to themselves and allow them to physically and mentally process their thoughts.

Every one of those athletes has accomplished something amazing. They made it to the Olympics. I cannot imagine the pressure they all had to be under.

So much of the Olympics is a learning and teaching tool for our children and grandchildren. How to win and be humble. How to lose and be proud of what is accomplished. How to enjoy the moment. How to encourage and cheer for your competitors. How to stay focused. How to win with class. How to not win and yet show dignity. How to take responsibility for your actions. Give credit where credit is due.

Life isn't all about winning. It's about showing up. Doing your best. You may not get a gold medal or even a bronze. Never be ashamed for trying. The person crossing the finish line last, still crossed the finish line at the Olympics. The young gal that fell from the uneven bars still had a score at the Olympics. The young man who created the biggest splash in his dive, was still a diver at the Olympics.

You see, sometimes just showing up, makes you a winner. Working through injury, defeat, frustration, long hours and exhaustion makes you stronger.

And don't get me started on how I felt watching the parents of the Olympians . They were having come apart in the stands. They all deserve a medal.

Oh well, it's back to my regular scheduled programming and bedtime this week and the sun will come up at just the right time...after eight hours sleep.

50 Years Ago

News: A long, white convertible loaded with gleaming trophies came around the track in front of the grandstand to start the High School Band Contest yesterday at the Indiana State Fair. C. Melvin Young, president of the Fair Board, introduced Diana Bartlemay, the 1966 State Fair Queen. With her sparkling tiara, she wore a bright turquoise A Line dress, with the ribbon denoting her position at the Fair. She acknowledged all of the bands’ long hours of preparation for their short three minutes performances. Just two years ago she was a member appearing with the Richmond band.

Sports: Footballs will fly, the band will play, approximately 3,000 fans will trot down the hill to the gridiron, but the sweet music Carmel football coach Dick Nyers is waiting to hear is the blasting of the new “Greyhound Boomer”.

Signal controller work downtown addressing traffic timing issues

The City of Noblesville is working on a joint project with the Indiana Department of Transportation to improve traffic signals and equipment on the Downtown Square. The Indiana 32 (Conner Street) portion is an INDOT project from Eighth Street to 16th Street. The city is overseeing the Logan Street improvement from 10th Street west to Lakeview Drive.

We realize that work in this area is an inconvenience, but the overall goal of the project is to ultimately improve equipment and timing. Equipment failing over time has caused timing issues and this project will correct them; however, timing may not be fully synchronized or optimal for a few weeks. We appreciate your patience as we work through these issues. The city will do its best to keep timings as efficient as possible during the project.

In conjunction with the traffic signal controllers’ project, upgrades also are being done for pedestrian signals. Pedestrian signals will be equipped with push buttons and count-down signal heads. While some of these pedestrian signals have been placed, they are not yet connected to the network and working.

Timing of the entire network is expected to be completed by early October.

Fourth Olympic medal for Noblesville’s own...

Boudia wins bronze in 10-meter diving

Boudia

Noblesville's David Boudia finished with the bronze medal in the 10-meter platform diving event Saturday at the Rio de Janeiro Olympics. Boudia, who won gold in the event at the 2012 Beijing Olympics, finished 10th in the morning semi-final with a score of 458.35 points, which got him one of the 12 qualifying spots for the final round. In the final, Boudia made some clutch dives, finishing with a total of 525.25 points. He finished behind only silver medalist German Sanchez of Mexico, who scored 532.70 points, and Aisen Chen, who won the gold with a dominating 585.30 points.

Carmel's Steele Johnson finished 13th in the semi-final with 447.85 points, just missing advancement to the final. But Johnson does get to come home with a silver medal in the synchronized platform, which he and Boudia competed in last week. Saturday's bronze medal is Boudia's fourth at the Olympics. In addition to his Beijing 10-meter gold, he also won the bronze in that Olympic's synchronized competition with former partner Nick McCrory. Prior to Boudia, American men had not won any medal in the Olympics since 1996.

Cross country...

County teams win all over the place

Hamilton County cross country teams fanned out in all different directions on Saturday, and the majority came away with team and individual victories. Noblesville's girls team competed in the Plainfield Relays, and won the event, which features teams of two runners running a six-mile race, alternating each mile so that both runners log three miles each. The Miller team of Abi Little and Aubrie Deal won the individual crown, finishing their six-mile trek in 35:47. Susanna Sharples-Gordon and Maria Anderson teamed up for a fifth-place finish, while Taylor Gregory and Sophie Rechard placed eighth. In addition, Noblesville had four top-five finishers in the Open 2-Mile race. Katherine Sandys placed second, followed by Grace Judy in third, Kilah Kuiper in fourth and Madison King in fifth.

Noblesville's boys team competed at the water-logged Zionsville Invitational, which took place at Graham Martin Park in Indianapolis. Both the Fishers and University girls and boys teams also competed. The 4000-meter race was divided into Freshmen/Sophomore and Junior/Senior divisions. The Tigers won the girls Freshmen/Sophomore event, and swept both boys divisions. Miya Wai won the Freshmen/Sophomore race individually, clocking in at 15:43.1. # Carmel girls win another county game

The Carmel girls soccer team won its second all-county game of the season on Saturday, defeating Guerin Catholic 3-1 at Grand Park.

The Class 2A No. 3 Greyhounds scored first, with Jessi Cowen finding Katie Soderstrom for the goal in the game's 10th minute. The 2A No. 15 Golden Eagles answered 11 minutes later, with Lauren Rice scoring unassisted.

Carmel added two more goals in the second half, with Cowen scoring off an Ali James assist, then James scoring her own goal unassisted.

Nicole Vohs had five goalkeeper saves for the 'Hounds, with Chandler Edwards making four saves for Guerin.

"What a great way to begin the season," said Carmel coach Frank Dixon.

"Two wins in a week against two ranked opponents, no big injuries, scoring a few goals against tough defenses, only giving up one goal with an entire new back line and most importantly not getting rained out. Life is good."

Hamilton Heights' girls lost a Saturday contest at Yorktown 7-2.

Goals for the Huskies were scored by Lauren Stirn and Gracie Long. Jenna McGrew had four saves and allowed two goals in one half of play while Tessa Harr had 10 saves and allowed five goals in her half in goal.

In boys action, Carmel and Hamilton Southeastern played to a 0-0 tie Saturday afternoon.

Huskies volleyball goes 1-2 at Ritter tourney

The Huskies fell to the host Raiders 25-27, 25-12, 25-11 and Mount Vernon 25-18, 25-15, then beat Western Boone 25-21, 25-20.

"The Huskies came up a little short in the Ritter match but the ladies worked together well and had a good team victory against Western Boone," said Heights assistant coach Mallory Morphew.

Hamilton Southeastern went 4-0 to win the Kokomo Invitational on Saturday, while Carmel picked up wins from Valparaiso and Crown Point.

Results from the matches were not reported.
