Sheridan Youth Assistance Program to host...

Career fair offers options beyond four-year college degree

The Sheridan Youth Assistance Program will host its first career and job fair on Thursday, Dec. 8, 2016 in the Sheridan High School Gymnasium. Students in grades 8 through 10 from Sheridan, Hamilton Heights, Tipton, and Clinton Central will attend from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Upperclassman and adults are invited to attend from 4 to 6:30 p.m.

The hands-on, interactive career fair will highlight skilled trades, advanced manufacturing, the hospitality industry, agriculture, human services, health care, transportation, construction and information technology.

“We believe offering some career alternatives to the traditional four-year college degree is imperative to the future of some of these students,” said Lisa Samuels, Sheridan Early Intervention Advocate. “We want to show them there are great career choices that they may not have thought about but would provide a livable wage as well as fill a need in our community.”

More than 500 students from area schools are expected to attend the free event at Sheridan High School, located at 24185 Hinesley Road. Local businesses interested in participating as a vendor can visit the following website www.youthassistance.org/sheridan-news to register.

The Hamilton County Youth Assistance Program proactively assists the healthy development of Hamilton County youth and their families. The organization is a public/private partnership between board members, the cities of Westfield, Noblesville, Fishers, Carmel, Sheridan, Cicero and Hamilton County, the School Corporations of Westfield-Washington, Noblesville, Hamilton Southeastern, Carmel Clay, Hamilton Heights, Sheridan, and the communities at-large. For more information, visit <http://youthassistance.org/> or call 317-758-4431 ext. 4400. #SYAPCareerFair

A woman of character

By JANET HART LEONARD
Have you met this woman...

She walks with confidence, not because she has conformed to what everyone expected her to be, but because she has found who she was designed to be.

She has learned to say "no" without feeling guilty.

She has no fear when she is not part of the majority. For her, comfort can be found in the minority.

She won't lie to you because she knows the ugliness of deception.

She knows no jealousy because she has learned to be content as a champion for others. She lifts people up with her words of affirmation because she has overcome rejection and belittling.

Her kindness knows no boundaries because hurt tried its best to hold her hostage with bitterness and anger.

She overlooks the slightest of offenses because she understands what it is like to have her words and actions misinterpreted.

She is a cheerleader for those who are fighting any battle because she has fought a few herself. Some she won. Some she lost. BUT... she never gave up.

She realizes that some things are out of her control. She has the Serenity Prayer memorized. She prays for wisdom to know when she has done all she can do and leave the outcome to the good Lord. She may not like the outcome but she has learned to deal with things not to her liking.

She lives her faith because, at times, it was all she had to cling to. Hope gave her a reason to get out of bed in the morning and her faith tucked her into bed at night.

She realizes that peace comes from knowing that God has a bigger plan than she can ever fathom. She is just a piece of the puzzle. She has also learned that she can't force the pieces of the puzzle to fit her will.

Her positive attitude doesn't come from seeing a rainbow in the sky everyday but from surviving a few storms.

She radiates joy when she walks into a room and people gravitate to her because of her warmth.

Zionsville to Carmel route now possible...

New path project provides 106th Street connection for bicyclists

The City of Carmel joined bicycling fans and trail advocates today in celebrating the completion of the 106th Street multi-use path project near the intersection of 106th and Illinois Streets. The path provides, for the first time, a complete trail connection between downtown Zionsville and Central Carmel.

The project included the construction of a bike/pedestrian bridge over Williams Creek and was funded partially by a federal Congestion Mitigation and Air Quality grant. Combined with INDOT's U.S. 31 project, which provides full path connection across U.S. 31 at the new roundabout interchange, it will now be possible to travel from the east border of Carmel at White River (106th and Hazel Dell) across the city and into Boone County, connecting with downtown Zionsville.

“We have heard from many residents in the West Clay area and from our friends in Zionsville who have wanted the ability to ride their bikes across U.S. 31 to gain access to the Monon Trail and our City Center and Arts & Design District,” said Carmel Mayor

Jim Brainard. “The completion of this path project makes that possible and will hopefully spur other communities to think big when it comes to connecting bike trails across the Central Indiana region and beyond.”

Making new connections and improving existing ones is part of Carmel's overall plan to improve its reputation as a bicycle-friendly community. The city is currently recognized by the League of American Bicyclists as a Community service officers...

Your local animal cops and ordinance enforcement

By DEPUTY DOUGLAS SANFORD
Hamilton County Sheriff’s Department

Hamilton County is the fastest growing county in the state of Indiana and spans more than 400 square miles with an estimated population of more than 325,000 residents. There are 8 different municipalities within Hamilton County: Carmel, Fishers, Noblesville, Westfield, Cicero, Arcadia, Atlanta and Sheridan. These municipalities, with the exception of Atlanta that contracts with the sheriff’s office, have their own police departments that fill their individual requirements for public safety and community service. Not commonly found in other counties across the state - several of these municipalities employ a progressive style of law enforcement and public service through the use of a position titled “Community Service Officer” or CSO’s.

Carmel, Fishers, Noblesville and Westfield are the four largest municipalities in Hamilton County and each of these agencies utilize CSO positions in varying capacities depending on the individual needs within the community. The Hamilton County Sheriff’s Office has a Special Deputy dedicated to humane law enforcement for the unincorporated areas of the county. Aside from investigating and enforcing animal welfare laws this deputy also assists the road patrol in a limited capacity as well as serves as the animal control coordinator for the entire county and assists the CSO’s as needed. You have probably seen these officers throughout your communities and may wonder exactly what these officers do during a typical shift.

Unlike regular police officers CSO’s are non-sworn civilian employees and depending on their jurisdiction have varying responsibilities, enforcement powers and training. These CSO’s have a wide variety of professional backgrounds which enable them to offer their individual agencies and communities an outstanding resource. Many of these CSO’s have worked for other agencies in Indiana to include large metropolitan animal control agencies, retired police officers, corrections officers, probation officers to sheriff’s office’s and reserve units.

All CSO’s, like that of regular patrol officers, hold and maintain special certifications and training that meet the requirements of their respective position and duties. CSO’s may wear a uniform like that of other officers in their agency but often times it will differ in color or be that of a more relaxed or administrative fashion. Depending on the agency CSO’s will have many different tools on their belt such as batons, OC spray, Tasers, firearms, etc. just as their fully sworn police counterparts.

CSO’s have very diverse duties that include responding to parking complaints, ordinance enforcement that includes abandon / junk vehicle abatement, lock outs, traffic hazards, patrolling parks and handling animal complaints to name a few. Community Service Officers from these combined agencies fielded a total of over 5000 runs in 2015. Due to the vast amount of cases they handle they also spend many hours preparing cases, writing reports and testifying in court. This requires CSO’s to stay current on local laws and training to ensure an efficient and effective enforcement presence in their jurisdiction.

Having CSO’s respond to these lower priority calls is an invaluable service and allows the regular patrol units to focus their attention on more pressing issues in the communities and decreases their response times to emergencies. However – we do not want to diminish what CSO’s do in using the term “lower priority calls”. For instance – enforcing abandon / junk vehicle ordinances eliminates areas that attract vermin and insects which carry Bronze Level Bicycle Friendly City with more than 180 miles of multi-use paths and trails along streets, corridors and greenways and hopes to build upon that in the future.

This year, the City began providing portable, pop-up bike racks at major events, along with free bagged chairs for use at outdoor concerts for those who traveled to these events by bike. The city also continues its efforts to expand local bike-sharing by encouraging businesses to add Zagster bike-sharing locations to improve connectivity for employees and customers who seek alternative modes of transportation.

“More than simply a way to increase recreational activity for residents, the City of Carmel views our reputation as a bike-friendly community as a vital tool in the larger economic development efforts designed to attract a high quality workforce,” said Mayor Brainard. “Unlike generations past, today’s workforce consists of both young and old who carefully choose where they want to live, work, play and raise a family before they actually accept employment. The more choices we can give them in regards to transportation, housing and employment, the more competitive we are for jobs and a good workforce.”

disease as well as drives down property values. Animal complaints involving pets and livestock that may be sick, injured, abused or neglected are one of the most important and specialized. Often times the quick response of the CSO is the difference between life and death in regards to pets left in vehicles in the summer or left outside without proper food, water and shelter in the freezing temperatures of our Central Indiana winters. Vicious and aggressive animals are a direct threat to the community and CSO's put their personal safety aside to capture and secure these animals before they injure someone. CSO's have training in animal handling and investigations for animal cruelty. Having officers that can focus on these specialty areas of enforcement allows Hamilton County to have an excellent animal welfare environment and decreased animal related issues than that of other counties in Indiana and around the nation.

Hamilton County has seen a significant decrease in the amount of animals impounded over the last 6 years. In 2010 the number of animals impounded for all jurisdictions combined was 3132 animals. Due to increased public education, effective laws and consistent enforcement this number has subsequently dropped every year to 2535 animals in 2015. The decrease in loose and neglected animals, animal bites and attacks reported to the health department during the same cycle is directly related to the outstanding work of these officers.

Often time's calls are received for wild animals such as coyotes, raccoons or opossums in the community. A misconception is that officers will respond and remove these healthy animals and relocate them. This is not the case. Healthy wild animals should be left alone. Local police departments do not hold the specials permits required to trap and release healthy wild animals. However – if you see a sick or injured wild animal or one that may be a danger to public safety you should always call Hamilton County Dispatch and an officer will respond to evaluate the situation and take action as needed.

As you can see - Community Service Officers provide an invaluable service to their communities. Without CSO's - regular patrol units would be stretched thinner and agencies would most certainly see an increase in response times. So next time you have an animal or ordinance complaint remember to call Hamilton County Dispatch at 317-773-1282. If you live in one of the four municipalities listed above most likely a Community Service Officer will be the one to respond; and you can be assured that not only are they highly trained and professional officers at work serving and protecting - they are an intricate piece of the puzzle for your local law enforcement agency that enables them to provide you the very best in public safety today.

If you're interested in learning more about CSO's, Animal Control or any other position in law enforcement contact your local police department or sheriff's office and ask to speak with an officer and perhaps sign up for a ride along.

State cross country meet

Greyhounds boys runner-up; Fishers boys, Noblesville girls make podium...

Carmel girls win seventh in a row

The Carmel girls cross country won another state championship Saturday at the LaVern Gibson Championship Cross Country Course in Terre Haute. The state win is the seventh in a row for the Greyhounds, and the 18th overall.

The Carmel girls cross country program in Indiana added another state championship trophy to its collection Saturday.

The Greyhounds claimed their record seventh consecutive state title at the LaVern Gibson Championship Cross Country Course in Terre Haute, easily outdistancing Fort Wayne Carroll 44-113. Aided by five runners finishing in the top 21, Carmel added to its already record haul of state trophies, with this year's edition being its 18th. There have been 36 IHSAA girls state cross country championships, so the 'Hounds have won half of them.

There were other big stories among the Hamilton County participants at state, of course. Noblesville earned its third podium finish by placing fifth as a team, which is the Millers' best result since 2009. Veteran state qualifiers Fishers (eighth place) and Westfield (10th place) made more history while newcomer Guerin Catholic (14th place) made its mark.

The 44 points that Carmel scored is the fifth-lowest in state finals history. The Greyhounds had three finishers in the top six, with all of them scoring five points or less in the team standings. Junior Maddie Dalton placed third overall in a time of 18:27.0, with senior Christina Geisler right behind her in fourth, clocking in at 18:28.3. Phoebe Bates, a freshman, finished sixth in a time of 18:37.2. In the team points, Dalton scored two, Geisler three and Bates five.

Senior Rachel Anderson placed 19th, earning her a medal and a spot on the individual podium. (The top 20 runners receive medals.) Anderson also received the Mental Attitude Award; the daughter of David and Marisa Anderson, Rachel plans to study biology in college, and continue her cross country and track and field career.

Senior Sarah Leinheiser, last year's individual champion, finished 21st. Anderson scored 16 team points and Leinheiser 18, which added up to the big trophy.

"I couldn't be happier to have this team earn a state championship," said Carmel coach Mark Ellington, who won his seventh state title as coach of the Greyhounds. "They continue to work hard, have great attitudes, and are a fantastic group to be around. We had three girls finish in the top 6 places with two more in the top 25. I think every coach in Indiana would be pumped with those kinds of finishes. While not every race unfolded in the way we had hoped, we were able to see some outstanding young women persevere and come out on top."

Homestead placed third with a score of 157 points, while Zionsville finished fourth with 166.

Noblesville placed fifth with 245 points; the Millers were led by junior Abi Little, who got an individual medal to go along with her team medal. Little finished in 14th place.

Noblesville had four runners finish in the top 52 in the team placings. Little scored 12 points, while seniors Kat Dombroski and Susanna Sharples-Gordon scored 35 and 50 points respectively. Sophie Reichard's 52 points helped the Millers keep their score low.

Fishers finished in eighth place with a score of 282 points. Sophomore Miya Wai led the Tigers by taking 35th; her team placing was 27 points. Sophomore Tessa Kraft scored 38 and freshman Abby Carter scored 39; those numbers allowed Fishers a finish in the top third of the team standings.

Westfield took 10th by scoring 312 points. The Shamrocks had a consistent day, with all of their first five runners scoring 81 points or less. Junior Gabby Dilick finished 32nd overall.

Guerin Catholic was 14th, with 370 points. Senior Megan Slamkowski placed 28th to lead the Golden Eagles.

Hamilton Southeastern had two individual runners in the race: Senior Sabrina Bippus earned a medal by taking 18th, while sophomore Lulu Black finished 57th.

In the boys race, Carmel finished as state runner-up to Fort Wayne Carroll, with the Chargers scoring 71 points to the Greyhounds' 117. Fishers earned another podium placing by taking fourth, and Hamilton Southeastern finished ninth, but had the individual runner-up in junior Gabe Fendel.

Carroll and Carmel were running close throughout the race, but the Chargers

JonBROWN for Judge

Paid for by the committee to elect Jon Brown.

"People rarely step foot in a courtroom, but when they do, they want to know the person sitting as judge will listen to what they have to say, treat them with respect, and make decisions that are fair and in compliance with Indiana law."

Jon Brown

When asked why he was running for judge, Jon had this to say:

"I have spent my legal career helping real Hoosiers with real problems. I have a strong work ethic and appreciate the difficulties and problems people face on a day-to-day basis. I have been blessed to practice law in courtrooms across the state for nearly twenty years and I look forward to putting my experience to use serving the taxpayers of Hamilton County"

Jon's Pledge

I can promise to the taxpayers of Hamilton County I will listen to what people have to say, treat all litigants with respect, and make decisions that are fair to the parties and adhere to Indiana law to the best of my ability.

My Story

A graduate of Indiana University, Jon moved to Noblesville in January 1997, and has been practicing law in Indiana since being admitted to the bar in 1998. Jon is experienced in the areas of civil litigation, bankruptcy, foreclosure defense, criminal law, and family law. Jon's career in public service got its start while serving as a public defender in Hancock County from 1999 to 2006.

Jon continues to serve his community, and can be found at times serving as Judge Pro Tem in the Fishers City Court, Superior Courts 2 and 4, and the Hamilton Circuit Court.

Thank you for your support and I hope I can earn your vote on Nov 8th.

With just two varsity players back...

New team, new identity for ‘Rocks

Senior Morgan Clary is one of only two returning varsity players for the Westfield girls basketball team this season. Clary and junior Sophia Kreag are part of a Shamrocks squad that coach Ginny Smith said is a “brand new team with a brand new identity.”

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor
If you're attending the Westfield girls basketball team's opening game against Northwestern Wednesday at The Rock, you may need a program.
The Shamrocks graduated their six top players from a very talented class last season - a group that played the vast majority of minutes. As a result, Westfield will have many new players on this year's team.
"The 2016-17 season will be a rebuilding year for the Lady Rocks," said second-year Westfield coach Ginny Smith. "This is a brand new team with a brand new identity."
The only two players that return for Westfield from last year's varsity are senior Morgan Clary and junior Sophia Kreag. Both played limited minutes last season, so they haven't gotten much time to build a stats portfolio yet. Kreag averaged 2.6 points per game last season, while Clary averaged 1.5 points. (Last year's Westfield seniors totaled 53.9 points per game).
Other players in the varsity mix for this season include senior Allison Dotson, juniors Ryann Bunting and Annabelle O'Hair, and sophomore Jade Shipley. Each of those players did get into some varsity games during last season, albeit for limited time.
While this may be a new team, Smith is pleased with both how hard her players are working, and how competitive they will be this season.
"The kids work incredibly hard and embrace the challenges they face," said Smith. "Our conference will be a true test as no games will be easy games. However, we feel we will be competitive in each outing, with the goal of getting better every time we take the floor."

Westfield plays its first three games at home. After Northwestern, the Shamrocks host Pendleton Heights on Saturday and Western Boone on Nov. 11.

Pacers fall to Bulls

By WHEAT HOTCHKISS

Courtesy nba.com/pacers

The Pacers dropped their second road game in as many nights on Saturday evening in Chicago. The Bulls (2-0) seized control of the contest with a 16-0 run in the second quarter and the Pacers (1-2) never recovered, as Chicago rolled to a 118-101 win.

The two Central Division rivals played a tightly contested first quarter in which neither team led by more than four points. But Chicago surged in front a few minutes into the second period, reeling off 16 unanswered points over a 3:02 stretch to open up a 19-point lead.

Pacers head coach Nate McMillan tried his best to stop the bleeding, calling a couple timeouts and re-inserting his starters into the game, but the Blue & Gold couldn't find any sort of rhythm. The Bulls stretched their lead to as many as 24 points over the closing minutes of the half.
