Following most of Sheriff Bowen's recommendations...

Commissioners approve county jail expansion

By FRED SWIFT
Hamilton County Commissioners, meeting in special session Monday, approved most of the recommendations proposed by Sheriff Mark Bowen and the County Council for expansion of the county jail and other renovations designed to accommodate an increasing inmate population.

The multi-million dollar upgrade estimated to be in the neighborhood of $12 million, would increase jail capacity to more than 500, and can likely be accomplished without a tax increase. The exact cost is yet to be determined, but is expected to be covered by either cash reserves or a bond issue.

Commissioners approved of adding cells to handle 240 more men in the jail, and convert the juvenile detention center to house female inmates. The plan also calls for updating the old juvenile center and moving detained juvenile back there where capacity is listed at 31.

In addition, plans include installing a kitchen facility in the Community Corrections work release center which currently has no kitchen.

Overall, the additions and improvements will necessitate hiring additional staff of at least 20 individuals at roughly $36,000 each, not including benefits.

The engineering firm of RQAW, specialists in jail design, has been engaged to draw up the plans for the construction. The current jail, built more than 20 years ago, is overcrowded. The increasing population of the county and changes in state mandated inmate housing requirements for counties are the main reasons for the expansion needs.

The County Council members favor the general concept of the improvements, but have only suggested beds for 120 more jail inmates. Commissioners feel the 240 is wise because it will allow for the predicted increase in needs whereas the 120 figure would only meet the current need.

The Council will consider funding the current plan when it meets this week. A bidding process will follow with construction anticipated early next year.

IMCU finalizes merger with All Seasons Federal Credit Union

Indiana Members Credit Union (IMCU), Central Indiana’s largest credit union, finalized a merger with All Seasons Federal Credit Union of Indianapolis, Indiana on Tuesday, November 1, 2016.

In February 2016, Carrier Corporation announced plans to close their manufacturing facility in Indianapolis, affecting approximately 2,100 employees. All Seasons Federal Credit Union maintained one branch, located inside the Carrier facility with membership made up entirely of Carrier employees. The merger allows these All Seasons Federal Credit Union members uninterrupted access to financial services at any of the twenty-five Indiana Members Credit Union locations across Central Indiana. Indiana Members Credit Union will also maintain the All Seasons staff.

Ron Collier, President and Chief Executive Officer of Indiana Members Credit Union, said, “We are pleased to welcome Carrier Corporation employees and All Seasons Federal Credit Union members to our family. Credit unions were founded on a people helping people philosophy. Assisting these employees through an extremely difficult time was the right thing to do.”

All Seasons Federal Credit Union was originally chartered on June 10, 1969 as Bryant Employees Federal Credit Union by a group of Bryant Heating and Cooling employees. The employees wanted to provide a place for their membership to save money while providing a resource for their members to borrow money at a reasonable rate of interest. On February 23, 1978, the name of the Credit Union was changed to BDP Employees Federal Credit Union. The name was then changed to the current name of All Seasons Federal Credit Union in 1989.

For account questions, the Carrier Branch can be reached at 317.240.5106. For all other questions related to the merger, please contact Nikki Thompson at 317.554.8150.

Noblesville may be young, but...

Expectations are still high for Millers

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

Don't let the relative youth of this year's Noblesville girls basketball team fool you.

These Millers have plenty of talent, and more experience than meets the eye. Three of the "older" players on the team, in fact, were part of a sectional championship team from two seasons ago, and played on last year's 23-5 team.

"We will be a little bit young but still have high expectations," said Noblesville coach Donna Buckley, who begins her ninth season as coach of the Millers Thursday when they host Lawrence North at The Mill.

This year, Noblesville has two seniors and two juniors. The seniors are Brooke Herron and Sam Salmon. Herron is a four-year varsity player who brings back 6.2 points per game. She also led the Millers in assists last season with 3.8 per contest. Salmon scored 2.6 points per game. Both are good at shooting 3-pointers; with Herron making 21 of them last year and Salmon hitting 15.

"Both should provide great leadership, shooting, and ball handling," said Buckley.

The two juniors include Emily Kiser, who Buckley said "is among the best players in the state." Coming off a solid volleyball season, the 6-3 Kiser returns the most points per game with 9.2, and the most rebounds with 8.0.

The other junior is Olivia Morales, who played a few varsity games for Noblesville last season, but was mostly on junior varsity. This year, Morales is on varsity full time, and Buckley said she "could be a huge spark for our team. She has a motor that never quits and is a great athlete."

Noblesville also has four sophomores on varsity this season: Maddie Knight, Mallory Johnson, Kaylin Mertens, and Madison Whetro. Knight and Johnson played in most of the varsity games last year, with Mertens and Whetro being mostly JV.

"We expect big things from that class," Buckley.

In addition, five freshmen will flip back and forth between the varsity and JV rosters this season.

After hosting the Wildcats on Thursday, Noblesville plays its next two games on the road, traveling to Fort Wayne Snider on Saturday and to Indianapolis Tech on Tuesday.

"Special" season for Carmel?

Dilk, Smith lead the way for 'Hounds

By RICHIE HALL

Reporter Sports Editor

The goals are high for this year's Carmel girls basketball team.

The Greyhounds have only one senior this season, but they have two very good juniors, a transfer player from a team that knows how to win, and a freshman that's already receiving a Division I college offer.

"I believe this team can do some special things this season if we defend and rebound the basketball," said Carmel coach Tod Windlan, who enters his third season as coach of the 'Hounds.

The senior is Olivia Christy, who brings back 5.5 points per game. Windlan calls Christy Carmel's "best defender," and is always guarding the best player of the opponent.

Bringing back the bulk of last year's scoring are the two juniors, Amy Dilk and Blake Smith, both of whom are receiving D-I offers as well. Dilk was last year's leading scorer for Carmel, with 12.2 points per game. She also had 5.3 rebounds, 4.3 assists and 3.3 steals.

"I believe Amy is the best guard point guard in the state," said Windlan. The coach said that Dilk "is a great ball handler and passer and has worked hard this off season," and has also become a very good 3-point shooter.

Smith, who stands 6-3, averaged 9.5 points, 6.2 rebounds and 2.3 blocks per game.

"Blake has tremendous potential to become a dominant player at both ends of the court," said Windlan, who thinks Smith will have a breakout season for Carmel.

Another junior certain to make an impact is Tomi Taiwo, who transferred from Homestead - a team which has won the regional two years in a row. Windlan called Taiwo "a nice outside shooter and very good off the dribble." The coach also said that Taiwo's "length on defense fits well in our system," and that she has Division I offers as well.

Jasmine McWilliams is another newcomer who will be a key player for the Greyhounds. A 5-11 freshman, McWilliams has already received an offer from the University of Kentucky. Windlan said McWilliams gives Carmel "a strong physical presence that we much need, she is a very gifted and talented player who can score inside and out."

If that wasn't enough, sophomore Mackenzie Wood is receiving D-I offers, too. Wood is 6-2 and Windlan said she "will provide a physical presence who can score inside and step out and hit the '3,'" and that "when she plays with confidence she can be a dominant player" as well.

Other players on the varsity squad include juniors Molly Gillig and Anna

Kmec, sophomores Sophie Bair, Macy Berglund and Reagan Hune ("best athlete on the team," said Windlan), and freshman Maddi Sears.

Carmel opens its season Thursday with a Metropolitan Conference game against

Lawrence Central at the Eric Clark Activity Center. After that, the Greyhounds go on the road for four straight games against Pendleton Heights, defending Class 3A

Judge

Paid for by the committee to elect Jon Brown.

"People rarely step foot in a courtroom, but when they do, they want to know the person sitting as judge will listen to what they have to say, treat them with respect, and make decisions that are fair and in compliance with Indiana law."

Jon Brown

When asked why he was running for judge, Jon had this to say:

"I have spent my legal career helping real Hoosiers with real problems. I have a strong work ethic and appreciate the difficulties and problems people face on a day-to-day basis. I have been blessed to practice law in courtrooms across the state for nearly twenty years and I look forward to putting my experience to use serving the taxpayers of Hamilton County"

Jon's Pledge

I can promise to the taxpayers of Hamilton County I will listen to what people have to say, treat all litigants with respect, and make decisions that are fair to the parties and adhere to Indiana law to the best of my ability.

My Story

A graduate of Indiana University, Jon moved to Noblesville in January 1997, and has been practicing law in Indiana since being admitted to the bar in 1998. Jon is experienced in the areas of civil litigation, bankruptcy, foreclosure defense, criminal law, and family law. Jon's career in public service got its start while serving as a public defender in Hancock County from 1999 to 2006.

Jon continues to serve his community, and can be found at times serving as Judge Pro Tem in the Fishers City Court, Superior Courts 2 and 4, and the Hamilton Circuit Court.

Thank you for your support and I hope I can earn your vote on Nov 8th.

George's shooting helps Pacers hold off Lakers

By GREG RAPPAPORT
Courtesy nba.com/pacers

In a game in which the Pacers had held a 16-point lead, the atmosphere at Bankers Life Fieldhouse suddenly grew tense when Lou Williams hit a stepback 3-pointer from the corner to pull the Lakers within two points of the lead, 96-94, with just over six minutes left in the game.

The Pacers had lost a lead in their opener against Dallas, yet won out in overtime. They lost a lead in Brooklyn, but never managed to recover. However, on their home floor on Tuesday night, Paul George lifted the Pacers with timely deadeye shooting to grab a 115-108 win over the Lakers.

With 3:50 remaining, Lou Williams hit on an and-1, sinking the the free throw to bring the Lakers within one. On the next play, Larry Nance Jr. hammered home a dunk to give the Lakers their first lead since the early minutes of the first quarter.

Trailing 106-105, Pacers head coach Nate McMillan called a timeout in an attempt to steady his starting unit. On the next three offensive possessions, Paul George sank jumpers from the wings, sending the crowd into frenzy when his third one fell in to give the Pacers a 111-108 lead with 1:08 remaining in the game.

On the other end of the floor, George went straight up to contest a layup attempt at the rim from Jordan Clarkson. The Lakers guard missed the shot and George recovered the loose ball, and was subsequently fouled, giving Indiana possession with 32 seconds remaining.

With the Lakers' odds of winning dimming, they elected to foul George to stop the clock, but PG hit all four of his late free throws to seal the game and reach the 30-point mark. George scored the Pacers' final 12 points in a spectacular close out performance, giving the Pacers an important win on their home floor.

"I just had an opportunity to try to win the game for us and took advantage of it," explained George after the game. "I thought the matchups, they had me matched up against a point guard, were something that Nate saw and he called the plays for me. I knew I had to continue to be aggressive, especially since I felt they would guard me the same way."

The night got off to a peculiar start when the game clock froze after tipoff, but the Pacers got things moving with Thaddeus Young pushing the tempo in transition. Young scored seven of the Pacers' first 12 points, including a fastbreak layup assisted by Jeff Teague. He finished the night with 14 points on 6-of-8 shooting.
