Local high school students gain government insight at the...

Luke Kenley Leadership Conference

Local high school students recently got a behind-the-scenes look at state government during the 2016 Luke Kenley Leadership Conference held at the Indiana Statehouse.

State Sen. Luke Kenley (R-Noblesville) annually invites high school junior and senior student leaders to his conference in Indianapolis. This year, 17 students from 10 area high schools participated in the 19th annual conference.

Students participated in several panels, including one with current and former legislators including State Sen. Greg Taylor (D-Indianapolis), former State Sen. Patricia Miller, and Rep. Donna Schaibley (R-Carmel).

Participants also heard from reporters who cover the Indiana General Assembly. Chelsea Schneider with the Indianapolis Star, Lesley Weidenbener from the Indianapolis Business Journal, and Jim Shella, recently retired from WISH TV, shared their experiences covering the legislature and offered their perspectives on media, technology and the ever-changing field of journalism.

"I started this program as a way to connect young leaders with public servants in order to help students understand the critical role of state government, and how they can be involved as future leaders," Kenley said. "It's encouraging to meet with these young, bright students in our community and know how passionate they are about providing solutions for issues facing Hoosiers."

In total, 17 students selected by their principals attended and were honored with certificates of achievement for completing the leadership conference:

- Grace Dean and Veronica VanBuskirk from Noblesville High School
- Emma Feeney and William Smith from Sheridan High School
- Cooper Fettes and Mathilda Martin from Guerin Catholic High School

- Cameron Grace and Tyler Grace from Fishers High School
- Riley Jordan and Lauryn Martin from Hamilton Heights High School
- Zach Mutchner and Abby Stansberry from Hamilton Southeastern High School
- Jude Phillips from Westfield High School
- Michael Pitz from Carmel High School
- Hannah Chinn from Lapel High School
- Madison Rastetter and Hector Tinoco from Frankton Jr./Sr. High School

Students also participated in a breakout session at the conference where they discussed what they believe are the most important issues facing the state of Indiana. The list included education, college affordability, pharmaceutical pricing and drug abuse prevention.

Noblesville Shop with a Cop program

Noblesville Police Officer Brandon Brooks makes his way from shoes to winter clothes with a Shop with a Cop participant inside the Noblesville Meijer store Saturday.

The 19th annual Shop with a Cop program, led by the Noblesville Fraternal Order of Police Lodge No. 198, was held Saturday, Dec. 3 at the Noblesville Meijer store, 17000 Mercantile Blvd. This program provides underprivileged children in Noblesville and Noblesville Township with warm clothing to help them get through the winter months.

NPD Cpt. Jon Williams, who has coordinated the program every year since it began, said the Shop with a Cop participants - infants to 16 year olds - come from a holiday assistance list given to the Noblesville F.O.P. by Nancy Chance of Good Samaritan Network or from recommendations of police officers. This year, the event assisted 76 children.

"It's an opportunity to see in real time a positive impact in the community," said Williams. "All of the officers have been called to negative situations. We like to think as police officers that in the larger scheme, we are making the world a better place. For this one to two hours timeframe you are making a difference that lasts alot longer than this singular event."

The children selected to participate in the program went shopping with their parent/guardian as well as a uniformed Noblesville police officers to pick out winter clothes including coats, gloves, shirts, pants, boots, underwear and pajamas. Because the event is held before the holidays, each child is given the opportunity to select a toy as well.

Noblesville Schools participates in Hour of Code

Noblesville Schools has been participating this week in Hour of Code, a global initiative to promote computer coding. The district offers coding opportunities at all grade levels and schools throughout the year, but this week the schools really put it in the spotlight.

Noble Crossing Elementary has developed a girl-specific coding club that was recognized by the State of Indiana as a best education practice. Coding clubs for boys are also offered. The emphasis for girls is important, as historically more boys have been engaged in coding. The gender-specific effort is designed to expose girls to computer science at an early age and get them excited about it as a career possibility.

Janus Developmental Services exceeds Giving Tuesday goal

Giving Tuesday, a day that is set aside specifically for individuals to donate to non-profit organizations, was a huge success at Janus Developmental Services this year. The organization set a $10,000 goal for Giving Tuesday, which took place on Nov. 29, the first Tuesday after Thanksgiving. Janus donors exceeded that goal, contributing $11,205. What's more, an anonymous donor matched and donated an additional $10,000, making the total donation $21,205.

"I want to personally thank everyone who contributed to Janus and helped us to meet our goal," said Debbie Laird, Vice President of Development and Transportation at Janus. "The kindness and generosity of many will make a big difference in the lives of the people we serve."

Always in Stitches hosting Winter Break Sewing Camp

When the holiday break is winding down and kids are asking what they can do, how about suggesting they learn to sew?

Winter Break Sewing Camp, which takes place from 1 to 3 p.m. Jan. 3-5 at Always In Stitches, will teach 10- to 12-year-olds sewing basics as they make a drawstring bag, pillowcase and sewing caddy. They'll learn a variety of stitches, how to operate a sewing machine and how to care for a machine using a rental (included in the fee) from the shop, located at 1808 E. Conner St. Everything they need for the project -- fabric, notions and sewing tools -- is provided in the $145.99 registration.

"Sewing is becoming a lost art, especially among children and teens, yet it remains a practical, money-saving skill they will use throughout their lives," said Ruth Middleton, the former preschool teacher and experienced sewist that will lead the camp. "It was common in my childhood for mothers to teach their children how to sew, and I taught my children. But that's uncommon now. Young adults no longer know how to fix a hem, replace a button or sew on a patch."

Registration is open at www.alwaysinstitches1.com/module/class.htm?classId=174483, in the shop or via phone, (317) 776-4227. Enrollment is limited to six campers to allow for one-on-one instruction.

SHOP

Lodge President Sgt. Jamie Aloisio said 19 officers and 15 family members assisted with the event.

"The turnout has been great. Officers see it as another way to give back to the community," he said. "It's also been great for our families to see us interact with the public. So many shoppers have come up and thanked us for our service. We have such a supportive community and it's wonderful that our families can see that since they aren't with us every day."

To assist the annual Shop with a Cop program, those who would like to donate are asked to make checks payable to "NFOP Lodge #198" and write "Shop with a Cop" in the check's memo line. Checks should be mailed to: Shop With A Cop; Noblesville FOP 198; P.O. Box 2013; Noblesville, IN 46061-2013. Please note that donations to this program are tax deductible as a charitable contribution and 100 percent of the money raised goes toward supporting this program. For more information, contact Cpt. Jon Williams at (317) 770-5754 or jwilliams@noblesville.in.us or Sgt. Jamie Aloisio at jaloisio@noblesville.in.us.

Bias in article about County Council

As a 20 year incumbent County Council member who was re-elected to another 4 year term, it appears to me there is a distinct bias against the County Council's perspective in the repeated columns authored by Fred Swift.

Today's version started off by stating "... assuming County Commissioners and the County Council can reach agreement , no small task for our local government."

This is absolutely slanted against the County Council in that he insinuates that it is the unreasonable obstacle to the plans of the County Commissioners; when instead we are asking basic questions and performing our fiduciary role involving taxpayers' monies.

The County Council has only voted down ONE major project in 20 years...That should be viewed as a fantastic success rate and one which should be celebrated, rather than criticized. In fact, Hamilton County government, as a whole, not solely the Commissioners, have received repeated accolades and awards from outside groups for cooperative efforts.

In addition, Mr. Swift is astute in his observation that construction and engineering firms are eager for these projects to be approved: they have invested hundreds of thousands of dollars in campaign contributions to the County Commissioners who will make the decisions as to whom receives the County's contracts.

But he is rather presumptuous with his outlook on tax rates and whether or not projects will be funded with bonds, cash reserves or a mixture of the two. Those decisions belong to the County Council and I am doubtful he has spoken with a majority to determine their point of view.

Finally, it is a fact that, without the cooperation of the County Council in granting the appropriations requested, the Commissioners could not award one single contract... not one.

Finch Park project is too expensive

Wow. Lots of $$$ when city had no $$$ and needed residents to pay for trash pickup. This back door deal was passed so they could spend COIT windfall on raises ,additional employees, etc., and now the selling of park ground previously sold/given to city for a park for an expensive play ground that may attract only a few. How about one person being in charge of all diamonds and fields which would allow for maximum utilization of resources before another TIF regarding a large complex that won't be affordable to the majority of taxpayers. Recall we have schools and other government agencies that have facilities that should be made available for use. And how about consulting with Fishers or the Carmel Dads club about the maximizing of use issues!

Finch Creek is a new name for this park and what happened to the master plan or the Village concept studied in prior years. What happened to the water runoff issues? One could easily go on and on about this proposal. Too expensive and not needed!

By MARY SUE ROWLAND
December 7, 1941

Just before 8 am local time on December 7, 1941. The Imperial Japanese Navy fighter planes attacked the American base at Pearl Harbor near Honolulu, Hawaii killing more than 2300 Americans. Nearly 360 Japanese planes attack the American Navy ships and personal docked in port at Pearl Harbor.

United States Casualties:
Marine Corp - 178 casualties (109 deaths and 69 wounded)
Navy - 2718 casualties (1208 deaths and 710 wounded)
Army - 341 casualties (228 deaths and 113 wounded)
Civilians - 57 killed and many wounded

The Japanese sank or severely damaged 18 US ships including 8 battleships, three light cruisers, three destroyers, one aircraft training ship and one minelayer. On the air fields, 161 US planes destroyed and 102 severely damaged. The Japanese lost 29 planes and 55 airmen. The attack was a complete surprise due to miscommunication by the United States.

December 8th, 1941
President Franklin D. Roosevelt asked Congress to declare a state of war between the US and Japan. The Senate voted 82-0 in favor and the House 388-1 in favor to declare World War II. Three days later Germany and Italy declared war against the United States. The war lasted four years at a cost of 400,000 American lives. World War II took 50 to 80 million lives in total or 3% of the worlds people estimated at 2.3 billion at the time.

It is a date, December 7, 1941, "which will live in infamy" is the statement made by the President. World War II touched all lives around the world.

Carmel-Westfield girls basketball...

‘Hounds take over in the second half

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

As everyone knows, rankings and records go out the window in a county rivalry basketball game.

The Carmel and Westfield girls battled Tuesday at The Rock, and the Shamrocks gave the Class 4A No. 3 Greyhounds all they could handle in the first half. Carmel was able to get going in the second half, though, rolling through the third and fourth quarters to come away with a 76-36 victory. The 'Hounds are now 8-1, while Westfield is 4-5.

Carmel led throughout the first half, but was never able to break away from the 'Rocks, who kept within a margin of two to seven points throughout the half. Tomi Taiwo's 3-pointer put the Greyhounds ahead 7-2, but Sophia Kreag answered with a 3 for Westfield, and that was pretty much the pattern for the half.

Carmel ended the first quarter with two quick baskets by Amy Dilk to get ahead 14-7. But Emily Katter made a 3-point play in the first minute of the second period. Both teams traded baskets in the period, with Ryann Bunting scoring five points for Westfield, and Olivia Christy making a 3 for Carmel. The half ended with the 'Hounds up 23-19.

In the second half, Carmel outscored the Shamrocks 53-17. Dilk and Christy hit back-to-back 3s to open the third period, forcing Westfield to take a timeout. Jade Shipley's basket cut the Carmel lead to 29-21, but the Greyhounds sailed through the quarter, with Taiwo making back-to-back 3s of her own, and Dilk scoring six straight points at one point.

"We changed some kids that we were playing, went to a smaller lineup," said Carmel coach Tod Windlan. "I thought our kids played with a purpose in the second half. In the first half, I didn't think we were playing with any, I thought we were just out there. Westfield's in a rebuilding stage this year, and I thought her kids played extremely hard."

Bunting's basket ended the third period, and the score was 51-28 Carmel. The Greyhounds then scored 20 points in a row to open the fourth period; Blake Smith had 10 of those points.

"The lanes started opening up because we got better spacing, and we were able to attack into the lane and get some rim layups," said Windlan. "I thought our full-court pressure really started bothering them with a smaller lineup."

Dilk wound up with 21 points and also handed out four assists. Taiwo scored 15 points, including three 3-pointers. Christy's two 3s were part of her 13 points, and Smith added 12 points; she and Jasmine McWilliams both pulled five rebounds. Reagan Hune made four steals.

Bunting led Westfield with 11 points. Annabelle O'Hair grabbed five rebounds.

Both teams are back in action Friday night. Carmel hosts Brownsburg, while the Shamrocks welcome Zionsville in a Hoosier Crossroads Conference game.

Renowned and respected for his contributions to astronomy, he was the namesake of the Hubble Telescope launched into space in 1990.

Following selection as a 1977 Indiana All-Star, he enrolled at Indiana University, where he was part of two Big Ten Conference champions, three NCAA tournament teams, the 1979 NIT champions and 1981 NCAA National Championship team. Following a professional career in Italy, he served in the office of then- U.S. Senator Dan Quayle, followed by a 24-year career with Pfizer Pharmaceuticals.

The Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame’s 56th annual Men’s Awards Banquet will be held on Wednesday, March 22, 2017.
