Two arrested in Westfield homicide

The Westfield Police Department has arrested two men for the fatal beating of 24 year old Westfield resident Cory Zimmer.

Police say Joseph Coccaro IV, 22, Westfield and Shakka Brogdon, 22, Indianapolis face a number of charges including involuntary manslaughter resulting from a possible drug deal gone bad.

Zimmer was found laying in a parking lot of an apartment complex on Gunther Boulevard Wednesday afternoon with multiple injuries to his face and head.

Coccaro has been charged with Involuntary Manslaughter, 2 counts of Aggravated Battery, Intimidation and Dealing in Marijuana. Brogdon has been charged with Involuntary Manslaughter and two counts of Aggravated Battery.

The Westfield Police Department was assisted in the investigation by the Hamilton County Sheriff's Department, Hamilton County Prosecutor's Office and the Hamilton County Coroner's Office.

Love means sharing the remote

By JANET HART LEONARD

It was Friday night. IU wasn't playing basketball, neither was Butler. The major colleges were not filling ESPN or any other cable channels with football games.

It's not just my husband who loves college sports...I do too.

Chuck handed me the remote. Here Honey, you decide what we want to watch. Really? Bless his heart. He knew Fixer Upper wasn't on HGTV. He knew "We are Us" is only on Tuesday evening. That meant, A Hallmark Movie! A Christmas one!

Chuck would read his book and glance up to watch a little at a time. Next thing I knew he was totally engrossed in the sappy, schmaltzy, gooey sweetness of a happily ever after Hallmark Movie.

He asked me, "does it always have a happy ending?" I answered, "oh yes, but there will be misunderstandings. The guy will misinterpret something he thinks he sees. The girl will be afraid to fall in love. The guy will hesitate to tell her that he loves her. The daughter of the guy will ask Santa for her Dad to fall in love."

Forty children treated to a shopping trip during...

Shop for Kids in Hamilton County

BELOW: Hamilton County Sheriff's Department officers escorted 40 children from the Sheriff's Department to Target in Fishers.

Santa's helpers at the Sheriff's Office were a busy crew on Saturday morning as the 9th Annual Shop for Kids event took place in Hamilton County. With a goal of creating positive interactions between law enforcement and the community, Shop for Kids helps provide economically disadvantaged youth in the area with a brighter holiday season. This year, 40 children from around the county were treated to a shopping trip at Target.

The day started with doughnuts, milk, and juice at the Sheriff's Office while kids and Sheriff's Office employees met and got to know each other. Deputy Todd Green, president of Shop for Kids, worked through the Good Samaritan Network to find deserving families that were then paired up with members of the Sheriff's Office who volunteered their time to shop with the children. Many parents and guardians seemed as excited as the kids and were thankful for the holiday assistance as finances were tight for many reasons. Some families had experienced a lack of employment while others had medical bills and other issues that threatened to dampen the holiday spirit.

Dozens of squad cars with lights flashing and sirens wailing stretched down the road as the kids were treated to a special ride from the Sheriff's Office to the Target in Fishers. Motorists pulled aside and others stopped to look at the caravan but what they couldn't see were the excited faces of the children who eagerly anticipated the day. Especially for the younger children, the ride seemed almost as special as the shopping.

Once at Target, each child received $130 to spend. Many chose necessities such as coats, gloves, boots, and school supplies that would otherwise not have been available to them. Everyone shopped for at least some toys and personal items from a holiday wish list. Carts were heaped to overflowing as the

Nickel Plate owner could invite potential operators to use rail line

By FRED SWIFT

The Hoosier Heritage Port Authority, owner of the Nickel Plate Railroad in Hamilton County, will likely soon invite interested potential operators of rail service to submit proposals for using the rail line. In recent years the only operator on the line is the non-profit Indiana Transportation Museum and it cannot currently run its trains because of safety concerns.

In their January meeting the port authority will give consideration to issuing a request for proposals (RFP) to any number of parties interested in operating the railroad, according to the port authority's attorney Anne Poindexter. This could include the transportation museum, but others have also apparently showed interest.

A big problem for anyone involved is a looming cost of more than $3 million to make the rail bed safe and also connect it to an existing railroad at Tipton. The needs for upgrading comes from an inspector hired by the port authority.

At the present time the local section of the Nickel Plate ends to the north short of a connection in Tipton and ends on the south at 10th Street in Indianapolis. Without a connection to other rail lines, the local track would not be valuable to long distance

Indiana's bicentennial is today

By FRED SWIFT

It was 200 years ago today that Indiana became the 19th state of the union. A bicentennial celebration has been underway all year, and Hamilton County has done its part. Brenda Myers and her staff at the county Visitor and Convention Bureau took the lead in bicentennial activities and has done an outstanding job.

The object of the celebration locally has been to bring to the public's attention the historic events and personalities who made our county what it is today. And, certainly there have been events here that greatly contributed to the state's 200 years of progress.

From the important meeting at William Conner's home where state officials met in 1820 to choose the site of the new state capital to the present-day achievements in cultural, educational, recreational and commercial opportunities, few if any counties can boast of more historic success than Hamilton County.

In 1816 our portion of Indiana was a forested wilderness. A few hundred American Indians and perhaps a handful of Anglo fur traders were the only residents. But, in only one generation that followed there was dramatic change. By 1850 about 15,000 settlers were here mostly involved in farming. They cut down most of the forest, built early roads, started most of our present towns and had educational, religious and commercial centers underway.

Given the primitive tools and methods of the time, the progress was phenomenal. From today's perspective we may question some of the policies employed in dislocating the native population, clearing of the forests and other actions, but our ancestors were flooding into new territory and seeing the need to feed, house and otherwise accommodate a growing nation.

Then, from the time of the Civil War to the end of World War II, Hamilton County and most of rural Indiana did not grow a great deal in population. The county had only about 9,000 more residents in 1950 than it had in 1865. But, it wasn't long before the current explosive growth began. Now we find the southern half of the county mostly urbanized and no end to the growth and development in sight. This change has brought problems, but also great improvements.

How fortunate we are to live in a state and county that have progressed so rapidly. While much of the Third World is still struggling to advance from primitive conditions, Indiana and especially Hamilton County offer the best standard of living in the world.

We can only wonder and never know what the next 200 years will bring, but we can celebrate those who have brought us this far, and be grateful that we live here and now.

children experienced the magic of the Christmas season. After shopping, Target provided treats from the snack bar for each child.

While shopping with the kids is enjoyable by itself, members of the Sheriff's Office hope the positive interaction between officers and families lasts well beyond the day. With many recent national controversies, it has been a tough time to be employed in law enforcement but activities such as Shop for Kids helps the community see officers in a different light and hopefully helps bridge any gap between the community and the agency.

Funds for the Shop for Kids program are raised through efforts of Sheriff's Office employees throughout the year as no tax dollars are used in the event. Each year more than $5,000 is required and is provided through donations from local businesses and individuals as well as by members of the agency. Shop for Kids wishes to thank everyone who made the day a success.

operators. This has not been a problem for the museum trains which generally went only as far south as the State Fairgrounds and as far north as Atlanta.

For more than 20 years transportation museum volunteer personnel have operated excursion trains such as the popular Fairtrain and the Polar Bear Express during the Christmas season. But, earlier this year the port authority suspended the museum's permit to run because of reported safety problems.

The future of the transportation museum is unknown. It's board of directors, involved in an internal dispute, is seeking a declaratory judgment in court to establish who will legitimately run the organization. The group does not have sufficient money to pay for repairs, but is seeking ways to raise funds, according to board president Jeffrey Kehler.

In the meantime, there will be no trains this holiday season. This concerns the Visitor and Tourism organization along with some businesses along the rail route which consider the excursion trains as a day-trip tourist attraction.

Behind the scenes there will be friends and family cheering them on, while others will be plotting to keep the couple apart. But in the end everything will fall into place and the camera will catch them gazing romantically into each other's eyes. Then it will begin snowing and, of course, there will be a kiss.

There is no denying most women love a good Hallmark movie where the couple lives happily ever after. A wise and caring husband will hand over the remote and indulge his wife with a couple of hours of a predictable, romantic movie.

He will offer to make dinner since she has been Christmas shopping all afternoon. Then, if his wife needs gas in her car, he will brave the cold to go to the gas station.

Sometimes reality is even better than the movies. You see I have learned a lot from these sappy movies.

Time, well spent, is a gift. Live in the moment. Listen with your heart. Always remember why you fell in love.

And when IU or Butler or a major college team is playing, hand over the remote to your husband. Yes, love means sharing the remote. That's an easy way to show my husband that I love him. Ok, so it's pretty easy when I love basketball and football too. I even have gotten into watching golf. Tennis? Well, sometimes the remote "gets lost."

Monitor weather, road conditions before you travel

The National Weather Service is forecasting a winter storm that will cause a variety of challenging conditions for motorists. Winter weather advisories have been declared for counties along Lake Michigan and Indiana’s northern border.

As motorists travel north, rain will transition to wintry mix then snow, with higher snow totals forecast for northern Indiana. Precise locations, timing and accumulations of rain, snow and ice will depend on the exact track of the storm system and temperatures.

Weather forecasts continue to develop, and the Indiana Department of Transportation (INDOT) will continue monitoring forecasted and current conditions in order to deploy its yellow trucks ahead of snowfall and freezing temperatures.

Drivers often aren’t prepared for winter driving - especially early in the season - and forget to take it slow. The first snow events of the season typically bring higher rates of crashes and slide-offs as motorists get re-accustomed to driving in winter weather.

- Reduce speeds. Remember, "ice and snow, take it slow." Nobody should be driving summer interstate speeds in winter weather. Plan plenty of time to reach your destination safely and be patient. Don't put yourself and others in a dangerous situation by being in a rush.
- Keep a safe distance. Make sure your vehicle is following at a safe distance to stop. Do not tailgate, especially around snow plows, and try not to pass. Give snowplows room to work, and "don't crowd the plow."
- Pay attention. Avoid all distractions and focus only on the task of driving safely. Be aware of your surroundings, drive defensively and be alert for others who are not driving safely.

INDOT urges everyone with weekend travel plans to Know Before You Go. Continue to monitor developing weather forecasts and road conditions for the latest updates before deciding to drive.

The National Weather Service offers an easy and convenient graphical forecast tool at digital.weather.gov.

INDOT offers links to many winter weather resources, including road condition information and winter driving safety tips, at winter.indot.in.gov.

Subscribe to receive text and email alerts about INDOT projects and services at <http://bit.ly/INDOTsubscription>.

Millers come back, beat Anderson

By RICHIE HALL
Reporter Sports Editor

Noblesville got itself a comeback victory Saturday night, turning a late eight-point deficit into a 49-46 win over Anderson at The Mill.

The Millers trailed 37-29 with 6:21 left in the game, but slowly started to work their way back during the middle stage of the fourth quarter. Baskets by Corby Mertens, Max Flinchum and McGwire Plumer (who also made two foul shots) kept Noblesville within 41-37 with four minutes to go.

Then, the Millers suddenly took the lead. Ginther converted a pair of free throws, and Rico Duncan drained a 3-pointer to get Noblesville ahead 42-41. The Indians' JoMel Boyd answered with a layin to push Anderson back up by one, but the Millers responded: Mertens made another layin, and then Duncan scored off a steal, and Noblesville was up 46-43.

Raphael Williams made three free throws to tie the game at 46-all, and Ginther's foul shot put the Millers up 47-46. Noblesville was able to hang on to the lead, with Duncan sealing the game by making two more free throws with 6.2 seconds left.

"It showed growth in our team," said Millers coach Brian McCauley. "Against Indianapolis Howe, we had a five-point lead with under a minute and had the ball. They hit a 3, we turned it over, they hit another 3, game over. So I was really pleased with how our guys showed a lot of resiliency tonight.

"We were down eight points in the fourth quarter, and that's not easy to do to come back. Our guys showed a lot of effort, a lot of mental and physical toughness to value each possession and take it one possession at a time. I think we scored on eight of our last nine possessions."

It was an exciting end to a game where both teams were fired up: Anderson was looking for its first win and Noblesville wanted to bounce back from a Friday loss. The Millers came out ready to play, scoring the game's first six points. Ginther made two layins and Flinchum had one.

Noblesville led 14-10 at the end of the first quarter. The Indians started to make a run in the second period, taking a 18-17 lead midway through. Flinchum's 3-pointer gave the advantage back to the Millers, who hung on to a 24-23 lead at halftime.

Anderson moved back ahead in the middle of the third quarter, and used a 7-0 run that straddled the third and fourth periods to take a 37-29 lead. But Noblesville would outscore the Indians 20-9 in the game's final six minutes, turning up the defensive intensity when they needed to.

"We had to, and I'm proud of them," said McCauley. "We had to be more aggressive. That was productive. When we got down, we were able to increase the tempo and force Anderson into some lower percentage shots."

Ginther finished the game with 15 points, while Flinchum scored 10. Ryan Barnes pulled six rebounds, with Plumer grabbing five. Plumer also handed out seven assists.

Noblesville is now 2-3 and plays at Hoosier Crossroads Conference opponent Westfield on Friday.

Golden Eagles win thriller at Muncie Fieldhouse

Luke Godfrey hit two free throws with 18.9 seconds to give Guerin Catholic a 51-50 win in boys basketball at Muncie Central Saturday night.

In a game that saw eight lead changes and four ties, Guerin Catholic (2-3) held its' biggest lead of the night, 44-35, after sophomore Kian Sills nailed a 3-pt. field goal from the top of the key to end the third quarter. But the Bearcats came roaring back, forcing a plethora of GC turnovers and rode a 15-3 run to take a 50-47 lead.

With 1:09 left junior Zach Munson's baseline drive and field goal cut the Muncie Central lead to 50-49 before a defensive stop returned the ball to the Golden Eagles. The Bearcats fouled the sophomore Godfrey, who calmly hit both free throw attempts. Muncie Central had two shots to win the contest in the last five seconds but solid defense prevailed for Coach Pete Smith's squad.

"We showed as much grit as I've seen us show so far this season," said Smith. "Central's full court pressure and quickness forced us into 18 turnovers, but we came back in the end and found a way to win it. We played a couple stretches of good basketball tonight, and some really, really bad stretches. A win like this though can galvanize us as we approach next weekend's games." Smith's team hosts 4A No. 3-rated Lawrence North Friday night before traveling to Lafayette Jeff on Saturday night.

Howard, Halbleib lead UHS past Liberty Christian

The University Trailblazers rode the one-two punch of David Howard (21 points, six rebounds) and Emerson Halbleib (18 points, seven rebounds) to a 57-42 win over Liberty Christian in a battle of state ranked Class 1A teams.

Coach Brandon Lafferman's Trailblazers, ranked sixth in this week's Associated Press poll held the tenth ranked Lions to just 17 second half points to notch their fourth straight win and improve to 5-1 on the season.

"This was a game we knew we had to win to have a chance to win our conference" said Lafferman. "It is a tough game on the back end of two game weekend against a good team that plays as hard as Liberty does." Saturday's game was the first of three straight games against Pioneer Academic Athletic Conference East Division teams.

University will play at Muncie Burris on Friday and then take on Seton Catholic at Banker's Life Fieldhouse on December 21.

"We started slow on defense, but we were much better in the second half. I thought we played well on offense the entire game" continued Lafferman. "David Howard had his best game of the season. We shared the ball well as we usually do."

Halbleib led University with three assists while Howard and Josh Watson had two each.

Howard helped University get off to a strong start, scoring ten points to help the Blazers to a 16-8 lead late in the quarter.

Liberty Christian ran off seven straight points to take a 17-16 lead before a Halbleib rebound basket and free throw put University back in front. After the Lions tied the game at 19, University took the lead for good on a Ethan Sickels three pointer off a feed from Halbleib. Howard added five quick points before a Sickels three pointer gave University a 30-25 halftime lead.
