News briefs...

Sen. Kenley back at work after hospitalization

By FRED SWIFT

State Sen. Luke Kenley (R-Noblesville) was released Wednesday morning after being checked out at Methodist Hospital. On Tuesday he experienced dizziness while at the Statehouse. Kenley, one of the most influential members of the state legislature, has represented the Noblesville area for 24 years. He was back at work in the Senate on Wednesday.

Laura Campbell, chairwoman of the Hamilton County Republican Party, announced Tuesday that she will run for re-election in the party's March 4 reorganization. She won the chairmanship last year in a bruising contest with Pete Peterson who is treasurer of the county GOP committee. There has been no indication that Peterson will try again for the county party's top spot.

The popular Purdue Glee Club will perform January 20 in the Noblesville High School auditorium. The show begins at 7 p.m. The glee club has performed at numerous venues around the nation for 115 years. Musical selections range from contemporary hits to gospel, jazz and patriotic numbers.

Hamilton County Commissioners this week approved a contract with United Consulting Engineers for inspection of all county bridges. The 2017-20 inspection period will tell officials which bridges are in need of repair or replacement. The regular periodic inspections are designed to catch problems before the motoring public is endangered by an unsafe bridge.

Carmel's annual Taste of Chamber is scheduled for January 19 at the Ritz Charles banquet center. The event features food tasting from many of the 145 exhibitors. The popular community event runs from 4:30 through 7:30 p.m.

Several Hamilton County residents will be attending the presidential inauguration January 20 in Washington. The Reporter would appreciate getting an emailed photo of local interest from anyone attending the ceremony, the parade or the Indiana ball. A photo for use in the Reporter can be sent to fts1942@gmail.com.

Noblesville Main Street's Second Saturday Songwriters Showcase is set for this Saturday, the 14th, at the Logan Street Sanctuary, 1274 Logan St. The concert begins at 7 p.m. Besides the musical presentations, there will be a raffle and light refreshments for guests and performers.

Green Circle Health opening client services center in Carmel

Green Circle Health, a provider of health care management and wellness platforms designed to empower families to make healthier lifestyle decisions and improve outcomes, announced plans to locate its Client Services Center in Carmel, creating up to 125 new jobs by 2022.

"Green Circle Health had its choice of many states to locate its new Client Services Center, but it chose Indiana for a reason," said Governor Eric Holcomb. "Over the last decade, Indiana has built the most affordable, growth-oriented business climate in the country. As a result, tech-enabled health firms like Green Circle Health are thriving in Indiana, taking full advantage of Hoosiers' education, skills and drive for innovation. It's only fitting that Green Circle Health joins this growing industry here in Indiana, and we welcome them."

The Pensacola, Florida-based company will invest nearly $1 million to lease and furnish office space in Indiana over the next five years. The company opened an initial 1,000-square-foot office at 9640 Commerce Drive in Carmel on Jan. 1 and plans to expand its footprint as its Indiana team grows. Clinical professionals at the company's Client Services Center will provide remote health care and coaching for GCH Platform users anywhere in the U.S., helping improve the coordination of care and treatment of chronic disease and illness. Through the tracking and analysis of users' medical records and real-time health data, the GCH Platform is designed to help people use one platform to make informed decisions to lead healthier lives.

Green Circle Health, which currently employs 25 full-time associates at locations across the country, is now hiring for specialized positions.

"Review and Resolve" your New Year's fitness plan

By SHARON MCMAHON

"Without proper self-evaluation, failure is inevitable." John Wooden

If you have intended to make resolutions for 2017, you have probably already done so. However, resolve without review is most likely not the recipe for success. I dare say that Coach Wooden's advice is pertinent to any change of life plans including relationships, profession, financial stability, and for the purpose of this article, a wellness lifestyle.

As most of us are aware, the fitness centers are packed right now; people are waiting to get on the stair machine! The grocery and drug stores have their diet supplements on the endcaps or in the aisle, and if you watch anything on TV other than TCM or PBS, you have seen the MANY commercials for dietary eating plans. While I am not specifically criticizing any of the above, none of these weight loss avenues are an "end all" when it comes to making real, positive changes in your fitness and wellness pursuits.

The most effective starting point to make dietary and fitness changes which will result in a healthier, more energetic life is "Review and Resolve" in my opinion. I have worked with many clients in their quest to reach their optimum health and fitness levels and I find that those who use the "R and R" method are most successful. So let's take a look at what that involves.

Although it is sometimes uncomfortable to "review" the past year and how we may not have incorporated a proper fitness regimen or concentrated on eating the most nutritionally balanced diet, that is a necessary part of a program to make meaningful changes which will benefit our health. An honest assessment of those items will help motivate us toward healthy changes. The Review also enables us to "resolve" to make any changes necessary to reach our goals. Remember that goals are never "black and white" as you may reach some of the goals and not others, or you may change those goals somewhere in the middle. I firmly believe that a primary reason that we, as Americans, are overweight and often unhealthy is that we give up when our goals are not met to complete satisfaction. Sometimes we need to step back, take a deep breath, and continue on one step at a time.

Before you begin any fitness routine or make significant dietary changes, please consult your physician or licensed medical advisor. If you are pre-diabetic you need to know that, and if you have acute or chronic pain or discomfort issues those must be addressed. After you have had a wellness assessment by your physician, begin planning your wellness path which includes stretching and flexibility, strength training and aerobic activity. Most of us do not follow the most appropriate meal planning for our nutritional needs. Just as an athlete needs a coach to reach their goals, a certified fitness and nutrition coach can assist you in reaching yours; an investment that will provide a healthy return!

Chances of freezing rain and ice forecast through the weekend

Forecasts are predicting a variety of weather conditions across the state through this weekend, including the possibility of freezing rain and ice. Ice accumulation could be as much as a tenth of an inch in some areas, creating hazardous driving conditions.

A few degrees can mean the difference between rain or snow, so freezing rain and ice can be difficult for forecasters to pinpoint far in advance.

Yellow salt trucks ready

The Indiana Department of Transportation will continue monitoring multiple weather forecasts and readying yellow salt trucks to treat interstates, U.S. highways and state routes.

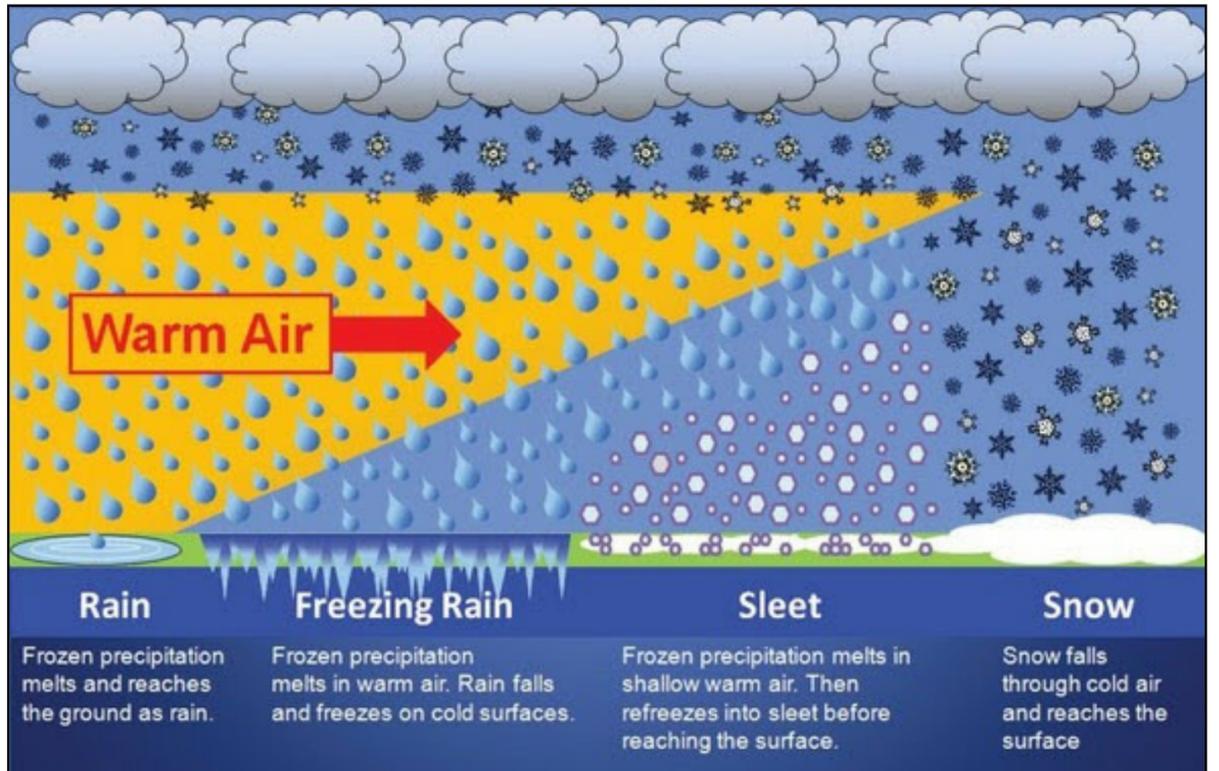

If a storm is predicted lead off with frost or other freezing weather, INDOT sprays a saltwater brine as pre-treatment. If a storm is predicted to lead off with rain, salt trucks will treat the roads just before pavement temperatures fall below freezing and the snow and ice begin to accumulate.

Using granulated salt allows for traction, while also grinding the salt into the road so that it can melt the ice. Each route takes 2-3 hours to complete with salt assisting in melting between passes.

Know before you go

The state of Indiana and National Weather Service provide drivers with a number of tools to make safe, informed travel decisions. Check daily, hourly and graphical weather forecasts by zooming in and clicking on destinations at <http://digital.weather.gov>.

Before deciding to drive, check road and traffic conditions at <http://indot.carsprogram.org>, 800-261-ROAD (7623) or by turning on the traffic feature on a mobile mapping app. County governments post color-coded travel advisories on the Homeland Security website at <http://in.gov/dhs/traveladvisory>. For regular updates, find links to INDOT's Facebook and Twitter pages at <http://bit.ly/INDOTsocial>.

Driver tips

Freezing rain and ice are the most dangerous of all winter road conditions because it affects all vehicle sizes and types, including those with four-wheel drive and INDOT's own salt trucks. In these types of conditions, motorists are strongly encouraged to stay off the roads to allow access for salt trucks and emergency vehicles.

Here are several steps that drivers can take to minimize the risk of losing control on icy roads:

Consult hourly weather forecasts and schedule high-speed and long-distance trips during the warmer hours of the day. This will help save the extra time needed to slow down and drive according to the conditions.

Monitor current air temperatures and slow down if conditions are near or below freezing. Watch how salt trucks, emergency vehicles and other drivers are responding to the weather.

Apply anti-lock brakes firmly when encountering ice. Pump brakes that are not anti-lock. Do not overcorrect with steering.

Flooding Concerns

This system coupled with rainy conditions throughout this week may also create flooding issues statewide. If you encounter a road that's flooded, turn around and find an alternate route. Never drive through as floodwaters can hide a washed out roadway or cause your vehicle to float and be carried into deeper waters.

Increased Likelihood of Potholes

After winter temperatures rise above freezing, motorists are more likely to encounter potholes on the roadways. Potholes form when water seeps into cracks on the roadway, freezes and then thaws. This process, combined with normal highway traffic, loosens the pavement creating potholes.

INDOT makes pothole patching a priority between snow and ice events. During the winter months asphalt plants are closed so a cold mixture is used to temporarily patch holes until a permanent patch can be made in the warmer months. Even after being filled with cold patch, the same pothole requires ongoing maintenance and can reopen several times throughout the winter

To report a pothole on a numbered state route, interstate or U.S. highway, contact your regional INDOT district or follow the "Report a Concern" link at <http://potholes.indot.in.gov>. For potholes on city streets or county roads, please contact the proper city or county maintenance department.

Southeastern sweeps NC on Senior Night

The Hamilton Southeastern swim teams swept their Senior Night meet with North Central on Thursday.

The Royals girls team won a close meet with 4 North Central 97-89. The two teams raced hard all night, and it came down to a few tight events that went the Royals' way down the stretch.

"On a night like this, it's great to get a win in a closely contested meet, and tonight it was the leadership of our seniors that gave us a boost when we needed it the most," said head coach Andy Pedersen. "This team was positive, active, engaged, and gritty and that's why we came out on top tonight."

The Royals led off the meet with a close victory in the 200 medley relay (freshman Abby Harter, junior Madison Kertin, sophomore Hannah Pugh, Knurek). Adding individual event victories were Hannah Pugh (individual medley, butterfly), junior Emily Barnes (50 free), freshman Sarah Ballard (diving), and Abby Harter (backstroke).

Other great performances included diver Van Tassel, freshman Kayleigh Witt in the backstroke, Knurek in the 50 free, and freshman Camille Joesten and junior Aimee Salgado in the 100 free.

The Royals boys team defended their home pool in a 94-91 victory over North Central.

The meet was tied after the 50 freestyle and though the Royals started to pull away near the end of the meet, North Central battled back and just five points separated the two teams heading into the final event.

"Every time the pressure's been on this season, our boys have risen to a higher level," said Pedersen. "We're watching this team come together and as their confidence grows, we're seeing them support one another on a higher level."

This year's senior class includes Nick Barr, Ryan Cockman, Hadi Elgaali, Zack Teffeteller, Hayden Wenger.

Teffeteller's win in the 100 freestyle was the Royals' lone event win of the evening, but their depth tonight was too much for the visiting Panthers to handle. In high school dual meets, individual events are scored 6-4-3-2-1, and each team can only enter three varsity racers per event, so every place matters.

Turning in great performances tonight were junior Andrew Ratliff (200 free); freshman Ethan Forbes (IM); Cockman (50 and 100 freestyles); senior Hayden Wenger (diving); the 200 free relay of Teffeteller, junior Nathan Brown, and freshmen Marcus Eden and DJ Rogers; and seniors Barr and Elgaali (100 breaststroke).
