Opportunity Lost or Found

By MARY SUE ROWLAND
Noblesville Common Council

After 25 years of discussion, anticipation and concerns, the Noblesville Common Council passed unanimously a request for $3.75 million dollars to fund the impact footprint for an east west corridor along Pleasant Street in old town Noblesville. The project will be a major road improvement project to improve intersections for Pleasant Street from State Road 37, west to Hague Road and State Road 32.

The projects intent is to substantially reduce the congestion of east west traffic along State Road 32 and 38 within the City. $2.75 million dollars will be spent on planning, design and permitting costs. $1 million dollars will be set aside for land acquisition once the determined route is agreed upon. The source of the money for the project will be reported back to the Council at a later meeting.

In December, a public meeting was held to discuss a summary of the route alternative analysis. The city favors the Pleasant Street route that was proposed in 1995. The SW Quad citizens group of neighbors most impacted by the project has worked for 2 years to find another route further south from Pleasant Street which will impact the greatest number of homes and families. The concerns include dividing the neighborhood by a major road that will be unsafe for children, difficult to cross and isolate a long standing part of the community. The County Government will pay for the bridge to carry the traffic across White River and on west. The county has asked the project to be considered for Federal Funding and is in agreement with the city on the Pleasant Street route. The funding could be ready in 2021 or as early as 2020. The project is estimated to take 10 years or more to complete at a cost of $40 million dollars plus not including the bridge crossing of White River.

The impacted area is called the Southwest Quad and sits south of downtown

Town of Sheridan is awarded Active Living Workshop

The Purdue Extension Nutrition Education Program is partnering with Health by Design to present a series of workshops this spring and summer designed to help seven Indiana communities become healthier—as well as more walkable, bikeable and accessible for people of all ages and abilities.

The Town of Sheridan is one of the recipients of the Active Living Workshop.

Community Wellness coordinator Gloria Del Greco submitted the application on behalf of the community, and workshops were selected through a competitive process.

The seven communities chosen to host workshops through June 2017 are:

- City of Fort Wayne
- City of Monticello
- City of Rockport
- Town of Sheridan
- City of Southport
- City of Wabash
- Town of Whiteland

According to Purdue Extension NEP Director Melissa Maulding, these daylong Active Living Workshops will bring together government staff, civic leaders and advocates to network, learn about the benefits of active-living communities, and discuss strategies for success.

"We're very excited to engage with Indiana communities in a new way," said Maulding. "Since 1994, our NEP Assistants have provided nutrition education lessons to youth and adults through schools and a variety of community groups, helping them to eat better and move more.”

“Now as our Community Wellness Coordinators work with Health by Design to bring these Active Living Workshops to Indiana communities, we’re looking forward to making an even bigger impact in local health.”

Each workshop will be tailored for the individual community and will build upon existing assets and projects already underway. Presenters will lead participants through various group exercises to identify active-living priorities. Other activities may include a walk audit to assess the safety and comfort of sidewalks and streets, mapping exercises designed to identify important destinations and access to them, and/or a streetscape visualization to show potential improvements to a key intersection or corridor.

“This workshop will demonstrate that healthy people and vibrant communities go hand-in-hand. Creating neighborhoods and public spaces that allow and encourage active living has vast benefits for everyone,” said Kim Irwin, executive director of Health by Design, a statewide coalition that works to create built environments that foster healthy living.

“If someone can easily walk to the grocery store or bike to work, for example, they’re more likely to do so, which is good for him or her as an individual, but also for the environment and the entire community,” Irwin added.

Throughout 2016, the Nutrition Education Program and Health by Design awarded and conducted seven Active Living Workshops in communities across Indiana.

Denny Spinner, Mayor of the City of Huntingburg, participated in the Active Living Workshop for his community that was held in October 2016. “The Active Living Workshop was an opportunity for us to bring together those in our community that are truly dedicated to improving Huntingburg’s quality of life,” said Spinner.

“We had a great day of discussion and activity that allowed us to explore some of the barriers we have in making our city more fit-friendly, while also identifying the things already in place that we are doing well. I came away with a clearer vision on how to integrate these issues into the city’s way of doing business, and energized by the community involvement that was included in all of the day’s events,” Spinner added.

For more information on the Active Living Workshop in Sheridan or to be involved in the planning, contact Gloria Del Greco, Community Wellness Coordinator, at 317-776-0854.

tives at multiple sites throughout the community to gain feedback on how this additional funding, and the enhanced counseling focus it affords us, can best serve all of our students.”

A second phase of the Comprehensive Counseling Initiative grants will be decided this fall. The district stands to gain more than a million additional dollars for counseling if they are recognized at that time.

Noblesville, east of White River with Cherry Street to the north, Eight Street to the east, South Street to the south and is one of the oldest sections of the community. In February 2015, the city and the neighborhood met in three sessions to determine the needs of the area and how the city to could assist along with other non for profits dealing with housing and other issues. A plan was put into place but little has been accomplished toward meeting initiatives such as home repairs, home improvements, neighborhood Crime Watch, Southside Park and connectivity to downtown and other neighborhoods. The median home price in the area is $60,300.00 including 28 significant historical homes with values into the $200,000.00 range. The area consists of nearly 400 homes and parcels. There is also industry in the area. The area was affected in 2000 – 2001 with a one hundred year flood affecting over 100 homes. Repairs have been slow coming to the area with 40% of the sidewalks considered in hazard conditions. Lack of street lighting has added to concerns with crime. The neighborhood considers the proximity to the downtown creating stronger connections as the number one asset.

How quickly things can change. Now the number one asset will be potentially blocked by the Pleasant Street Corridor that will slice the neighborhood into two pieces. It is understandable that the Pleasant Street Corridor has stalled any promises made in 2015 when the city met with the SW Quad neighbors and developed a plan which has been incorporated into the Comprehensive Master Plan for the city. Both of the city staff who developed the programs, are no longer with the city and the Community Engagement Manager position has not been filled.

With a to be funded plan for an east west Corridor now the city focus, most Council members expressed that the project will be the most expensive and complex project ever undertaken by the city. The project will either provide the new revitalization that has been promised for decades or it will be the end of the SW Quad neighborhood. Three years is estimated to complete the planning process and give the folks most impacted an idea of options available to them.

The Council gave direction for the process that the terms planning and design should mean “Best Practices” with the least impact on the existing neighborhood. Planning should mean consideration of all elements of good design concerning Corridors including economic development opportunities and new housing options along with a determination of the impact on historic structures. The Council agreed all of the design and planning will be public information with scheduled meetings for public input. A reminder was noted that Noblesville is a “Preserve America” city status and that status should be recognized.

Once again progress is difficult for the city, citizens and the future of the community. Keeping focused on a successful outcome will be difficult as well.

Indiana State Police offer tips on how to...

Avoid becoming victim to a credit card skimmer

The Indiana State Police has fallen victim to the recent criminal trend of credit card skimming. It was recently discovered some Indiana State Police fuel cards were compromised and one particular card was used for over $1,000 in fraudulent charges. All the affected cards were used at one particular Central Indiana gas station. Investigators are now working to determine how the credit card information was obtained, but they believe it was likely through a skimming device installed on a gas pump. This is an ongoing investigation and few details are available at this time. We are asking area gas stations to regularly check their gas pumps and report any suspicious activity to police. The Indiana State Police would like to offer the following tips to decrease the chances of falling victim to credit card skimming at gas stations.

- Use the pump closest to the building or in clear view of the cashier. When placing skimming devices criminals try not to be seen and will often use pumps where employees have obstructed views
- Look for wires hanging out of access panels, and damaged or broken locks on the gas pump.
- Look at other gas pumps to be sure the credit card readers all look the same and use your fingers to physically pull on it.
- Look for tamper-resistant seals on access panels
- Avoid entering your PIN number at a gas pump, or if you must, be sure to shield it with your other hand.
- If anything looks suspicious about the pump, report it to an employee and go to another location.

- Diligently check your credit card statement each month for fraudulent charges. Criminals often use stolen credit card numbers to make small purchases ensuring it will work before racking up large amounts of money.

If you believe your card has been compromised contact your credit card company immediately and report the crime to police. Remain vigilant whenever using your credit or debit card and if ever in doubt, don't use it.

Millers overwhelm Pendleton in regular season finale

By RICHIE HALL

Reporter Sports Editor

The Noblesville girls basketball team finished its regular season with a resounding victory at The Mill on Wednesday.

The Millers beat Pendleton Heights 72-55, running away from the Arabians with a big third quarter. It was significant because Pendleton came to Noblesville with an 18-win record, so it was good for the Millers to get a quality win with the sectional tournament on the agenda for next week.

The first quarter was a fast one, with the Arabians leading 21-16 when the dust settled. Emily Kiser scored seven points, and both she and Mallory Johnson hit one 3-pointer each. That helped Noblesville to keep pace with Pendleton, which had three 3s in the period. Another 3-pointer, by Maggie Dooley, put the Arabians up 24-16 early in the second quarter.

Pendleton still led 26-18 in the second, and that's when the Millers made their first move by scoring 11 unanswered points. Maddie Knight scored six of those points, including a 3, and Sam Salmon threw in a 3-pointer as well. Kiser then scored a layin to move Noblesville ahead 29-26.

The Arabians scored five points to end the half up 31-29. When the second half began, the Millers made their second move, outscoring Pendleton 23-6 in the third quarter. Kiser added eight more points, Johnson scored six, and Brooke Herron finished the period by making a traditional 3-point play.

"We just rebounded better, and good things happen when you rebound," said Noblesville coach Donna Buckley. "We didn't give them any second chance points. We locked down on defense."

The Millers kept rolling through the fourth, not allowing the Arabians to get any closer than 10 points. That happened late in the game, but Noblesville finished on a 10-3 run, including eight more points from Kiser, who made a pair of 3-point plays in the final two minutes of the contest.

In all, Kiser totaled 29 points, and pulled 11 rebounds for yet another double-double.

Knight added 16 points, while Johnson totaled 13. Herron pulled five rebounds and dished out four assists.

Want more stats? How about six assists and three blocked shots for Kiser. Johnson also had five assists and made four steals as well.

Noblesville finished its regular season with a 12-9 record. The Millers are now off until Friday, Feb. 3, when it travels to Hamilton Southeastern for play in Class 4A Sectional 8. Noblesville will take on the winner of Tuesday's sectional opener between Westfield and the host Royals; that game tips off at 6 p.m.

Buckley said her team has been playing well in the last half of the season.

"I think we started 4-6 and are 8-3 in our last 11 games," said the coach. "We just want to continue to work on getting better and build momentum going into next week."

University competes at Schools With No Pools meet

In a tough and long meet, the University boys swim team came in seventh place at Brebeuf Jesuit's Schools With No Pools invitational, which took place Tuesday at the IUPUI Natatorium.

The Trailblazers had the privilege of honoring their five seniors at this meet: Max Ammerman, Zachary Daniels, Brody Davison, Charles Earle, and Ian Weiker.

The relay team of Earle, Cole Reinholt, Davison, and Cordell Wilson earned the team's first points of the evening when they came in 5th place in the 200 medley relay with a time of 1:59.17. This team of four reunited at the end of the meet in the 400 freestyle relay to achieve a new team record of 4:05.35 and 6th place. Additionally, these four swimmers picked up all of the teams' individual points for the evening.

Wilson and Davison both scored in the 200 freestyle, in which Wilson dropped five seconds to come in 11th place (2:20.64) while Davison finished third (1:56.72). Earle and Reinholt took care of the 200 individual medley in which both achieved best times; Earle dropped six seconds for 12th place (1:34.88) while Reinholt shaved off .13 seconds for 10th (1:32.24). Davison was also responsible for points in the 500 freestyle (2nd place: 5:18.74). Earle came in ninth in 100 backstroke when he dropped two seconds down to a 1:10.32. Reinholt rounded out the boys' individual points of the evening when he came in seventh in the 100 breaststroke (1:12.69).

"Though others may not have scored points, there were fantastic swims in every event," said UHS coach Syd Lindblom.

Ammerman went best times in the 50 free (30.81) and 100 free (1:11.82). Fellow senior Weiker dropped time in the 50 free (36.08), 100 backstroke (1:42.06), and a best split in the 200 free relay (37.40). Sophomore Christian Moore set personal records in the 100 freestyle (1:41.92) and 100 backstroke (2:04.38). Wilson dropped 18 seconds in the 500 freestyle (6:33.86), just missing a scoring place. Finally, senior Daniels went a best time in the 100 breaststroke (1:36.87).

University's girls team also achieved many new personal records and two new team records at the challenging Schools With No Pools Invitational.

The team records were set by the relay team of Macy Paton, Ella Eskenazi, Regan Hooker, and Isabela Wise in the 200 freestyle and 400 freestyle relays. The 200 free relay was a second better than the girls' best (2:10.98) while the 400 free relay was a whopping 15 seconds better than the previous record (4:45.87). Paton and Hooker both had stand-out swims on that final relay, putting up season-best splits (1:14.93 and 1:02.72 respectively).

Hooker achieved the team's only points of the evening: first, she placed 12th in the 100 butterfly (1:16.58); later, she came in 11th in the 100 breaststroke (1:24.39).

Caitlin Clark went the team's first personal best of the evening when she dropped seven seconds in her 200 IM to finish in 3:14.43. Christine Chen followed up with a second drop in the 50 free (42.16) and later dropped in the 100 free (1:31.32). Paton also dropped two seconds in the 100 free down to 1:11.81.

Next up for University is the sectional meet. The girls will compete at Zionsville, with the preliminaries on Thursday, Feb. 2 and the finals on Saturday, Feb. 4.

The Trailblazers' boys will swim at the Lawrence North sectional. Prelims are set for Thursday, Feb. 16, with the finals on Saturday, Feb. 18.
