World War I after-effects still being felt today

By FRED SWIFT

World War I, billed as "the war to end all wars" which obviously it wasn't, started for the U.S. 100 years ago this week. Many folks don't realize it was all over in 19 months. As wars go, it was quick and dirty, emphasis on dirty with new weapons like land mines and mustard gas. In Hamilton County and much of America it has become almost a forgotten war. Locally, there were only 29 men who lost their lives, many fewer than in what we think of as "big" wars like the Civil War, World War II and Vietnam. The names of all are found on the Veterans Memorial on the Courthouse Square. One Noblesville soldier, Adolph Mueller, kept a diary of his experiences during the war in Europe. His recollections and scrapbook were the subject of a program presented by local historian Nancy Massey, at the Noblesville library on Thursday evening. Although from a German family, Mueller served in the U.S. Army. Another Noblesville participant, Frank Huntzinger, was the first local man killed in the war. The Frank Huntzinger American Legion Post 45 was named in his honor. The Legion nationwide was founded in 1919 by returning veterans of the war. There are a half-dozen posts in Hamilton County alone who have now included in their membership veterans of all U.S. wars. (The Veterans of Foreign Wars or VFW did not come out of World War I. It was started in 1899 by Spanish-American War vets.) The after-effects of WWI were long-lasting and in the case of the great influenza epidemic, more deadly than the battlefield. Although never directly attributed to the war, the flu first show up in the U.S. at an army base in Kansas where soldiers were training. Hundreds of thousands nationwide died of the flu including many in Hamilton County. The epidemic lasted until 1920.

Community shredding and electronics recycling day April 29 in Carmel

Last year, more than 13 million Americans were victims of identity theft. That's about one person every two seconds. To help fight fraud, a handful of community groups are joining together for a document-shredding, electronics-recycling, bulk-item and drug-disposal event on Saturday, April 29 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the parking lot of Creekside Middle School, located on the southeast corner of West 126th Street and Shelburne Road.

The event is being sponsored by a team of organizations including AARP, Carmel Utilities, Carmel Police Department, Crime Stoppers of Central Indiana, Technology Recyclers, Shred-it and WISH-TV. AARP Indiana will be handing out information about their free Fraud Watch Network.

SHREDDING - Identity theft is one of the fastest growing crimes today and most identity information is still obtained through hard copy paper sources. Shredding significantly reduces your risk when disposing of confidential information. It is recommended that you shred any documents that include a signature, account number, social security number, medical or legal information. This professional shredding is sponsored by Shred-it to benefit Crime Stoppers of Central Indiana. A donation is requested of $5 per bankers sized box or equivalent.

RECYCLING - The recycling drop-off event will be managed by Technology Recyclers. The following items will be accepted: Computers, servers, peripherals, wiring, cable, battery backups, monitors, TVs ($10 charge per monitor or TV); all electronics, phones, stereos, headsets, DVD players; any small Reminder for pet owners...

Keep your animals on leashes

Photo provided

As warmer weather arrives and more pet owners are out with their faithful friends, Animal Control deputies want to remind everyone that local ordinance requires pets to be on leashes or under control. Hamilton County Parks Department also requires pets in county parks be leashed at all times. Leashing pets allows everyone a safer opportunity to enjoy the parks. Questions regarding state and local laws can be addressed to the Hamilton County Sheriff's Office Animal Control or local municipalities.

Easter Bunny to visit Sheridan Public Library

With the generous help of the Friends of the Library and several volunteer community members, the Easter Bunny is again coming to the Sheridan Public Library to visit community boys and girls, and children of all ages on Saturday, April 8, 2017 from 9:30 am to 11:30 am. The library will be closed for normal library functions because of the egg hunt.

Parents will have an opportunity to have a photo of their children and themselves with the rascally rabbit to take home or have emailed to them for one dollar. A series of egg hunts for children through age 10 will be held approximately every 15 minutes among the book stacks. This will allow parents to choose an egg hunt time more convenient to any other activities going on that morning.

The library will provide bags for the children participating in the egg hunt to collect their eggs, but we also encourage children to bring their own Easter baskets. The children will also have a coloring sheet to complete while parents wait for the pictures to be printed.

This event is open to all community members, even if they do not have library cards or reside within the library district. According to director Steve Martin, "Last year we had a tremendous turnout and hope to do the same again this year. We are looking forward to welcoming everyone to the library which is located at 103 West First Street in beautiful uptown Sheridan, just on the country side of Hamilton County, Indiana."

The war made the United States a world power and on the path to Super Power status. It also sowed the seeds for the Second World War, only 21 years later. And, many historians attribute today's troubles in the Middle East to European nations' demands to set new arbitrary borders especially for Iraq, Syria, Palestine and Trans Jordan.

So, even if the war is only a distant memory, it did change the world, and we still live with some of its effects today.

Baby boomers can still be in the game

By SHARON MCMAHON

"I didn't do this because I was in my sixties. I just happened to be in my sixties."

Diana Nyad, on her 110-mile swim from Havana to Key West

I found it amusing when Ms. Nyad made that historic swim that I heard "commentators" on air critiquing different aspects of her trek. Really? Who among them could have accomplished the same feat? Not me! Her swim was a triumph no matter the age, but many people (let's hear it for the baby boomers!) did emphasize her age as a way to say "We're still in the game!" Today I am selfishly focusing on my own generation, many of whom are in great shape and too many who are not.

Let's be honest, who among us throughout our young lives (I am talking the 20-, 30-, and 40-somethings) did not regard mid-60's as the rocking-chair club? I know I did. Thinking of my grandparents, they did seem elderly to me while in their sixties. However, due to more awareness of nutrition, fitness, and pro-active health care, we are able to both feel and look more youthful in many cases. Conversely, this is also a time in our lives when health issues become apparent and must be faced and, hopefully, improved in many cases. The benefit to be gained from proper nutrition and an active lifestyle cannot be overstated. Our young bodies which were able to withstand poor sleep and junk food are now ready for a better quality of life and renewed focus on becoming our personal best.

Speaking for myself, though I may wear the same size clothing as when I was a teenager, things have "shifted" somewhat, my hair is thinner, my skin more dry, etc., and my energy level today not the same as 20+ years earlier...but I know that the time I spend on this planet with family and friends is a gift to me and that good care of myself is a gift that I give back.

I imagine that Paul McCartney, (only 16 when he wrote "When I'm 64" for his dad), could never imagine himself at that age - which he of course has now surpassed and doing very well thank you! Personally I have found that instead of "retired" I am now "rewired" and enjoying opportunities I did not find time for in a long, time-consuming management career. Although I truly enjoyed my career and gained a great deal of satisfaction from it, I am now able to pursue my nutrition and wellness coaching, teaching fitness classes, volunteering, and even incorporating my executive career in a consulting mode. Life is good, and I am very thankful.

I will never swim 110 miles, and most likely neither will you, but there is so much we can do if we have the will, and that includes those who have chronic health issues. Good sleep, good food, staying socially active, movement which produces more flexibility and strength, and a good attitude can go far in allowing us to both feel better and look better, a "win-win" for ourselves and our families. Spring and summer are great times to review our activity level and the absolute best times to stock up on some great fruits and vegetables; stop by your local farmers market and produce stands and enjoy. Bon appétit!

In health,

Kenley: Proposed budget passes Senate

Kenley

State Sen. Luke Kenley (R-Noblesville) today announced that the Senate's proposal for the next two-year state budget passed the Senate by a vote of 39-9.

House Bill 1001, commonly called the "budget bill," is honestly balanced and creates a strong foundation for Indiana's future. Kenley, who chairs the Senate Committee on Appropriations, said he is pleased with the two-year fiscal plan, which provides increased funding for education, Hoosier veterans and economic development.

"The Senate's budget proposal continues Indiana's track record of fiscal integrity, and does not include a cigarette-tax increase," Kenley said. "I believe we are well on our way to a budget that properly funds state services, while maintaining strong reserves in order to protect taxpayers."

Highlights of the Senate budget proposal include:

- Balanced Budget
 - o Ongoing revenues exceed ongoing expenditures

 - o Replaces the Teacher Performance Grant program with the Teacher Appreciation Grant (TAG) program, which would provide cash stipends to effective and highly effective teachers in every school corporation based on ADM count ($39 per ADM)

- Higher Education
 - o Increases total university operating funds by $76 million over the biennium (1.5 percent annual increase)
 - o Authorizes $404 million in university capital projects over the biennium
 - o Maintains student financial aid awards with $695 million over the biennium

- o Provides $80 million per year in higher education performance funding

- Pre-K Education
 - o $16 million per year for pre-K education, which would fund the Senate's pre-K proposal

 - o $6 million in debt service to double track the South Shore Line

- Public Safety and Corrections
 - o Increases State Police pay over two years
 - o $1.5 million per year for adult guardianship needs
 - o $4.5 million per year for the Public Defender Commission to address public defender needs and Children in Need of Services (CHINS) cases

- Support for Hoosier Veterans
 - o Increases funding for Veterans Problem Solving Courts by $1 million over the biennium
 - o Allocates new funding to the Indiana Department of Veterans' Affairs:

Teach your children about money this Financial Literacy Month

(StatePoint) April is Financial Literacy Month, an ideal time to think about the lessons your children are learning about money. Setting a good financial example is just the start. Parents should also actively engage children on the topic. These lessons can help put kids and teens on the right path towards a financially responsible adulthood.

How Money Works

Now that many consumers use credit or debit cards, buy things online and even purchase movies on their televisions and mobile devices, children may not realize when you are actually spending money and that money is needed to buy things.

Take time to explain to them that products and services have different prices. They also need to learn that money can be spent only once, and that after buying something, a person needs to earn more money in order to buy something else. Play "grocery store" or other games that involve buying and selling items. Take turns being the cashier and the customer.

Saving for a Goal

Teach your children that some things cost more money than they may have now, and that saving means putting some money aside a bit at a time until you have enough to buy what you want. Kids can learn to keep money in a safe place and practice their math skills by keeping track of the amount saved for future spending.

To maximize the benefits your child receives for saving money, you may want to consider a Uniform Transfers to Minors Act (UTMA) or custodial bank account. Those offered by Ally Bank Member FDIC, for example, earn a competitive rate of interest with no monthly maintenance fee. Plus, there's no minimum balance to open the account. When opening such an account, use this as an opportunity to discuss interest and other basic banking concepts.

The Importance of Self-Control

Help your children learn the difference between needs and wants or wishes. Explain that although everyone really wants things like toys and electronics, you have to pay for needs - things like food, shelter and heat - before you can buy items that are wants. Help your children come up with a plan to save and spend their own money that takes into account their wants and needs.

Making Spending Decisions

The next time you need to make a big purchase, talk it through with your child. Explain how you weigh the pros and cons. Show how taking time to ask questions, learn about different choices, and compare what's good and bad about each choice helps you reach good decisions.

"Financial literacy ideally begins in childhood. Even young children should learn about basic concepts like saving for a goal and spending only what you can afford," says Jacqueline Howard, director of Corporate Citizenship at Ally Financial.

There are many resources to help you talk to your kids about money and finances. Parents can download a free ebook from Ally Bank about the basics of money to share with their children at allywalletwise.com or visit fdic.gov/moneysmart for resources for all ages.

This April, take the time to boost your children's financial literacy and enforce the concept of smart money management.

Overpowering second half...

No-drama Pacers win, remain in playoff contention

By GREG RAPPAPORT

Courtesy nba.com/pacers

With the season winding down and the playoff race heating up, the Pacers used an overpowering second half to grab a 104-89 win against the Milwaukee Bucks on Thursday night at Bankers Life Fieldhouse.

For the third game in a row, Paul George was instant offense for the Pacers, racking up 23 points and 10 rebounds for the Blue & Gold. The Pacers also had yet another strong performance from Lance Stephenson, who scored nine points while passing out five assists on Thursday night.

The victory not only keeps Indiana afloat in the crowded Eastern Conference playoff race, but gives them an achievement that they've been unable to reach for two entire months: winning back-to-back games.

"We've played really good these past two wins at home," Paul George said. "We're figuring some consistency out."

If there were ever a time for the Pacers to start a run, Thursday night was it, with the visiting Bucks needing a win to clinch a playoff berth and the Pacers needing one to give themselves any margin for error as the season's final three games approach.

The game was essentially decided in the third, when Indiana used an impressive quarter to build upon its six-point halftime lead. Although the Bucks threatened in the fourth, Stephenson helped parry the run, finding Thaddeus Young on a full-court assist and nailing a 3-pointer to push Indiana's lead back up to 13.

In the team's last Hickory Night of the 2016-17 season — honoring the IHSAA 2017 Basketball State Champion Teams — Indiana had no use for a dramatic Hoosiers comeback, gaining control of the lead with just over five minutes remaining in the first half and not letting go for the remainder of the night.

"We kept getting stops," explained Kevin Seraphin, who scored 11 points off the bench. "We were working together and we were connected tonight. We played as a team and we just kept getting stops. We just did a good job and we need to keep playing."

The Bucks rallied to start the second half, using a 7-0 run capped by an and-1 in traffic from Antetokounmpo. But with their lead as slim as 63-61, the Pacers' starting unit regained control of the game, reeling off an 11-0 sprint to put themselves back in control of the game.

That run eventually morphed into what turned out to be a 20-6 outburst from the Pacers, seizing control of the game in the third quarter as their lead ballooned to 83-67 following a Jeff Teague off-balance jumper in the closing moments of the quarter.

The fourth was more of the same from the Pacers, who managed to overcome a 25-point, seven-rebound, six-assist night from the Bucks' do-everything All-Star Giannis Antetokounmpo. By the game's end, the Pacers had outscored the Bucks in all four quarters.

To open the night, Indiana was cold from the field, making just three of its first 11 shots from the field as Milwaukee gained an early lead.

From there, however, the Pacers' offense started to click, with Stephenson and the bench unit scoring six unanswered points to give Indiana a 25-21 lead entering the second quarter.

In the second, Milwaukee began to climb back into the game, executing a 7-0 run to grab a 33-32 lead.

After the Bucks edged in front, the teams began to trade buckets, with the lead changing hands four times in a two minute span.

"When you have a guy attacking us at will and scoring on us, we have to get mad and be aggressive," said Stephenson of Antetokounmpo. "Make him make passes or make his teammates make shots and we did that."

With just over five minutes left in the half, George began to heat up. After nailing jumpers over his defender on consecutive possessions to give Indiana a lead, George collected a steal at midcourt and hammered a one-handed slam in the open court to put the Pacers up by four, triggering a Bucks timeout. The Pacers never trailed again.

Out of the break, Milwaukee was still unable to find an answer for Indiana's attack, as the Pacers scored three more unanswered buckets to make it a 10-0 Indiana run.

A late 3-pointer from the Bucks gave the Pacers a 56-50 lead at the half.

But in the third quarter, Indiana grabbed control of the game for the rest of the night, outscoring the Bucks 29-23 to take a 12-point lead into the final frame at The Fieldhouse. From there, Indiana continued to hammer away, going on to collect the critical 15-point home win, staving off the season sweep by the Bucks in the process.

Tully Bevilaqua named to Indiana Fever coaching staff

After six record-setting seasons as an Indiana Fever point guard and recent coverage of the club as a local TV analyst, Tully Bevilaqua has been named as player development coach for the Fever, announced by President and General Manager Kelly Krauskopf.

Bevilaqua, who has maintained residence in Indianapolis since her playing days, will join Pokey Chatman's staff alongside assistant coaches Steven Key and Jessica Miller.

A native of Merredin, Australia, and recently named to the Western Australia Hall of Champions, Bevilaqua earned a silver medal in the 2008 Olympics with the Australian National Team, and a gold medal at the 2006 World Championships. She completed 14 WNBA seasons between Cleveland (1998), Portland (2000-02), Seattle (2003-04), Indiana (2005-10) and San Antonio (2011-12). She also won a pair of WNBL championships in Australia as part of a 20-year pro career that began in 1991 with the Perth Breakers in her home country.

After winning the 2004 WNBA title as a reserve guard with Seattle, Bevilaqua signed a free agent deal with Indiana and made an instant impact. Spurred by an engaging personality and Australian accent, she became a fan favorite at Bankers Life Fieldhouse and, since her first season with the Fever, Indiana has never failed to reach the playoffs.

Named as a member of the Fever's All-Decade Team in 2009, Bevilaqua joined Tamika Catchings to spark a resurgence reflected by Indiana's current WNBA-record 12 straight postseason appearances, three trips to the WNBA Finals and a 2012 championship. Bevilaqua was the club's starting point guard for six straight years, leading Indiana to its first Finals appearance in 2009 and aiding in the development of future star Briann January who has been the Fever's point guard ever since.

The 2007 recipient of the WNBA's Kim Perrot Sportsmanship Award, Bevilaqua was a six-time member of the WNBA All-Defense Team – all with Indiana and all beside Catchings. Her 573 steals still rank 10th among WNBA career leaders. Her 356 steals with the Fever are second in club history. She started an Indiana-record 116 consecutive games spanning the 2006-08 seasons, and started 188 of 197 Fever games overall, the fourth-highest figure in franchise history. Elsewhere in the Indiana record book, she ranks fourth in 3-point field goals and fourth in assists.

"I am very honored to rejoin the Indiana Fever team again!" said Bevilaqua who covered the Fever as a TV analyst the past three seasons. "I am thankful to Kelly and Pokey for the opportunity to further my coaching career, and I look forward to getting on the court with our staff and players. I am truly proud to represent this Fever organization that has been characterized by great success and professionalism."

"Signing Tully back in 2005 was a turning point in our franchise," said Krauskopf, "so I am thrilled to have her back on the floor as a player development coach as we start a new era of Fever basketball. She brings tremendous knowledge, experience and work ethic. I am proud to add a former player to our staff who has been such an integral part of our success."

Since her retirement as a player, Bevilaqua has become certified as a personal trainer. She is co-owner of Gym41, a local gym she established in 2011 that specializes in boot camp training, small group training, cardio boxing and yoga classes. She has spent the past two years as a volunteer assistant coach with the Zionsville High School girls basketball team, helping the Eagles to back-to-back sectional championships.
