The REPORTER

The Town of Cicero has hired C.J. Taylor as the new Cicero/Jackson Township Plan Commission Director. Prior to joining the Town in his new role, he served as the Chief Wastewater Operator for the Cicero Streets and Utility Department for the past 12 years. Dan Strong, Cicero Plan Commission President, served as the interim Director for the past six months while the Town Council searched for the best candidate for this position.

"We are very grateful to Dan for stepping in to fill the role as the interim Plan Commission Director to make for a smooth transition for the Town's new Director," stated Chad Amos, Town Council President. "We believe that C.J. will be a great leader for the Plan Commission and that his knowledge and experience will support the Town's plans for future growth and development of the community."

C.J. began his role as Plan Commission Director on April 24 and he will be responsible for policy development, program planning, procedural development, administration and operational direction of the Plan Commission to achieve annual department goals and objectives. He will also serve as the liaison for the Plan Commission, Board of Zoning Appeals (BZA), and the Town Council.

"I appreciate everything that I have learned while working as the Chief Wastewater Operator for the Streets and Utility Department and I look forward to beginning this new challenge as the Cicero/Jackson Township Plan Commission Director," stated C.J. "The Town is uniquely situated and there are many opportunities to strengthen the community and economic development of Cicero and I look forward to working with everyone on keeping this a great place to live, work, and visit."

The County Line Understand property tax tending

By FRED SWIFT

Usually property tax assessment is a dull subject that creates little interest, but then, once a year the assessor sends out a notice of individual assessment to those property owners whose assessed values, known as AV, have changed.

All of a sudden there is great interest among those who got notice last week that their assessment has increased. Some others got notice that their assessments were reduced. Others got no notice which means their AV did not change.

Property assessments in Indiana are subject to what's called annual "trending" which is designed to keep information current and avoid huge increases in values which used to show up every 10 years when there was a general reassessment.

Trending is a method of using the sales prices of comparable homes in a neighborhood or subdivision to establish current values. There can be mistakes in establishing value on a given property, but mistakes are rare because assessing officials have pretty good information.

If a homeowner feels there is something wrong with his or her assessment they may appeal. Appeals go to the County Assessor's office which then has township officials review the situation. If a township assessing official cannot find errors or reasons to change values, the appeal goes to the Property Tax Board of Appeals where a property owner is offered the opportunity to present

The Hamilton Southeastern Schools have been an integral part of the Mental Health Initiative launched by Fishers Mayor Scott Fadness, and that cooperation was on display at Riverside Intermediate School (RSI) Wednesday night.

The event was called "Journey of the Heart, Mind & Soul." It featured tables staffed by area organizations. There were also breakout groups of parents discussing issues such as Suicide Prevention Social Media.

Mayor Fadness spoke to the entire group, explaining how his initiative is aimed at combating depression and preventing students from harming themselves while suffering from mental illness. Fishers Fire Chief Steve Orusa talked about his role in spearheading the city's mental health program.

Get ready to get NICE and creative

The REPORTER

The 3rd Annual Noblesville Interdisciplinary Creativity Expo (NICE) is in October and our first creative workshop coming up on May 16.

This workshop focuses on the Harlem Renaissance, Jazz, Jazz Poetry, allegory, anthropomorphism, and other exciting inspirations from two of our selections, Animal Farm and the poem Harlem.

The second workshop in August focuses on two other selections.

NICE is one of the annual Signature Events at Logan Street Sanctuary. The brainchild of author Sarah E. Morin and artist/author Aly Caviness-Gober, NICE offers artists of all kinds the opportunity to create artwork inspired by each year's four selected classic literary passages.

This year's selections are from: Animal Farm (George Orwell), All Quiet on the Western Front (Erich Maria Remarque), Harlem (Langston Hughes), and Anne Frank: The Diary of a Young Girl (Anne Frank). Our two-night NICE event is an "anything goes" artistic expo ~ participants share their inspired creations ~ music, art, poetry, dance, performance, sculpture, and anything else.

They usually host a couple workshops in the months leading up to the two-night NICE event (Oct. 6, 7), and their first workshop is May 16, focusing on the Harlem Renaissance, Jazz, Jazz Poetry, allegory, anthropomorphism, and other exciting inspirations from Animal Farm and the poem Harlem.

evidence to support his or her position.

Any changes made in this year's trending will be effective for 2018 taxes.

The whole subject of property taxes and the assessments on which they are based is confusing the many people. The public, for example, is told that taxes can be no higher than one percent of the assessed value of their property. But, that one percent is applied to a changing, and usually increasing, assessment.

In addition, those tax levies approved by voter referendum come in addition to the one percent cap. So, if a taxpayer lives in a school district that has adopted an additional rate of 25 cents per $100 of AV, taxes can exceed the one percent of a property's assessed value.

On "529 Day," think about smart college savings plans

By COREY SYLVESTER
Cicero Edward Jones

You probably won't see it on your calendar, but May 29 (5/29) is 529 College Savings Day, or 529 Day for short. This day, named after the 529 plan, a popular college-savings vehicle, is designed to promote people's awareness of the need to save and invest for the high costs of higher education. And that need has never been greater. Consider the following:

College prices keep moving up. College costs just keep rising. For the 2016-2017 school year, the average cost (tuition, fees, room and board) was about $20,000 for in-state students at public universities and more than $45,000 for private schools, according to the College Board. These costs are likely to continue climbing.

Student debt is at record levels. Of the Class of 2016 graduates who received loans — about 70% of the total student population — the average individual debt was $37,172, a record high, according to a study cited by CBS News.

What can you do to help your children graduate from college without having to provide a big "IOU" in exchange for a diploma? In the spirit of 529 Day, you might want to consider investing in a 529 plan. It's certainly not the only means of saving for college, but it does offer some attractive benefits.

For starters, contribution limits are quite high — you can accumulate more than $200,000 per beneficiary in many state plans. And you can typically invest in the 529 plan offered by any state, even if you don't reside there. If you do invest in your own state's plan, you may be eligible for state income tax incentives.

Also, all withdrawals from 529 plans will be free from federal income taxes, as long as the money is used for a qualified college or graduate school expense of the beneficiary you've named — typically, your child or grandchild. (Withdrawals for expenses other than qualified education expenditures may be subject to federal and state taxes and a 10% penalty on the earnings portion of the distribution.)

Furthermore, you have complete control of your 529 plan assets. You decide who will get the money and when he or she will get it. You can even change the beneficiary to another family member.

Keep in mind, though, that your 529 plan will be counted on the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), although schools typically only consider up to 5.6% of parental assets when calculating financial aid. And distributions from a parent-owned 529 account used for one year's college expenses will not usually reduce next year's financial aid eligibility. (For more information on how a 529 plan might affect your child's financial assistance, you may want to consult with a college's financial aid office.)

If you can find a 529 Day event in your area, you may want to attend so that you can learn more about the many aspects of saving for college. But even if you can't personally take part in 529 Day, give some thought to a 529 plan — it might be part of the solution for helping your children earn a relatively debt-free degree.

Baseball sectional pairings announced

The IHSAA released its pairings for the baseball sectional tournament Friday evening.

Hamilton County teams will compete in three different sectionals, with the 4A schools playing in Sectional 8 at Westfield, 3A teams traveling to Yorktown for Sectional 24 action, and Sheridan hosting 1A Sectional 58. First, the big schools, and this is a sectional where every game will be a big one.

Carmel, the No. 1 team in 4A, will take on old rival North Central in the first game of Sectional 8. That will be followed by a first-round contest between Noblesville and Hamilton Southeastern. The Royals are receiving votes in the 4A poll; HSE and the Millers have both been ranked in the top 10 during earlier parts of the season.

The winners of those games will play in the first semi-final. The second semi-final will see No. 2 Fishers take on the host Shamrocks. Sectionals can begin on Wednesday, May 24 and will finish on Memorial Day (Monday, May 29); exact times for each site will be known in the coming days.

Over at Yorktown, Hamilton Heights will play its old rival Tipton in that sectional's opening game. The Huskies are receiving votes in the 3A poll. Guerin Catholic, which also received votes early in the season, will play Delta in the first round.

Those two winners face off in the first semi-final, with Yorktown and Jay County to play the second semi-final.

Sheridan will play the opening game at its sectional. The Blackhawks will take on Tindley to start the tournament. Next up will be University playing Indiana School for the Deaf; the Trailblazers are receiving votes in the 1A pool.

The first-round winners play the first semi-final, with the second semi-final to see Indpls. Lutheran take on Bethesda Christian.

It marks the 14th time a Corvette has served as the official Pace Car, starting in 1978, and the 28th time a Chevrolet has led the field, dating back to 1948, when a 1948 Fleetmaster Six convertible paced the race. No other vehicle has served as the Pace Car more than the Corvette.

"Chevrolet is proud to once again pace the Indianapolis 500," said Steve Majoros, marketing director for Cars and Crossovers. "The Corvette Grand Sport's performance capability and motorsports heritage make it the perfect choice to pace 'The Greatest Spectacle in Racing.'"

The Grand Sport Pace Car equipped with the Z07 package can accelerate from 0-60 mph in 3.6 seconds, cover the quarter mile in 11.8 seconds and achieve 1.2 g cornering capability.

Chevrolet has a storied history with the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Chevrolet was founded in 1911, the year of the inaugural 500-Mile Race, and company cofounder Louis Chevrolet, along with brothers Arthur and Gaston, competed in early Indy 500 races. Arthur Chevrolet competed in the 1911 race, and Gaston Chevrolet won it in 1920.

"Chevrolet and Indianapolis are inextricably linked, sharing one of the longest racing heritages in all of motorsports," said J. Douglas Boles, president of Indianapolis Motor Speedway. "We are proud of the longstanding relationship between Chevrolet and the Speedway, and we love having the Corvette Grand Sport lead the '500' field to the green flag."

Chevrolet is pursuing its sixth consecutive IndyCar manufacturer championship this year, building on a successful 2016 season that saw 14 wins out of 16 races.
