Fishers Plan Commission sends recommendation on iTown

By LARRY LANNAN
LarryinFishers.com

The iTown Church is one step closer to a new church building after the Fishers Plan Commission unanimously approved a recommendation to the city council for approval of plans for a new facility at 126th Street and Brook School Road. The Fishers City Council will have the final say on the proposal.

There were 15 speakers at the public hearing, with a nearly even split between those favoring the new church building and those in opposition. Most of the opponents live in the Gray Eagle subdivision next door to the planned building. Many in the neighborhood objected to the removal of green space from the area to make way for the church and the adjacent parking lot. The iTown Church has approximately 4,000 members.

Members of the church packed the council chambers and were in a clear majority, although a number of those opposing the church building were also in attendance.

Church members speaking at the public hearing talked about the good work of the church, including its outreach to young people. Two WTHR news anchors, Scott Swan and Anne Marie Tiernon, both Fishers residents, are members of iTown church and spoke at the public hearing in favor of the new building.

Fishers City Council member Pete Peterson, also a member of the Plan Commission, repeated what he expressed at a recent city council meeting, that he is concerned about the viability of the Gray Eagle Golf Course if the driving range is demolished. The owner of the golf course has committed to building a new club house replacing the current one that will be torn down to make way for the church.

Judge Sturdevant announces retirement

Judge Wayne Sturdevant of Hamilton Superior Court 5 for 20 years, has decided to retire from the bench effective in November.

Sturdevant

Sturdevant has served since January 1997 when Court 5 was first created by the state legislature.

He will leave office with two years remaining in his current term.

The vacancy will be filled by an appointee chosen by Gov. Eric Holcomb. The judge made his plans known in a recent letter to fellow judges and other county officials.

Noblesville City Councilman Chris Jensen hosts Gov. Holcomb at event

Governor Eric Holcomb recently attended an event held at Noblesville City Councilman Chris Jensen's residence.

Jensen stated, "I have been friends with Governor Holcomb for over a decade, since the time we both worked together in the Daniels' Administration. Julie and I were hosting an event at our home to discuss the future of Noblesville and I invited the Governor to join us. Any time you can have a sitting Governor visit our wonderful city, it is a great thing."

New Noblesville-specific phone number available for Republic Services

In order to streamline any potential concerns, Republic Services has created a specific phone number to only assist City of Noblesville residents, beginning Thursday, June 8. Republic Services, which provides residential garbage pickup and recycling to Noblesville residents, recently created a new call center which supports multiple states. To make contacting the call center less stressful and much easier, Noblesville residents can now call (317) 567-6400.

"We appreciate Republic Services for creating an outlet that specifically answers any issues Noblesville resident may have about their trash or recycling pickup," said Noblesville Street Commissioner Patty Johnson. "The phone number also will be manned by Republic Services employees that live in Noblesville and understand our community."

New Pedal Perks program offers discounts for cyclists

A new countywide initiative offers discounts to residents and visitors who bike the trails and downtowns of Hamilton County. Pedal Perks, which recently kicked off and runs through October, encourages riders to explore the area, experience a new adventure and save money.

"Hamilton County is known for great trails and interesting communities and unique local businesses, so Pedal Perks brings these awesome things together in one fun promotion," said Brenda Myers, president and CEO of Hamilton County Tourism.

Myers said the idea was first sparked by Carmel City Councilman Bruce Kimball, who loves to explore on his bike and encourage others to do the same.

To participate, bicyclists simply need to show proof of their ride to the business. For example, riders can bring in their helmet or take a photo of their bike outside the business.

Chasing Wisdom...

The last valedictorian

By STU CLAMPITT
4th Hawk Consulting

First and foremost, I'd like to congratulate all the graduates of the class of 2017. Well done. Now get out here in the real world and make your marks. I'm also giving a tip of my hat (it's a fedora, by the way) to the last valedictorian from Noblesville High School.

The last.
As in, there will be no more.
You see, dear readers, Noblesville has chosen to join Carmel Clay and Westfield Washington Schools in the move to do away with valedictorian honors.

A long time ago in a high school far far away, I too graduated. I was not the valedictorian, but one of my dear friends was. He gave possibly the worst speech I have ever sat through, but he earned the right to stand up there and speak poorly because he was the most exemplary student my little school turned out that year.

When I finally got serious about my own college education, I was so much older than the average student that when getting a picture taken for my student ID the photographer asked me if I was faculty or staff.

It got under my skin a bit. That is one little reason, combined with the American tradition of competition and being the best, that I made sure I was going to be at the top of my class. I failed at that, not because I performed poorly, but because there was no way to measure it.

I graduated from college with a perfect 4.0 GPA and have a little scrap of metal somewhere in my office that reads "Summa Cum Laude."

Again, I was not the valedictorian. I do not even know what my class rank was. My college stopped tracking class ranks before my graduation and I felt more than a little betrayed. I was immediately reminded of this old joke: What do they call the guy who graduated dead last in his class at medical school? Doctor. Just like the guy who finished first.

Personally, I'd rather not trust my daughter's health to the guy who finished last.

Alright. I admit there is a good deal of respect that comes from finishing the program. But there should be more respect for the person who does it better than anyone else!

We do not hand out participation medals at the Olympics—we award the best athletes.

We do not hire the most mediocre person we can for the job—we hire the best candidate.

The Reporter, Hamilton County's Hometown Newspaper, does not earn your readership for being just another newspaper—we earn it by being the best one in this area.

Our country is not run by the people who RAN for office—it is run by those who WON the elections.

Western culture as a whole—and American culture more than most—is founded on competition and winning.

Finishing the race is indeed an accomplishment, but it is not the goal. Winning is.

I'm Native American. My people ask ourselves what our actions can do to make the world better for the next seven generations to come.

I am also American. I like to win.

I know Westfield Washington Schools have done very well without valedictorians. This year they were listed as the highest ranked school in Hamilton County, 6th overall in Indiana and 561st out of 28,496 high schools reviewed by U.S. News & World Report. Kudos for that.

Too bad none of your students can say they were the top graduate in one of the top high schools in the country.

From someone with a minor in psychology, here is a little secret about how to modify behavior: if you reward a behavior, it increases; if you ignore a behavior, it decreases.

Hamilton County schools, you just removed one of the rewards of academic achievement. Let's just do away with grades while we are at it. Just move to pass-fail. Seven generations from now, maybe we can all be perfectly average.

If there are no winners, we are all losers. Isn't equality grand?

Survey seeks Hamilton County residents' opinions on transit

Indy Connect's new online survey asks Hamilton County residents their opinions about transit for their county. The input will guide community conversations this fall.

The survey is part of the transit planning process for Indy Connect – the partnership of the Central Indiana Regional Transportation Authority, Indianapolis Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) and IndyGo.

"We want to hear what residents think about transit, whether they are enthusiast about it or not," said Anna Gremling, executive director of the MPO.

Under Indiana law, Hamilton County has the opportunity to put on either the 2018 or 2020 ballot a referendum regarding funding for a better transportation system within the county or in a specific township.

"We know it can be tough for people to come out to public meetings to share their opinions, so we're using this online interactive tool to make it convenient for residents to provide input whenever they want," said Gremling. "The best plans incorporate a lot of community input. We feel the survey will help us reach a wider variety of people in the community than those who are able to attend public meetings."

Gaining resident input is so important that street teams will be at various locations in Hamilton County helping people take the survey this summer. Street team members will be wearing blue "Ask me about Transit" shirts and will be at shopping malls, libraries and festivals.

The survey questions explore what transit tradeoffs residents want, their preferences on ways to structure a system, how they might use transit, and whether they want transit in their community.

The survey can be found at <https://talktransithamilton.metroquest.com/>.

City of Carmel, Carmel Green Initiative to co-host...

Solarize Hamilton County 2017

The City of Carmel and Carmel Green Initiative (CGI) have partnered to co-host the Solarize Hamilton County 2017 Campaign. The goal of this community education program is to increase understanding of solar investments, simplify the solar installation process, enable access to program discounts, and advance as many solar installations as possible in 2017. Solarize programs leverage the best possible pricing through group discounts.

"Energy independence for our country should be a goal for all Americans. By embracing solar technology, not only will our residents be contributing towards this goal, but they will also save money and reduce carbon emissions," said Mayor Jim Brainard. "The Solarize Hamilton County program gives participants a roadmap on how to save energy and it also supports local energy businesses."

The solarize campaign will be launched on Saturday, June 24. It takes place from 1 to 4 p.m. at Carmel City Hall and is free and open to the public. Reggie Henderson, General Manager of Energy Solutions at Telamon Corp will give an overview of the benefits of solar energy including net metering and how you can benefit. Attendees will learn the basics about solar for their home or business, how net metering affects return on investment, and how to select a solar installer. Attendees will also have the opportunity to talk to select solar installers offering a group discount for the campaign.

"We're excited to partner with the City of Carmel for the solarize program to raise awareness," said Leslie Webb, President of CGI. "To maximize the economic benefit of their solar investment, people need to have their solar installations done this year. The solarize campaign will help them do that at a good price."

In April, Gov. Eric Holcomb signed Senate Bill 309 to phase out net metering in Indiana. According to this new law, solar installations completed in 2017 will Midway ride will rise 35 feet above Main Street...

New Subaru Skyride attraction to debut at 2017 Indiana State Fair

Artistic rendering provided

Visitors to this year's Indiana State Fair will get the chance to see the sights from high above the fairgrounds with the addition of the NEW Subaru Skyride.

The Subaru Skyride is an amusement ride operated by North American Midway Entertainment (NAME), the Fair's Midway operator, and is similar to a ski chairlift. Rising approximately 35 feet above the ground over the span of 1,400 feet, the 90-chair aerial lift will travel east and west in a continuous loop between the Swine Barn and the Midway. Riders can enter and exit the ride on either end for a seven-minute journey above the fairgrounds. Cost of a one-way ride is $5 per rider.

The attraction, which also operates at several other large Fairs in North America, will give riders a birds-eye view of the fairgrounds.

"We are always seeking new opportunities to offer our Fairgoers the best possible experience, and we believe this new attraction accomplishes that," said Cindy Hoye, Executive Director of the Indiana State Fairgrounds & Event Center. "We are grateful for the support of NAME for their investment in this endeavor and Subaru's continued partnership with the Fair."

NAME funded construction of the Skyride while Subaru of Indiana Automotive, Inc. signed a two-year deal to be the title sponsor. The ride will only be operational during the 17-day Indiana State Fair each year. The chairs will carry two adults comfortably, or two adults and a small child. Riders must be 32 inches to ride with an accompanying adult or 48 inches tall to ride alone.

"Subaru of Indiana Automotive, Inc. (SIA) is proud to partner with a great Indiana institution, the Indiana State Fair, to bring Hoosiers another fun way to celebrate for many summers to come," said Tom Easterday, Senior Executive Vice President at SIA. "Subaru vehicles made in Lafayette are a great way to travel across the nation. The Subaru Skyride is a great way to travel across the Fairgrounds. We know Hoosiers will appreciate that both are built right here in Indiana, and both highlight Indiana's strengths."

Follow the progress of the Skyride construction by using the hashtag - #SubaruSkyride

Get tire savvy to help your family stay safe on the road

StatePoint

Today's cars come with some impressive features. But no matter what up-to-date tech your car boasts, it's your tires that connect it to the road, playing a crucial role in safety and performance.

With more than a century of experience, the experts at Cooper Tires are offering facts and tips every driver should know.

Air Pressure

Proper inflation can extend a tire's life and increase fuel efficiency, saving you money. Don't be fooled by visuals, however. Even when tires look properly inflated, they may be under-inflated by as much as 50 percent. Also, tire pressure decreases when temperatures drop, so the changing seasons are a good reminder to check pressure.

Ensure valve caps are on every tire, and when replacing tires, have a new valve stem assembly installed. They keep out moisture and dirt, and provide an additional seal to maintain inflation.

Tread

Tire tread helps maintain traction, improves handling and helps prevent hydroplaning. Additionally, bald tires are more likely to be damaged by potholes and other road hazards. The tread on your tires should be more than 2/32 of an inch deep.

Replacing Tires

While ideally, you'll replace all four tires at once, if you can only purchase two, the new pair should always be installed on the rear axle. This will help maintain control on wet roads and during sudden maneuvers. Never purchase or install used tires.

Used tires, especially those with an unknown history, should be considered dangerous.

Seasonal Considerations

"All season" tires are designed for year-round moderate weather. For severe winter conditions, install winter tires formulated to improve braking and handling on snow and ice. Many brands identify winter tires with a special icon. On Cooper Tires for example, look for the 3-Peak Mountain or Snowflake symbol located on the tire's sidewall.

Self-Inspection

A 10-minute, do-it-yourself inspection will get you road-ready. Follow these steps monthly and before long road trips.

- Air pressure. Check air pressure when tires are cool (a minimum of three hours after driving).

For proper inflation pressure, don't check the tire's sidewall, which indicates maximum pressure allowed. Instead, check your vehicle's owner's manual or the placard found on the driver's side doorjamb, glove box or fuel door.

Remove the valve cap, take the tire gauge and press firmly on the valve stem. If the reading is lower than the recommended level, add air and check again. Over inflated? Push on the metal valve core with the nub on the back of the tire gauge. Once the recommended pressure is reached, replace the valve cap.

- Tread. Insert the edge of a penny in the tire tread with Lincoln's head down. If the top of his head is visible at any point around the tire, it's time to replace the tire.

- Overall condition. Check for cuts, cracks, splits, punctures, irregular wear and bulges. If any are spotted, or if you're doubtful about the condition of your tires, get a professional inspection.

For more safety tips and information, visit coopertire.com.

Tires are more important than many drivers realize. To help your family stay safe on the road, get tire-savvy.

Boys golf regionals

Millers, Greyhounds are champs

Fishers makes first-ever state meet; Westfield, HSE's Alexander also qualify

It was a beautiful day for golf regionals, and a nice day to make some history as well. Four Hamilton County teams finished in the top three at their respective regionals, thus qualifying for next week's state tournament at Prairie View Golf Club. Noblesville triumphed at the Muncie Central regional at The Players Club in Yorktown, with Fishers placing third for its first ever state berth. Over at Battle Ground Golf Club, Carmel won the Lafayette Jeff regional, and Westfield finished third.

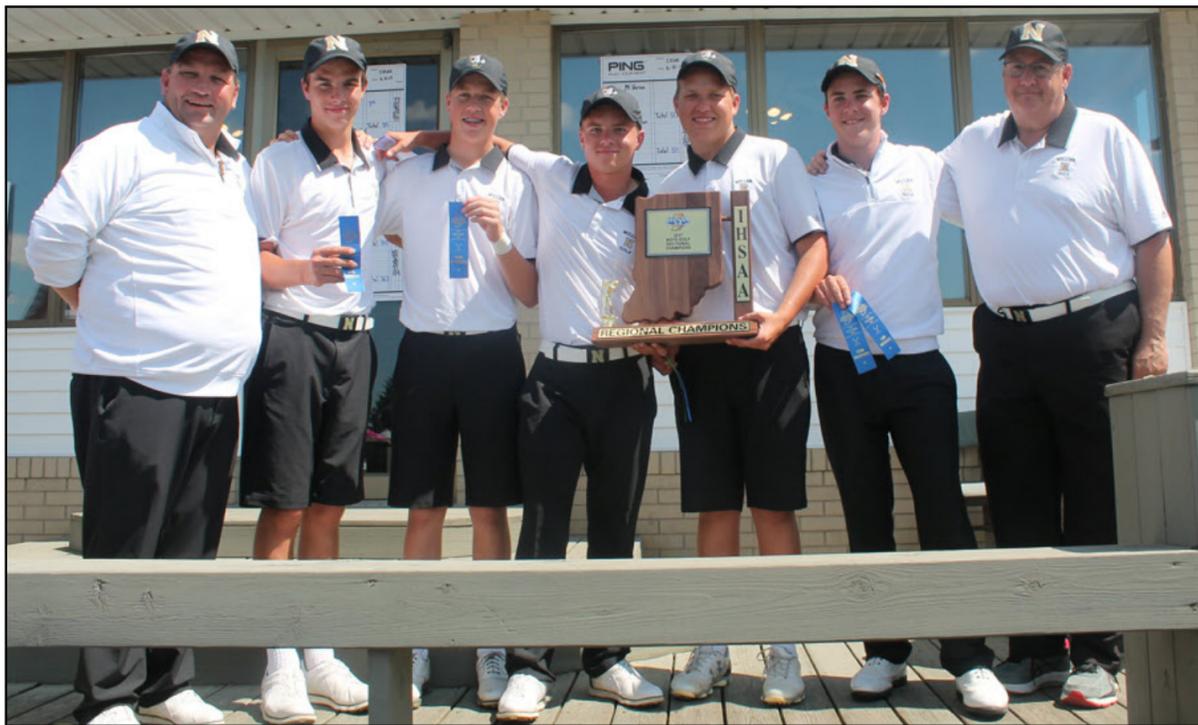

The Millers' victory gave them a first regional trophy since 2012. Coupled with Monday's sectional championship at Purgatory Golf Club, it's the third time that Noblesville swept sectional and regional titles, and the first time since 2005. Overall, it's the sixth regional title for NHS.

The Millers won with a score of 288, matching their sectional championship score. Noblesville coach Gary Sewell said his team has "been waiting for this all year," and everything came to fruition on Thursday.

"We knew how well we could play," said Sewell. "The last two weeks, we've been able to do that, put things together. It helps when Clay goes out and shoots 66."

Clay Merchent had an outstanding day on the course, winning individual medalist honors by six shots over second place. Merchent fired off seven birdies in his round, including a string of four in a row at one point.

"It's been close all year, hasn't really come around yet," said Merchent. The sophomore said he has thrown some good scores up on the board this season, and kept working on the off-season. That work is paying off now.

If Merchent provided the flash, Noblesville's other four scores provided the foundation for the victory. Mitchell Compton carded a 73 (with five birdies), Parker Deakyne shot 74 (one birdie), Jacob Deakyne scored 75 (four birdies) and John Barnes carded 76 (two birdies).

Compton's score placed him third individually, while Parker Deakyne tied for fifth.

"Everybody is peaking at the right time," said Sewell. The coach said that Merchent's incredible round took the pressure off his teammates, since they didn't have to force things to happen on the course.

"They can just let things happen, and that's when usually you play your best," said Sewell.

"It's really exciting stuff," said Merchent. "It's good to be able to still win even if you didn't get to count the 66."

By making it to state, Jacob Deakyne will be fourth golfer in his family to play at state. Grandfather Pete Deakyne and father Gary Deakyne also represented Noblesville at the state meet, and Parker Deakyne played as an individual at Prairie View last year - now his whole team will join him.

Fishers joined in the excitement by making it to state for the first time. The Tigers made it to Prairie View by a whisker: Fishers and Hamilton Southeastern each finished with 315, but the Tigers won on the fifth-man score. Cathedral placed second with 311.

"It's an awesome feeling," said Fishers coach Keith Andrews. "So happy for our kids. They've played so well this year."

Shivom Patel and Noah Chamberlin both scored 77s for the Tigers. Chamberlin had two birdies, while Patel made one birdie. Bryce Robertson's 78 included two birdies. Nick Fisher had one birdie.

"Our boat was leaking a little bit down the stretch, but we were able to hold it together just enough to finish," said Andrews. "I can't say enough about our kids, how well they hold things together."

The Royals will have a player at state: Drew Alexander's 76 got him one of the spots reserved for individuals not on an advancing team. Alexander made four birdies in his round Thursday.

"It definitely is a bit of a bummer that the whole team didn't qualify," said Alexander, "but Noblesville offered to bring me along during their practice round, and I'm just really excited to play with them and then playing at state's going to be a great experience, my last chance for All-State."

Luke Jolly's 79 also included four birdies, while Alex Bullington made one birdie on his way to a 79. Will Kirchmer had one birdie as well.

Up at Battle Ground, Carmel broke its seven-year regional drought by edging Zionsville 296-298. With the win, the Greyhounds picked up their 13th regional championship, an IHSAA record. Westfield's 301 was easily good enough for third place and marks the sixth consecutive year the Shamrocks will play at state.

Carmel had two players finish as part of a four-way tie for third place: Cole Harris and Kevin Stone both shot even-par 72s. Harris drained five birdies in his round, while Stone made two. Curtis Robertson's round of 75 included three birdies, and Clay Stirman carded three birdies on his way to a 77.

Westfield's Andrew Lewis finished as the individual runner-up with a one-under par 71; he made three birdies on the day. Noah Shanteau was also part of the third-place tie with his 72, including five birdies. Josh Kehl had two birdies on his way to a 75.

Project times are 5 p.m. Tuesday, June 13; 9 a.m. Saturday, July 15 and 9 a.m. Sunday, July 30.

All business owners, student-athletes, band members, parents, grandparents, Noblesville High School alumni, and clubs or individuals needing community service hours are invited.

If you are interested in helping, please attend one or more of the dates listed above. Please call Annie Davis at 317-518-6416 if you have questions or if you are a business owner and would like to donate a product and/or service.
