Two more candidates announce run for Kenley's seat

Two more candidates announced they will be running for Indiana's District 20 Senate seat, which is being vacated by Luke Kenley.

Current Hamilton County Council member Brad Beaver made the announcement on Thursday, as did Noblesville resident and businessman Joe Morris.

"I have served on the Hamilton County Council for 20 years," said Beaver. "I have never missed a County Council meeting and during my tenure I have never raised property taxes. Yet the Council has still managed to accumulate a $50 million surplus. Hamilton County is one of the most fiscally sound governmental entities in the State. While some politicians may claim to be conservative - I have proven my commitment to taxpayers over the last 20 years. I feel this record clearly sets me apart from other candidates."

"Indiana is the envy of the Midwest, in large part because it has elected state representatives and senators who have exercised fiscal restraint while making our State a beacon for economic development. We must ensure that we send another proven conservative to the Statehouse - one who will be a good steward of taxpayer money and pursue a truly conservative agenda. I am confident that I am the candidate that is most prepared to do this."

Beaver was born and raised in Noblesville, graduating from Noblesville High School in 1977. After college, he started his own heating and cooling business. He is a fourth-generation small business owner in Hamilton County. He has been married to his wife, Trini, for 27 years and has three adult children.

During his 20 years on the County Council, Beaver has served on various boards and committees including Hamilton County Plan Commission, Board of Zoning Appeals, County Solid Waste Board, Personnel Committee and Finance Committee. Throughout the years he has been active coaching basketball at the Noblesville Boys and Girls Club. He is a member of White River Christian Church.

"I have spent my entire life living and working in Senate District 20," said Beaver. "I am eager to take that next step and serve as Hamilton County's Senator in the Statehouse."

"What a great opportunity for Hamilton County and District 20 to continue a strong tradition of new ideas, continued growth and leadership for the communities of District 20 and the State of Indiana," said Morris. "I can't think of a time better than now to join hands with the residents & leaders of Hamilton County and bring our ideas, professional experience and creativity to the State Capital. Having discussed this decision with my family, friends and several leaders in Noblesville, Carmel, Fishers and Westfield; these business leaders, community leaders and faith leaders all helped me come to this decision. It's a great time to be able to represent so many great people, families, businesses and communities in District 20."

Beyond his 25 years of professional experience in business, sales, management, zation into our affiliate network and help broaden its impact for musicians, students, historians and all devotees of American music."

The GRAMMY Museum affiliation became official Thursday at the Palladium with a ceremony that included a plaque presentation from Santelli and remarks from Songbook Foundation Founder Michael Feinstein, Foundation Executive Director Chris Lewis, Center for the Performing Arts Interim President/CEO Jeffrey C. McDermott and Carmel Mayor Jim Brainard.

"We share so much with the GRAMMY Museum in terms of our artistic, historical and educational mission," said Feinstein, the celebrated performer and preservationist known as "the ambassador of the Great American Songbook." "It is tremendously gratifying to me, both personally and professionally, to see the cultural importance of the Songbook being recognized in this way."

Lewis said the affiliation poses exciting possibilities for the Songbook Foundation's many educational and outreach programs aimed at schools, community groups and music lovers of all ages. The announcement came during the Foundation's annual Songbook Academy®, a summer intensive that draws top high school performers from across the country for a week of workshops, performances and mentoring from Feinstein and other performing arts professionals. The two organizations have been in talks for months about the potential for collaborative exhibitions and education initiatives, Lewis said.

The Songbook Foundation and the Center for the Performing Arts are housed in facilities built by the City of Carmel as part of its strategy to leverage the arts as a driver for economic development. Mayor Brainard said the GRAMMY Museum affiliation reinforces the growing regional and national reputation of a city that is regularly ranked among the best places to live in the United States.

"This is exciting news not only for Carmel but for the entire region," Carmel Mayor Jim Brainard said. "We're proud to be known nationally as a community that supports and celebrates the arts."

Kroger to acquire Fishers Marsh location

The former Marsh location at 12520 E. 116th St. in Fishers is one of 11 stores that is being acquired by a subsidiary of the Kroger Co.

Representatives of Topvalco and Marsh signed the closing papers on Thursday. The signatures represent the conclusion of an acquisition approved by a federal bankruptcy court last month.

- The other stores on the list are:
- Bloomington, 1825 Kinser Pike
  - Bloomington, 123 S. Kingston Drive
  - Brownsburg, 843 E. Main Street
  - Greenwood, 2904 S. Ind. 135
  - Indianapolis, 227 W. Michigan Street
  - Indianapolis, 1435 W. 86th Street
  - Muncie, 1500 W. McGalliard Road
  - Muncie, 715 S. Tillotson Avenue
  - Zionsville, 10679 N. Michigan Road
  - Zionsville, 5 Boone Village

Each store has been the subject of a preliminary study by a Kroger task force. The team has been evaluating each building from top to bottom, from the roof to the parking lot. Deferred maintenance will be among the first issues addressed during the renovation.

Kroger engineers will focus their attention on these seven stores: West Michigan in downtown Indianapolis, both Zionsville stores, both Muncie stores, Kinser Pike in Bloomington, and the store in Brownsburg.

The future of the four remaining stores in this purchase, including the Fishers location, will be determined once the team identifies the use that best fits its needs and those of the surrounding community.

While the company understands the excitement that comes with anticipation of a new neighborhood Kroger store, re-opening is not as simple as taking possession of a building and turning the lights back on. A traditional renovation, in a busy store, may require six to eight months. Working when the stores are empty, as they are now, allows Kroger engineers to accelerate the remodeling. Kroger will dedicate more than $20 million to renovate the buildings, prepare them for additional features, and add energy saving technology that is part of the Kroger commitment to become a Zero Waste company by 2020.

Kroger is also proud to welcome several hundred former Marsh employees to the Kroger family. Many are already in training or working at nearby stores. Kroger is pleased to see so many people are eager to continue their careers with the company. The Kroger Human Resources team remains open to interviewing all interested job seekers. Kroger expects to provide positions to a substantial number of the people who worked at these former Marsh locations. Kroger respects and appreciates their commitment to the grocery business, so we are eager to add their experience to our team and help them grow with.

The Kroger company is as excited as anyone to open these stores and offer Kroger service and value to even more Hoosier shoppers. It will happily offer updates on the projects as the work progresses.

Noblesville's Higginbotham awarded top scholarship at Indiana State

Kathryn Higginbotham of Noblesville is one of just 20 students to receive Indiana State University's most esteemed scholarship, The President's Scholarship.

The award provides full, in-state tuition and premium housing – a four-year value of more than $76,000. The recipients are chosen based on their academic merit during their time in high school, personal accomplishments and interviews during their on-campus visits.

Higginbotham is the daughter of Ann and Scott Higginbotham. In high school, Higginbotham was involved several of her school's choir ensembles, her church choir and theater. She was also involved with Key Club and the speech and debate team. During her time at Indiana State, she plans to major in communication.

"For me, one of the most anticipated events of the academic year is the competition held each January on the Indiana State University campus. Only the best and brightest high school seniors from Indiana and across the country are selected from more than 217 competitors, each vying for a President's Scholarship," said John Beacon, senior vice president for enrollment management, marketing and communications at Indiana State. "Meeting so many bright, eager and talented high school seniors is reassuring that the future of this country will indeed be in good hands for years to come."

Millers busy off the field...

Noblesville football team is working hard in the community

By KATHY RICHARDSON

Noblesville High School's home opening football game is less than a month away, and your Miller students, athletes, coaches, parents and fans have been really busy throughout the entire year preparing for this season. Successful academic and athletic programs are a full-time commitment. Although football games take place August through November, work goes on well beyond this schedule.

You see, your Millers in the off-season have been busy with academics, weight training, memorizing plays and helping out their community. To be a well-rounded student athlete, it is important to have success in all of these areas. The Millers got to work shortly after the 2016 season, preparing in the weight room with Coach Brian Clarke. Coach Clarke averaged 400 students participating in Championship Wednesday where athletes began their day at 5:50 a.m. for Athletic Development Training, including strength and conditioning.

Off the field, members of the Noblesville football team have been working hard in our community. From January through May, the team contributed 327 service hours to food pantries at Grace Community Church and White River Christian Church. They also participated in the Resident Prom at Prairie Lakes where they danced the night away, crowned the prom queen, and helped make the event a success.

Throughout the summer, you may have also seen Miller football players as they worked an additional 375 hours in our community. They volunteered at the Hamilton County Recreation Camp and assisted SERVE Noblesville at the Hamilton County Fair in order to prepare the grounds for this major event.

July has been an extremely busy time for the Millers. Team members joined the Methodist Church in hosting a pulled-pork dinner and a picnic-style dinner at Ginger's. In both cases, it was the players who were serving and working hard to be out in the community.

They have also assisted the Technology Department at Noblesville High School in unboxing and getting 3,000 iPads ready in preparation of the new school year.

For the Noblesville Millers, it is more than just football. Their program is about developing student athletes who have a sense of community pride and want to help their fellow citizens.

According to Noblesville High School's varsity football head coach, Jason Simmons, the community service component of the program is a staple.

"We want to develop young men that are grateful for the opportunities they have been given in life. We often talk about being selfless in our program. Embracing the community-service opportunities and giving back to the community are ways for us to live the selflessness we are trying to create. Noblesville is a great city that loves its Millers. We get a tremendous amount of support from the community on Friday nights in the fall and other times. The least we can do is give back to those that are supporting us along the way. We take a great deal of pride in representing our community and Noblesville Schools in everything we do."

Noblesville students who are participating in their community and lending a helping hand are setting a great example and being true role models in our schools. Hopefully, many of these young people make Noblesville their home when they become adults, and by being involved in their community at a young age, they will feel a sense of ownership of Noblesville and understand how many great opportunities are offered here.

Thanks to all who have been so supportive in our philanthropy efforts and in preparation of the upcoming season, including those who helped out on Saturday, July 15. We had a great day at the Hare Chevrolet Field as players, coaches, parents and fans came together for a "clean up day." There was painting, mulching, planting and cleaning up of the field in preparation of the upcoming football season and on behalf of all the other programs that use the facility.

I hope others will want to get involved and support our schools by volunteering with or attending athletic and academic functions.

It is very exciting to not only see students getting involved, but also having parents working side-by-side on some of these projects. Around Noblesville, you may see the hashtag #WAT, which stands for We Are Together. This captures our positive attitude, sense of tradition, love of community, hometown pride and support of our Miller family. Together, we can make a difference.

Good luck, Millers!

Fitness: How badly do you want it?

By SHARON MCMAHON

"It is our choices, Harry, that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities."
J.K. Rowling, Harry Potter and the Chamber of Secrets

When I am sometimes asked about the biggest challenge that people face regarding a change in their eating plans, losing weight and becoming more fit, the answer is always the same; it is making the choice, the decision, for a lifestyle change. Particularly as we age it becomes more difficult, we get very comfortable with our lifestyle although we express an interest in changing it. And, ultimately, the success comes down to one question – "How badly do you want this?" And often the answer is "Not badly enough" – to make the necessary changes, that is.

With each decade and even with each year that passes our habits become more ingrained, our beliefs and feelings about food and exercise are more difficult to change. One concern I frequently hear from clients is that they are afraid that their food choices will be greatly restricted by changing their eating habits to a healthier plan. Nothing could be further from the truth! While allowing for the plethora of packaged, processed, convenience foods staring at us from grocery shelves, the opportunities for wholesome, healthy items have never been more plentiful. However, most of these items require – you guessed it – preparation! Actually combining fresh ingredients and enjoying the process as well as the outcome will not only foster weight reduction and better health, but you will actually enjoy the taste of your food much more as well. Heavily processed foods dull our taste buds, using additives like excess sugar and salt as well as preservatives and chemicals – items that were never intended to nourish our bodies.

Does it take more time to actually shop for fresh food, combining ingredients and savoring our accomplishment as we enjoy the taste – the answer is yes. We are often loathe to take time away from our social media pursuits so that we can spend more time on eating well, eating clean, and engaging in physical activity. And, back to the topic today, that is the choice that must be made, so "How badly do you want it?" again becomes the question. Are you prepared to pass up the convenience items (I won't call them food...) and the drive-up windows? How about just say "NO" to those soft drinks? As far as a "special" treat occasionally – why not! Enjoy cake and ice cream on your birthday, a Christmas cookie or two – you get the picture. Will you take time away from electronic devices to walk every day, to practice stretching to keep your body flexible and balanced, to participate in some level of strength training to keep your muscles strong and toned? It is not required that we train at a competition level, but that we move our bodies as much as possible. The outcome does take work, sometimes sacrifice, and focus on the goal. Success is waiting for anyone who wants to live healthier, longer, and more productively. In 2017 we are so blessed and fortunate to have access to tremendous health care facilities, nutrition education, walking trails, and numerous other opportunities to stay healthy and fit. No one else can make the choices for you – and though I am tempted to ask the question one more time, I won't...you know both the question and the answer. If you are already there, congratulations, if you are working toward the goal but not quite there, kudos, keep it up. And if you are considering making those nutrition and fitness lifestyle changes, now is the time and you can do it!

Aimed at Hoosiers using personal computers...

Attorney General Hill warns of tech support scams

Attorney General Curtis Hill is warning Hoosiers to beware of deceptive pop-up alerts on their computers claiming that their devices are infected with viruses and could be vulnerable to hackers.

Individuals are being targeted through pop-up messages designed to resemble security alerts from legitimate computer manufacturers or other technology companies. The pop-up alerts claim that a computer user's device has been infected and requires immediate attention or else the hard drive will be deleted. In reality, the user's device typically has not been infected with a virus.

The pop-up alerts often provide a toll-free number at which users supposedly may receive assistance. Once consumers call the number on the pop-up alert, they are told to give remote access to their computers to allow a "help desk" to run a series of "diagnostic tests" to find the source of the problem so that a "certified technician" may repair the problem. If the person posing as a tech support specialist obtains access, he or she can steal personal information, usernames and passwords to commit identity theft or send spam messages. In some cases, individuals are persuaded to pay fees – sometimes hundreds of dollars – in order to fix the supposed issues on their computers. The caller may even be asked for a wired payment or credit card information.

Tech support scams aren't exclusive to pop-up alerts on your computer. Scammers will also call claiming to work for Microsoft, Windows or another trusted company and ask for remote access of the targeted victim's computer -- hoping to steal personal and sensitive information. The Office of the Indiana Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division (CPD) has received 111 tech support complaints so far this year.

The CPD advises individuals to ignore these security alert pop-ups in order to avoid losing their hard-earned money to one of the fastest-growing scams on the internet.

Hoosiers are encouraged to contact the Consumer Protection Division of the Office of the Indiana Attorney General if they believe they have been scammed. You can reach the CPD by visiting IndianaConsumer.com or calling 1-800-382-5516.

Keep tires well-maintained to help you stay safe on the road.

Get tire savvy to help your family stay safe on the road

StatePoint

Today's cars come with some impressive features. But no matter what up-to-date tech your car boasts, it's your tires that connect it to the road, playing a crucial role in safety and performance.

With more than a century of experience, the experts at Cooper Tires are offering facts and tips every driver should know.

Air Pressure

Proper inflation can extend a tire's life and increase fuel efficiency, saving you money. Don't be fooled by visuals, however. Even when tires look properly inflated, they may be under-inflated by as much as 50 percent. Also, tire pressure decreases when temperatures drop, so the changing seasons are a good reminder to check pressure.

Ensure valve caps are on every tire, and when replacing tires, have a new valve stem assembly installed. They keep out moisture and dirt, and provide an additional seal to maintain inflation.

Tread

Tire tread helps maintain traction, improves handling and helps prevent hydroplaning. Additionally, bald tires are more likely to be damaged by potholes and other road hazards. The tread on your tires should be more than 2/32 of an inch deep.

Replacing Tires

While ideally, you'll replace all four tires at once, if you can only purchase two, the new pair should always be installed on the rear axle. This will help maintain control on wet roads and during sudden maneuvers.

Never purchase or install used tires. Used tires, especially those with an unknown history, should be considered dangerous.

Seasonal Considerations

"All season" tires are designed for year-round moderate weather. For severe winter conditions, install winter tires formulated to improve braking and handling on snow and ice. Many brands identify winter tires with a special icon. On Cooper Tires for example, look for the 3-Peak Mountain or Snowflake symbol located on the tire's sidewall.

Self-Inspection

A 10-minute, do-it-yourself inspection will get you road-ready. Follow these steps monthly and before long road trips.

- Air pressure. Check air pressure when tires are cool (a minimum of three hours after driving).

For proper inflation pressure, don't check the tire's sidewall, which indicates maximum pressure allowed. Instead, check your vehicle's owner's manual or the placard found on the driver's side doorjamb, glove box or fuel door.

Remove the valve cap, take the tire gauge and press firmly on the valve stem. If the reading is lower than the recommended level, add air and check again. Over inflated? Push on the metal valve core with the nub on the back of the tire gauge. Once the recommended pressure is reached, replace the valve cap.

- Tread. Insert the edge of a penny in the tire tread with Lincoln's head down. If the top of his head is visible at any point around the tire, it's time to replace the tire.

- Overall condition. Check for cuts, cracks, splits, punctures, irregular wear and bulges. If any are spotted, or if you're doubtful about the condition of your tires, get a professional inspection.

Tires are more important than many drivers realize. To help your family stay safe on the road, get tire-savvy.

IHSAA Student Advisory Committee members announced for 2017-18 season

Eighteen high school student-athletes from across the Hoosier State will begin the school year as members of the 2017-18 IHSAA Student Advisory Committee (SAC).

Nine incoming juniors will join nine seniors beginning their second year with the group which will receive hands-on experience in various areas as well as serve as a voice to the IHSAA staff.

Each year, the IHSAA receives nominations from school principals on behalf of student-athletes from IHSAA member schools. From that group of nominations, 20 are selected for interviews by members of the IHSAA Executive Committee, Executive Staff and returning members of the SAC. From those interviews, nine juniors are invited to join the group of nine seniors.

Individuals who will serve as part of this year's committee include:

Name	Grade	School
Kye Barrett	11	Mooreville
Alexis Brown	12	Oldenburg Academy
Caroline Cherry	11	Bloomington North
Matthew Cotner	12	Highland
Refik Omer Dogruyol	11	Fort Wayne Wayne
Carter Filchak	12	Bremen
Taylor Hall	12	Indianapolis Crispus Attucks
Carmen Johnson	11	Monrovia

The SAC, which began in 2001-02, represents the entire IHSAA membership of 409 schools, and its structure reflects that of the IHSAA Board of Directors in terms of classification and districts.

The SAC meets four times annually – twice each semester – and is responsible for hosting meetings with student peers at the upcoming Fall Area Principals Meetings; assisting with the awards ceremonies at IHSAA state championship events throughout the school year, planning and administering the annual IHSAA Student Leadership Conference in June and; to engage in and support the activities of Special Olympics Indiana including the Unified Track & Field State Tournament.

Other SAC functions include the development of an IHSAA Captain's Handbook which is posted to IHSAA.org as well as assisting in the creation of multiple public service announcements addressing good sporting behavior which will be utilized during 2017-18 state championships events.

Hot shooting Stars roll past Fever

San Antonio did not shoot like a team searching for only its third win just days before the WNBA's midseason All-Star Break. The Stars shot a season-high 60 percent from the floor while limiting visiting Indiana to only 35 percent shooting en route to claiming an 85-61 victory at AT&T Center.

San Antonio snapped a two-game losing streak since beating the Fever on July 12. Indiana lost for the sixth time in seven games while absorbing a road loss just 24 hours after defeating Phoenix on the road Wednesday. Trailing by 32 points with 3:44 remaining, the Fever scored 10 of the game's final 12 points to avoid their worst margin of defeat this season (27 at Dallas).

"I didn't like our defensive energy from the beginning," said Fever coach Pokey Chatman. "We missed shots early, and that's part of basketball, but I didn't like our long shots and we never played with any confidence on the defensive end."

Second-year center Isabelle Harrison had game highs of 18 points and nine rebounds for the Stars. She hit 8-of-10 shots to help the Stars collect their third victory against 18 losses, beating Indiana for the second time in a week. Rookie guard Kelsey Plum added 16, and point guard Moriah Jefferson pitched in 11 points with eight assists.

Tiffany Mitchell paced Indiana with 13 points. Six-time All-Star forward Candice Dupree, who scored the Fever's first six points, finished with nine. Dupree finished with a team-high six rebounds to move past Michelle Snow into eighth place on the WNBA's career rebounding chart.

Indiana breaks for the WNBA All-Star Game on Saturday, prior to resuming its schedule and concluding a four-game road swing, against Dallas next Tuesday.
