Two Westfield parks test positive for West Nile

The REPORTER

Mosquitoes carrying the West Nile virus have been found in two Westfield parks.

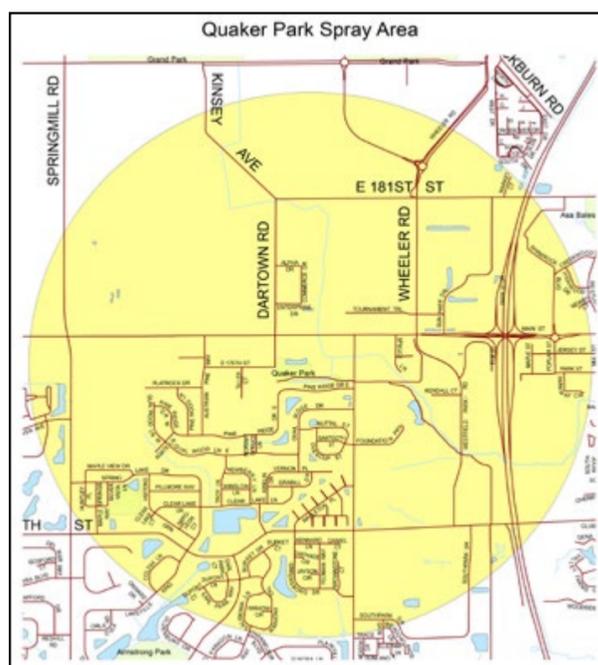

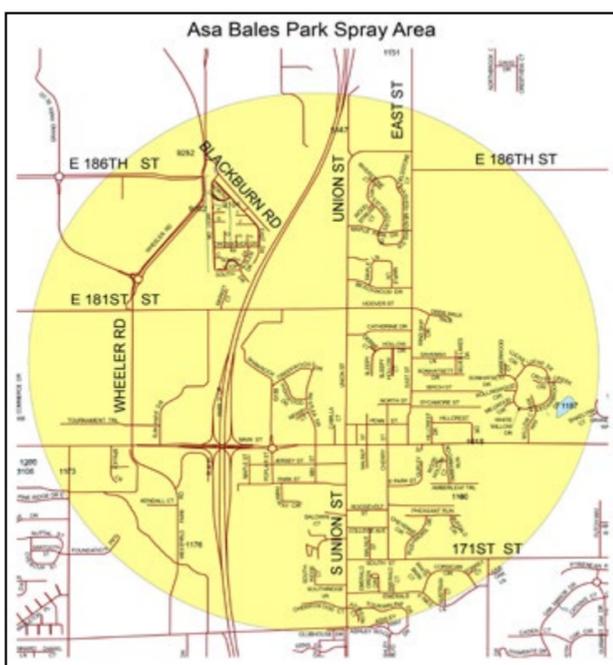

The Hamilton County Health Department indicated mosquitoes taken from Quaker Park and Asa Bales Park have tested positive for the virus, which can cause West Nile fever.

The Hamilton County Health Department began fogging areas nearby both parks on Tuesday.

Health officials encourage residents to use bug spray when outdoors and avoid being outside activities when mosquitoes are active (especially late afternoon, dusk to dawn and early morning).

Resident are also encouraged to apply an EPA-registered insect repellent containing DEET, picaridin, IR3535, oil of lemon eucalyptus or para-menthane-diol to clothes and exposed skin.

The highlighted area of both maps at right indicate areas to be fogged.

In the event of inclement weather (high winds or precipitation) individual routes will be rescheduled for the next business day.

'Muncee Town' program coming to Sheridan

The REPORTER

On Monday evening, Aug. 14, the Sheridan Historical Society will be presenting a free public program about the origin of Muncie, Ind., as it relates to the presence of the Lenape American Indian village of "Muncee Town". The time period covered will be from the Treaty of Greenville to the Treaties of Saint Mary's.

The program is being done by Chris Flook, the president of the Delaware County Historical Society and an instructor at Ball State University. In addition to the historical roots of Muncie, Flook will also be speaking about an interesting video presentation on this subject that was produced by students in his class.

This is but one of several interesting programs that have been offered over the years by the Sheridan Historical Society. Each February the Society presents an annual Boxley Lecture Series program which celebrates the founding father of Sheridan by bringing an impersonator of a famous American hero to our community to entertain and educate our residents and students. The annual Society fund raising dinner in the spring features guest speakers and periodically throughout the year the Society's monthly meetings feature free programming for the public.

If you are an Indiana history buff or you want to know more about the early Indian presence in central Indiana or you just want to hang out with friends and neighbors, mark your calendar for 7 p.m.

New "Where to Donate" directory helps Hamilton County residents easily assist food insecure families this summer

The REPORTER
It's the time of year when backyard gardeners often bring their excess produce to work to share with others. If you have extra vegetables and fruits that you can't use, the Hamilton County Soil & Water Conservation District asks that you consider dropping them off directly at one of the food pantries in Hamilton County where they will be given to food insecure families. A one page directory of all food pantries that accept produce donations from the public is available to view and print at www.HamiltonSWCD.org/FoodPantries. The directory includes the names of the food pantries along with their addresses and the days/times that they accept donations.

Donations of all sizes are appreciated and used. For example, a few tomatoes donated from someone's backyard garden may not seem like a lot, but every amount of donated produce adds up and will be distributed to food insecure families. Non-gardeners are also welcome to participate by donating fresh produce bought from a farmers market or grocery store.

For questions or more information about the "Where To Donate" directory, call the SWCD office at (317) 773-2181.

Located near the present day Minnetrista Cultural Center in downtown Muncie, this Indian village eventually became the location for the present day City of Muncie.

Monday evening, Aug. 14. The program will take place in the Community Room of the Sheridan Public Library. And best of all, it is free.

The Sheridan Historical Society offers an annual membership for $20 and a lifetime membership for $110. The Society meets on the second Monday evening of each month, and the museum on Main Street is open every Tuesday and Friday afternoons from 1 to 4 p.m.

Especially now the Sheridan Historical Society appreciates your support as they prepare to move into their new building, the old Hippodrome movie house on Main Street. If you would like further information about their pending move and how you can help them accomplish it, please come to one of their meetings or stop by the museum.

Considerations for opioid use among seniors

"The aim of the wise is not to secure pleasure, but to avoid pain."

—Aristotle

My topic this week is one that we hear more about almost daily – the increasing opioid epidemic in our country. It is a topic about which I know little really, but feel compelled to address especially as it relates to the mature adults and elderly in our population. Obviously many, many young people are involved in the opioid epidemic tragically but our older adults are also suffering from the effects of pain medications and the often resulting dependence upon them.

I have had the experience of elderly family members who have been prescribed – by their physician – powerful and addictive pain medications. One family member was prescribed 19 medications by one physician! Ultimately the family member became very confused, depressed, forgetful and sometimes aggressive. Only when she was found walking on the road alone without proper clothing in the rain and cold did other family members and friends become aware and step in to get assistance for her. After months of medication adjustments – not to mention changing physicians – she is doing much better but has suffered long-term effects from this overdosing of our population.

Persons aged 65 years and older comprise only 13 percent of the population, yet account for more than one-third of total outpatient spending on prescription medications in the United States. Older patients are more likely to be prescribed long-term and multiple prescriptions, and some experience cognitive decline, which could lead to improper use of medications. Alternatively, those on a fixed income may abuse another person's remaining medication to save money.¹

The magnitude of opioid use among seniors is "astounding," said Frederic Blow, who directs addiction research at the University of Michigan's medical school and was not involved in the study.²

No one wishes to endure pain; and no one likes to see a loved one in pain. However, the use of powerful prescription opioids on the market today should raise a red flag if you have a family member who is currently prescribed one (or more!) of those medications. Ideally those are intended for short-term use only, and family members should closely monitor those situations. If you feel that there is an area of concern, talk plainly with the family member and if needed reach out to personal and professional caregivers and the prescribing physician. Your loved one's life may depend on it.

Upcoming sobriety checkpoint this weekend

The REPORTER

A sobriety checkpoint will be conducted on the night of Friday, Aug. 11 and the early hours of Saturday, Aug. 12.

Impaired driving is one of our nation's most frequently committed violent crimes. Just in Indiana in 2014, alcohol-related traffic crashes killed 101 people, accounting for approximately thirteen percent of all fatal crashes, and injured another 1,880 people.

About 750 people are convicted of an impaired driving offense annually in Hamilton County alone, and nearly 100 of those are repeat offenders. In 2015 in Hamilton County, for example, the State filed 732 cases of operating while intoxicated. Of these, 106 drivers had prior convictions for operating while intoxicated within the last five years.

To combat this crime, the Hamilton County Traffic Safety Partnership (HCTSP) will be setting up sobriety checkpoints around Hamilton County to aggressively deter, detect and arrest those drivers who make the decision to drive impaired. Sobriety checkpoints have proven successful in both raising awareness of impaired driving and reducing the likelihood of a person driving after they have been drinking.

In order to raise awareness of the prevalence of impaired driving in our community and the efforts of the Partnership to combat the crime, the Partnership maintains a webpage at www.hamiltoncounty.in.gov/503.

At a sobriety checkpoint, law enforcement officers evaluate drivers for signs of alcohol or drug impairment at a specified point along the roadway, often depending upon the support of local property owners for the use of appropriate land. Checkpoint sites are selected based upon analysis of available crash and impaired driving arrest data and a consideration of officer safety.

Vehicles are stopped in a specific sequence, such as every other vehicle, every third vehicle, every fourth vehicle or by stopping three, four, or five cars in succession and allowing other traffic to proceed while checking the stopped vehicles. The planned sequence in which vehicles are stopped depends on the number of officers available to staff the checkpoint, traffic congestion, and other safety concerns.

Upon making contact with the driver, the officer advises them that they've been stopped at an HCTSP sobriety checkpoint and asks for the driver's license and the vehicle's registration. If, in the course of the contact, the officer detects that alcohol may be involved and that the driver may be impaired or if some other issue arises, then the vehicle is directed into a pull-off area for further investigation. Further investigation may involve the Standardized Field Sobriety Tests (SFSTs). On the other hand, if all looks right during the initial contact, the driver is often on his or her way in less than two minutes.

Officers staffing the sobriety checkpoints work on an overtime basis paid by grant funds from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration through the Indiana Governor's Council on Impaired and Dangerous Driving.

Sobriety checkpoints are legal in 39 states, including Indiana and the District of Columbia. In 1990, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that, if conducted properly, sobriety checkpoints do not constitute an illegal search and seizure. In the 2002 case of State v. Gerschoffer, the Indiana Supreme Court found that sobriety checkpoints are constitutional when conducted properly. Members of the Hamilton County Prosecuting Attorney's Office work with the Partnership to ensure that each checkpoint meets constitutional requirements.

Should you have any questions regarding these sobriety checkpoints, please contact Chief Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Andre Miksha at (317) 776-8595.

The Hamilton County Traffic Safety Partnership is a consortium of law enforcement agencies in Hamilton County working to increase the usage of seatbelts, to combat aggressive driving, and to decrease impaired driving with the overall goal of creating a safer Hamilton County. The HCTSP is comprised of the Hamilton County Sheriff's Department, Fishers Police Department, Carmel Police Department, Noblesville Police Department, Westfield Police Department, and Cicero Police Department, with the assistance of the Indiana State Police.

7-acre corn maze a new fall experience opening next month at Conner Prairie

The REPORTER

A large corn maze that's sure to be a hit this fall and beyond at Conner Prairie has been designed and cut and is growing tall at Conner Prairie.

The new, 7-acre maze opens Sept. 23 and will remain open during regular operating hours through the end of the museum's outdoor season on Oct. 29.

The overall, 300,000-square-foot design was created by Precision Mazes of Lee's Summit, Mo. There are actually two mazes inside the experience – a short maze designed to take about 30 minutes to navigate and a longer one that'll take about an hour or more for guests to get through. The short maze is recommended for younger children.

It will cost $5 for everyone – museum members and everyday visitors – during regular operating hours and $3 for students in school groups to go through.

But from Oct. 12 to 29 during the 34th annual Headless Horseman fall festival at Conner Prairie, there'll be no charge for those attending the event to experience the maze.

"Given the popularity of Headless Horseman and the record-breaking attendance we've enjoyed in recent years, we wanted to provide more activities for people to do and add another marquee attraction to enhance the guest experience," said Chris Petrelli, director of programs and education at the museum.

Noblesville girls cross country preview

Millers return four state participants from fifth-place state team

Last year was one of the more successful seasons for the Noblesville girls cross country team.

The Millers finished fifth at the state meet, their best placing since 2009. Noblesville also kept pace with the other top Hamilton County teams, and actually upended eventual state champion Carmel for the regional title.

So what's in store for the 2017 edition of the Millers? Noblesville graduated three seniors from the 2016 team, but have an elite runner back in Abi Little. Now a senior herself, Little is a two-time All-State runner, having finished 19th at the state meet as a sophomore and 14th as a junior. The other three state participants back are sophomore Sophie Reichard and juniors Aubrey Swart and Katherine Sandys.

Five other Miller runners are back from the team's sectional roster: Juniors Aubrie Deal and Maria Anderson, and sophomores Taylor Gregory, Brynn Eaton and Anna Hazelrigg. Also back is letter winner Grace Judy.

Many eyes will be on Little and Anderson this season due to their stellar performances during the spring in track and field. Both were members of the champion 4x800 relay team at the IHSAA state finals, in addition to winning the 4x800 and Distance Medley Relay at the Hoosier State Relays. Anderson also finished eighth in the 400 dash, while Little was 10th in the 1600 run.

Noblesville coach Dennis Scheele has high expectations for many of his runners, starting with Deal.

"I look for Aubrie to shine this year," said the coach. "Aubrie will no longer be in a support role."

Swart will also continue to be a top runner, as will Gregory, junior Grace Brisco and sophomores Kaylah Keating and Madison King.

"In addition to the returning varsity letter winners listed above there have been several freshman making noise during early conditioning," said Scheele. "They include: Sophie Stahl, Bella Sharples-Gordon, Chloe Click, Lauren Sandys and Meghan Hoffman."

Heights boys tennis: Hochstedler brothers are back

By RICHIE HALL

Reporter Sports Editor

The Hamilton Heights boys tennis team will be young this year, but the Huskies have two players that they can build around this season.

Heights had an excellent season last year, finishing 10-3. The Huskies' returners are the Hochstedler brothers: Hawkins is a senior and Hudson is a sophomore. Both were varsity players last year.

"The Husky tennis team is excited to get after it again this year and see what kind of tennis players we can become," said Heights coach Cameron Scott. "We're fortunate to return two quality players off of last year's team. Both these guys had a lot of success last year."

"Hawkins Hochstedler played No. 2 singles as a junior, earning All-Conference and All-County honors and has played his best tennis this summer leading into his senior campaign. His younger brother Hudson is incredibly athletic and was a great surprise as a freshman varsity player last year. He's worked his tail off and is poised to step up and become a leader on our team."

Heights has two more seniors on this year's team, Adam Gross and Zane Remsen, who played junior varsity last season. Junior JP Etchison also played several JV matches last year. Scott named those three as players who are part of "a slew of both older and younger guys looking to make an impact."

Scott acknowledged that this year's Huskies team will be different, with six seniors graduating from last year. But he noted that this year's team has "a big crew of underclassmen that are chomping at the bit to play for the Huskies."

"Our team will look very different this year, but these guys are hungry and are already showing that each day they go to work," said Scott.

The Huskies will travel to Noblesville on Thursday for a scrimmage, then open their regular season next Wednesday (Aug. 16) at Elwood.

Seniors Ben Miller (left) and Colin Murphy are two of Carmel's returning runners this season.

Carmel boys cross country has biggest team in history

With six of its seven runners from last year's state runner-up team returning for the 2017 season, it looks as if the Carmel boys cross country team will continue with another high placing at the state meet.

The Greyhounds have finished in the top two during the last five state meets. The respected website IndianaRunner.com rated Carmel No. 1 in its pre-season rankings. Greyhounds coach Colin Altevogt calls this team the biggest in school history, and "incredibly deep."

"The Greyhounds have six runners who have previously finished in the top 50 at the state meet, run under 16 minutes in cross country and under 9:40 for 3200 meters," said Altevogt.

The coach had much to say about each of his six returning runners.

"Senior Ben Miller is the most experienced of the group, having run in the state cross country meet in each of his three previous seasons," Altevogt began. "Miller added to his cross country exploits last spring with a strong track season, finishing third in the state finals over 3200 meters to help the Greyhounds to a third consecutive state title in the sport."

"Senior Colin Murphy looks capable of running stride-for-stride with his teammate Miller. The pair were nearly inseparable in most cross country and track races as juniors. While Miller had the better finish in the spring, Murphy was the top Greyhound at the state cross country meet, finishing eighth overall."

"Fellow seniors Keelan Grant and Trey Harris will be solid contributors in their last season after breakthrough track seasons. Grant qualified for the state finals in the 1600 while Harris established himself as one of the state's best mid-distance runners, qualifying individually for the state meet in the 800 and anchoring Carmel's state-winning 4x800 relay. Both were consistent scorers last fall for the Greyhounds."

"Juniors Calvin Bates and Thomas Gastineau should fill varsity roles as they have done since entering high school. Both were contributors to the Greyhounds' state championship team in their freshman year of 2015 and enjoyed improvement as sophomores. Each ran under 4:30 and 9:40 for 1600 and 3200 meters, respectively, in the spring."

Other runners include sophomore Ben Myers, who Altevogt said "was an age-group All-American in the Junior Olympics national championship in his freshman year and has enjoyed a summer of training with many top team members."

Also back are junior Patrick Campbell and senior Jimmy Snyder, who broke two minutes in the 800 run during the spring. Next up are junior Darren Yates, senior Zane Williams and junior Cameron Harless, all of whom have clocked in at under 17 minutes in cross country, and under 10 minutes in the 3200. Sophomore Eli Konow also returns; Altevogt said he "led off the Greyhounds' state championship 4x800 and held the state's top freshman time in the open 800, illustrating great potential to transition to an improved distance runner."

While Carmel comes into the season as the top-ranked team, Altevogt noted there will be tough competition both from around the state and from Hamilton County.

"Fort Wayne Carroll returns four from its state championship team of 2016 and looks to be a top rival again," said Altevogt. "Hamilton County is always a hotbed of running talent with Fishers also a state contender this fall. Cathedral should also be a title contender."

Fort Wayne's Joe Jordan joins IHSAA Foundation Board

Joseph Jordan, President and CEO of the Boys & Girls Clubs of Fort Wayne, has been named to the Board of Directors of the IHSAA Foundation, Commissioner Bobby Cox announced on Monday.

A lifetime resident of Fort Wayne, Jordan has over 25 years of experience at the executive level of organizational management, working in community organizations whose primary focus is youth and family development. He is in his ninth year overseeing the Boys & Girls Clubs.

Jordan received his degree in Business Management from Indiana Institute of Technology and he earned his Master's Degree in Business Management from Indiana Wesleyan University. His specialty has been creating and implementing new and exciting programs that will help enhance the opportunities for youth to reach their full potential. Jordan has served on a number boards at the local and state level and has been the recipient of numerous awards for his work and accomplishments.

"I am extremely happy to be a part of the IHSAA Foundation Board and represent the many fine young men and women in this great State of Indiana," says Jordan. "Having the opportunity to participate in sports from elementary school to college, I directly understand the benefits of sports and that a healthy body means that the mind is also healthy. I look forward to serving and helping build this Foundation for the benefit of our state's high school student athletes."

The IHSAA Foundation was created and formed by the IHSAA Executive Committee in June 2015 to operate exclusively for the charitable benefits of IHSAA member schools and their student-athletes. As funding becomes available, the IHSAA Foundation will award college scholarships to student-athletes in their pursuit of post-secondary education. It also will support IHSAA member schools through a grant program designed to help fund special projects.

Jordan's appointment is effective immediately and he joins eight other executives currently serving on the Board which oversees the Foundation. They include: J. Terry Clapacs, Vice President Emeritus of Indiana University; Dr. Phil N. Eskew, Jr., retired Director of Physician and Patient Relations at St. Vincent Hospital and current professor at the IU School of Medicine; James T. Morris, Vice President of Pacers Sports & Entertainment; Blake Ress, Commissioner Emeritus of the Indiana High School Athletic Association, Inc.; Patrick Shoulders, Stayman, Weitzel Shoulders, LLP; Milton O. Thompson, Attorney, Indianapolis law firm of Bleeke Dillon Crandall; and Jennifer K. Wilfong, Vice President and Executive Coach at Merrill Lynch; and Bobby Cox, IHSAA Commissioner. Eskew serves as chairman of the group.

Wheeler-led Indiana falls short in final minute at New York

Tina Charles had 26 points and added a two pairs of clinching free throws Tuesday night, lifting the New York Liberty to an 81-76 win over the Indiana Fever despite a near-record 33 points from Fever guard Erica Wheeler.

Charles scored 22 points by halftime, and her free throws provided a final cushion the Fever couldn't overcome. Fouled by Indiana's Erlana Larkins and nursing a 72-70 advantage with 43.5 seconds to play, Charles forced the Fever to foul and stop the clock in the waning moments. Subsequent free throws by Bria Harley and Kiah Stokes pushed the lead to 77-70 with just 27 seconds to play.

But the Wheeler-led Fever weren't done.

Wheeler, who had not scored since surpassing her previous career high with 27 points in the game's first three quarters, hit a pair of deep 3-pointers in the final moments to keep Indiana within reach and put franchise records in jeopardy. It was 77-73 after her first heave with 20 seconds to play. After two more Charles free throws, Wheeler's final 3-pointer made it 79-76 with 14 ticks remaining. Epiphanny Prince hit the Liberty's eighth and ninth free throws of the final minute to provide the final margin.

Wheeler's seven 3-pointers on 11 attempts tied a Fever record set by Katie Douglas in 2012. Wheeler's 33 points were the most since former Fever star Shavonte Zellous scored 33 for Indiana in an overtime game in 2014, and second only to Douglas' club record 34 in 2009 against Washington.

Zellous, now with New York, hit free throws to tie score at 74 and send the game into a possession-by-possession thriller.

The lead changed hands four times over the next four minutes. A bucket by Candice Dupree knotted the game at 70, and Prince lifted the Liberty back into the lead with a jumper at the 1:53 mark. The Liberty never trailed again and Charles' free throws put the game out of Indiana's and Wheeler's reach in the final minute.

Zellous added 16 points and a game-high eight rebounds for the Liberty, who also got 13 from Hartley and 12 from Stokes off the bench. Candice Dupree was Indiana's only other double-figure scorer, adding 14.

"I just taking what they give me on offense," said Wheeler, whose brief-yet-circuitous career led her through a partial season with the Liberty before landing with Indiana last season. Now a full-fledged WNBA starter, the former undrafted free agent scored in double figures for the 13th time this season while nearly willing Indiana past New York. "I read what they give me," she continued. "I got some good looks and it felt good to hit some shots."

"We're playing with a chip on our shoulder because everyone has already counted us out," said Wheeler, reflecting an Indiana philosophy similar to her own. "We're playing hard right now. We know we can win games. We just have to close them out at the end."

Added Fever coach Pokey Chatman: "I have to give credit to New York, but we needed to get off to a better start and take better care of the basketball. Early on, I felt good with our shots, but what I didn't like was the 27 points we gave up in the first quarter. At the end of the day, what's going to win basketball games is defensive energy for 40 minutes."
