Don Jellison, a life remembered

By JEFF JELLISON
Publisher

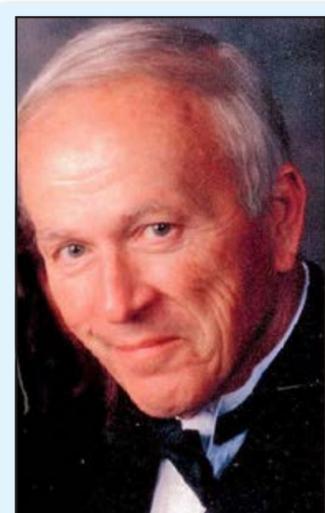

Hamilton County Reporter's co-founder Don Jellison died this past Sunday at Harbor Manor Care Center. Don, in his nearly 60 years of newspaper reporting and coaching, touched so many lives. He impacted the community on a scale that is immeasurable.

I was recently asked, as the publisher of the Reporter, how do you describe Don in an article? Don was bigger than any newspaper. Don was a walking hard drive of sports history in Hamilton County, and from a news standpoint he challenged his community to be the best.

So how does a newspaper write an article on Don? You don't. You let the people that he touched do all the talking.

Since Don's passing the Reporter and the Jellison family have received hundreds of phone calls, emails and messages. Below are just a few from those that Don touched.

- Former Hamilton Southeastern baseball coach Ken Seitz said, "Don was great ambassador of youth / high school sports in the county."
- Mark Resch, a former player for Don and an avid reader of Don stated, "If you do not know who Don Jellison was, you truly are not a Noblesvillian."
- "Don helped lay the foundation for what Indiana baseball has become," said Rob Barber, a long-time travel baseball coach.
- Noblesville Common Councilman Wil Hampton said, "A caring man who truly loved our community. This is an enormous loss for Noblesville."
- Carmel High School Athletic Director Jim Inskeep was quoted in the Indianapolis Star: "Don had an institutional knowledge of everything in Hamilton County,"
- Former Noblesville Boys Basketball Coach Dave McCollough was also quoted in the Star,

The first time I met Don Jellison was probably the most appropriate place in the world: A Sheridan football game.

It was the state championship game in 2005. Don was covering the game for the old Noblesville Daily Times. I was there for the Lebanon Reporter; we covered Sheridan because part of its enrollment is in Boone County. It was my first state football game, and I'm guessing it was not Don's first.

The one thing I remember about sitting next to Don is that he didn't say very much. He made a comment or two here and there. You got the feeling after sitting with Don that he was one of those people who could say a lot without having to say a whole bunch.

The next time I sat next to Don was June 8, 2007. How do I know this? Because it was the date that the Hamilton Southeastern softball team played in the state semi-final game at Cherry Tree Softball Complex in Carmel.

I had moved to Carmel about 10 months beforehand but was still working at Lebanon. I had heard about the Royals' team, their star pitcher Morgan Melloh, and their undefeated season heading into state. Cherry Tree isn't far from where I lived, so I got done at Lebanon early and decided to go watch HSE play.

I wound up parking at the Hazel Dell Christian Church, then walked to the field and saw the game. (Southeastern won, of course, then won the state championship the next day.) On my way out, I bumped into Don. He offered to give me a ride back up to the church parking lot.

I got in the car, closed the door, then heard him say: "Know anyone who wants to come work at the Times? Our sports reporter quit today."

Nineteen days later was my first day at the Daily Times. Ever since then, I worked closely

The County Line

Hamilton County won't be quite the same without Don Jellison, the dean of local sportswriters, who died last weekend.

For more than half a century Don covered sports in our county like the proverbial blanket. If you wanted local sports, you read Jelly's sports.

He brought newspaper readers results of every sports contest at every county high school. That was not an easy job, not by any stretch of the imagination.

Although Don turned 80 this year, he never quite retired. In fact he, along with son Jeff, launched the publication you are reading here when he was in his 70s.

I'm going to miss Don, and I'm not the only one, not by a long shot. I'll miss his sports stories like so many others will, but I'll miss him on a more personal level as well. We worked together off-and-on since 1964.

Don was already sports editor of the Noblesville Daily Ledger when I got a job on the newspaper staff right out of college. Although I enjoy high schools sports, I didn't do sports at the Ledger. But, on a small staff we had a lot of contact with one another. We tried to help each other if one of us got wind of a story the other might want to pursue. We would good naturedly spar over politics and sports. Since Don was a Noblesville grad and a Democrat, and I was a Carmel grad and a Republican, we sometimes saw things a little differently, but always with good humor.

In more recent times when Don and Jeff started the Reporter, I was asked to write a general interest column. We call it the County Line in honor of our Ledger mentor Jim Neal who wrote a column by that name for many years.

As most readers know, Don hasn't been able to keep up his writing during most of the past year. He wanted to get back to it, and I encouraged that when visiting with him at Harbour Manor over these past months. But, each time he began recovering from a bout of pneumonia, he suffered another setback.

Now, with Don having left the scene, another chapter in Hamilton County history closes. There will never be another Don Jellison, and county sports coverage will never be quite the same.

Crowdfunding started for Cicero accessible canoe, kayak launch

The REPORTER

Residents and visitors in Cicero will soon be able to enjoy the Morse Reservoir in a new way, thanks to a crowdfunding campaign for an accessible canoe and kayak launch. The campaign, sponsored by the Indiana Housing and Community Development Authority (IHCDA) and offered through the crowdfunding platform developed by Patronicity, is managed by the Town of Cicero.

"This project will ensure that Morse Reservoir is fully accessible to all that wish to enjoy it," said Lt. Governor Suzanne Crouch. "With a successful campaign, the Town of Cicero can install a new kayak and canoe launch which will bring more visitors to Red Bridge Park."

If the campaign reaches its $7,500 goal by Dec. 8, Cicero Accessible Canoe and Kayak Launch project will receive a matching grant of $7,500 from IHCDA's CreatiNG Places program.

The funding raised during this campaign will allow the Town of Cicero to replace the current boat dock with an accessible canoe and kayak launch, build a walkway that connects the launch to a park trail, install lighting and signage and expand the nearby parking lot. This will be the first accessible launch on Morse Reservoir, giving people of all abilities the opportunity to be active outside and enjoy the water.

"The Accessible Kayak and Canoe Launch at Red Bridge Park will create an additional way for visitors and community members to enjoy Morse Reservoir while at the same time activating an area of the park that has been underutilized for many years," stated Cicero Parks Department Superintendent, Charlie Cambre. "We appreciate the collaborative efforts by IHCDA and Patronicity in creating this unique grant opportunity and we know that our community and business members will be supportive of our efforts and help us reach

A panel discussion at Fishers High School agreed that criminalization does not solve the problem of drug addiction, instead saying that it should be treated as an illness or disease.

Criminalizing addiction does not work

By LARRY LANNAN

State Police Superintendent Doug Carter has a message for parents wanting advice on dealing with addiction — "I am so sorry." The former Hamilton County Sheriff reflected on what his generation did wrong in the area of addiction.

"If we don't start caring for people as people, we're gonna lose," Carter told the Fishers High School crowd of roughly 50 parents about addiction in the State of Indiana. He emphasized everyone in the state needs to come together and be a part of the solution.

The panel discussion formed a consensus that criminalizing addiction has not solved the problem. Addiction is an illness or a disease. For example, criminal penalties are not imposed on cancer patients, but addiction is often criminalized.

Ben Gonzales opened the event with a speech about his road from addiction to recovery. Ben is now a treatment professional. He later joined the panel discussion that included:

- Jill Gonzales, Ben's Mom who shared the family perspective of addiction and recovery.
- Kim Manlove, EdD, Fairbanks Project Director for the Strategic Plan; Co-Chair Parent Advisory Board (The Partnership at Drugfree.org).
- Brad Trolson, Recovery Coach with Hope Academy and Adolescent Services at Fairbanks.
- Doug Carter, Superintendent of Indiana State Police; Governor's Commission for Drug-Free Indiana (DFI)
- HSE Parents in Partnership sponsored the event.

saying, "For a long, long-time, he was there for everything. He was there for volleyball, baseball, softball, wrestling. And he wasn't afraid to be opinionated."

- Sheridan Football Coach Bud Wright was quoted saying, "If you got beat or got beat bad, he tried to see the brighter spots. He didn't dwell on a lot of negativity."

- Former Sheridan football player Brian Bragg stated, "Don was the guy everyone wanted to read after the big game."

- One reader stated, "Noblesville's legacy and history as told by Don will never be duplicated. Others from around Hamilton County described Don as a great reporter of the truth, a Hamilton County sports icon and a man that touched so many young men and women.

Don had a passion for sports and his community, but his love was family.

He was a committed husband who loved his wife Mattijane. The last week of Don's life was a struggle with complications from pneumonia and Parkinson's disease. During that time he never complained of feeling ill, but often said he was concerned that Mattijane had a cold.

Don was a father who taught his two sons the importance of work and family.

His granddaughter, Shelby, the only girl born to the Jellison family, was the apple of his eye. His grandsons, Drake, Zack, Vaughn, Matthew, Josh and Cameron adored him.

There is no replacing Don. No sports writer in Hamilton County will ever be more respected. No newspaper editor will ever have the ear of community leaders like Don did.

So, what does the publisher of the Hamilton County Reporter have to say about Don? Rest in peace Dad. I love you.

with Don, up until last year when he retired. It's impossible to go a day without thinking about Don, since he put so much effort into reporting Hamilton County sports, then the last four years building the Hamilton County Reporter into what it is today.

I remember the early days when the Reporter was a print-only, weekly paper. It was a different feeling for me since I had gotten so used to the pace of a daily paper, and I'm sure that feeling was amplified about 10 times for Don – after all, he had 50 years of daily paper experience.

But there's one thing I think people don't realize about Don: He may have had the appearance of someone who was part of the "old guard," but the truth is, he stayed up-to-date on everything: Journalism, sports, marketing, the demographic changes in the county, even technology. He whole-heartedly embraced the concept of an email daily paper. I think it re-energized him – he and all of us at the Reporter were part of something that was unique to the newspaper world, and still is today.

Did Don make me a better reporter? Yes. Because he had confidence in me, even during times when I didn't have confidence in myself. Making a jump from eight years of reporting in Boone County and its three schools to Hamilton County and its nine schools is a daunting jump, to be sure. But Don believed I could do it. That made me believe it, too.

My favorite memories of Don are the times I got to see him in person. We emailed each other constantly and spoke on the phone almost every day, but we always worked in different places, so we never got to see each other all that much.

I always loved seeing him. He had friendly eyes and smiled very easily. The best was getting a chance to actually watch him cover an event in person. It was like watching a master at work. He had a great way of putting people at ease.

That's what I'll miss most about Don, is that friendly way about him. I've seen all the tributes to him, and heard people talk about him over the past year, saying what a great man he was. I think what made him great was not just because he was an extraordinary reporter, but it was also because of how much he loved what he did. That's the only way someone can do what he did for over 50 years. He loved the kids, he loved the coaches, he loved the schools, he loved Hamilton County. And Hamilton County loved him back.

There were times over the past year when I would think about something involving that day's paper, and start thinking, "How would Don handle this?" And then I would wind up doing exactly that, whatever Don would have done.

I'll miss working and being friends with Don, but I think as long as I just remember that thought – "How would Don handle this?" – he will never be far away.

our $7,500.00 fundraising goal."

Since the CreatiNG Places program began last fall, projects have raised in excess of $860,000 in public funds and an additional $600,000 in matching IHCDA funds.

The CreatiNG Places program is available to projects located in Indiana communities. Non-profit entities (with 501c3 or 501c4 status) and Local Units of Government are eligible to apply.

Eligible projects must have a minimum total development cost of $10,000, where the recipient will receive $5,000 in IHCDA matching funds should they successfully raise $5,000 through Patronicity. IHCDA will provide matching grant funds up to $50,000 per project.

IHCDA, chaired by Lt. Governor Suzanne Crouch, provides housing opportunities, promotes self-sufficiency and strengthens communities in order to build an Indiana with a sustainable quality of life for all Hoosiers in the community of their choice. Don Jellison – one of a kind!

Dear Editor:

I lost a great friend Sunday.

Don and I first met in 1973 when he called me and asked if he could come to talk with me about Noblesville and Noblesville basketball. I didn't know who Don Jellison was, and I had never been to Noblesville and had to look on the map to see exactly where it was.

He drove the 90 miles to Fowler to tell me what a great place Noblesville was and encouraged me to look into the basketball job there. I did look into it and decided against taking the job. However, three years later the job was open again, and I received another call from Don. I revisited the situation and ended up accepting the basketball coaching job at Noblesville High School.

I always told him it was his fault I was in Noblesville, and he always kidded if we were losing that I shouldn't tell anyone that. Noblesville turned out to be as great as Don said, and it opened the opportunity to work with dozens and dozens of great young men.

Don was an icon in covering high school sports. No one has ever done it better, and I don't think anyone ever will. Upon hearing of Don's death a mutual friend wrote, "It is unbelievable what he did for Hamilton County sports. The average person has no idea how much he put into his life."

I have read almost every column of Don's the past 42 years, and never one time did he criticize a student athlete. He might question a team's effort or strategy but never was critical of the student athlete. On occasion coaches were fair game, but not the kids. Don's goal was to get as many kids' names in the paper as possible. He often stated how excited he was to see his name in the paper when he played youth baseball, and he wanted every young person to feel that excitement. He gave that feeling to thousands of kids. It is hard to image how many of Don's articles have ended up in scrapbooks of Hamilton County athletes.

During my 16 years of coaching Noblesville basketball, if Don noticed a young man struggling a little, he would find a way to mention him in his next write-up on our team – it generally was not the star player. Don was extremely respected by players and coaches. There will never be a sports writer who will cover the local scene like Don.

He enjoyed a little controversy and would often write a column just to get things stirred up a little. If he believed in a civic issue he would pursue it relentlessly.

Almost every time we talked he would update me on his family. He was especially proud of all of them including his son Jeff's success with the Reporter and grandson Drake's success. The love of his life, wife Mattijane, encouraged him to keep doing what he loved – covering Hamilton County sports.

Julia and I visited Don on Sunday afternoon. He was not doing well, but he wanted to know who was going to be good in basketball this year. Usually when I would leave after visiting him in the rehab center, he would thank me for coming and say, "See ya." Sunday when I left he said, "Bye, Dave."

Bye Don!
Coach Dave Nicholson

Remembering my old friend

Dear Editor:

While I am not a writer, I want to share my memories of my dear friend.

I was truly blessed to be raised in Noblesville, Indiana with outstanding and caring parents who supported me in every way possible. In 1961, a very special gentleman came into my life. Don Jellison picked me in the youth baseball draft.

The first three years my baseball career my dad coached me but my mother thought it would be better if dad would stop coaching and enjoy watching his only child playing sports. In all honesty, my mom thought dad was too hard on her baby boy. Dad agreed, reluctantly, to stop coaching.

In 1961, I was chosen to be on a team coached by Don Jellison, sports writer for the Noblesville Ledger.

He was young and a fierce competitor who expected a lot from his players. Many parents didn't like their kids to play for Don because he required you to work hard and get to the ball field by 4:30 p.m. for a 6 p.m. game. Don always had his teams hitting and fielding before a game. That may be one of the reasons his Little League teams were so successful.

I have always loved the game of baseball. It was always my comfort-zone in life.

Don asked me what position I liked best and I quickly spoke up and said catcher. Don looked at me and said "Son, you're left handed. Catchers aren't left-handed. You will play first or pitch if I need someone."

That ended my catching days.

Throughout my youth, Don always had me and his nephew John Fry on his team. It sure wasn't my talent that made him pick me. Thinking back, it may have been my passion for sports that reminded him of himself.

Trust me, Don always had good players on his teams. In those days you could get two assistant coaches to help you coach. He had the best players' dads as assistants in the age group he was coaching.

The 1960s Noblesville had no place for players 13 through 16 years old to play baseball. Don and Don Dunker (Dunk), Noblesville High School's baseball coach, decided that in order to build a strong high school baseball team there needed to be a place for the youth program to play.

Dunk needed to fill that gap to continue to build his program. The 17 and 18-year-old players could play American Legion baseball. Don went to work with local folks and businesses to bring them on board for 13 to 15-year-old Youth Baseball program.

Meetings were set up and it was agreed this needed to happen for this age group.

Where to play was the next question because all baseball fields were part of our school playgrounds.

Someone suggested that the old softball/baseball field at Forest Park had not been used for years might just be a good place to be the home field for this age group. The old baseball grandstand was still there. Yes, the same one that is still standing in Forest Park.

Don and Dunk approached the American Legion, because Dunk coached their team, to see their interest in helping to grow youth baseball in Noblesville.

The rest of the story is in the history of how the Babe Ruth program has progressed.

One good story, in the early years of the Babe Ruth Charles Howard Insurance team, was when I was on their first team at 13 years old.

During early days, you had to have two players that were 13 years of age. That first year it was Jeff Sherrill and myself.

We had a very good team that year, which not only played Babe Ruth baseball on the weekends, but played in the Hamilton County Pony League which consisted of six to eight teams on the through the week.

Jeff and I found out pretty early our place on the team when Jelly, which is what we all called Don, came to us and said, "You guys know how to keep the score book?"

We looked at each other and said, "Not sure."

Jelly said, "The instructions are in the book, so read it, and you two can rotate keeping score."

That set the stage for our positions for the team.

We did also get chances to play because we had so many games both during the week and on weekends. But I will have to say, we saw very limited action. I guess that is why I enjoy keeping the score book to this day and love baseball stats.

Those were great days playing baseball as a youth because of Don Jellison. Since I came back to Noblesville these last six years, Don and I often talked about those days.

I have over 56 years of Don Jellison stories I could share, and this is just the beginning.

I hope Don's son, Jeff, will give me a chance to share more of the stories of my journey through life with Don Jellison. Times like my final days playing youth baseball, talking about my relationship with Peanut Butter (Jeff) and my relationship with Jelly during adulthood.

Rest in peace my friend. I am just one of many young lives you have touched in Hamilton County.

Perry Williams
 Noblesville

Don, you will be missed

Dear Editor:

Many things have been said and shared about Don Jellison over the past several days. A lot of people knew him for various reasons, but most I would have to say knew him because of his ability to report about sports like no other.

I knew Don for nearly 50 years. You see, I was one of those kids who spent most of my summers at a baseball field. In grade school, it was the little league fields around North and Conner elementary schools, and in my junior high and high school days, it was the high school baseball field on 16th Street where the Ivy Tech parking lot is now.

But in the summers, my time was mostly spent at the Babe Ruth diamonds at Forest Park. I have a lot of lifelong friends from those days, but unfortunately, like Don, many have now passed away. I also remember a lot about the days of the Chas. L. Howard Babe Ruth baseball teams. There were some great teams and great players. The state tournaments were fun when teams would come to Noblesville from all over the state. These are the stories that I hope my husband Perry will share for many years to come.

Don was a great friend and mentor to my husband, Perry. Their days go back to when Don was the coach and Perry was a little leaguer. They have been friends throughout the years, but really had the opportunity to spend a lot of time together since Perry moved back from Tennessee. Don and his son, Jeff, have been an important part of Perry's life.

To me, Don was Hamilton County's sports historian. Upon hearing that, he would probably say something like, "That's because I'm old and have been around forever." I wish I knew the number of games he watched and covered over his lifetime, from his days at Noblesville High School working on the Mill Stream, to his days of having his own paper with his son Jeff. I have often said I wish Don would write a book because he had so many memories of Hamilton County sports he could have shared. He loved the Millers but he believed in covering all the county teams. He highlighted many great athletes throughout his years, covering and supporting Hamilton County sports.

I loved listening to Don and Perry banter back and forth when they did shows for Hamilton County Television. My favorite was when he would work with Perry announcing baseball games. Now, anyone who knows my husband knows he can be very soft spoken and hard to hear, but when they were working together on the broadcast, it was Don who I couldn't hear. I would send Perry a text and say I can't hear Don when he is talking. Perry would send a note back: Don won't talk into the microphone.

Don was one of those guys where you always knew where he was coming from, no beating around the bush. If the Millers had a bad game, Don would generally let them have it the next day, no sugar coating, no filters. He expected great things from his teams and coaches.

In the last few years while Don was writing for the Reporter on topics that might have been out of his general knowledge of expertise, he would always surprise me with how he could be at a meeting and take no notes and then write a complete story with all the facts. When Don started covering elections, he would often call to make sure he understood the process and what was going on in the election world.

He was a very humble man. In 2016, Don was named the Noblesville High School Alumnus of the Year. He didn't want and he didn't feel that he deserved any recognition, including the honors and placements in the Hall of Fame for many organizations from the newspaper and sports world.

Perry and I both have talked about when this day would come, and Don would not be able to share his stories with us anymore. I have to say it is going to be pretty hard on us. We are going to miss his friendship, his reporting and his dry sense of humor. The one good thing about a writer is their words are preserved and archived. I am sure there will be many times Perry and I will do some research to remember a great event Don covered, thankful for the opportunity to read the words of our good friend Don.

The crazy part of growing up and getting older is for a short time, you lose your friends. In our case, I am not going to say goodbye, I am going to say, "See you later my friend, I look forward to meeting up with you for a ballgame, a hot dog and a bag of popcorn."

Thanks, Don, for all of your years of service to this community with your words and dedication.

"I intend to live forever or die trying."

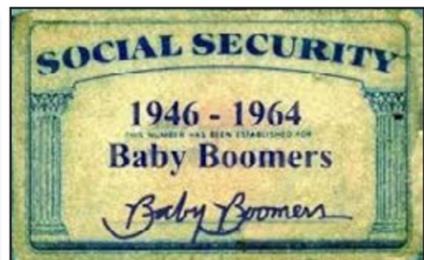

– Groucho Marx

This article concludes (for now!) my two-part recommendations for us "Baby Boomers" to lead a healthier, longer, and more satisfying life. As I stated in my Oct. 15 article which emphasized the importance of physical movement for seniors, this term is assigned to the temporary increase in the birth rate after World War II; Baby Boomers were born between the years 1946 and 1964 and began turning 65 in 2011. By 2030, one in five Americans will be a senior citizen. I am one and if you are not you probably has a loved one or friend who is one. Let's talk about differing nutritional needs for us – and them!

Protein: We all know we need it but that's usually about as far as it goes regarding our specific situations. For most people, the amount of protein necessary in the diet lessens as we age. Undigested protein must be eliminated by the kidneys which can incur undue stress in that process, and in the colon excess protein waste can putrefy (sorry!) into toxic substances and can be absorbed into the bloodstream.¹ Additionally a high protein diet breaks down the pancreas; lowering resistance to cancer as well as contributing to the development of diabetes.² In a study published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition 2014 non-vegetarians experienced a 20 percent higher mortality rate than vegetarians.

Fats: By increasing our intake of N-3 fatty acids (fish, flaxseed/oil) we can see a reduction in joint and organ inflammation and brain toxicity. Blueberries, raspberries and other deeply colored berries contain flavonoids and can improve brain function and possibly slow some tumor growth. Other options are olives – with black, green, Kalamata as first choices. When using olive oil remember that extra virgin, first cold-pressed is the best.

Although there is much more I can write about nutrition as we age, let's talk about some good anti-aging strategies and some good pantry choices. Sip lemon water every day, use milk alternatives such as almond or coconut, avoid high fructose corn sweeteners, use less animal protein and more perishable raw foods. With your health care provider's approval, use quality supplements. Some pantry items to add might be whole grains such as quinoa, millet, oats, wheatberry, preservative free crackers and pitas, sundried tomatoes, and real nut/seed and fruit bars. There are many options so that you will not feel deprived or hungry. Let's challenge ourselves, Baby Boomers, to be the healthiest "Boomers" we can be!

LarryInFishers.com

It is considered quite an honor for a local police officer to attend training at the FBI National Academy, and Fishers Police Lieutenant Michael Taylor recently graduated from a training class at that institution. Lt. Taylor joined law enforcement personnel from around the nation and the world as he learned from the best.

"The wealth of knowledge and experience shared amongst classmates and instructors is second to none" said Taylor. "You very quickly realize that no matter what type of department you came from, no matter where it is or how large the department is, we all face the same challenges both internally and externally every day."

Those graduating from the FBI National Academy are often called the top one percent of law enforcement personnel in the nation. Lt. Taylor described his classmates as "some of the best and brightest men and women of leadership in law enforcement."

"The leadership of the Fishers Police Department is proud of Lt. Taylor's accomplishment and graduation from the prestigious F.B.I. National Academy," said Fishers Police Chief Mitch Thompson. "No doubt Lt. Taylor will implement the knowledge and skills learned to better serve the citizens of the Fishers community."

Lt. Michael Taylor graduated from Purdue University in 2004 and entered the Armed Forces as an Army Second Lieutenant. He serves in the National Guard up to this day. He was deployed to serve in Iraq as a platoon leader and company executive officer in 2007, returning home in 2008.

Michael Taylor joined the Fishers Police Department in September of 2006. He describes himself as a proud husband and father. "My family and I are blessed to call Fishers home, and love serving our community," Taylor said.

Westfield Police participate in No-Shave November

The REPORTER

The Westfield Police Department continues their support of raising cancer awareness by participating in the national campaign No-Shave November.

For the month of November, Westfield police officers who want to participate contribute $30 to either grow a beard or wear a pin or ribbon to show their support in raising funds and awareness for cancer research. The participating officers also set a goal of raising an additional $70 in donations with an overall goal of raising $2500.

No-Shave November is a national campaign dedicated to growing cancer awareness and raising funds to support cancer prevention, research and education. It is a month-long journey during which participants forgo shaving in order to evoke conversation and raise cancer awareness.

The participating officers will be returning to the department's normal grooming policies on Dec. 1.

Please send check donations to:

Westfield Police Department

Attn: Sgt. Billy Adams – No Shave November 17535 Dartown Road Westfield, IN 46074

Make checks payable to "Relay for Life" or "American Cancer Society", with "Shamrockin' for a Cure" written in the memo line.

If you would like your donation to go toward your favorite police officer's individual goal, please make a note indicating that officer's name. You can follow the participating officer's journey on Facebook.

Barbara Jean Jennings

February 8, 1931 – October 28, 2017

Barbara Jean Jennings, 86, Noblesville, passed away on Saturday, October 28, 2017, at Riverview Health in Noblesville. She was born February 8, 1931, to Howard and Dorothy (Black) Roush in Noblesville.

Barbara was a 1949 graduate of Noblesville High School. She played cornet in the Noblesville Band, and played piano and organ for many school and local functions. Barbara attended Indiana Business College and married her high school sweetheart and soulmate, Fredrick Jennings, in 1951. She worked at Shaw Walker in Indianapolis, at Weldy's Drugstore in Noblesville, and began her 28-year career in the Hamilton County Auditor's Office in 1966, where she served as Deputy Auditor, Chief Deputy Auditor, and was elected as Hamilton County Auditor from 1976 to 1984. Barbara loved her years in the Hamilton County Courthouse where she faithfully served the people of this county until her retirement in 1994.

Barbara loved growing food for the family in their large garden. She loved to cook and find new recipes to try. Barbara has been a member of the First United Methodist Church in Noblesville for over 75 years. She sang in the choir under the direction of Betty McMahon, until her children were born. She loved to go on fishing trips to Minnesota with her husband and parents and loved traveling to Florida to visit her parents.

Barbara enjoyed crocheting and reading the Bible and daily devotionals. She had a strong Christian faith and as she was no longer able to attend church, she greatly appreciated continued support from Pastor Dick Judson and Carol Miller, and loved reading cards of encouragement from her church family. She was so very thankful to receive monthly communion in her home with Bruce McMahon and visits from Donna Irwin. Barbara was a loving mother, grandmother and great-grandmother. She will be sadly missed by her family whom she loved dearly.

Barbara is survived by her daughter, Christina (Randy) Noble; son, Phillip Jennings; daughter, Pamela (Terry) Austin; grandson, Steve (Tammie) Austin; grandson, Ryan Austin; and great-grandchildren, Skyler, Mason, Alexyss, Abby and Aubrey. She was preceded in death by her husband, her parents and her brothers, David Roush and John Roush.

The family would like to thank Dr. Thomas W. Miller for his wonderful medical care for more than 30 years and for his extremely compassionate care throughout Barbara's health issues over the past several years. A special thank you to the 911 dispatcher, the EMS team and Riverview Health and the ER staff for your professionalism along with the compassionate care given to Barbara and her family.

Visitation will be held from 4 to 7 p.m. on Thursday, November 2, 2017 at Randall & Roberts Funeral Home, 1150 Logan St., Noblesville. Services will be held at 9:30 a.m. on Friday, November 3, 2017 at the funeral home, with Pastor Dick Judson officiating. Burial will follow at Crownland Cemetery in Noblesville.

Memorial contributions can be made to Noblesville First United Methodist Church, 2051 Monument St., Noblesville, IN 46060.

Girls basketball preview

Healthy Huskies ready for challenges

By RICHIE HALL

Reporter Sports Editor

History has proven that the Hamilton Heights girls basketball team never backs away from challenges.

Last year was a challenge for the Huskies, who dealt with losing three players to injuries at various points during the season. Still, Heights fought its way to a 15-10 record and the sectional championship game, where it narrowly lost to Heritage Christian.

This year's Huskies team is back at full strength and ready to go. While there were a couple of key graduations, Heights has six players back from last year, as well as several promising younger players.

"We have a gym this year full of girls that are basketball kids," said second-year Heights coach Keegan Cherry. "The exciting thing for me as a coach is when you have a gym full of players that could potentially help you at the varsity level someday if they choose to stick with it, and that's what we've got. I'm optimistic for this season. I'm excited for our seniors. We've got a brutal schedule, so we'll be tested, but hopefully come tournament time, we're ready."

Three of Heights' returners are seniors. That includes Kayla Kirtley, who averaged 14.5 points per game last season. Kirtley missed the last seven games of the season due to an injury, but she looked ready to go in practice Tuesday.

Three of them are seniors, including Kayla Kirtley, who was the scoring leader with 14.5 points per game. Kirtley was also a solid rebounder, with 3.8 boards per contest.

"She's been rehabbing extremely hard," said Cherry.

The other two seniors are Lexi Branham, who was limited to 12 games last season because of an injury. Branham averaged 4.8 points per game. Ana Collar is the third senior. Coming off a great volleyball season, Collar returns the most rebounds for the Huskies (7.1 per game) and the most steals (3.7).

"Ana's the heart of this team," said Cherry. "She's a fighter. I was talking to Hamilton County TV that during our sectional final game with Heritage Christian, in terms of athleticism, Ana was right up there towards the top with any of those girls. Incredible volleyball player, but more importantly, she's a kid that loves to compete. I don't care if you're playing basketball or volleyball, she loves to compete. She knows how to compete. She makes everybody around her better."

Lauryn Wiley is the lone junior on the team; she averaged 4.3 points and 3.0 rebounds last year. Sophomore Bayleigh Runner played varsity all season long as a freshman and did very well, averaging 7.5 points per game. Another sophomore, Payton Dissett, got some playing time at the end of the season.

Heights will play its first two games on the road, opening at Brownsburg tonight and traveling to Danville on Saturday. The Huskies play their first home game Nov. 10, welcoming Noblesville to the Husky Dome. Cherry said his team has added Bishop Chatard and Greenfield-Central, and will play at the East Central Tournament.

"We'll have East Central in the first round," said Cherry. "That's a quality program. We'll go up to Fort Wayne Snider. So we're definitely going to be challenged."

Heights roster

Seniors: Lexi Branham, Ana Collar, Kayla Kirtley.

Junior: Lauryn Wiley.

Sophomores: Payton Dissett, Chloe Henderson, Taylor Mason, Bayleigh Runner.

Freshmen: Sierra Hinds, Jillian Osswald, Ella Shields, Chloee Thomas.

Bayleigh Runner averaged 7.5 points per game for the Hamilton Heights girls basketball team last season as a freshmen. Runner is one of six returning players for the Huskies last year.

Wrestling schedules

Many road trips in store for county teams

This season, it looks as if Hamilton County wrestlers will be road warriors.

The first official practice for IHSAA wrestling was on Monday, and teams can begin competition on Nov. 13. County teams won't be competing right out of the gate, though. Five of them will start on Saturday, Nov. 18, with others conducting their first meets the following week.

Hamilton Heights will host its opener on Nov. 18, conducting its annual Super Six Tournament. Noblesville will also be at the Husky Dome for its first meet. On that same day, Fishers will travel to the Western Invitational, while Hamilton Southeastern will head to Arsenal Tech for the John Hurre Memorial Invitational. Westfield will also be traveling south, to Beech Grove for the Circle City Classic.

Carmel will begin its season on Nov. 21 with a trip to Lebanon for a dual meet. Sheridan goes on the road for its Nov. 25 opener at the Edgewood Invitational. Guerin Catholic will start on Nov. 29, traveling to Clinton Prairie for a dual meet.

The Golden Eagles will host the Hamilton County meet for the second year in a row. The meet is scheduled for Dec. 16.

Dominant defense leads Pacers past Sacramento

 The Indiana Pacers (4-3) reached into their bag of tricks on Tuesday night, spooking the Sacramento Kings (1-6) and treating the fans to a 101-83 victory on Halloween night at Bankers Life Fieldhouse. With Thaddeus Young (15 points, four rebounds, and four steals) and Domantas Sabonis leading the way (12 points, 16 boards, and five assists), the Blue & Gold dominated Sacramento from start to finish for their second consecutive win and their third in four games. The Pacers limited the Kings to just 48 points through three quarters, turning in far and away their most dominant defensive performance of the season.

double-double of the season midway through the frame. The Pacers led by as many as 27 points in the half and took a 55-30 lead into the break.

"Defensively, we're getting better each and every day," Young said.

Young, the Pacers' captain, was one of the catalysts of the defensive attack. According to NBA.com, he entered the night leading the NBA in deflections per game at 4.9 and again was all over the floor.

"One thing about Thad, you know he always has your back," Pacers guard Victor Oladipo said. "And when you know someone's always (hustling) like that, you have the pressure to have their back, too."

Coming off an impressive victory over San Antonio on Sunday, the Pacers picked up where they left off from the opening tip on Tuesday.

Indiana scored the game's first nine points and eventually opened up a 17-4 lead. Sabonis was especially impressive, racking up six points and nine rebounds in the first 7:33 of the contest, despite battling an upper respiratory infection.

The Kings, on the other hand, looked like they would rather be out trick-or-treating. Sacramento missed 12 of its first 14 shots and amassed just 13 points in the first quarter, the lowest point total by a Pacers opponent in any quarter this season.

The Blue & Gold kept their foot on the gas in the second quarter, reeling off an 11-0 run over a two-minute stretch to extend the lead to 23. Sabonis already had his fourth double-double of the season midway through the frame. The Pacers led by as many as 27 points in the half and took a 55-30 lead into the break.

The outcome was never in doubt after halftime, as the Kings never got closer than within 15 points of the lead and Pacers head coach Nate McMillan was able to mostly rest his starters in the fourth quarter.

The highlight of the fourth quarter was the late-game performance of Pacers second-round pick Ike Anigbogu, the youngest player in the NBA.

Anigbogu scored his first points of his professional career on a pair of free throws, later knocked down a jumper, then sent the Pacers' veterans on the bench into hysterics with an emphatic block of Kings guard Frank Mason in the closing seconds.

"I'm proud of him," Oladipo said. "A lot of guys do a lot of the cheering. (The starters) got to do the cheering today. It's an awesome feeling."

Five Pacers players scored in double figures in the win. Bojan Bogdanovic had a team-high 17 points on 6-of-13 shooting (3-of-6 from 3-point range) to go along with three rebounds and four assists. Oladipo added 14 points and four rebounds, while Cory Joseph chipped in 13 points off the bench (11 in the fourth quarter) on 5-of-8 shooting (3-of-4 from 3-point range).

Rookie guard De'Aaron Fox led Sacramento — which has now lost five straight games — with 18 points, four rebounds, and five assists. Marion, native Zach Randolph was the only other Kings player to reach double figures, finishing with 12 points and five rebounds.

The extra rest the Pacers' key players were able to get down the stretch could come in handy on Wednesday night, when Indiana travels to Cleveland to face off against LeBron James and the Cavaliers on the second night of a back-to-back. Tipoff is scheduled for 7 p.m.

"Any time we can gain some momentum going into these type of situations where we're going to be on the road...we definitely need that fire and that energy that we've played with these past couple games," Young said.
