Westfield, Janus join forces

The REPORTER

The City of Westfield and Janus Developmental Services are announcing a partnership geared towards volunteering.

Beginning this spring, clients of Janus will have the opportunity to assist Westfield with volunteer duties at the city's events.

"I am excited that our clients will have the opportunity to assist the City of Westfield with volunteer duties," said Debbie Laird, senior vice president of development for Janus. "Our clients enjoy having opportunities to participate and contribute in the community. This new partnership will benefit everyone involved!"

"We in Westfield are thrilled to partner with Janus and their clients," Mayor Andy Cook. "This will be a great opportunity for us to become an even stronger supporter of the work Janus does within Westfield and the rest of Hamilton County."

The Janus volunteers will assist with event preparation, including packet-stuff-

Furthermore, Janus and the Westfield Chamber of Commerce are partnering to bring local art to Westfield.

The Westfield Chamber of Commerce last August moved to Main Street in downtown Westfield. "After the move we found that our space would be a good place to display art in our new storefront windows," stated President Jack Russell. Russell added, "Not only are we excited to partner with Janus, but it also brings more arts to Westfield and the downtown."

The artwork is done by clients of Janus and can be purchased at the chamber

Humans in space at Carmel Clay Public Library

The REPORTER

The Link Observatory Space Science Institute will host its LinkLive presentation called "The Next Steps in Human Space Exploration" at 7 p.m. on Thursday, March 8 at the Carmel Clay Public Library. The Institute will talk about the unique challenges of space exploration, something no activity on Earth can match.

"2018 is the beginning of a new era in space exploration. NASA and commercial space companies like SpaceX and Blue Origin have plans to send humans into space," said Greg McCauley, the Institute's Executive Director. "This will fundamentally transform our world and pave the way for human expansion into the solar system."

Space exploration has driven scientific and technological innovation that benefits people around the globe every day. Sending humans into space presents challenges that are overcome only by the utmost ingenuity; this leads to new knowledge and technical innovations that are used on Earth in ways that can be dramatic, unpredictable and world-changing.

"Humans are fascinated with what's beyond our world. For decades, we have been sending rockets, satellites and people into space to learn about our own planet, as well as what lies beyond," said McCauley. "Space travel is beneficial because it has led to many new technologies, provides information about Earth's health, helps us understand our own biology and

'Plant' Westfield blue, welcome Colts to Grand Park

The REPORTER

The rivalry is back on in Westfield. Westfield residents will have a chance to show their support for the Indianapolis Colts with this year's spring planting event.

The "Plant the City Blue" competition is a chance for residents to show their pride in the community and their homes, while also welcoming the Indianapolis Colts to their new training camp location at Grand Park this summer.

"This will be a fun competition to determine which homes, neighborhoods and apartments can show the best and bluest floral spirit," Community Events and Engagement Director Angie Smitherman said.

This year's floral competition is an online competition, giving residents the chance to take pictures of their arrangements and submit them online before June 22.

The competition features categories for individual homes as well as neighborhood and apartment entrances. Each category must adhere to judging criteria such as use of blue and white coloring, arrangements and originality, distribution and location of flowers, balance and harmony, and maintenance of flowerbeds, planters and window boxes.

Judging will occur the last week in June.

Carmel High School shares resources with students during Mental Health Awareness Week

wishtv.com

Students and teachers in Carmel are wrapping up a week-long focus on mental healthcare.

The school has had a number of activities during the week focusing on mental health, including having therapy dogs come to school one day.

The goal was to show students the variety of ways they can cope with stress and anxiety.

“I think it’s a good step towards making them more aware to the public and how they can help people in the future showing that you know spending a couple of minutes a day helps with your stress levels,” said Carmel student Megan Prince.

The high school also shared a video of students performing random acts of kindness as part of Mental Health Awareness Week.

The school also had coping skills stations for students, with everything

Candidate warns of too much optimism

Dear Editor,

As a Hamilton County taxpayer, taxpayer advocate and fiscal conservative, the assumption that our Property Assessed Valuations will continue to rise perpetually is troubling. Specifically, I am gravely concerned with the assumption that future tax revenues will ALWAYS be there in a projected growth curve. This mindset leads to a spend first default mode, witnessing firsthand discussions in public county government meetings, a 4 percent annual increase appears to be merely assumed and baked into future spending.

At a recent Hamilton County Council meeting, our County Assessor reported a looming threat and cautioned the Council concerning "dark stores" and the reduction in commercial property Assessed Values. When questioned, she reported that if valuation appeals continue to be lost, she could be forced to lower the Assessed Value of commercial properties in the county by as much as 50 percent. Losing these appeals can reduce cash reserves as the county can be forced to retroactively reimburse property owners for the new lower assessed valuation. Further, it inhibits planned future spending because the assumed tax revenue might not be there. The potential for a perfect storm (lower revenue and reduced cash reserves by returning taxes already received) is real. I call on our county officials to openly evaluate, discuss and prepare solutions before appeals and litigation become more common.

Lower Assessed Values mean less property tax revenue. Lower Assessed Values mean a lower threshold on allowable county debt. Lower Assessed Values lead to tougher spending decisions and ultimately can lead to tax increases. Lower Assessed values can lead to TIF bond payment problems. Lower Assessed Values, if retroactive, require cash rebates to those who win appeals. These rebates that can be six or even seven figures.

As a commercial property owner, I am often approached by companies offering to fight the assessed value on our behalf in exchange for half of the tax savings. This cottage industry's growth fly's in the face of assumed increased values and assumed tax revenue increases. Adding insult to injury is our county's cost to fight each of these appeals. Legal costs are projected to be in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Just this week right next door in Boone County (story from the Kokomo Tribune):

Property tax appeal could make history, save millions

Boone County officials have taken steps over the past two weeks to prevent millions in tax revenue loss for multiple municipalities. To prevent that loss, the county opted to spend as much as $400,000 to fight a property tax assessment appeal filed by the Whites-town Meijer store. Locally, the Meijer appeal is for all tax years since the store opened in Whitestown in 2014. Officials said that if the appeal is successful, the county would have to pay back $300,000 to $375,000 for each year Meijer has appealed.

The county is not the only entity that stands to lose money, as the store also pays taxes to the town of Whitestown, Zionsville Community Schools and the Hussey-Mayfield Public Library. Going forward, each entity would also get that much less money from Meijer in property taxes, which would amount to millions in lost revenue in the coming years.

The Whitestown Lowe's and CVS stores and the Lebanon Menards have also filed appeals.

This isn't a question of if, it is happening right now, the fights have already begun. As taxpayers and taxpayer advocates, we must pay attention to the storm coming and hold accountable our county government officials to plan for what's already happening.

Hundreds of thousands of taxpayer dollars in legal fees isn't the answer. Quietly ignoring and doing nothing is a decision, too, but it isn't a viable answer.

There are two ways to address this situation, proactively or reactively. If we wait, the taxpayers could end up footing the legal bills and the county still lose millions of tax dollars in lost property valuation appeal cases. Predictable and proactive solutions are my choice rather than waiting until it's too late.

Let's encourage our county officials to get out ahead of this challenge, publicly and proactively addressing it, recognizing the limits of the taxpayers' wallets. Reasonable people with reasonable data will come to reasonable conclusions. Respectfully, I ask that taxpayers are put first.

Reader: Altman's response raises serious questions

Dear Editor:
Christine Altman's response to the letter from Matt's Campaign Treasurer, Eric Morris, raises more questions than it has answered, specifically:

• Ms. Altman stated: "As in past elections I will run on my experience as an accountant, attorney, and business person, my past and current service both as an elected official and as a community volunteer, and my vision for the future of Hamilton County."

You have listed no specific accomplishments only occupations and activity. What are we supposed to glean, Christine? Indeed, we don't question your expertise but your conflicts of interest and lack of transparency. Did you disclose your multiple conflicts of interest in your original campaign for County Commissioner?

• Ms. Altman stated: "While I don't intend to put on my waders and get in the mud with my opponent, I do feel compelled to share accurate information. In Hamilton County, we choose not to make the office of County Commissioner a full-time position even though it does take a majority of our time to serve."

• She also stated: "In the event of a conflict of interest, I disclose the conflict and do not vote on the issue. Government moves on."

You don't intend to get in the mud, yet you denigrate a citizen who states they will serve only one master while you acknowledge conflicts of interest that interfere with your duties due to other entanglements in Hamilton County?

Indeed, you just acknowledged your inability to participate in the completion of your sworn duties due to 'conflicts'?

Just because you disclose them does not remove the issue.

Matt is running to prevent a Mass Transit Income Tax, to eliminate the current conflicts of interest in the Commissioner's Office, improve transparency, and better collaborate and coordinate with the county councilors and the citizens of Hamilton County.

Matt has a career in the logistics industry where his responsibilities include managing a team responsible for the marketing, pricing, facilitation of transit while maintaining customer communication and satisfaction throughout the process on international and domestic shipments.

Matt's commitment to the service of others was demonstrated in his 14-year voluntary fight to keep Home Place from being annexed by the City of Carmel, saving millions of dollars for Hamilton County taxpayers. Matt's actions led to a change in Indiana State Law regarding annexation. Matt serves others first, not himself. He is the conflict-free candidate.

Matt has been precinct committeeman since 2008.

He is a past member of the Carmel Clay Fire Board. He attends East 91st Street Christian Church and is Committee Chair for Boy Scout Troop 733 since 2012.

Matt has been married 25 years and had two children in Carmel Clay schools.

Carmel holds off Southeastern to reach championship

Carmel's Cole Jenkins scored 19 points to lead the Greyhounds in their sectional semi-final win over Hamilton Southeastern on Friday.

In a basketball game where there's not much between the two teams, any run is big and one run can make the difference.

So it was for Carmel in its semi-final victory over Hamilton Southeastern at the Class 4A Noblesville sectional Friday night at The Mill. The No. 10-ranked Greyhounds scored eight unanswered points in a run that bridged the second and third quarters, and that gave Carmel enough separation to get past the Royals, 62-56.

The 'Hounds will play Fishers at 7:30 p.m. tonight for the Sectional 8 championship.

The game was tied at 10-all after the first quarter, with Cole Jenkins scoring seven points for Carmel and Chaz Birchfield chipping in six points for Southeastern. The Greyhounds jumped ahead 15-10 at one point in the second period, but the Royals were within one point on three different occasions late in the quarter, including after a Birchfield layin put HSE within 22-21.

Eddie Gill got the last basket of the half, a putback that put Carmel up 24-21. That would be the start of the Greyhounds' 8-0 run, although they would have to wait until the second half for it to continue.

Once the half began, John Michael Mulloy scored on a basket, then Luke Heady made four consecutive free throws. With that, Carmel led 30-21.

"You talk about the six straight points, and yeah, we scored, but I think the biggest thing was we stopped them three straight times and that's big for us," said Carmel coach Ryan Osborn. "They have some firepower over there."

Southeastern coach Brian Satterfield agreed that the Greyhounds getting that separation at the start of the third was a turning point.

"Then we're having to play from behind a little bit," said Satterfield. "When we tried to gamble a little bit, it didn't pay off for us and they got some easy buckets. They were able to knock down free throws down the stretch."

Aaron Etherington ended the run with a 3-pointer, and the game continued roughly basket-for-basket for most of the second half. The Royals got their closest with 3:50 left in the fourth period, after two Birchfield free throws got HSE within 47-43.

But the 'Hounds went off on a 10-4 run to all but clinch the game. Mulloy converted a three-point play, then Heady added five more points, with a free throw pushing Carmel up to its biggest lead, 57-47 with 33.6 seconds left. The Royals threw in three 3-pointers in the final 30 seconds of the game, but the Greyhounds were able to neutralize those baskets at the foul line, making 5-of-6 free throws.

"I think our guys have matured a lot over the year," said Osborn. "Just different situations, different environments. We've played some tough games against some really good teams with some different atmospheres. I think early we didn't handle those situations very well. Now that we've gone through it as a group together, they've learned how to keep their composure a little better and that makes a difference."

Jenkins led the way for Carmel with 19 points and six rebounds, while Heady's 11-of-14 performance from the line was a big part of his 16 points. Mulloy added 14 points, along with six rebounds and two blocked shots. Osborn said Mulloy "played like a veteran" at the end of the game.

"And Cole Jenkins was a leader," said Osborn. "He was a senior leader tonight that controlled the game and made great decisions and got everybody involved and

Tigers roll past Anderson into championship

Reporter photos by Kent Graham

Fishers' Jeremy Szilagy scored 22 points for the Tigers in their sectional semi-final win over Anderson on Friday.

Fishers rolled into the championship game of the Class 4A Noblesville sectional with a 72-58 semi-final win over Anderson in the first Friday night semi-final.

The Tigers led 12-9 after the first quarter, then leaped ahead 30-19 by halftime. Jeremy Szilagy got hot in the second period, scoring 10 points, including two 3-pointers.

The Indians stayed with Fishers in the third quarter, but were only able to cut the Tigers' lead to 45-35 by the end of the period. Fishers then poured in 27 points in the fourth quarter, with Szilagy draining two more 3s and scoring 12 in the period.

Szilagy's grand totals for the game were 22 points and four 3-pointers. The senior was the first of four Tigers in double figures. Josiah Matthews added 15 points, while Terry Hicks scored 13. Both scored eight points in one quarter, with Hicks scoring that number in the third period and Matthews getting eight in the fourth.

Willie Jackson added 10 points. Fishers was most impressive from the free throw line in the second half, making all 14 of its foul shots.

The Tigers are now 12-11 and play No. 10-ranked Carmel in tonight's championship game.

Golden Eagles fall to Cardinal Ritter

The basketball season ended Friday night for Guerin Catholic as Cardinal Ritter defeated the Golden Eagles 62-54 in the semi-finals of IHSAA Class 3A Sectional 27 play in the Eagles Nest. The Raiders advance to meet defending 3A state champs Crispus Attucks in Saturday's championship tilt.

Godfrey

Ritter (14-7) got off to a fast start each half, and GC was battling from behind all night. It was a physical contest from the get-go, and that neutralized the effectiveness of Guerin's inside game, said Coach Pete Smith. Leading scorer and rebounder, Jack Hansen, sprained his right ankle towards the end of his team's practice Thursday night, and valiantly tried to play but was obviously hobbled and scored only eight points and grabbed six rebounds in limited action. Then early in the second-quarter point guard Clay Hepp severely injured his left leg while getting fouled and was unable to return to action.

After being outscored 18-7 in the first quarter, the Golden Eagles cut into the Raiders lead after the Hepp injury. Luke Godfrey connected on back-to-back 3-pointers and a Drew Thieme basket helped cut the deficit to eight points, 27-19, at halftime.

After falling behind by double digits to start the third quarter, Kian Sills and Bernie McGuinness rallied their troops. Sills, playing point guard in Hepp's absence, scored eight points and McGuinness' hustle plays and basket helped cut the lead to three points at 38-35 before Ritter settled for 41-36 lead after three quarters. "We had three possessions to cut it to one point or even tie it and just didn't capitalize", said Smith.

Five points both by Zach Munson and Godfrey in the fourth quarter got the Golden Eagles within 45-41, but an intentional foul called on the Golden Eagles was followed by 12-17 free throw shooting by the Raiders in the final six minutes when GC was trapping all over the court proved too much for Guerin Catholic to overcome.

GC had one of their poorest shooting games in a while, connecting on only 19-of-50 field goal attempts. They also were outrebounded 29-25 by Ritter, marking only the fourth time all season Smith's squad didn't win the battle of the boards in 25 contests. "We fought and battled, and I was very proud of that. Our injuries sure put a damper on the game, too, and I need to just stop there," said Smith shortly after the game. It was apparent to everyone in attendance of his displeasure with how the game was being officiated, and he was assessed a technical foul just three minutes into the action.

Godfrey finished with 13 points, while Munson and Sills added 12 for Guerin Catholic, who ended their season with a 16-9 record. It marked the 11th-straight winning season for the Golden Eagles.

'Hawks give Frankton another battle, drop semi-final game

By RICHIE HALL
 Reporter Sports Editor

For the second consecutive Friday night, Sheridan played Frankton.

The Blackhawks were hoping for a different outcome this week, since they were dealt a close loss by the Eagles last Friday. Not to mention this game happened to be the first semi-final game of the Class 2A Lapel sectional.

Just like last week, Sheridan hung with Frankton, but this time the Eagles used a 9-0 run midway through the fourth quarter, eventually winning 72-63. Frankton will now play host Lapel tonight for the Sectional 40 championship, while the Blackhawks' season ends at 11-12.

"Two games in a row," said Sheridan coach Chris Schrank. "We played them last Friday and went toe-to-toe. We went toe-to-toe tonight. I would take my team against them every time. I love the guys' effort, I love the way they played. We did everything that we felt we needed to do, other than let them go on a little run at the end. That was the difference."

Sheridan trailed 11-9 with 2:30 left in the first period before scoring six straight points to go ahead 15-11. Ange Gnamkey scored the first four points, then Caleb Duke hit a couple of free throws, this after he had an earlier 3-pointer.

Frankton's Brayton Cain finished the first quarter with a 3, bringing his team within 15-14. That set the stage for a seesaw second quarter, which featured seven lead changes in a four-minute period. That doesn't include ties, which Drake Delph did with a 3-pointer to knot the score at 20-all.

Delph made another '3' to give Sheridan the lead, but the Eagles' Ethan Bates used a traditional three-point play to move Frankton ahead 26-24. No problem: Gnamkey converted his own three-point play, and Sheridan was back up 27-26.

Gnamkey got the last basket of the half, which kept Sheridan within 33-31 at the break. Delph then opened the third quarter with a 3-pointer, and the 'Hawks were on top again at 34-33.

But a layin from Frankton's Travis McGuire put the Eagles up 35-34, and they would never trail again. Sheridan did stay with Frankton, at one point using four straight free throws (two each from Gnamkey and Delph) to tie the game back up at 45-45.

An Austin Hunter 3-pointer early in the fourth quarter kept the 'Hawks within 55-52, but the Eagles went on a sudden 9-0 run to jump ahead 64-52. Duke single-handedly cut that lead in half with back-to-back 3-pointers, but Frankton would not let them get any closer.

"They made the run when they needed to," said Schrank. "Credit them. They're a good team. We knew it was going to be tough and it was going to take everything we had. Came up just short."

Gnamkey scored 24 points to lead Sheridan, with Delph adding 13 and Duke 11. Both Delph and Duke finished the game with three 3-pointers. Gnamkey also had six rebounds and two blocked shots, with Jesse Kolb collecting five rebounds.

'Blazers reach final with win over Gryphons

Flamion

The University Trailblazers opened play in the 2018 IHSAA boys basketball tournament with a 45-36 victory over Indianapolis International. The win advanced the 20-2 and No. 2-ranked Trailblazers to the Class 1A Sectional 58 championship game against Indianapolis Metropolitan.

Friday's game was a complete reversal of style from the regular season game won by University 88-62 in early February. That game saw University shoot 67 percent from the field and make 15 of 26 3-point attempts. Scoring was at a premium Friday night as the Trailblazers made just five of 23 3-point shots, but the University defense was up to the task, holding International to just eight field goals for the game.

The Trailblazers never trailed in the game, holding the Gryphons scoreless for the first 6:30 of the game. University led 8-0 and had a 10-5 lead at the end of the first quarter.

University threatened to break the game open in the second quarter. Leading 12-8 midway through the quarter, the 'Blazers ran off seven straight points to take a 19-8 lead. David Howard scored before Josh Watson hit a 3-pointer and a layup in the 7-0 run. However the 'Blazers did not score for the last 3:31 of the half and took a 19-13 advantage to the locker room.

University quickly pushed the lead back to 10 at 25-15 with 6:01 remaining in the third quarter behind four points from Zack Hodgins and a basket by Howard. The Blazers then went scoreless for the next four minutes before sophomore Max Greenamoyer came off the bench to hit back-to-back three pointers and a 31-22 lead after the third period.

The Blazers started the fourth quarter strong, pushing the lead back to 11 at 37-26 with five minutes left before another four minute scoreless stretch that included missing the front end of all three one-and-one foul shot opportunities allowed International to pull within 37-32.

Foster Flamion split a pair of free throws with 59.8 seconds remaining to give the Blazers a 38-32 lead. University closed out the game at the line with Sam Mervis making all four of his attempts and Hodgins making both of his.

"Our defense kept us in the game and allowed us to move on" said University coach Brandon Lafferan. "Max (Greenamoyer) made some big shots for us off the bench in the third quarter to give us a lift."

The Blazers featured balanced scoring with Flamion, Watson and Hodgins leading with eight points each and Mervis, Howard and Greenamoyer making six points apiece.

International's 6-11 junior Mawich Kachjaani led all scorers with 17 points, including making eight of 11 foul shots. Half of the Gryphons points came at the foul stripe as they sank 18 of 24 free throws.

University's primary ball handlers, Hodgins and Mervis, each made all six of their free throw attempts as University was 16 of 23 as a team.

The Trailblazers will be seeking their first Sectional championship since 2013 in Saturday's championship game. Tip-off is 7:30 p.m. at Bethesda Christian school in Brownsburg.

Pacers get win - and tiebreaker - over Milwaukee

By WHEAT HOTCHKISS
Courtesy nba.com/pacers

After starting their four-game road trip with disappointing losses in Dallas and Atlanta, the Indiana Pacers bounced back in a big way on Friday night in Milwaukee.

Indiana (35-27) opened up a 17-point lead in the second half and held on late for a 103-96 win over the Bucks (33-29) in a game with major playoff implications.

The Pacers have now won two of three games against their Central Division rivals this season, with one more meeting scheduled for Monday night in Indianapolis. But Friday's win assured that Indiana will own the head-to-head tiebreaker over the Bucks, as the Pacers have now clinched a better division record than Milwaukee, which is the second tiebreaker if two divisional opponents split their regular season series.

"It was a physical game, and I thought our guys did a great job of handling that pressure," Pacers head coach Nate McMillan said after the win. "Both teams were getting after it from the start, and both teams are playing for the same thing."

Both teams sputtered somewhat offensively in a physical first quarter that featured five technical fouls, but the Bucks held a narrow 21-18 advantage after the opening 12 minutes.

Indiana led for much of the second quarter, but trailed 45-44 entering the break after a first half that featured eight ties and nine lead changes.

The Pacers finally assumed control of the contest midway through the third quarter, reeling off a 14-1 run to open up a 67-58 lead, the first time either team led by more than five points all night. All-Star guard Victor Oladipo was brilliant over that stretch, capping the run by throwing down a ferocious dunk out of a pick-and-roll and then kicking out to Cory Joseph for an open three on the next possession.

"We got back to what we are comfortable doing," Joseph said about the pivotal stretch. "Victor got going. When he gets going he puts so much pressure on the defense. He was going downhill, he was finding people, and he got us into a rhythm."

Lance Stephenson helped the visitors finish the third quarter strong, converting an acrobatic layup at the third quarter buzzer to give Indiana a 78-67 advantage.

The Blue & Gold extended their lead to as many as 17 points in the fourth quarter, but the Bucks responded. Milwaukee scored 12 unanswered points over a two-minute stretch to make it a 93-88 game with 4:12 to play.

Oladipo stopped the bleeding by knocking down a 3-pointer with 3:19 remaining, but the Bucks scored the next four points to trim their deficit to four with 1:28 to play.

Oladipo answered once again, this time burying a pull-up jumper to give Indiana a 98-92 lead with 1:13 remaining. On the other end, Kris Middleton drove and drew the sixth foul on Domantas Sabonis, then converted both free throws with 1:02 left.
