Fadness announces Agri Park, 'Fishers First' collaborative education program

By LARRY LANNAN
LarryInFishers.com

Mayor Scott Fadness used his annual State Of The City address to announce two major initiatives, what the mayor describes as quality of life enhancements – one dealing with agriculture, the other a joint educational program called Fishers First.

The city will partner with Conner Prairie and the Hamilton Southeastern School District to create the Fishers First program. This effort is explained as bringing about a world-class educational experience for Fishers students that would combine innovation, collaboration and new experiences.

What is described as “experiential learning” will be at the center of Fishers First. Among the programs envisioned include the geology behind patching potholes to experiencing ecology through already-established programs such as Fishers Parks and Recreation’s “Nature First,” where students of all ages will have the opportunity to work alongside the Conner Prairie, the City of Fishers, and local businesses to deepen their knowledge of standards taught inside the classroom.

County kids walk out Wednesday

The REPORTER

Students from Hamilton County schools participated in Wednesday’s National School Walkout Day to honor victims of the recent Parkland, Fla., school shootings and to advocate for gun control.

The Noblesville Schools administration reported that approximately 700 students at NHS, 400 at Noblesville East Middle School and 200 at Noblesville West Middle School chose to walkout at 10 a.m. as part of the national initiative. Other NHS students chose to participate by being involved in empathy activities, discussions and writing.

Approximately 400 students at Hamilton Southeastern High School reportedly left classes to participate in the walkout.

At Carmel High School, students walked out of class and into the fieldhouse for 17 minutes, a minute for each of the Parkland shooting victims. Some students carried poster size photos of the Florida shooting victims.

SMC says it plans to keep its current 954 employees and add 92 more within 10 years of the proposed expansion.

SMC seeks tax breaks for new $67M facility

Noblesville City Council members on Tuesday voted to approve a preliminary resolution that could provide Noblesville based SMC, a maker of technology operated by air or gas pressure, tax breaks to invest $67 million in a new facility at its U.S. headquarters located near 146th Street and Cumberland Road.

SMC is proposing the addition of a 1 million square-foot building on land SMC owns near its current headquarters, according to documents filed with the city.

Noblesville’s Public Affairs Manager Robert Herrington stated, “SMC is requesting a 10-year declining real property tax phase-in and a 10-year 80-percent reduced tax phase-in on personal property.”

Noblesville officials indicated the proposed project is a competitive project, meaning SMC could look to other cities.

The project would bring a total new capital investment of $67 million. To date, SMC has made a capital investment in Noblesville of approximately $140 million. New investment in Real Property is estimated to be $49.8 million, along with $18 million in Personal Property.

The company plans to retain its 954 employees and add about 92 within 10 years as a result of the expansion.

A public hearing on the proposal is set for 7 p.m. on Tuesday, March 27 at Noblesville City Hall, 16 S. 10th St., the documents said.

Richardson honored for 26 years of service in General Assembly

The REPORTER

Members of the House of Representatives recently honored retiring State Rep. Kathy Kreag Richardson (R-Noblesville) for her 26 years representing House District 29.

“Serving Hamilton County in the House of Representatives for 26 years has been an honor and privilege,” Richardson said. “Choosing to retire from this position was a difficult decision, but I look forward to pursuing other opportunities in the community. Being a state lawmaker has been such a significant part of who I am, and I have many great memories and lasting friendships that I can hold dear in the next chapter of my life.”

Richardson will continue her term in office until the Nov. 6 election.

As the House Majority Caucus chair, Richardson leads meetings and provides guidance to fellow members and staff. She is also an Indiana Legislative Council member who helps oversee nonpartisan legislative staff.

Reader finds Janet's column inspiring

Dear Editor:

A Big Thank You to Janet Hart Leonard for her March 12 column, "Thoughts from the second row."

Ms. Leonard expressed the thoughts of this reader and I believe many, if not most Americans. I also remember the 1970s when, like today, we experienced toxic unpatriotic expressions from a boisterous few.

I am old enough to remember what has been called The "Greatest play in baseball" in 1976 when Cubs center fielder Rick Monday saved the American flag from two activists determined to interrupt the game by setting it on fire. Fans and players alike in Los Angeles gave Monday a standing ovation then began singing God Bless America. Thankfully that film clip has survived and can be seen today on YouTube.

It's really wonderful and inspiring like your thoughtful words give us hope that these virulent actions from the noisy few will, as with the 70s, be gratefully behind us.

A thank you to Richardson

To My Friend Kathy,

I first want to say thank you. Thank you for all the lives you have touched throughout your time as a leader at the Statehouse. There are many qualities in a leader but no greater than instilling passion in others. Through my time growing up I have always seen you as a giving leader.

You truly inspire others to serve with their heart. With the last day of session upon us I want to be just one voice in saying thank you. You have always been there for me. From my graduation at Noblesville and then Indiana University. From the passing of my grandfather and great grandmother. To having you officiate my wedding.

I believe I am not alone in the lives you have impacted. I am sure there are many other men and women whose lives and careers have been enhanced because of your leadership and passion. You have always had a leader-

Culvert replacements on State Road 32

The REPORTER

The Indiana Department of Transportation's contractor Calumet Civil Contractors will begin closing State Road 32 from State Road 38 to State Road

9 on or after March 19 for up to 45 days to replace two drainage culverts.

One culvert is located 3.5 miles east of State Road 38 between Durbin Road and Prairie Baptist Road in Hamilton County. The other culvert is located 2.8 miles east of State Road 13 between Madison County Roads 800 and 725 West.

During the closures, a signed detour will direct highway traffic around construction via State Road 38, Interstate 69 and State Road 9.

All work on the projects is expected to be complete by November 2018.

Fundraiser launched to support Noblesville Youth Assistance

The REPORTER

Noblesville Youth Assistance Program is reaching out for help in a way the organization never has before. From now through the end of March, NYAP is launching its first ever fundraising campaign. Its first ask? The local business community.

"Noblesville area businesses can have a direct impact on improving the lives of youth who are facing some of life's greatest challenges," said Matt Nelis, president of the NYAP board of directors. "Our supporters can give hope and encouragement to those in our community who need just a little extra to truly thrive – and funding these critical programs is the key to making this happen."

The Noblesville Youth Assistance Program's daily mission is to advocate for at-risk kids ages 3-17 with a holistic approach tapping into all the area's resources. NYAP coordinates these resources to provide food and clothing, one-on-one tutoring and mentoring as well as camp and other recreational opportunities.

NYAP currently supports 140 students. In 2017, NYAP served 8,000 meals during the summer months in a partnership with Hamilton County Food Bank, provided one-on-one tutoring and mentoring for 105 students and offered summer camp opportunities to 48 students. Its two full-time staff members want to reach more students as the need has grown beyond NYAP's current funding through Hamilton County, the City of Noblesville and other charitable providers.

"Despite the image of affluence of Hamilton County, the need here is very real," said Tricia Akers, executive director of the Hamilton County Youth Assistance Program, the umbrella organization that oversees all six of its chapters. "Thanks to our partners, we have been able to provide those things that are not accessible to a great number of our youth. Now we want to reach even more kids in need, and we're asking the business community to step up and help."

Donors at all amounts are encouraged to give. Sponsors who donate to NYAP at the $1,000, $5,000 or $10,000 level will be recognized on social media and at the Noblesville Schools Shining Stars event to be held May 2 at the Hamilton County 4-H Fairgrounds. This annual event honors a student from each of the ten schools from elementary through high school.

Hamilton County Ag Day celebrates 32 years

The REPORTER

Hamilton County just celebrated its 32nd Ag Day. Around 2,300 second graders and their teachers visited 11 educational displays including agricultural products and live animals on Monday through today at the Hamilton County 4-H Fairgrounds in Noblesville.

Displays included information on corn, soybeans, wheat, beekeeping, soil and water conservation, robots in agriculture and more. Animal production and animal by-products were explained with the use of beef, goats, horses, llamas, poultry, rabbits, sheep and swine. More than 140 volunteers helped make presentations to the students and got them involved in hands-on activities.

The Agriculture Council of America will host National Ag Day on Tuesday, March 20. This will mark the 45th anniversary of National Ag Day, which is celebrated in classrooms and communities across the country. The National Ag Day program encourages every American to understand how food and fiber products are produced, appreciate the role agriculture plays in providing safe, abundant and affordable products, value the essential role of agriculture in maintaining a strong economy and acknowledge and consider career opportunities in the agriculture, food and fiber industry.

Everyone knows that food and fiber don't just arrive at the grocery or clothing store or magically appear on the dinner table or in the closet. There is an entire industry dedicated to providing plentiful and safe food for consumption as well as a wide range of comfortable, fashionable clothing choices. People rely on agriculture for the very necessities of life. From beef and pork to cotton and corn, agriculture is working harder than ever to meet the needs of Americans and others around the world.

It's important to remember that American agriculture is doing it better and more effectively. Today, each American farmer feeds more than 144 people. Agriculture is this nation's number one export and is vitally important in sustaining a healthy economy. New technology means farmers are more environmentally friendly than ever before.

"Since many Hamilton County residents are now three or more generations removed from the farm, Ag Day provides students with a close up, hands-on exposure to agriculture that they would not have otherwise had the opportunity to experience," said Lisa Hanni, Program Assistant.

The Hamilton County Ag Day Program is supported by the cooperative efforts of Purdue Extension Hamilton County and the following Hamilton County groups: 4-H Animal Exhibitors and Volunteers, Ag Reliant Genetics, American Dairy Association Ind, Inc., Bastin Honey Bee Farm, Beck's Hybrids, Beef Cattlemen, Central Indiana Antique Tractor & Engineer Association, Co-Alliance, Dave Zeller Family, Farm Bureau, Inc., Farm Credit Service of Mid America, Harey Hoppers 4-H Club, Husky 4-H'ers 4-H Club, Indiana Soybean Alliance, North Central Beekeepers Club, Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Pork Producers, Reynolds Farm Equipment, Sheep Producers, and Soil and Water Conservation Services.

Then said the king to the servants, Bind him hand and foot, and take him away, and cast him into outer darkness, there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. For many are called, but few are chosen. Then went the Pharisees, and took counsel how they might entangle him in his talk. And they sent out unto him their disciples with the Herodians, saying, Master, we know that thou art true, and teachest the way of God in truth, neither carest thou for any man: for thou regardest not the person of men.

Seafood: Some food for thought during National Nutrition Month

StatePoint

We hear a lot about the important nutrients in vegetables and fruits, but the health benefits of eating seafood regularly aren't always in the spotlight. It should be a no-brainer when it comes to seafood, which is packed with omega-3s. Yet, most Americans only eat one serving of seafood a week.

Here are some evidence-based facts to help set the record straight during National Nutrition Month.

1. How much seafood should I be eating?

Studies show that seafood benefits your heart, eyes and brain, and may also help you fight chronic diseases and memory loss. The 2015 Dietary Guidelines encourage all Americans to eat at least two servings of seafood each week. That's double the amount most people currently eat. To reap the range of nutrients found in seafood, try to get a variety of fish in your diet, including shrimp, salmon, canned/pouched tuna, tilapia and pollock.

2. What if you're pregnant?

Seafood is especially important for pregnant and breastfeeding women, as well as young children, since it is one of the only natural food sources rich in healthy omega-3 fatty acids, EPA and DHA. EPA and DHA are critical for brain and eye development, supporting the old adage that fish really is "brainfood." One recent study shows that moms-to-be who ate fish two to three times each week had babies that reached milestones — such as imitating sounds, recognizing family members and drinking from a cup — more quickly than children born to mothers who didn't eat fish regularly during pregnancy. Another recent study found that pregnant women who ate at least two seafood meals each week helped boost their child's IQ up three points by age 9. Learn more about the best fish to eat during pregnancy at aboutseafood.com/seafood-pregnancy.

3. How to get more seafood

Incorporating more seafood into your diet doesn't need to be a challenge. It's easy to get the recommended two to three servings each week by simply swapping out the protein from your favorite dishes with seafood. For example, chicken tacos become fish tacos, and grilled steak salad becomes grilled shrimp salad. What's more, seafood is just as healthy whether it's fresh, frozen or canned, making it a convenient item to stock up on when shopping, and ultimately helping you eliminate wasted food in your household.

4. Start the day right

Nutrition experts recommend incorporating protein into your breakfast as a way to boost metabolism and balance your blood sugar levels for the entire day. Kicking off the morning with tuna avocado toast or salmon on a bagel will help keep you feeling fuller for longer, prevent cravings before lunchtime and help you reach your weekly seafood goals.

More nutrition facts, recipes and other resources can be found at AboutSeafood.com.

This National Nutrition Month, give your health a boost by eating a variety of seafood at least twice a week.

Experienced Millers return some big hitters

By RICHIE HALL

Reporter Sports Editor

Experience will be the word for the Noblesville softball team this season.

The Millers have many returning varsity players, a handful of whom are part of a large junior class. Noblesville's roster will be a big-hitting one, including five players that averaged over .300 last season.

"Noblesville softball is excited about the 2018 spring season as we return 11 varsity players from last year, including eight players that have started at some point," said second-year Millers coach Deke Bullard.

The top returning hitter from last season is junior Julia Furiak, who batted .412 last season. Furiak is one of eight juniors on the team. Others returning are Emily Minett, a .383 hitter and Abby Brown, who batted at a .347 clip.

There are three seniors on Noblesville's team. Grace Smith is back, entering her fourth year as a Miller varsity player - she started in the season opener her freshman year. During her junior campaign, Smith hit at a .395 rate and led Noblesville in runs batted in with 22. She also returns the most hits (30) and runs scored (26), while both she and Minett each had three home runs last season.

Maggie Hampton is another senior; she brings back 10 runs from last year. Also back for her senior year is Cheney Gertz, who hit .250 as a junior.

The Millers will play a noon scrimmage at Guerin Catholic on Saturday, then open their regular season Tuesday at Western Boone. Noblesville's first home game is Friday, March 23 against Seccina, and its first Hoosier Crossroads Conference game is Tuesday, March 27 at Fishers.

"With a strong incoming freshman class that has depth we are excited and ready to get the season started," said Bullard. "The conference continues to get stronger and will be a battle as it is every year."

Westfield hires Sandra Burks as head volleyball coach

Westfield High School announced the hiring of Sandra Burks as its new head volleyball coach on Wednesday.

Burks is a teacher, volleyball coach, and resident of the Westfield community. She is in the midst of her 19th year coaching volleyball with experience in both the high school and club settings. Burks has coached at Bethesda Christian, Tri-West High School, Zionsville High School, and Westfield.

While at Bethesda, Burks coached the junior varsity team her first year and was the head varsity coach for the two following years. She gained this experience at Bethesda while a student at IUPUI earning her Bachelor of Science in Physical Education and Health, and doing her student teaching at Brownsburg West Middle School. During her three seasons at Bethesda, Burks had four athletes go on to play at the college level.

After graduation, she started her first permanent teaching job at Tri-West, where she coached and taught for nine years. While at Tri-West, she was the JV head coach, trained the setters program wide, and worked with the varsity as time permitted. While at Tri-West, Burks had seven 20-win seasons as the JV head coach. As a program from 2009-2012, Tri-West won four consecutive sectional titles, two in Class 2A and two in 3A. Tri-West finished in the Elite 8 during the 2010 season.

Through some volleyball connections, Burks met Zionsville head coach Dawn Jones. Burks interviewed for and accepted a position on staff with the Zionsville volleyball program. Burks' goal was to get her foot in the door with the coaching position available as a freshman coach, pitch in with the full program, and move into a varsity role as that opportunity presented itself.

During Burks' first year with Zionsville, the freshman numbers were quite low with the freshman squad, seven players in all. During that inaugural season with the Eagles, the freshman were a fun and competitive group of girls that finished the season with a record of 18-8, a tournament win, and a runner up tournament finish. Within that group of girls, one athlete made the jump from freshman to varsity the next year, and went on to play in college. Another athlete is a Division I softball player at the University of Dayton. In addition to this, Sandra worked with Zionsville's setters in positionals, and with serve and serve receive tracking with the varsity team.

At the conclusion of her first year at Zionsville, Burks was offered the varsity assistant position for the upcoming year and continued to work with Jones in this capacity for three additional years. During those three years, Zionsville earned two consecutive sectional championships, one regional championship, and one final four finish at semi-state. During her time at Zionsville, Burks feels this is where she truly learned how to run a volleyball program, including both the high school and youth components. While with Zionsville, eight athletes committed to play in college (seven volleyball, one softball) and five athletes are currently still in the active process. Burks was the interim head coach at Zionsville while Jones was on maternity leave.

Westfield High School announced the hiring of Hannah Mangus as its new girls soccer head coach on Wednesday.

The end of the 2016 season brought a lot of change at Zionsville. Jones moved due to a job transfer and Burks was offered a position on the coaching staff where she worked at Westfield High School. Burks made the decision to leave her role at Zionsville High School to go on staff at Westfield as the freshman head coach. Burks describes this transition as one of the hardest she has done, but as the year progressed she found it to be one of her most rewarding years of coaching volleyball. Burks had a talented freshman group that went 19-9, finished runner up in two tournaments, and third in another. Burks describes this freshman team as one of the hardest working and hungriest group of athletes she has ever coached. They hit the ground running every single time they walked onto the court and they were led well by their two captains who embraced their leadership roles.

With the resignation of coach Michelle Mapes, an opportunity arose that Burks had been preparing and waiting for her whole coaching career, to be a head coach where she taught. Burks is excited about the opportunity to coach in the community where she lives and works with such a committed volleyball family.

In addition to coaching at the high school level, Burks currently coaches club volleyball at Team Indiana where she coaches the 15 Elite Molten Thunder. The Thunder have had one first place finish at a tournament thus far this season and one other top five finish in their first four tournaments. Burks has coached the 15 Elite Molten for three consecutive years and is in her 12th year coaching club overall. Burks attributes much of her technical growth as a coach to her involvement in club volleyball. It is a unique atmosphere where coaches collaborate regularly regarding technique development. This benefits both athlete and coach development. This unique setting also helps a coach create a deep network among the coaching community among local high school and club coaches for the sharing of ideas and scout information for the betterment of all programs. Burks loves that she can walk into almost any gym in the high school season and have the opportunity to play against or see athletes (and coaches) that she has coached or trained within the club community.

Burks continually educates herself through being a member of the AVCA and USAV, attending clinics (Gold Medal Squared- USA Volleyball, AVCA convention, and ICGSA), and attending team camps with her athletes as a coach for drill ideas (Purdue University, University of Louisville, and Munciana satellite and team camps). She has earned two degrees from Indiana University, a Bachelor of Science in Physical Education and Health and a Master of Science in Special Education. She has been in education for 15 years. She has taught at Tri-West High School, North Central High School, and has now been at Westfield High School for three years. Burks is from Brownsburg, where many in her family still live. When not at volleyball, she spends time with her family and enjoys spoiling her nieces and nephews.
