Fishers mayor, teachers eat bugs to fight world hunger

By LARRY LANNAN
LarryInFishers.com

Teachers at New Britton Elementary School wanted to find a way to get their students involved in the subject of world hunger in a creative way ... so creative Fishers Mayor Scott

Fadness decided to get involved in a “bug” way.

The students reviewed world hunger statistics at an all-school convocation Thursday afternoon, but the event was capped off with something special. If the students met their fundraising goal to assist those in need of nourishment overseas, members of the teaching staff said they would eat bugs, based on the amount of money raised.

The students had a goal of coming up with $700. The amount of money donated exceeded $1,300, which meant lots of teachers would be eating bugs.

Then Mayor Fadness discovered the project on social media. One thing led to another, and the mayor ended up eating a cricket at the student convocation.

The school partnered with a Global Orphan Foundation to learn more about how insect farming works. New Britton Elementary is also raising money in partnership with Christ Community Church to buy and pack meals, then send them across the world through Rise Against Hunger.

Hughes hears case on sign ordinance

The REPORTER

Hamilton County Superior Court 3 Judge William Hughes conducted a hearing on Thursday regarding the constitutional validity of a sign ordinance recently adopted by Hamilton County Commissioners.

In February, Rick Sharp, a candidate for Hamilton County Council, filed a complaint for injunctive relief, indicating the ordinance violated his First Amendment right to free political speech. Sharp is represented by Westfield-based attorney Timothy Stoesz.

The ordinance in question prohibits signs, including candidate signage, from being placed in county-owned rights-of-way.

The commissioners say signs placed in rights-of-way present a safety concern, making it difficult for motorists to recognize regulatory signs and often block the vision of motorists.

In the suit Sharp says the commissioners make no showing of any public safety necessity and, even if they could, any alleged public safety concern does not outweigh the United States Constitution’s First Amendment right of free political speech enough to allow commissioners to restrict or regulate political speech.

During the hearing Hughes asked County Attorney Mike Howard to clarify the ordinance’s definition of a county-owned

HSE Board hears from new foundation Executive Director

When Freedom Kolb left her post as Executive Director of the Hamilton Southeastern (HSE) Schools Foundation, the board has been on the hunt for a replacement. Justin Hirnisey was introduced to the school board Wednesday night as Ms. Kolb’s replacement.

“I know I have some big shoes to fill,” Hirnisey told board members. “I’m excited that [Freedom Kolb] will still be around.”

Kolb now works for the HSE School Corporation as part of the Lilly grant on school counseling.

“I’ve lived here in Fishers for over 10 years,” said Hirnisey. “Have worked in a lot of nonprofits here locally, but really excited and felt a strong calling to be more involved here with the community in Fishers.”

What makes our Courthouse unique

The architectural style of the Hamilton County Courthouse continues to bring questions from visitors to Noblesville. The building is so familiar to locals that we don't think much about it, but it is unusual among the state's 92 county courthouses and one of the oldest in central Indiana. It's called French Second Empire style which was briefly popular in post-Civil War America. The distinctive features are the mansard roof, dormer windows and huge clock tower.

The courthouse is 140 years old this year. It housed all county government offices for nearly a century. Since the 1960s many government functions have had to leave the Courthouse to find more space. Courts and court related offices moved to the new Judicial Center in 1992, but the Courthouse with its iconic tower still dominates the downtown area.

The courthouse was designed by Edwin May, a popular architect of his time who also designed the Indiana Statehouse about ten years after doing the courthouse. Through the years there were alterations to the interior and to the mansard roof, but in 1994 a major renovation restored many of the original features.

Getting the building started in 1877-78 was controversial. A referendum on whether to build the courthouse showed a majority of voters opposed spending the estimated $100,000 for construction. But, county commissioners decided to proceed. The site was the location of an older courthouse. The property had been given to the county in 1823 by William Conner with the provision that it would be used strictly for the seat of county government.

Construction on the present courthouse apparently began without a groundbreaking ceremony common today. It was the setting of the cornerstone that was ceremonially

Resource Fair comes to 4-H Fairgrounds in May

The REPORTER

Good Samaritan Network (GSN) is pleased to announce a free public event, the ninth annual Hamilton County Resource Fair, from noon to 5 p.m. on Friday, May 4, located at the Hamilton County 4-H Fairgrounds in Noblesville. This free event is available to the public in an effort to promote a stronger and more informed Hamilton County.

Information for registering as an exhibitor/vendor (which includes booth space) can be completed by visiting gsn-live.org/resourcefair. Nonprofits can participate for free, while for-profit exhibitors’ require a registration fee. All participants (nonprofits and for-profit) are required to register not later than April 27. Space is limited, so early registration is recommended.

This free public event is presented and coordinated by Good Samaritan Network of Hamilton County along with various sponsors. Visit gsn-live.org/resourcefair for sponsorship details and an updated list.

Nancy Chance, GSN Founder/Executive Director, said, “It really is a remarkable FREE event for Central Indiana! Not to mention the resource and expertise of our vendors and exhibitors, centrally gathered in one location.” Additionally, she said, “Again this year we are making available a Caregivers Connection area so that individuals can discover things they can do to be more prepared as caregivers.” Chance went on to say, “We are also extremely excited about a new hub for this event, Volunteer Connection, focusing on Hamilton County volunteer opportunities from both perspectives – those who want to volunteer and those who need volunteers.”

marked. During the 1994 renovation the cornerstone vault was opened. Its historic contents were copied or photographed and returned to the vault.

When the building was first occupied it had no electric lighting, no municipal water supply, no telephone and heating was to be provided by 16 fireplaces fitted with coal grates. But, almost immediately a central steam heating system was installed.

The building was the scene of two major events that drew national news coverage. In 1925, D.C. Stephenson, powerful leader of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, was tried and convicted of murder in the Circuit Court. The outcome broke the power of the Klan which had controlled much of state and local government.

In 1965 national news carried the story of Circuit Judge Edward New's citing of Noblesville Ledger editor James Neal for criminal contempt for a column Neal wrote criticizing a court policy on drunk driving. The case, eventually thrown out by an impartial special judge, was considered a significant test for 'freedom of the press.'

For those who pass the courthouse often, but have never entered, it is worth a brief walk-through. The second floor courtroom is especially impressive. Some pieces of original furnishing are displayed around the building. Next to perhaps Conner Prairie, the courthouse is the county's best historic gem.

SIGN ORDINANCE

right-of-way, citing differences in state statute and definitions listed in the ordinance.

Sharp alleges the county's definition may extend onto private property.

Hughes also questioned Howard on how the public can learn where and where not to place signs.

Carmel Clerk Treasurer and candidate for county council Christine Pauley addressed commissioners prior to their unanimous vote in February to approve the ordinance. Pauley told commissioners she feels there needs to be an effort to educate the community.

Commissioner Steve Dillinger told the Reporter he agrees with Pauley. "I think Christine makes a valid point, we do need to educate the public." Dillinger suggested the county work in cooperation with the cities to create an educational meeting to explain the ordinance; however, no meetings have been scheduled.

The ordinance permits county employees to remove signs placed in county rights-of-way and subjects offenders to a $500 fine. During the hearing Hughes expressed concern over the county's ability to arbitrarily prosecute offenders.

Commissioners announced on Friday they have scheduled a special meeting for 9 a.m. Tuesday in Conference Room 1a in the Hamilton County Judicial Center to discuss a sign ordinance.

Hughes took no action on Thursday, but a ruling could be expected as early as next week.

RESOURCE FAIR

highlights numerous Hamilton County volunteer networking opportunities. It is the perfect fit for a non-profit, school, faith-based, business, government, social service or civic organization to recruit and manage volunteers – or to use the opportunity to distribute information for specific volunteer options with their unique organization.

The Volunteer Connection emphasis is twofold: Individuals, groups, agencies, organizations, businesses and companies will be present for those wanting to learn about volunteer opportunities. Additionally, vendors and exhibitors have the ability to present information concerning their unique volunteer opportunities for those who want to make an impact right here in Hamilton County attending the Resource Fair. This event provides a direct and personal contact and can assess the best volunteer fit on the spot while having a huge impact on Hamilton County, including the fulfillment of community service hours.

With over 100+ vendors/booths last year, GSN felt the Resource Fair had a very successful year. Some of the comments received, both from vendors and the public, include:

- "I had over 100 people stop at my booth, I was very pleased." - Vendor
- "Thank you so much ... it was a wonderful event." - Public
- "Great fair ... I got lots of information." - Public
- "I couldn't believe how many people were steadily coming in." - Vendor
- "What a wonderful event ... This was my first year having a booth and I will definitely plan on attending next year." - Vendor

- "Thank you for doing this for us again this year." - Public

Chance also said GSN is working with Westlink Consulting and others to "coordinate an effort to make sign-up readily available to the public at this year's event for the Healthy Indiana Plan (HIP2.0)." Adding, "This is our state's homegrown consumer-driven health care coverage program for low-income adults. We are very excited to assist the general public in readily finding out how the plan works, its benefits and eligibility requirements. We anticipate having all five hospitals represented on site to support sign-up and ensure quality."

Representatives from Westlink Consulting LLC at Riverview Health will be available to answer any questions you might have about Medicaid, Healthy Indiana Plan, Hospital Presumptive Eligibility, Medicare, Social Security and any other similar programs. They will also assist with the application for these programs.

Again this year, a highlight of the Resource Fair will include a "Senior Caregiver Connection" area. As loved ones age, debilitating disease, chronic health conditions, simple frailty and even personal injury often follows. Discover things that you can do to feel more prepared as a caregiver. This specialized provider area will highlight specific caregiver options and resources in and around Hamilton County.

The event will host over 100 booth spaces representing numerous food, clothing, baby pantries and social service agencies as well as local businesses. Some past participants have included: Aspire Indiana, Community Assistance Program, Covering Kids and Families, Kids Coats, Connect2Help, Estate Planning, Safe Families for Children, Unique Home Solutions, and WorkOne.

Various exhibitors will provide educational information and health resources as well as free items for those visiting different booths. Door prizes will be drawn by those who complete a survey as participants of the event and free refreshments will be available while they last.

Indy Chamber endorses Meyer for State Senate

The REPORTER

The Indy Chamber's Business Advocacy Committee (BAC) announced its first round of endorsements for the 2018 election cycle Tuesday, making selections in several legislative primary contests. Notably, the region's largest business organization is supporting Corrie Meyer in the Republican primary in Senate District 29, covering parts of Hamilton, northwest Marion and southeast Boone Counties.

An entrepreneur working in city planning and urban design, Meyer has earned the endorsements of past and present GOP mayors covering District 29; she now adds support and financial backing from the political arm of the Indy Chamber, which represents thousands of employers across the metropolitan area.

"Corrie's career has focused on building stronger communities in our region – she impressed us as a planner and problem-solver, not another divisive politician," said Michael Huber, President and CEO of the Indy Chamber. "She has forward-thinking positions on government reform, workforce readiness, transit and more, as someone who sees the real-world impact of state policies on local economic and community development every day."

In addition to Corrie Meyer for State Senate in District 29, the BAC voted to endorse other primary candidates in Central Indiana:

- Sen. Tim Lanane (D) SD-25
- Sen. Jim Merritt (R) SD-31
- Rep. Jerry Torr (R) HD-39
- Rep. Sean Eberhart (R) HD-57
- Rep. Terri Austin (D) HD-36
- Rep. Robin Shackelford (D) HD-98

"The BAC endorsed primary candidates who represent differing political views on some issues, but a common approach to legislating – they're in public service to make a difference, not just make headlines," said Mark Fisher, the Indy Chamber's Chief Policy Officer.

"From redistricting reform to community-based redevelopment, reintegrating ex-offenders into the job market and reconnecting people and employers through transit, these lawmakers have taken a thoughtful approach to serious issues," Fisher continued. "These incumbents have earned our support, and Corrie Meyer has earned the opportunity to join them as we work towards a stronger, more inclusive economy for Central Indiana."

The Indy Chamber BAC will continue to evaluate candidate positions, emerging issues and priorities for the 2019 budget session of the Indiana General Assembly, and it will announce endorsements for the general election closer to the fall campaign season.

Reader’s reasons to oppose new SMC tax abatement

Dear Editor:
This week the Noblesville City Council voted to award SMC Corporation a multi-year multi-million dollar tax abatement to expand their Noblesville facility. I delivered the following comment during the public hearing and submit it to you as a letter to the editor.

First, let me assert that I’m a fan of SMC. I think it’s great they are here and I want them to stay. I like them the way I like all my friends and neighbors that live here ... people who all pay their taxes because that’s what it takes to live in a community.

When SMC first moved here we were generous to them. We offered them a tax break then, they took advantage of it and thrived. Good for them ... good for Noblesville.

But now that they’ve been here for a few years and want to expand, it makes no sense to extend a further tax break considering where they want to expand. It’s clear we aren’t working within the spirit of the law that permits these abatements. It says right in the resolution that the land be undesirable because of things like lack of development, obsolescence or substandard building. We’re talking about building on some Noblesville most valuable greenfields here.

I don’t blame SMC for asking. We’ve conditioned businesses to ask for concessions from communities by using these tools inappropriately for years. But it’s incumbent on you, as representatives of the taxpayers, to push back and say no. We love you SMC, we want you here, but we need you to pay your way like everyone else.

I was a sales manager for many years and my reps would constantly come to me with requests from customers to get a break on ad rates. My response was always the same: you aren’t selling the value of what you’re offering. If you do a good job selling the value you can justify your price.

I think we need to do a better job of selling Noblesville’s value. We pat ourselves on the back a lot here and love to talk about what a great place this is. But these kinds of requests indicate to me that maybe we don’t believe it. If we have to pay companies to expand here, maybe we aren’t confident that we’re as great as we say we are.

It’s not like we don’t need the money. Just a couple of years ago you had to raise taxes just to pay for basic infrastructure maintenance ... repaving alleys, sprucing up the downtown. I suspect if we hadn’t been giving away millions in tax abatements perhaps we wouldn’t have had to raise taxes for basic maintenance.

From the documents I read it seems the tax savings to SMC over the 10-year period will be about $7 million. If we took that money and used it for some real economic development in areas that really are economically disadvantaged, with some vision and initiative we could really get something started with that money.

Recently I was at a meeting in Fishers where IKEA bragged that they opened their store with no economic incentives from the city, so it is possible to land good businesses without incentives. One thing is certain: Paying companies to stay and build in your community is truly a race to the bottom. It reduces Noblesville to a commodity ... where price is the only variable. We’re much more than that and we need to do a better job of convincing SMC and other businesses of that. I say to SMC: Please stay here, grow here, thrive here, but pay your own way like everyone else.

Thanks,
Mike Corbett

Response to “Keep Campaign Signs Out of Rights of Way”

To Whom It May Concern,

As an attorney, I need to take issue with a recently published assertion that campaign signs are prohibited from State rights of ways under I.C. 9-21-4-6. That statute only prohibits advertising signs. “Advertising is defined as the activity or profession of producing advertisements for commercial products or services.” Since freedom of speech arguments can be made constitutional under the First Amendment, political signs are more the nature of free speech rather than advertising signs.

Certainly, common sense would dictate that politicians not place their signs in intersections or interchanges.

Additionally, I take issue with your assertion that where the right of way is not clearly marked, boundaries may be estimated as the fence line, the back of the ditch or behind utility poles. On all the old Hamilton County roads, the boundary is the edge of the asphalt. On more modern roads, like 146th Street, the fence line may well be the right of way. Thus, the type of road may dictate where the right of way is.

A recent complaint about a sign for the Washington Township Trustee, apparently, wrongly asserted the location of the sign and wrongly asserted that it was in the public right of way. Roadway right of ways are not always where they “appear” to be. Caution needs to be exercised about where to place the signs.

At least one candidate has brought up the issue in Hamilton County Superior Court and there may be a clarifying ruling about the “boundaries” of where signs may be placed.

Cordially,
Raymond M. Adler

Taco Bell extends education benefits to all employees

Spring tips to start an exercise routine

WISH-TV
wishtv.com

Taco Bell announced this week it is partnering with Guild Education to provide education support for all 210,000 team members in its system of 7,000 restaurants in the U.S.

The company says a pilot of the program resulted in a 34 percent increase in retention for those enrolled over the first six months, supporting Taco Bell's growth and hiring plans over the next five years.

Taco Bell team members will have access to personalized college advisors and tuition discounts for thousands of classes, certificates and degrees.

"When we surveyed our employees, education support was one of the top three things they asked for," said Frank Tucker, Global Chief People Officer at Taco Bell.

"The barriers to achieving their education goals were time, money and support. Our partnership with Guild delivers on all of these needs for our employees through access to online classes, financial aid guidance, tuition assistance and a personal counselor to support each student in real time."

All Taco Bell corporate and franchise employees will have access to Guild's academic and financial aid coaches and discounts to Guild's education partners – a network of 80 online non-profit universities and learning providers, offering Bachelor's and Master's degrees, programs such as high school completion and English-as-a-second-language and a wide selection of certificates.

Taco Bell corporate employees, along with employees of participating franchises, will also have access to up to $5,250 per calendar year in tuition assistance including books and supplies, paid up front so that employees don't have any out-of-pocket costs.

StatePoint

Spring is an ideal time to get active outdoors and kickstart a fitness regimen that can carry you into beach and pool season.

Need some motivation? Try out these ideas for getting started and sticking with the program.

Get social

A personal trainer can be expensive, but a friend is free and potentially just as motivating. Besides, a little friendly competition never hurt anybody. Find a buddy to join you for runs and hikes, and with whom to hit the new HIIT class — that's high-intensity interval training — or spot you in the free weights section of the gym. Joining an organized run crew, cycling club or other fitness group can be another great way to keep yourself inspired to move — as these meet-ups can be fun social events in addition to a great workout.

Gear up

New wearable technology is not only fun, it can help you analyze your daily movement and workouts. See how much progress you make with wearable devices like the GBA800 Training Timer, a water- and shock-resistant watch that comes equipped with a three-axis acceleration sensor tracking your step count, a countdown timer that allows for up to 20 timer combinations, as well as 200-lap memory. With the download of the dedicated G-SHOCK Connected app to a smartphone, the watch can even track movement and support daily fitness. Employing a new algorithm, the app displays a graph breaking down daily steps taken in each of five metabolic equivalent (MET) levels, from data based on your step count and walking pace. It also displays the exact location and time where the wearer's calories were burned, while measuring MET levels, making it useful for interval training.

Give it a purpose

Find your motivation and dedicate your workouts to this purpose. One great way to do this is to sign up for a competitive athletic event that requires training. Whether that's an obstacle course, a triathlon or a 5k foot race, having such an event on your calendar will provide the daily motivation you need. Check out free training plans that can offer you guidelines for the best way to prepare for each type of event. Need further incentive? Use the event to raise money for a cause that matters to you.

From new friends to new gear, you can make getting active this spring easier with the right motivational elements.

Meeting Notice

The Hamilton County Board of Commissioners will meet at 9 a.m. on Tuesday, April 3 in Conference Room 1a in the Hamilton County Judicial Center, 1 Hamilton County Square, Noblesville, IN, to discuss the Hamilton County Sign Ordinance.

Ye fools and blind: for whether is greater, the gift, or the altar that sanctifieth the gift? Whoso therefore shall swear by the altar, sweareth by it, and by all things thereon. 'Rocks tough out doubleheader win over Eagles

Back and forth, topsy-turvy, roller coaster, whatever phrase you want to use: They were all perfect descriptions of the Westfield-Zionsville Hoosier Crossroads Conference series.

The Shamrocks were able to hang on throughout the roller coaster, and came off with a series win. Westfield beat the Eagles in both games of a Friday doubleheader at Grand Park, taking the first contest 9-5 and overcoming a late deficit to win the second game 10-9.

"Honestly, the whole series was back and forth," said 'Rocks coach Ryan Bunnell. "It's probably one of the more back and forth series that I can think of that we've had in a long time. It was some ugly baseball. I think we had 25 walks or hit batsmen in the three games, so really fortunate to be coming out of it with two wins."

In the first game, Westfield poured in four runs in the bottom of the third and the fourth innings. Zionsville led 3-0 going into the bottom of the third before the Shamrocks' Matthew Meyer hit a sacrifice fly to score Tyler Anderson.

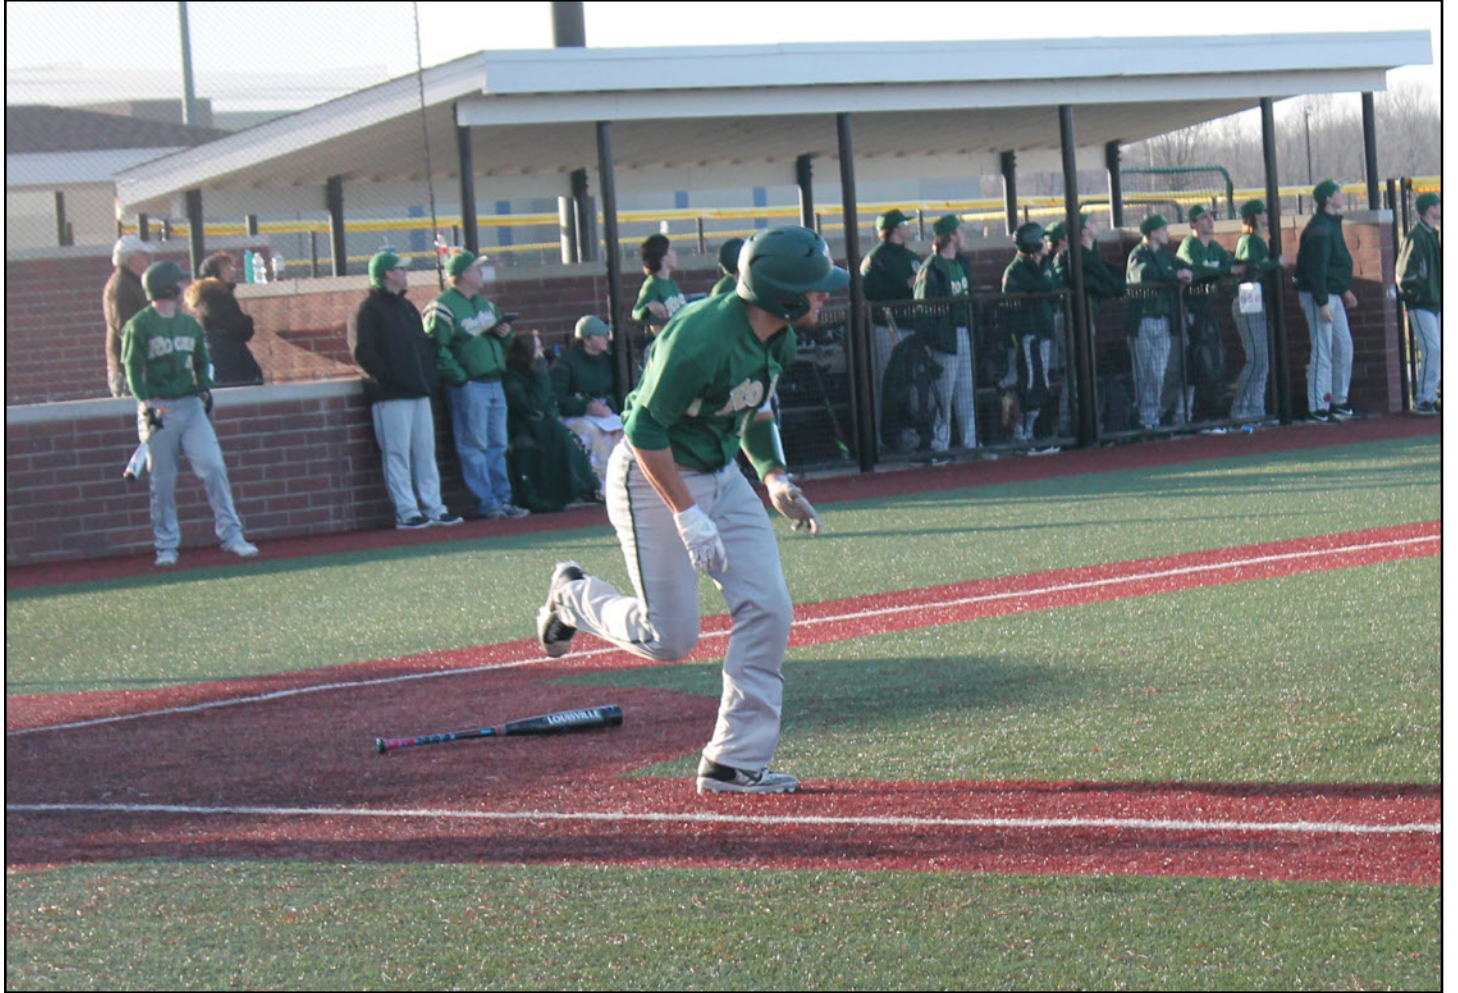

Payton Tamm came up to bat next, and his single sent Andrew Wessell home. Sam Eaton then reached base on an error, and Zach Collins batted both his teammates in with a line drive single.

Westfield led 4-3, but Zionsville scored twice in the top of the fourth to yank the lead back, 5-4. What now, Shamrocks?

How about four more runs. Bryce Dorton got the first RBI, singling in Kyle Pepiot, who led off the bottom of the fourth with a triple. Meyer came up late in the inning to hit his own triple, which sent Dorton and Anderson (who drew a walk) in to score.

Meyer then reached home on an error to make the score 8-5. Westfield added one more run in the sixth; Anderson knocked a triple to center field, then scored on a fielder's choice from Wessell, his third run of the game.

Meyer finished the game 2-for-3 with three RBIs, while Dorton was 2-for-3 as well. Matthew Robinson started the game

Westfield's Zach Collins totaled six RBIs for the Shamrocks in the second game of their doubleheader with Zionsville Friday at Grand Park. Westfield swept both games of the doubleheader to win the Hoosier Crossroads Conference series 2-1.

on the mound and went three and two-thirds innings, striking out four. Luke Hutson pitched the third out of the top of the fourth and got the win.

The second game saw even more lead changes. Westfield was the designated away team, so it batted first. Collins got the 'Rocks on top right away with a two-run home run, sending Eaton and himself in.

The Eagles added three runs in the bottom of the first and another in the second, and the score stayed 4-2 until the fifth inning. Westfield scored three runs in that one. Meyer got home on a walk, then Collins doubled in Eaton and Dorton.

Zionsville responded with a grand slam in the bottom of the fifth, going from a 5-4 deficit to an 8-5 lead in one swing. But the Shamrocks kept fighting, and tied the game at 8-8 in the top of the sixth. Eli Patchett scored on an Eaton fielder's choice, then Collins hit a single into center field to score Meyer and Dorton. That gave Collins a total of six RBIs for the game on a perfect day at the plate (3-for-3). Eaton was 2-for-3 as well.

A sacrifice fly gave the Eagles a 9-8 lead in the bottom of the sixth, but Westfield finally got out in front for good in the top of the seventh. Hutson sent Anderson home on a sacrifice fly, and Meyer got Ben Yoder in to score with a double.

The 'Rocks then closed it out with Tamm on the mound, he got a strikeout for the final out. Tamm pitched the final two innings, which gave him the win. Meyer started the game and threw four innings, striking out six.

"We answered a lot," said Bunnell. "Zionsville didn't quit. They smacked us, we smacked back. We were just throwing haymakers back and forth at each other and it was fun. Would've been more fun if we had a little cleaner baseball."

"I love the fight in the guys. We're young. We had three sophomores out on the field and I think just two seniors on the field at the time."

Westfield (2-1) is now off for Spring Break, and will return to action on April 10 by hosting Mount Vernon.

Tigers beat Station Camp, lose to Bearden

Fishers split its first two games in Tennessee on Friday. The Tigers won their first game, taking care of Station Camp 10-4. Fishers scored seven runs in the third inning to break the game open. Daniel Owens delivered the big blow of the inning with a three-run double down the left field line. Nick Lukac followed with an RBI single, Ben Burton an RBI double, and JJ Woolwine an RBI single as the Tigers sent 10 batters to the plate. Fishers tacked on two more runs in the fifth inning on a sacrifice fly from Woolwine, and an RBI single from Craig Yoho. Grant Richardson contributed an RBI double in the seventh to wrap up the Tigers scoring. Woolwine, Richardson, and Owens all had two hits in the game, as eight different Tigers tallied a hit. Jon Vore (1-0) started Game 1 and earned his first victory of the season. Vore pitched five innings, struck out five, and allowed three unearned runs on four hits. Vore did not walk a batter. Alex Klotz pitched a scoreless sixth inning in relief. Drew Hoffman allowed one unearned run, while striking out two in the seventh. In the second game, the Class 4A No. 1 Tigers took on the Tennessee's 2016 state champion, Siegel. Fishers battled before Siegel pulled away and won 13-5. Siegel jumped out to a 2-0 lead after the first inning. The Tigers answered with one run in the top of the second on Kiel Brenczewski's solo home run, his first of the season. Siegel would respond with a three-run home run in the bottom of the second to take a 5-1 lead. The Tigers answered right back scoring four runs in the third inning to tie the game at 5-5. Matthew Wolff was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded for the first run in the third. Jack Roudebush followed that with a two-run single to left centerfield. Alex Jamieson was the next batter and delivered an RBI single to right field to tie the score. Siegel responded with two more runs in the bottom of the third inning to take a 7-5 lead. The Tigers once again looked like they would answer back, as they started the fourth inning with runners at second and third and no outs. However, Siegel's pitching was able to work out of the jam without allowing a run. This would be the turning point in the game, as Siegel broke the game open with six runs in the fifth inning. Brenczewski led Fishers by reaching base all four times at bat, finishing 2-for-2 with the home run, a single, and two walks. Luke Albright (0-1) pitched well against a very solid hitting Siegel ball club. Albright struck out six in three innings. AJ Waltermann pitched an inning and two thirds of relief, allowing six earned runs. Daniel Owens pitched recorded the final four outs for the Tigers in relief without a blemish. Fishers return to action today when it plays two more Tennessee teams. First is
