Noblesville sued for parking ticket due process violation

The REPORTER

According to a class action lawsuit from attorneys William Webster, Joe Duepner and Andrew Dollard, the City of Noblesville has been violating the constitutional rights of every citizen who has been issued a parking ticket in the last several decades.

According to Webster, there is no procedure in place to dispute a parking ticket issued by the City of Noblesville. The City issues a ticket, they charge you fines, and if you do not pay the fines they will immobilize your vehicle with a 'boot' or tow it.

tickets result in heat

If your unpaid tickets result in booting your vehicle, under the current traffic code, you have to go sign a contract agreeing to pay the tickets. If you refuse to sign the contract they tow the vehicle.

"This is a violation of due process," Webster said. "The government is not allowed to take your property without affording you due process."

Attorney Carla Garino, Webster's law partner, spearheaded the research and drafted the class action suit. She noted that this is based on research in other jurisdictions where there were no procedures in place to dispute parking violations.

Groundbreaking for jail expansion set

The REPORTER

Hamilton County will break ground on an expansion of its current jail at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday, April 10. The first phase of the $13.5 million project will add 120 beds, but some are fearful that may not be enough.

"We're bursting at the seams," says Hamilton County Sheriff Mark Bowen. "The jail was built 25 years ago to hold 296 inmates. We're currently pushing 400 inmates. I would expect that situation to get worse before it gets better."

A change in state law back in 2016 added to the County's woes. House Bill 1006 requires lower-level felons to serve their terms in county jails rather than state prisons.

"We've tried everything," County Commissioner Steve Dillinger admits.

Construction on the new expansion of the Hamilton County Jail should be complete by April 2019.

"We even moved the female inmates from the jail pod to the Juvenile Facility. That's what has allowed us to get by up until now, but we've run out of options and need to make more room." The initial phase of the jail expansion will feature 11 cell pods with 84 prefabricated steel cells consisting of two- and

Allisonville Road Trail nearing completion

By LARRY LANNAN LarryInFishers.com

If you have been motoring along Allison-ville Road the past few weeks, you have seen construction along that roadway and there will be more coming.

A trail beginning at Conner Prairie and heading south is nearly finished, according the City of Fishers Assistant Director of Engineering Hatem Mekky. The rain and unseasonable weather have not set the project back.

There will be a small gap in the trail's connection to 131st Street, allowing for future construction in that area. The gap will be filled once the overall construction is complete.

However, there is more to come along that heavily-traveled street.

A planned widening of Allisonville Road was to have been under construction in 2019, but with other road projects planned (particularly the State Road 37 construction expected to begin in earnest in 2019) the Allisonville Road widening plans have been moved

Commissioners repeal, replace sign ordinance

The REPORTER

Hamilton County Commissioners last Tuesday conducted an emergency meeting with the primary topic being the recently passed controversial sign ordinance.

During the meeting, Commissioners Altman and Heirbrandt voted to repeal the ordinance passed in February that prompted county council candidate Rick Sharp to file a lawsuit.

Sharp and his attorney, Timothy Stoesz, allege the ordinance violated Sharp's First Amendment right to free political speech.

Immediately following the vote, the commissioners then put in place a new ordinance that more clearly defines a county right-of-way, information on how the public can obtain specific right-of-way information, outlines how sign owners can retrieve signs collected from rights-of-way and provides an appeal process.

County Attorney Mike Howard explained that any person seeking information about a right-of-way may call the Hamilton County Highway Department at 317-773-7770 or email county.highway@hamilton-county.in.gov. The ordinance states requests must specifically identify the location of the right-of-way by street location.

Commissioner Christine Altman indicated rights-of-way are also available on the county's website GIS mapping service.

The new ordinance now identifies a county-owned right-of-way as:

• The area between a Hamilton County street and the furthest edge of a public trail or sidewalk.

• The edge from the Hamilton County street to above-ground utility poles or other utility structures, which are installed parallel to the Hamilton County street.

The ordinance indicates a sign owner or their designee may retrieve signs removed by the county by paying a $5 fee for each sign six square feet or less or $25 for each sign larger than six square feet. According to commissioners the fee offsets the cost of removing signs in violation of the ordinance.

"These changes really help address what could have been valid citizen concerns," says Mark Heirbrandt, president of the Hamilton

Noblesville plans to be revealed soon

By FRED SWIFT

ReadTheReporter.com

Big things are about to be announced that could transform downtown Noblesville into a more attractive and accessible city center with long-awaited parking, housing and other amenities. Results of various studies and proposals will be revealed in coming days which, if implemented, would place the downtown area on equal footing with various other communities that ring Indianapolis.

City community relations director Robert Herrington said that on April 10 a plan devised by consultants to change the appearance of streets around the Courthouse Square will be presented in a 5 p.m. public meeting at City Context, Inc. drawn up a proposal that would change angle parking to parallel parking, create bike lanes and wider sidewalks. This plan by Context consultants also recognizes the need for additional parking before their streetscape plans can be implemented. Comments at the meeting from the public will be sought.

The Downtown Planning Committee, on which merchants and city officials are represented, has reviewed the plan. The committee has access to $500,000 which comes from trash pick-up fees now charged to city property owners.

Proposing to meet the parking need, several private real estate developers have shown interest in building one or more multi-use complexes that would include commercial space, apartments and public parking in a multi-level structure. Such development would be located either south of the Square between 8th and 9th streets, west of the Square on the so-called Armory lot, or at a site near 6th and Conner streets.

City officials have not identified these developers. But, it is known that some of their plans are similar to the type of mixed use developments built in downtown Carmel and other cities around the country.

In the meantime, the Noblesville Parking Task Force is proposing improvements to existing municipal parking lots where aging meters, landscaping and pavement are said to need updating. For this improvement, some of the $500,000 may be available.

At nearly the same time as all this, there are plans to reveal the use of the former Nickel Plate railroad right-of-way between Pleasant Street and the downtown area for a walking and bike trail that will eventually link the city center with the Midland Trail, an east-west pedestrian and bike greenway now under construction.

The Nickel Plate will continue to be an active rail line north of downtown where an excursion train is expected to be running by this summer, according to County Tourism Director Brenda Myers. The train will take passengers to Atlanta and back which officials hope will add to the popularity of Noblesville's downtown as a tourist destination. Add to this a soon to be announced a "marketing plan" for downtown, and the public can expect a much different downtown assuming the Noblesville city administration approves and can coordinate the various proposals.

The Sheridan Rotary Club meets formally twice a month on the first and third Tuesday evenings at 6:15 p.m. at the Sheridan Public Library in the Community Room. "The Noblesville traffic code needs to be changed in order to afford people due process rights before their property interests are taken away," Garino said.

The suit, which was filed in Hamilton County Superior Court 3 under Judge William Hughes, asked for both injunctive relief and an award of damages to people who were issued tickets or had their vehicles either immobilized or towed without the possibility to dispute or appeal the action.

The injunction requested that the City of Noblesville stop issuing parking tickets until they change their procedure to account for due process.

The lawsuit reads in part that the enforcement of Noblesville's traffic code, "dating back to at least 1989, violate their rights and the rights of all those similarly situated to due process of law as guaranteed under the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution, Article 1, Section 12 of the Indiana Constitution and Article 1, Section 21 of the Indiana Constitution."

If you have been given a parking ticket or if you have had your vehicle either booted or towed in the City of Noblesville for alleged parking violations, you can join this class action lawsuit.

Miriam Frances (Millikan) Haskett November 1918 - April 1, 2018

Miriam Frances (Millikan) Haskett, 99, Westfield, passed away on April 1, 2018 at Summer Trace of Carmel. Frances was born to Arza and Mary Boone Millikan in November 1918 at home in the family farmhouse in Sheridan. Frances and her older sister, Margaret, were so inseparable that when Margaret went to first grade Frances went too. She graduated in 1936 from Sheridan High School. They had a hard but also idyllic country life - feeding chickens, gathering eggs, helping in the big garden and picking wild berries. Church and school functions were highlights.

Frances was an exceptional student and won a scholarship to Ball State College. Although the hard times of the Depression prevented her from completing her degree, Frances was a lifelong learner and a voracious reader. On January 7, 1939, she married her high school sweetheart, Robert Haskett, Jr., and they enjoyed almost 65 years of marriage. Frances and Bob and their children moved to Westfield and shared a home with Bob's parents. Frances was the clerk-treasurer for the town of Westfield. She then worked at the Westfield Gas Company for 30 years as a bookkeeper. During retirement, she volunteered as secretary for the Hamilton County Horseman's Association.

Frances's love of God was the bedrock of her life. She was a member of the Westfield Friends Church through which she touched many lives. She taught Sunday school, was a member of the United Society of Friends Women, and quietly helped so many who were in need. Frances and Bob aided with resettlement and housing to families from Latvia and from Vietnam. Her children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, great-great grandchildren, her many nieces and nephews and all those who know her have all been influenced by the compassionate and caring way Frances lived her life.

Frances is survived by daughter, Kae Haskett Andry (Bob), Ocala, Fla.; sons, Daniel Haskett, Westfield, and Sam Haskett (Janet), Carmel. Frances is also survived by six grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her parents and her siblings; Margaret Millikan McKinley, Betty Millikan and Clark Millikan; and by her husband Bob on January 4, 2004.

Neither snow nor wind nor sleet ...

wind doth blow and we shall have snow. And Chuck Leonard is headed to the golf course.

So it was Wednesday afternoon when husband stopped by the dealership on his way to his happy place. If you remember the weather that day was cold and blustery.

I knew that the Stony Creek Masters Par 3 Golf Tournament was scheduled for that day. Surely it would be canceled.

Boy was I wrong.

Chuck had a big grin as he told me he was headed out to play golf. Seriously.

My husband is the

tle frost on the golf balls. I kid you not as I looked at him when he left my office, he was like a kid heading out to play in the snow. I had one happy, determined husband. Chuck called later after he had played nine holes. He hit two pars and seven bogeys for a 34. OK in July, but better in the brutal snowy days of April.

Forty-some die-hard senior men faced the frozen tundra to celebrate the opening of golf season. Neither snow nor sleet nor the winds of what seems like the 74th day of January would deter them. Several of them were captured in a video teeing off. It was a bit comical. You could barely hear the commentary for the wind blowing.

Those senior men were bundled up like an older version of the Bob Gregory little weather kid in the commercial, way back in the 80s. I would say that all those layers and the wind chill factor challenged their handicap that day.

When I got home that evening Chuck gave me both a golf report and a weather report from his He smiled as he told me about his day. He said everyone who finished received a cup of hot chocolate. What? No medals for bravery?

Ninety minutes out in the wind, just above freezing temps. Snow blowing in his face and my husband could not have been happier. A day with a wind chill factor of below freezing may also go down in his record book as well as his score.

Bless his heart and all his frozen parts. Now we will spend the weekend watching the Masters Tournament being played in sunny warm Georgia. Those guys may be pros at the Masters at Augusta but the real golfers were at Stony Creek on day at the golf course. Wednesday. Should you make extra mortgage payments or boost your investments?

you pay your mortgage. And, depending on circumyour stances, you may be able to afford to put in additional payments - perhaps sizable ones. But should you? Or, if you really have the extra money, should you invest it?

Initially, you might think it would be quite nice to rid yourself of that mortgage sooner, rather than later. But is it really the burden it seems?

Actually, you get some real benefits from a mortgage. It certainly provides something of great value to you – your home. If you got your mortgage - or refinanced your home – within the past decade or so, you are borrowing money at a pretty favorable interest rate, by historical standards. And even assuming a mild rate of inflation, such as we've had for the past several years, you'll essentially be paying off your mortgage with cheaper and cheaper dollars over time. Plus, interest payments may well be tax deductible. (The new tax laws limit deductions on new mortgages of $750,000 or more. For questions on your specific situation, consult your tax professional.)

So, given these advantages, an argument could be made that you should be in no hurry to pay off your mortgage. Still, you might be tempted to make the extra payments because you'll be building home equity. After all, isn't this equity valuable? It is – to a degree. The larger your home equity, the more money you'll get to keep when you eventually sell your home.

But in the meantime, that home equity may be less useful than you might imagine. For one thing, just building more equity won't make your home more valuable – it will rise (or fall) in value along with whatever's happening in the housing market. By contrast, you could take the extra money and buy more shares in an investment such as stocks – and the more shares you own, the more valuable your investment will be if the price per share rises.

Also, if you were to experience a temporary job loss or some other financial emergency, your home equity might not help you much; if you're not working, you could even have trouble getting a home equity loan. Conversely, your investment portfolio can offer you greater liquidity, depending on your specific investments. Most investment vehicles, such as stocks and bonds, generally can be sold quickly, without much difficulty. (Keep in mind, though, that if you were forced to sell investments when their price was down, you could take a loss on the sale.)

Clearly, you could gain some advantages by using any extra money to invest, rather than paying down your mortgage. Nonetheless, you may simply get emotional and psychological satisfaction by speeding your progress toward the day when your house is paid off - and that type of satisfaction certainly has value. You'll need to weigh these intangible factors carefully in deciding whether to increase your investments or make extra mortgage payments - because, ultimately, you need to feel that you're doing the right thing, for the right reasons.

Bone density, fitness go hand-in-hand

"I knew very little about osteoporosis before I diagnosed. was When I found out I was shocked ..."

- Ursula Andress, actress and former 'Bond Girl'

While most of my columns focus on aspects of nutrition and well-being, I digress this time to expound on another topic of personal interest to me - the importance of strength and resistance activity for women over 50. Resistance training can counteract the weakening effects of modern and sedentary living. Obviously most of us ladies in a particular age category want to look as fit as possible, which is a great goal but not the primary factor I will discuss today.

Sorry to do this but here are some sobering statistics: According to the CDC (Center for Disease Control & Prevention) the latest statistics show that approximately 5 million women over 50 suffer from osteoporosis and 80 percent of those who suffer from the disease in this country are women. The AAOS (American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons) estimates that 70 percent of those who suffer injuries from falls do not return to their pre-injury status.

While the tendency to suffer from bone density issues is often hereditary, there are activities which can stave off some of those issues. (There are also nutritional objectives which I will save for another time.) Addressing mobility, range of motion, functionality, all of these are critical to our health and well-being. Strength training can also benefit a reduction in blood pressure, lower back pain, arthritic pain – not to mention increasing the ability to lift household items, climb stairs, participate in golf, tennis, etc.

There are many avenues to resistance and strength training which can be achieved by back issues can effectively benefit from aqua workouts as well. Flexibility is crucial as well to maintain range of motion and balance.

At this point I will re-emphasize my passion for the importance of maintaining bone density, because without it we set ourselves up for a fall, both literally and figuratively. The pain of broken bones together with the loss of independence is something that we need to address. Having said that, I urge you to meet with your physician to access your risk for osteoporosis and the efficacy of strength and weight training for you. Studies of postmenopausal women report that strength training can increase bone mineral density in the spine. Before beginning a program on your own or through a supervised class, it is very important to undergo a thorough medical examination to determine which activities are best for you. Your physician should provide you with a medical evaluation of fracture risk, muscle strength, range of motion, fitness and gait. A stronger body will serve you well physically in the years ahead and boost your confidence in your appearance and energy level. Good advice for those over 50, definitely. Forty-somethings, not a bad idea for you as well!

As set forth in the Preliminary Official Statement, the Purchaser agrees by submission of their bid to assist the School Corporation in establishing the issue price of the Bonds under the terms outlined in the Preliminary Official Statement and shall execute and deliver to the School Corporation at closing an "issue price" certificate, together with the supporting pricing wires or equivaler communications, with such modifications as may be appropriate or necessary, in the reasonable judgment of the Purchaser, the School Corporation and Ice Miller LLP

Bidders must comply with the rules of PARITY® (the "Rules") in addition to requirements of this Notice. To the extent there is a conflict between the Rules and this Notice, this Notice shall control. Bidders may change and submit bids as many times as they wish during the sale, but they may not withdraw a submitted bid. The last bid submitted by a bidder prior to the deadline for the receipt of bids will be compared to all other final bids to determine the winning bid. During the sale, no bidder will see any other bidder's bid, nor will they see the status of their bid relative to other bids (e.g., whether their bid is a leading bid).

It is anticipated that CUSIP identification numbers will be printed on the Bonds, but neither the failure to print such numbers on any Bond nor any error with respec

The School Corporation is required by law to fully fund the payment of debt service on the Bonds in an amount sufficient to pay the debt service regardless of any reduction in property tax collections due to the application of such tax credits. The School Corporation may not be able to levy or collect additional property taxes to make up this shortfall. The School Corporation is a school corporation organized pursuant to the provisions of I.C. 20 23; the Bonds will not be "private activity bonds" as defined in Section 141 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended.

The Bonds constitute an indebtedness only of the School Corporation. In the opinion of Bond Counsel, under the existing federal statutes, decisions, regulations and rulings, the interest on the Bonds is exempt from all income taxation in Indiana. In the opinion of Bond Counsel, under the existing federal statutes, decisions, Kicking off the season at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, June 6 will be the ever-popular Flying Toasters performing a variety of crowdpleasing tunes.

The free family concerts continue on Wednesday evenings through Sept. 26 (except for July 4) at the Gazebo. Performers feature a mix of pop, rock, jazz and country musical performances. Noblesville bounces back by winning Friday game...

Fishers takes HCC series with Thursday sweep

By RICHIE HALL

The Fishers baseball team opened up Hoosier Crossroads Conference play by winning a series with Noblesville last week.

The Tigers swept both games of a Thursday doubleheader, winning the first game 3-0 and the second game 7-2. The Millers came back to win the Friday game

In the first game, Fishers rode a complete-game effort from Luke Albright on the mound. Albright pitched outstanding, throwing 10 strikeouts and giving up just one hit and two walks.

Fishers got its first run in the top of the second inning. Ben Burton hit a single to get on base, then scored off a double by JJ Woolwine.

The Tigers would have to wait until the seventh inning to get the next two runs. But Fishers added two runs in the top of the second to take control of the game. Burton hit a double to send Jack Roudebush and Daniel Owens home. Millers off to an 8-4 start...

Seniors stepping up for Noblesville boys volleyball

After a successful season last year, the Noblesville boys volleyball team is trying to find the chemistry to make this year just as good.

The Millers returned to action Saturday by hosting their own Miller Classic tournament. Noblesville finished second in the event and currently holds an 8-4 record for the season.

The Millers sped through their pool without the loss of a set, beating Lafayette Jefferson 25-23, 25-13, Lawrence North 25-10, 25-8 and Avon 25-10, 25-14. In the championship match, Noblesville lost to Brownsburg 25-15, 25-17; the Bulldogs avenged a loss to the Millers at the start of the season.

"We're doing decent," said Noblesville coach Ryan Pence after the Lawrence North match. "I think we're playing in spurts and we just haven't found out our chemistry yet."

Pence called his team "a work in progress," since it graduated five seniors last year. He did note that his team is picking up steam as the season goes on.

"It's hard to find your identity when you lose key players like you did last year and having somebody step in those roles," said Pence. "But I think the boys are handling it pretty well, so hopefully by mid-season we'll make a nice run. I don't want them to peak too early, so that way they're peaking right around state."

This year's senior class is stepping up as well. Andrew Libby and Aaron Brewer both have emerged as solid hitters for the Millers, with Libby a leading blocker as well. Brady Nicholson and Cameron Schlegel are among the top defensive players, with Schlegel the assist man for Noblesville.

Pence said his team's camaraderie is one of its strengths.

"They're all friends in school and they hang out a lot, and they're doing a lot of team May 10: Ben Davis, 6 p.m. at Avon bonding when we don't have practice," said Pence. "So I think that's a strength that we have. And a lot of them are returning from last year and some of them play in the off-season. But like I said, right now it's just kind of hit and miss for us. We're just trying to build and find our own identity from the team last year."

Noblesville's next match is Tuesday at Carmel. That will be a re-match of last year's state championship match, which the Greyhounds won. The Millers will then host Brownsburg on Thursday, marking the third time they will play the Bulldogs this season.

After the regular season finishes, teams will play in the Indiana Boys Volleyball Coaches Association tournament. The tournament begins with the regional on May 12, followed by the state meet, which takes place May 18 and 19 at Southport.
