Look for the helpers

My mind is still trying to process the events that took place Friday, in my town, where I have lived all of my life. Our community was shaken.

My heart is hurting. My emotions run from sadness to anger. Things like this don't happen here ... but it did.

I wish I had the answers to these

President Trump commends Jason Seaman's bravery

WISH-TV | wistv.com

President Donald Trump tweeted out thanks for a man many are calling a hero for his actions during a school shooting in Noblesville.

Jason Seaman, 29, is said to have stopped the shooter after the suspect shot a female student at Noblesville West Middle School on Friday. He was shot multiple times in the process.

The president tweeted: "Thanks to very brave Teacher & Hero Jason Seaman of Noblesville, Indiana, for his heroic act in saving so many precious young lives. His quick and automatic action is being talked about all over the world!"

Seaman was originally taken to the hospital in critical but is now said to be in good condition.

Parents of injured Noblesville student issue statement

The parents of Ella Whistler, the student shot at Noblesville West Middle School on Friday, have issued the following statement:

"Our daughter, Ella Whistler, was involved in a horrific shooting today at her school. We will spend the next days and weeks processing what happened and why. But first, we wanted to say she is doing well at Riley Hospital for Children.

Her status is critical, yet we are pleased to report she is stable. We'd like to thank everyone across the country who prayed for our family today. We've felt those prayers and appreciate each of them. We'd also like to thank the first responders, Noblesville police, Indiana State Police and the medical staff and surgeons at Riley."

Local artists invited to take part in Carmel's 'Rain on Main'

The REPORTER

Local artists (professionals and talented adult amateurs) are invited to participate in the fourth annual Rain on Main event, a painted rain barrel art contest that will include cash prizes in two categories as well as exposure for participating artists and their work.

Rain on Main is designed to help educate the public about the value of water conservation. The event is sponsored by Carmel Utilities, the Department of Storm Water Management and the Hamilton County Soil and Water Conservation District.

The painted rain barrels will be on display in the Carmel Arts and Design District beginning with the IU Health North Gallery Walk on Aug. 11. The barrels will remain on display throughout the district during the following week before moving to a display area at the Carmel Farmers Market on Aug. 18.

In addition to having the painted barrels judged by experts, there will also be a "People's Choice" selection based on votes from the public. Thanks to Anthony's Chophouse, cash prizes of $200, $100 and $50 will be awarded to the first, second, and third place artists selected by the panel of judges. The People's Choice contest winner and runner-up will receive $100 and $50. A silent auction, where the barrels will be auctioned off to the highest bidders, will be held during the Carmel Farmers Market with net proceeds used to fund water education signage in Carmel Clay Parks.

Rain barrels are growing in popularity across the country and decorated barrels are not only nice to look at, but are a great way to save water and help the environment. Artists are invited to paint a rain barrel with an original design. The rain barrels will come primed, thanks to the generous in-kind support by Carmel businesses Touch 'N Go Collision and Sherwin-Williams and will be ready to be painted when picked up by area art-

Hamilton County dominates list of state's fastest-growing communities

The REPORTER

Twelve of the 15 fastest-growing cities and towns in Indiana with a population of at least 5,000 residents are in the Indianapolis metro area, according to estimates released by the U.S. Census Bureau and analyzed by the Indiana Business Research Center at Indiana University's Kelley School of Business.

For the seventh consecutive year, Whitestown in Boone County was the state's fastest-growing locale, with a growth rate of 7.6 percent in 2017. Whitestown's population has more than doubled in the last seven years, from 3,151 in 2010 to 8,179 in 2017.

Locally, Westfield was the state's second fastest-growing place in 2017 with an increase of 5.3 percent, followed by McCordsville (4.9 percent growth) in Hancock County and Plainfield (4.6 percent) in Hendricks County.

In terms of numeric change, a trio of Hamilton County communities -- Westfield (2,002 increase) Fishers (1,929) and Noblesville (1,667) -- round out the state's top five largest gains in terms of numerical increases.

Carmel remained the state's fifth-largest city, as the addition of 1,337 new residents in 2017 brought its population total to 92,198. Fishers ranked just behind its neighbor as an uptick of 1,929 residents raised its population to 91,832.

Looking at differences between urban and rural communities, the data show that most Hoosiers live in cities or towns. Two-thirds of Indiana's 6.67 million residents in 2017 lived in incorporated places. Indiana's cities and towns as a group accounted for 76 percent of the state's total population growth in 2017.

Hamilton North Public Library will make summer rock

The REPORTER

Those who work in the library believe libraries rock all the time, but beginning June 1, libraries really rock – with Libraries Rock Summer Reading. On that Friday, everyone from birth to “I quit counting my age 20 years ago” may sign up to participate in the Libraries Rock Summer Reading Program.

Hamilton Heights Middle School students may count their school summer reading books toward Libraries Rock reading, too. E-versions of books on the list are available through Hamilton North Public Library's (HNPL) electronic resources. View them together at this link.

Sign up, choose age-appropriate books, read, fill out the log page and have one of the friendly library clerks initial the log. As in past programs, incentive prizes are awarded at the completion of each level, with additional reading earning a ticket eligible for a raffle drawing at the end of Libraries Rock.

Sprinkled throughout this summer's program are entertaining events for various ages. At 6:30 p.m. on June 4, HNPL hosts a book discussion on Mary Shelley's Frankenstein, in conjunction with our Year of Frankenstein “One State/One Story” celebration of the novel's 200th anniversary.

What summer reading program is complete without the energetic and effervescent Professor Steve? He returns to HNPL on Wednesday, June 6, to present his new “Super Sonic Sound Show.” The family-friendly show begins at 3 p.m. in Atlanta and 6 p.m. in Cicero. Professor Steve rocks the house, so be sure to get it on the calendar.

There are many programs and events scheduled for this summer at both branches. Here are just a few:

- Bid Euchre
- Build a Creature
- Teen and Adult Printing Workshop
- Rockin Together Magic Show

See all the events on the HNPL calendar and check throughout the summer for added events.

HELPERS

senseless shootings. I don't get what goes through the mind of a middle school student that would make him bring a loaded gun into a classroom and shoot people.

Like I said, I wish I had answers. I only know that we, as a community, came together on Friday and we saw so much good.

Jason Seaman, the science teacher and football coach is a hero. He taught the biggest lesson of his life Friday morning. He also made the biggest tackle of his career. He saved lives. He is a Hero.

Our first responders showed up and remained calm as they handled the situation, as well as the scared students and panicked parents (and grandparents).

The Noblesville Police Department quickly held a news conference to reassure the community that the situation was under control. I've never seen so many police cars and heard so many sirens. Kudos to Bruce Barnes of the Noblesville Police Department who had a voice that calmed a lot of fears.

Beth Niedermeyer, Superintendent of Noblesville Schools, and her administration came together and set up counseling for the teachers as well as the students. You can never fully plan for something like what happened on Friday but the plan they had, well, it came together in the midst of the chaos.

Teachers moved quickly to get their students to a safe place and comforted them even when they also needed comforting. The community brought water and food to the high school. Parents hugged not only their kids but other kids. We are Noblesville Strong.

So where do we go from here?

We have to listen to our kids. We need to hear what is not only in their heads but in their hearts.

We need to ask them questions. How did they feel when all of the chaos was happening? What are their friends saying? What would they do in various situations?

Reassure them that their thoughts and feelings are acceptable. Reassure them that they are not alone in their feelings.

Let them know that if they hear any rumors about acts of possible violence that they need to tell someone. It could save a life or lives.

Make sure they go to the counseling sessions that the school is offering.

Invite their friends and the parents of those friends over for dinner to help process what happened.

Seek more help for them, if needed.

Thank a teacher when you see them out and about. Thank a first responder as well.

Kids today live in a very different world than the one I grew up in. I hurt for them. Safe places are no longer safe.

There are lessons to be learned from what happened on Friday. It's not about politics or rights or our freedom. It's about OUR KIDS!

Hug your kids a little tighter. Pray for their safety. Help them see the good and the positive. Listen to them.

As Mr. Rogers said, "Look for the helpers." On Friday, we saw a lot of them.

Community Health Network Foundation receives $2.5M award to transform primary care nursing

The REPORTER

Community Health Network Foundation has received a four-year $2,564,978 award from the Health Resources & Services Administration (HRSA) of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) to transform the delivery of primary care through enhanced undergraduate nursing education and re-defined nursing practice in the primary care setting. The grant is effective July 1, 2018, and allows Community Health Network to expand an educational partnership with the University of Indianapolis (UIndy)

School of Nursing.

With the support of HRSA funding, UIndy will revolutionize its undergraduate nursing curriculum by adding a first-of-its-kind Minor in Primary Care Nursing and the opportunity to receive intensive clinical training at Community from a primary care RN preceptor. Upon graduating, students will have received training in population health and holistic care, social determinants of health, preventative health screenings and education, chronic disease management, care coordination and navigation, transitional care, pain management and mental health and substance use treatment. In addition, existing UIndy School of Nursing courses will be infused with primary care didactic and clinical components, ensuring that all students receive exposure to primary care nursing practices.

"Nursing education has traditionally focused on preparing nurse graduates to assume a career and first employment in an acute care setting," said Norma Hall, DNP, RNBC, CNE and Dean, School of Nursing, University of Indianapolis. "The University of Indianapolis is committed to preparing its graduates to work in a variety of health-care settings. The development of a minor in primary care nursing with clinical experiences in ambulatory care provided by Community Health Network will prepare our nursing graduates to assume positions outside the hospital. We are thrilled to serve the healthcare needs of Indiana residents by preparing our graduates for this new and exciting career path."

While UIndy oversees changes in curricula for RN students, Community will ensure the training of primary care RN preceptors and identifying of primary care training sites, as well as developing and establishing an enhanced primary care nursing position in at least 10 clinical sites. With a goal to expand access to primary care particularly in medically underserved areas, the first location to implement an enhanced primary care RN will be the UIndy Center for Health and Wellness – a designated health professions shortage area (HPSA). As additional sites of care are targeted, consideration will be given to 18 of Community's 60 primary care sites which are HP-SA-designated.

"As the healthcare landscape evolves to focus on preventative and primary care, so too must our nursing workforce," said Community's Jean Putnam, DNP, MS, RN, CPH, EVP, Chief Nursing Officer. "With this award to Community and UIndy, we are empowered to build the infrastructure needed to ensure career readiness for our emerging nurses and best serve a changing patient population. We look forward to stewarding these grant dollars and working toward a future with enhanced primary care access and services for more Hoosiers, specifically those in underserved communities."

The work enabled by the HRSA grant will build upon Community and UIndy's existing partnership through the Nursing Academy, an accelerated degree program designed to increase the number of registered nurses in Indiana and better prepare students for their transition to professional practice.

*This project is supported by the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) under grant number UK1HP31713 entitled Nurse, Education, Practice, Quality and Retention-Registered Nurses in Primary Care for a total award amount of $2,564,978 over a four-year period. # Centier Bank breaks $4 billion milestone, celebrates successful start to 2018

The REPORTER

Centier Bank is celebrating a successful start to 2018 with continued success that has seen the community bank break the $4 billion asset milestone. Centier's Mortgage Department also continues to be a preferred mortgage lender in the state, with over $32 million in closed loans in the month of April alone, with 10 loan officers each exceeding $1 million in closed loans.

Centier's recent financial successes have been buoyed by awards and accolades, including maintaining its Hall of Fame status after being named among the Best Places to Work in Indiana by the Indiana Chamber for the 12th consecutive year. This distinction follows Best Place to Work, Best Bank and Best in Customer Service recognition from readers of The Times of Northwest Indiana, Post-Tribune and Northwest Indiana Business Quarterly.

"Centier is off to a tremendous start in 2018 and I am proud to see the success we continue to build upon year after year," said Mike Schrage, President and CEO of Centier Bank. "We are getting stronger, and as a result, the communities we are serving are getting stronger. I look forward to continuing this growth as we prosper as Indiana's largest private family-owned bank."

Centier also rolled out a series of technological advances in the first quarter of 2018. The Technical Solutions Department moved into its $1 million expansion at the Centier Corporate Centre and hit the ground running. The bank launched Money Management, a personal finance software, to all of its clients through online and mobile banking, along with new, streamlined application processes for mortgage applications and a centralized online tool for consumer construction projects. They also released a QuickBooks integration for personal and small business clients, an internal social network and are also rolling out a free Wi-Fi program in 30 of Centier's branches.

Volunteerism continues to be at the core of Centier's values, and it was demonstrated as such when the bank unveiled a new internal volunteer portal, which provides information and opportunities to learn more and volunteer with nonprofits in each of the communities the bank serves. Through its Heart of the Community campaign, Centier is showcasing the true community banking philosophy through associate-led Random Acts of Kindness in each market.

The bank is also looking at additional opportunities for expansion in 2018. Centier recently broke ground in Elkhart on its 61st location in the state of Indiana. The bank will also celebrate a grand opening for its Fishers Crossing branch in July, followed by a Michigan City branch opening in early 2019.

State Police K9s Smitty, Apache receive body armor

The REPORTER

K9 Smitty's vest was sponsored by a fundraiser hosted by Alaska K9 Center, North Pole, Alaska, and embroidered with the sentiment "This gift of protection provided by Alaska K9 Center."

K9 Apache's vest was sponsored by Chive on Indiana and embroidered with the sentiment "Gifted by the members of Chive on Indiana KCCO."

Vested Interest in K9s, Inc. is a 501c(3) charity located in East Taunton, Mass., whose mission is to provide bullet and stab protective vests and other assistance to dogs of law enforcement and related agencies throughout the United States. Network Foundation benefits. The more cards that are in use, the larger the contribution. Since beginning the program in 2016, Community Health Network Foundation has earned $6,421 through this IMCU give-back program.

IMCU's Assistant Vice President of Sales and Marketing, Thorpe Miller, presented the check to Bente Weitekamp, Vice President for Development, Community Health Network Foundation, on May 9 during the Healthcare Team Week celebration.

The card is available for issue to members at IMCU's 26 Central Indiana locations. The Community Health Network debit card is free to members with a free checking account and can be issued immediately via IMCU's Instant Issue program, which allows members to receive their debit card on the spot. To support Community Health Network, those interested should visit an IMCU branch or imcu.com for details.

And he went a little farther, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me: nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt.*

DNR Division of Water earns state GIS award

The REPORTER

For the sixth time in the past 10 years, a DNR project has been honored at the Indiana GIS Conference sponsored by the Indiana Geographic Information Council.

On May 11 at this year's conference in Fort Wayne, the DNR Division of Water received the 2018 Excellence in GIS Award (State/Federal category) for its Zone A Floodplain Project.

GIS stands for geographic information system. Rooted in the science of geography, GIS gathers, manages and analyzes data, organizing it into visualizations using maps and 3D scenes.

The digital mapping project created a statewide data layer that provide detailed floodplain information for every major stream in Indiana not covered by Flood Insurance Rate Maps (FIRMs) published by FEMA. The project modeled and mapped more than 18,000 miles of stream.

The project will benefit floodplain management in Indiana, improving safety and economic planning. It's available through the Indiana Floodplain Information Portal (INFIP), and as an ArcGIS service.

AlleyCats beat Chicago, improve to 7-1

By RICHIE HALL
The Indianapolis AlleyCats made some history Saturday night at the Grand Park Events Center.

The AlleyCats, Indy's ultimate disc team, beat the Chicago Wildfire 26-22. With the victory, the AlleyCats improved to a franchise record 7-1 for the season and puts them firmly in control of their playoff destiny. The AlleyCats are on top of the AUDL (American Ultimate Disc League) Midwest standings, moving ahead of the Madison Radicals.

"We don't want to stop here," said AlleyCats player Kip Curtis. "Nothing's guaranteed as of right now, so we want to keep going."

The AlleyCats never trailed in the game, and the contest was only tied four times. The latest tie was at 6-6 early in the second quarter, but Indianapolis scored three consecutive goals to go ahead 9-6 and seize the momentum.

Rick Gross started the run with an assist to Levi Jacobs. Then came the big one: Keegan North hurled a pass about three-quarters of the length of the field and Cameron Brock caught it in the end zone, this after a back-and-forth between the two teams that lasted over three minutes. The AlleyCats scored their third goal less than a minute later, with Conner Henderson passing to Aaron Schwartz.

Indianapolis went on another three-goal tear in the third quarter. Keenan Plew assisted to Brock, Jon Wenger sent a goal pass to Henderson, and Spencer Loscar threw to Travis Carpenter, who made a spectacular diving catch for the goal, and that put the AlleyCats up 16-11.

Even with that lead, the AlleyCats continued to play at a high level of intensity for the remainder of the game.

"Five points is pretty comfortable, yeah, but it's definitely within striking distance, even within one quarter," said AlleyCats coach Eric Leonard. "Teams can go on runs of five, six, seven, eight goals or more. We didn't want to get more comfortable near the end. I was certainly nervous the whole time."

Both teams played well defensively. There were several times when they played what would be analogous to a basketball man-to-man defense, guarding within inches of each other. But patient and crisp passing allowed the AlleyCats to handle the defense.

"I think we did a good job of playing contained 'D,' said Curtis. "We followed our game plan. We didn't want to give them big shots. We kept those to a minimum, made them get multiple passes up the line and then that gave us a good chance to get breaks throughout the game.

"We utilized our match-ups well. We put the right people on the right guys and then that basically allowed us to play physical if we need to or play off our guys if we need to."

"Our defense plays with so much intensity, so much heart," said Leonard. "Playing indoors, it's always really tough to get a block and they work their butt off to get those blocks. Tonight we converted at a pretty good rate, so I was pretty happy."

Rick Gross led the AlleyCats offense by scoring seven goals, with Carpenter getting four goals. North made seven assists, while Plew had four assists. Nick Hutton made two Ds, or defensive plays.

The AlleyCats next play at the Minnesota Wind Chill on Saturday, then return to Grand Park on Sunday, June 17 to take on the Madison Radicals - the only team that's beaten them this season.
