Have you been learning by reading the Reporter?

Each year about this time I try to compose a little quiz for our readers involving questions about current and historical events in Hamilton County to see how attentive folks have been. Some questions may seem easy, but probably not so easy for everyone. The answers have all appeared in the news during the past year or so. See how you do.

1. Is Noblesville's population now approximately 20,000, 40,000 or 60,000?
2. Are Morse and Geist reservoirs primarily for flood control, real estate speculation or reserve water supplies?
3. What governmental entity or entities determine your property tax?
4. Who was responsible for saving the Conner Prairie historic site and later giving it to Earlham College?
5. There are seven courts at the Hamilton County Judicial Center. How many of the judges can you name?
6. Who was the most recent presidential candidate to campaign in Hamilton County?
7. The names of at least three communities in Hamilton County started out with names different than they have today. Do you know the current names of Millwood, Buena Vista and Bethlehem?
8. Is Riverview Health (hospital) a church related facility, a county owned hospital or owned by a private corporation?
9. In the past two weeks two county high schools have won IHSAA state championships. Do you know the schools and the sports involved?
10. What is the name of the current county sheriff?
11. Who was responsible for establishing the name 'Millers' for the Noblesville athletic teams?

Answers to the questions appear on Page 2 in today's Reporter.

It began around 2:15 a.m. at Penske Chevrolet, 3210 E. 96th St., just west of Keystone Parkway. According to Carmel Police Department, the suspects smashed the windows to gain access to key boxes attached to the windows. Investigators said they believe the suspects intended to steal the vehicles. Penske operators said that the suspects damaged 30 to 40 vehicles. The operators were doing inven-

Twenty-five Fishers firefighters responded to an early morning fire Tuesday at 10966 Innisbrooke Lane. A family of three made it safely out of the home after the teenage son smelled smoke and alarms sounded shortly after. Firefighters quickly extinguished the fire and contained it to the garage. However, the home suffered smoke damage. The cause and extent of damage are yet to be determined. No injuries were reported. The Fishers Fire Department was assisted by the Fishers Fire Corps and Fishers Police Department.

New office building planned for downtown Fishers

By LARRY LANNAN
LarryInFishers.com

Office space in Fishers is a very scarce resource, but more is on the way. The City of Fishers and the Hageman Group have entered into a project agreement for an office building, which was approved Monday night by the Fishers City Council. The plans call for a 31,000-square-foot office structure with a total investment of $8.5 million as lease commitments are finalized. The office building will be multi-storied, located at 8939 Technology Way, across from the Meyer Najem building. The city hopes this will become a gateway to the Fishers Certified Tech Park. The park already houses operations such as Launch Fishers, the IoT Lab and Netfor. "This will add needed office space to our downtown office inventory," said Brandon Dickinson, Director of Economic Development at the Monday night city council session. "We honestly can't build it fast enough for the demand that we have." Fishers officials say the city will provide the land, $2.05 million in bond proceeds through Tax Increment Financing and a waiver of impact fees to assist with development costs, but only in the event the building is leased and under construction within 30 months with a minimum private investment of $5.6 million. "Innovation companies are looking for a place to call home in Fishers and this development provides another opportunity for growing companies to join the entrepreneurial economy here in our city," said Fishers Mayor Scott Fadness in a city news release. The downtown area of Fishers has seen $430 million in development over the past three years.

we can take a look at that and see if maybe they scoped out our place or anything like that," Siaba said.

According to Penske, the thieves got into their gated lot because of construction on Keystone Parkway that left an opening to their property. The Carmel officer who spotted the thieves early Tuesday attempted to pull over the suspects, but, according to police, they led police on a high-speed chase on Interstate 465, with speeds reaching 100 mph. Police ended the chase.

Not long after, however, officers arrested three suspects in connection to the thefts: Two juveniles and an adult. Police identified the adult as Gerron Arnes Delaney, 24. All of the suspects are from St. Louis. Investigators said they believe at least three other suspects are at large.

There was no word on the suspects' connection to Indianapolis.

"It's very disheartening for any business in this area to be impacted the way they were," said Siaba at Coast to Coast.

Investigators said they are not sure where the suspects intended to take the vehicles or how many they planned to steal.

Anyone with information was asked to call the Carmel Police Department at (317) 571-2580.

Arrowood issues statement on HHSC safety

In the aftermath of another tragic school shooting, especially one so close to home, I felt it was important to reach out to reassure you that the safety of our students and staff remain a top priority at Hamilton Heights. As an educator and parent of a child at Heights, I deeply care about providing the safest and most secure learning environment possible.

DEREK ARROWOOD
Hamilton Heights Superintendent

Very reasonably, over the past couple of weeks, I have been asked about our security procedures, the types of security meaasures we have in place, and where we plan to go in the future with respect to school safety. There is always a fine balance between increased security and creating a welcoming atmosphere for students, parents and the community. That balance is continually discussed and debated on a regular basis.

Student safety has long been a top priority of our School Board and entire staff with safety procedures and protocols in place long before I arrived five years ago. These procedures and protocols are under continuous review and scrutiny as we look to the latest research, tools, and technology to improve and enhance our school safety measures.

Heights employs three full-time, onsite resource officers through a partnership with the Hamilton County Sheriff's Department. We have a safety coordinator at each building, an internal Safety Leadership Team, and a Corporation School Safety Team, which meets regularly to review and make the best recommendations to keep our students and staff safe so they can do what they do best – learn and teach.

We will be holding several special meetings in July and August to discuss our current safety measures, examine new training opportunities, discuss the role of mental health and school violence, and examine future safety enhancements.

The meetings will include the entire corporation School Safety team, our safety coordinators, and representatives from the Hamilton County Emergency Management, Sheriff's, Atlanta, Arcadia, Cicero Police, Jackson Township Fire, and Cicero Fire Departments.

Prior to the start of school, we will host a school safety information meeting on Wednesday, Aug. 1 for parents and families. At the meeting we'll provide an update on our latest safety measures, share research and facts related to school violence, and offer a Q & A session with Heights administrators and Safety Team members. In addition, our Resource Officers will give a presentation on their role and function. Additional details for this meeting will be forthcoming.

As our focus on safety initiatives, ongoing training, and applying the latest technological advances in safety and security continues, I would like to remind you that one of the most powerful weapons in the effort to improve school safety is to work together as families, friends, neighbors, and community to watch out for each other and to report unsafe conditions or concerning behavior.

I was once asked what is the best part about being Superintendent of Hamilton Heights School Corporation. The answer is simple: I have never served in a community that cares more about their community's children than the people of the Hamilton Heights area. I have also been asked what is the hardest part of being Superintendent of HHSC. The answer is the same and I couldn't be more thankful. Thanks for caring about our children.

Reader lists reasons to put the brakes on commuter tax

Dear Editor:

Twice this year, my dad, who lives in the Nora area of Indianapolis, has gotten a flat tire due to an extremely deep chuckhole along Westfield Boulevard between 86th Street and Real Street. Finally, after months of request for action, the City finally patched these chuckholes but these patches are only temporary.

The impact of the citywide potholes south of 96th Street is huge. Lower and middle class families are facing the financial burden of paying hundreds of dollars to pay for flat tires and realignments. Some are late to work or can't show up due to a lack of transportation.

The problem is real, and yes, I live in Carmel where the roads are smooth and the potholes are filled quickly, but this is an issue that needs to be addressed by the entire region. We don't want to see our neighbors to the south crumble to pieces and we want to help.

Some are calling for a commuter tax to fix these concerns.

It's important to note that Carmel has more residents coming into the city during the day than leaving (a 14 percent net gain). So Carmel would actually make money with a commuter tax. It's still not a great idea for the following reasons:

Commuters are not a drain

While it's true that commuters drive on Indianapolis streets without paying local income tax to the area, they do go out to eat and support Indianapolis businesses which in turn pay property taxes. It could be argued that if not for the influx of workers from neighboring cities, the Indianapolis businesses that employ them and provide food and services to them would pay much less in property taxes – funds that flow to cities.

In addition, sales tax and food/beverage tax are boosted by commuters, a portion of which flow to cities. Finally, the businesses employing commuters headquartered in Indianapolis also pay taxes to the City. And, of course, not everyone who drives into Indianapolis does so for work. I only really go into Indianapolis for entertainment such as Pacers games or going out to eat. But if Indianapolis doesn't invest in its roads, I might not choose to travel south anymore because I can't risk the damage to my car.

Hard to determine impact

These proposals are based on the assumption that commuters are causing wear and tear on Indianapolis-owned roads. While this is certainly true, it's hard to determine to what extent. Many commuters choose to take state roads or interstates such as I-465, I-65 or I-69. It would be hard to determine how many local roads are truly affected by commuters and some of the streets in the worst conditions in Indianapolis are far away from the circle or downtown Indianapolis. They're in mostly residential areas.

Furthermore, not everyone who works at an Indianapolis business negatively affects Indianapolis roads. Some carpool, bike or take a bus. Some work from home several days a week even though the office is in Indianapolis. Many salespeople at Indianapolis-based businesses spend more time driving on the roads in Carmel driving to clients. And how do you factor for someone who works just over the county border? They could drive miles through Carmel or Fishers and literally be on the other side of 96th Street and suddenly taxes need to be redistributed.

It's taxation without representation

If part of your taxes went to Indianapolis, their City-County Council — which you can't vote for — gets to decide how to spend it. It's essentially taxation without representation. If the money isn't spent wisely, you couldn't hold the elected officials accountable.

From Noblesville to Bloomington...to Finland

Tyler wins high jump at USATF Juniors

Shelby Tyler's last two trips to Bloomington have been quite successful.

On June 1, the Noblesville senior-to-be won went to Indiana University and won the high jump in the IHSAA girls track and field state finals. This past Saturday, Tyler returned to IU and won a national championship - and a trip to Finland.

Tyler won the high jump in the USA Track & Field (USATF) Junior Outdoor Championship, which took place this past weekend in Bloomington. Tyler won with a jump of 6 feet, 3/4 inches.

"It was exciting," said Tyler during an interview on MileSplit USA (<http://www.milesplit.com/videos/298082>). "It was a good competition here, it was a really fun meet and I've had an incredible amount of support from almost everyone. So it's been wonderful."

Tyler went toe-to-toe with another state champion, Sanaa Barnes from Byron Nelson High School, which is located north of Fort Worth, Texas. Barnes won the high jump state championship as a junior in 2017 in Class 6A, the highest of Texas' track classifications, and was runner-up this year as a senior.

Both Tyler and Barnes cleared the 6 feet, 3/4 inch mark, but Tyler did so on her first try. Barnes made it on her second try, so Tyler got the win for her third major championship at IU. Tyler also won the IHSAA high jump state championship in 2017 as a sophomore.

"It's awesome," said Tyler. "I love this facility. It's brought good outcomes for me. It's also a familiar place, which I think helps a little bit, because I've been here quite a few times jumping."

Tyler competed against her friendly rival Katie Isenbarger of Zionsville, who finished fifth with a jump of 5 feet, 9-1/4 inches.

"I love having her there," said Tyler. "She's become a really good friend of mine and it's nice to have someone who supports you and is at all the meets and someone to push you and support you and encourage you."

Noblesville's Shelby Tyler, seen here at the sectional meet, won the high jump at the USATF Junior Outdoor Championship, which took place this past weekend at Indiana University in Bloomington. Tyler's performance qualified her for the IAAF U20 World Championships, which are next month in Tampere, Finland.

Tyler's USATF win qualifies her for the International Association of Athletics Federations (IAAF) U20 World Championships, which takes place July 10-15 in Tampere, Finland. Tyler said it'll be the first time going out of the United States.

"I've never been out of the country," she said. When asked if she had a passport, Tyler said "I do. I just got one."

Westfield's Peyton Haack set a new record while winning the decathlon at the New Balance High School Outdoor Nationals this past weekend in Greensboro, N.C. Haack won the event with a score 7,090 points.

Haack sets decathlon record at New Balance Nationals

Westfield's Peyton Haack proved himself to be not only the best overall athlete at nationals last weekend, but a record-setting one.

Haack, a recent graduate of Westfield High School, won the decathlon at the New Balance High School Outdoor Nationals, which took place June 15-17 at Aggie Stadium in Greensboro, N.C. Haack won the event with a total of 7,090 points, besting the old meet record of 7,009 points that was set last year.

Haack started with a second-place finish in the 100 dash (11.31 seconds), which netted him 793 points. He slipped to fourth after a sixth-place result in the long jump (21 feet, 3-1/4 inches), but finished first in the shot put (45 feet, 10 inches) to pull within one point of first place. Haack had 2,213 points after three events, with Yariel Soto of Centerville, Ohio at 2,214 points.

Soto finished fourth in the high jump (6 feet, 2 inches) to increase his lead over Haack, who took eighth in that event (5 feet, 11-1/2 inches). After that, Soto was first in the 400 dash (49.95 seconds) with Haack second (50.15 seconds). Halfway through, Soto had 3,727 points and Haack 3,665.

Haack surged into the lead in the sixth event, which is one of his specialties: The 110 hurdles. He finished first in that event (14.58 seconds), while Soto placed 11th. From that point forward, Haack stayed in front, outperforming Soto in the next three events: The discus (fifth place; 125 feet, 6 inches), the pole vault (first place; 15 feet, 5 inches) and the javelin throw (second place; 151 feet, 3 inches).

After nine events, Haack had 6,545 points to Soto's 6,313. The final event was the 1500 meter run, in which Soto finished first with a time of 4:35.07. Haack placed sixth in 5:02.58, but earned enough points to keep the lead.

Haack has committed to the University of Iowa and will participate on the Hawkeyes' track and field team.

Noblesville Swim Club Senior Trip

After tough workout, team bonds at the beach

Editor's note: This is the second in a series of articles by Noblesville Swim Club seniors Casey Akers and Jack Wolfred about the club's Senior Trip to Coronado, Calif.

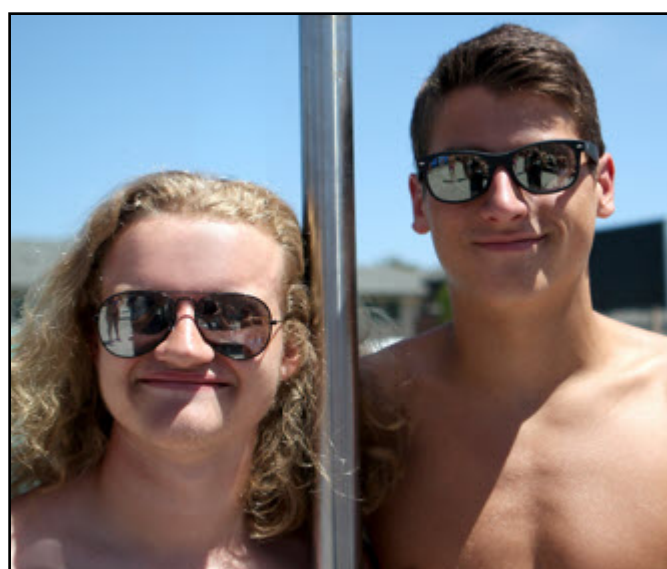

Greetings from Coronado! On the second day of our senior training trip we focused on the word NOBLE. In the morning, our group headed to the pool and got ready for another hard day of training. Though it challenged our mental toughness, we worked through it while encouraging our fellow teammates. After a focused and tough workout, we headed back to our hotel and prepared for the beach. At the beach, the team bonded in the freezing water by jumping through waves together. We threw Frisbees, played in the sand, and grew closer as a team.

After the beach the team came back to the hotel and enjoyed a nice lunch with each other. Following lunch we had a few hours of free time where everyone relaxed and took a short break before going back to the pool for another workout. This afternoon practice challenged the team mentally and physically and forced us to help each other to make sure we all had a successful practice. Following our final practice of the day we hustled back to the hotel and got ready for a team dinner down the street from our hotel.

At team dinner we had a great time and went out to the bay shore to take some team pictures in front of the San Diego skyline. Afterwards we had our team meeting about the word noble and we discussed how we performed better in our practices today and how that will both improve ourselves and the team in the future. We ended the day well as coach Aleks and Rich told us how what we did today will prepare us for competitions and harder things in the future.

TOMORROW: The club tackles the infamous leg lift.

Coach Brey will speak this Sunday evening June 24 at Purgatory Golf Club. The evening begins at 5 p.m. with social hour followed by dinner. Both a live and silent auction will take place, and Indiana Sports Talk host Bob Lovell will emcee the evening and make presentations of gifts to honorees. The following day a full field of golfers will compete in the tournament, while CBS Sports 1430's Kent Sterling will be hosting his show from the golf club.

'Blazers part of several new state finals records...

Four University baseball players named to All-PAAC team

Four University baseball players were named to the All-Pioneer Athletic Academic Conference team.

The Trailblazer players are Dawson Estep, Brock Moore, Cade Carlson and Garrett Hill. Four is the maximum allowed for a team on the All-PAAC list.

The Class 1A baseball state championship game between University and Daleville set several new records and tied one more.

Among the new records: The teams combined for 24 strikeouts (new 1A and all-time record), while University's 14 total strikeouts is a new 1A mark. The Trailblazers' Garrett Hill stole three bases, which ties the 1A record and all-time championship game record.

Fans can go Corvette crazy this weekend at IMS with Bloomington Gold Fans and car owners from across North America will celebrate the unique culture of the iconic Chevrolet Corvette this week at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, as Bloomington Gold Corvettes - the longest-running all-Corvette show in the United States - roars at the track from Thursday, June 21 through Saturday, June 23.

This is the fourth consecutive year that Bloomington Gold has taken place at the Racing Capital of the World. The popular event has evolved from a car show to a car event at IMS, complete with driving experiences for attendees.

Bloomington Gold is open to the public from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. all three days. Tickets are $25 per person per day, with three-day passes available for $60. Children 12 and under are free when accompanied by an adult ticket holder. Parking is included with all tickets. Visit IMS.com to buy tickets or for more information.

The event is filled with Corvette displays, judging and authentication of Corvettes to earn the prestigious Bloomington Gold Certification, education sessions and vendors.

There also are two special events to attract Corvette enthusiasts this year at Bloomington Gold.

The new 2019 Corvette ZR1 will be the model driven by professionals from the Ron Fellows Performance Driving School during the GoldSpeed event, in which attendees can ride in this incredible new supercar at speed on part of the IMS road course for free on a first-come, first-served basis after a Chevrolet Ride & Drive Test Drive. Bloomington Gold is the only Corvette event this year in which fans can take high-speed rides in a ZR1.

Fans also can enjoy a display of more than 50 L88 Corvettes this year at IMS during Bloomington Gold, the largest-ever collection of this prestigious model produced from 1967-69. Many of the vehicles on display in the L88 EXPLOSION! are valued at more than $1 million each, and some never have been seen at a show.

L88 is an option package created by the late Zora Arkus-Duntov, Corvette's famous chief engineer, for Chevrolet dealers to offer their special customers. The L88-equipped Corvette won local competitions and was competitive at national events such as the Sebring 12-Hour and Daytona 24-Hour endurance races. Only 216 of these rare cars were built from 1967-69.

The mystique and legend of the L88 will be celebrated through a reception Thursday, a walk-around of the cars Friday and a panel discussion Saturday. The final salute to this iconic model will feature these powerful cars thundering around the IMS road course for two high-speed laps Saturday.

To follow Bloomington Gold on social media, visit its Facebook page at facebook.com/BloomingtonGold.
