Carmel swim coach facing fed time over exploitation

WISH-TV | wishtv.com

A Carmel High School swim coach faces federal charges of child sexual exploitation and possession of child pornography after authorities say he engaged in a sexual relationship with one of the female athletes he coached.

Goelz

John Goelz, 29, Fishers, was arrested Tuesday and on Thursday remained in the custody of the U.S. Marshals Service. His detention hearing is scheduled for July 10, the office of the U.S. Attorney Josh Minkler announced on Thursday.

"Protecting our youth from sexual predators will always remain a top priority of this office," said Minkler. "Those we put trust in to supervise and coach our children cannot be allowed to take advantage of them and will face tough federal prosecution."

Law enforcement officials on June 29 learned that Goelz might have been involved in a sexual relationship with a female minor who he coached for both the Carmel Swim Club and Carmel High School's swim team. Goelz was an employee of Carmel Swim Club and began volunteering as an assistant swim coach with Carmel High School in the 2015-16 school year.

Authorities were able to determine from screenshots of text message exchanges that the relationship dated back to February 2018.

After getting a search warrant for Goelz's residence and cellphone, investigators found that Goelz and the female minor had engaged in sex at public parks in Hamilton County, at Goelz's residence and at a hotel in Anderson. They also determined that Goelz had used his cellphone to record video of their sexual activity.

The investigation was conducted by the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, Homeland Security Investigations and the Hamilton County Metro Child Exploitation Task Force.

Carmel Clay Schools and Carmel Swim Club released a joint statement sent to families of student-athletes on Thursday:

Dear Carmel Clay Schools Swim Team Families and Carmel Swim Club Families, Carmel Police notified us that John Goelz was arrested earlier this week. We wanted to share with you the following information we have received from the U.S. Attorney's Office. We have been advised that Mr. Goelz had an inappropriate relationship with a female Carmel High School student-athlete.

Mr. Goelz served as a volunteer assistant coach for the Carmel High school swim team and was also a coach for the Carmel Swim Club. He is not a teacher or otherwise employed by Carmel Clay Schools. He is no longer affiliated with either organization. We continue to be in communication with law enforcement in this ongoing investigation.

We are shocked and deeply saddened this has occurred. We will evaluate the situation as more information becomes available and will continue to do all we can to keep our children safe. We ask that you respect the privacy of the family involved during this difficult time.

Dr. Michael Beresford, Superintendent Carmel Clay Schools

Kristin Sherman, President Carmel Swim Club

If convicted, Goelz could face at least 15 years in prison, according to Assistant U.S. Attorney MaryAnn T. Mindrum.

If you have any additional information about this case, you're encouraged to call the Hamilton County Metro Child Exploitation Task Force at 317-595-3361.

A 'fair' judge of political mementos?

Imagine my surprise when I was asked to be a judge at the State Fair. I've never judged any competition in my life except maybe Halloween pumpkins, but someone thought I could be an impartial judge of political memorabilia.

I have never thought much about who judges exhibits at the fair. But, I assume that they are just plain folks who have some interest or knowledge of the items to be judged.

All I can claim is that I have collected buttons and badges since Dwight Eisenhower's campaign for president, and have since been given ones as far back as the

FRED SWIFT
The County Line

Roosevelt-Landon 1936 presidential campaign.

As a youngster I became enamored with Ike. I remember in 1952 my dad took me to see Ike at a campaign rally in Butler Fieldhouse. My buddies and I probably drove campaign office workers crazy that year asking for pins and buttons.

People don't wear political buttons much anymore. Maybe it's not considered 'politically correct' in mixed company. In the Eisenhower days even school kids wore 'I Like Ike' buttons in class. That would probably be a real no-no today.

Buttons or pins go as far back as George Washington's time, but were not mass produced until the 1896 presidential campaign in which William McKinley and Teddy Roosevelt were candidates. They gained popularity until the 1960s.

As a Republican, can I be trusted to be fair in judging? I think so. Most collectors have items from both major parties. Judges don't get paid. We do get four tickets to the fair which starts on August 3 and runs through August 19.

So, if you attend the State Fair this year and care anything about politics you might want to visit the displays at the Indiana Arts Building. It might be interesting, but no guarantee.

Dance in the streets of Carmel Saturday night

The REPORTER

Do you want to keep your Fourth of July party rocking? Join the City of Carmel from 9 p.m. to midnight on Saturday, July 7 for the second "Late Night on Main" street party in the Carmel Arts and Design District. The city will shut down the block just west of Range Line Road to make way for musical entertainment, dancing in the street and enjoying the eats and treats from local vendors who will be staying up late.

Previously-scheduled group The Carl Storie Band will not be able to perform due to illness, but "Late Night on Main" has booked Toy Factory to take the stage. "We are well into our robust event season in the City and there is no better place to be Saturday night than in the heart of the Carmel Arts & Design District," said Mayor Jim Brainard. "These late night events were created to enhance our night life entertainment and to bring people together to share music, dining and a little shopping in a unique setting."

With the goal of bringing more attention to different sections of Main Street again this year, the Late Night on Main events will be moved east and west on Main Street throughout the year. Patrons on the patios and sidewalks at Donatello's Italian Restaurant and Mudbugs Cajun Cafe will have front row seats to the show. This means Main Street from Range Line Road to Veterans Way/1st Avenue NW will be closed beginning around 2:30 p.m. on Saturday so preparations can be made, including the placement of a stage for the band. Detour signs will be in place to direct traffic around the closure. Plan for extra time Saturday afternoon and evening if your route includes Main Street.

Mark your calendars for upcoming Late Night on Main events on Aug. 18 and Oct. 5.

Property owners near trails are now protected

By DAVID WILLIAMS
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

There are now more protections for homeowners, if you own property that backs up to a trail. It's all thanks to a state law that took effect on July 1.

This new law is designed to protect property owners along green ways or trails.

Molly Hale and her family own a home that backs right up to the Monon Trail.

They bought the house to give neighbors another trail passage option.

They also pay for the highest liability insurance coverage they can, because they know people use their property to get to and from the Monon Trail.

"It protects us in the event that someone were to be injured or generally protects against lawsuits," said Hale.

Now, the need for that extra insurance could change, thanks to a new state law that just took effect July 1.

State Representative Carey Hamilton, a Democrat from Indianapolis, said, "Before this law, if you lived on a trail, had property on a trail, you would be liable if anything were to happen to someone cutting through your property. With this law, you are relieved of that liability."

Hamilton created the law. She says it passed with strong support from the Statehouse. But, there were some initial concerns.

"One concern that we heard early on, is that this might condone trespass. Trespassing is still illegal. That is not condoned by this bill."

Hamilton said Hale's extra out-of-pocket insurance costs are part of why she created the bill. She hopes this helps homeowners, particularly in rural areas.

"So they don't have to worry about liability and could support the future changes of those old rail beds into trail systems," said Hamilton.

Molly Hale explained, "We have a very small sliver of property adjacent to the Monon. But in the bigger picture, I think this law is really helpful for people in rural communities."

So if someone does hurt themselves on your property that backs up to a trail, how do you actually use this new law?

Hamilton said reach out to your city or town leaders and ask for help. They'll be able to point you in the right direction.

Century-old sewer causes Indy sinkhole

By BRENNNA DONNELLY
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

A 15-foot sinkhole in the intersection of Pennsylvania Avenue and Ohio Street is the result of a century-old brick sewer line rupture, according to Citizens Energy Group.

The rupture occurred Wednesday afternoon causing a large sinkhole to open up in the roadway.

Dan Considine, representative for Citizens Energy Group, explained the rupture happened at the intersection of two large-diameter sewer lines.

"What happened is the hole 15 feet down is filled with water and the soil above it has collapsed down," he said, explaining that while on-lookers call it 'Indy's largest pothole,' it is much more complicated than a pothole. "Until we really get in there and see what was the extent of the damage we won't have an exact time frame of when the intersection will be back open."

Considine said the problem is aging infrastructure. He doesn't have an exact age for the ruptured sewer line, but said many in central Indianapolis were built more than 100 years ago, some in the late 1800s.

To fix the problem, Considine says crews will need to excavate a 20-foot by 20-foot space around the sinkhole to properly repair and fill it, and must avoid striking any of seven other utility lines in the intersection.

"These are markings for the other utility lines," he said, referring to several colored paint lines freshly marked in the intersection. "It indicates how busy it is under the street. So just under the street here you're going to have sewer, water, natural gas, steam lines, chilled water lines, phone lines and electric."

An active weather pattern may delay that excavation until Friday, according to Considine. As of Thursday afternoon, he expects the intersection to be closed until at least Friday evening.

"Getting this back open is a high priority but again we have to be very careful here because we have a lot of utility infrastructure above where the failure is so we don't damage it," he said.

As for if this breach could happen elsewhere in the city, Considine says it's possible.

"These failures can occur. We are investing liter-

Many sewer lines in central Indianapolis were built more than 100 years ago.

ally hundreds of millions of dollars into sewer system every year," he said. "In fact, since 2011, we've invested $1 billion in the local sewer system and part of that has been to replace and re-line old sewer infrastructure like the one we're standing over today."

Meanwhile, the sinkhole has become somewhat of a tourist attraction, drawing crowds of pedestrians with cameras to take a look at the hole. Crews request pedestrians and drivers exercise caution in the busy downtown streets and that they help make workers' safety a priority.

Dee Thornton responds to Brooks' support for tax cuts

Dear Editor,

I would like to respond to the article published on Congresswoman Brooks' address to Congress on the status of the tax cut. Most Americans recognize that this legislation was for the very rich and provided no assurances to help working people. Big corporations have used their windfalls to reward chief executives and stockholders. Barely a third of Americans now support the law.

"There are too many disingenuous claims that the Trump and Republican tax cuts for corporations will trickle down to the middle class," said Frank Clemente, executive director of Americans for Tax Fairness. "President Trump and Republicans gave huge tax cuts to big drug companies, big oil and other corporations, but corporations are giving back little – if anything – to working families," said Clemente. "In fact, this [analysis shows] that 433 corporations out of the Fortune 500 have announced no plans to share their tax cuts with employees."

The newest projections by the non-partisan Congressional Budget Office found that the Republican tax plan led to, in part, a 2018 deficit $242 billion higher than previously estimated.

Congresswoman Brooks proudly supports a tax plan that adds $1.5 trillion to the national debt. Meanwhile, the GOP has already begun citing rising deficits to make the case for deep cuts to safety-net programs that would be devastating for poor families across the country. House Republicans have spent much of the past few months attempting to slash food stamps, while their latest budget plan would reduce Medicaid spending by $1.5 trillion.

Indiana's 5th district and the nation deserve better representation.

Police say after several hours, a green Honda was witnessed traveling on Brooks School Road. The vehicle was pulled over, a traffic stop was attempted, but a man matching the suspect's description exited the vehicle and ran.

Orange Youth Baseball breaking ground today on new fields at Noble Naz Church

The REPORTER

There are few things that connect community more than cheering kids on at the baseball field. For the Orange Youth Baseball Organization, giving families a place to call their home field is a dream soon to come true. In a new partnership, Orange Baseball will construct its home fields and facility on the property of Noblesville Naz Church, 1399 Greenfield Ave., Noblesville.

At 7 p.m. this evening, Orange Youth Baseball will host a groundbreaking ceremony at the church. The organization's two youth baseball fields, team dugouts and fan bleachers will be constructed on the church's existing grounds.

The property was once vetted and zoned as a potential youth recreation space by Noblesville Parks and Recreation. The due diligence conducted by Noblesville Parks has helped empower Orange Baseball and Noble Naz to build upon the knowledge gathered to now activate this space to serve the youth baseball community.

Fishers-based RQAW is providing the design concepts and rendering for the future baseball fields. As a not-for-profit organization, Orange will be actively seeking partner sponsors and donors to reach the anticipated $100,000 in hard costs to construct the fields.

"We are so fortunate to have companies that are already contributing in-kind product and services to help us manage and minimize expenses," said Steve Burzynski, Founder and President of Orange Youth Baseball. "The community support and collaboration we continue to receive is awesome. Giving these kids the place to keep loving this game while learning the spirit of sportsmanship is truly what this is about."

Burzynski, along with Treasurer Shannon McVey, will be joined by Noblesville Naz Lead Pastor Jesse Garner and board members Nate Sutake, Ann Earl, Sandy Barack, Leon Daughtery and Charlie Stevens. Youth teams and their families will attend and host a pitch-in to celebrate.

Ivy Tech's Associate Accelerated Program achieves 90 percent retention

The REPORTER

During the 2017-2018 school year, Ivy Tech Community College's Associate Accelerated Program (ASAP) achieved a 90 percent student retention rate. Through the program, 154 students were able to earn an associate degree in less than one year's time.

Ivy Tech's ASAP program provides at-risk high school students facing life and family issues that prevent them from completing a degree, the opportunity to earn a marketable and transferable associate degree on a full-time basis in just 11 months. Most students who are chosen for the program are identified while still in high school and are the first in their families to attend college.

ASAP prepares students to transfer to four-year colleges and universities. Of ASAP graduates who apply, 100 percent are accepted by at least one four-year college, allowing them to transfer their credits to a bachelor's degree with junior status in most cases.

Depending on the student's eligibility, most ASAP students are able to complete the associate degree program for free or at little cost.

Since ASAP's inception, the program has enrolled 1,236 students, with another 300 students enrolled for the 2018-19 school year.

The program provides wraparound support with dedicated program mentors. Students attend as a group, which allows them to form a learning community and provide peer support for each other. ASAP also incorporates service learning, allowing students to give back to the community outside the classroom.

Through ASAP, students can get a degree in Liberal Arts, Business Administration, Education, Informatics or Healthcare Specialist. The program was launched in the fall of 2010 at two campuses and has since expanded to 16 Ivy Tech campuses statewide. Find a full list of campuses and more information about ASAP at ivytech.edu/asap.

About Ivy Tech Community College

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified. He is not here: for he is risen, as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay. And go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead; and, behold, he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him: lo, I have told you. And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy; and did run to bring his disciples word. And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, Jesus met them, saying, All hail. And they came and held him by the feet, and worshipped him. Then said Jesus unto them, Be not afraid: go tell my brethren that they go into Galilee, and there shall they see me.

Sheridan Horseshoe League hosts clinic, Price moves into first

By RICHIE HALL

The Sheridan Horseshoe League conducted a free clinic on Wednesday at Biddle Park, coinciding with the town's Fourth of July Festivities.

The clinic gave festival-goers a chance to see what happens at the park's horseshoe pit every Tuesday evening, when the League has its regular competition. Those that came over got a chance to try their hand at pitching horseshoes, and got to chat with some of the league's regular competitors as well.

Ron Holliday, who started in 1982, was among the regulars in attendance. He spoke about how the league tries to promote the sport, saying that the clinic "was another free activity we could do out here for the people while they're attending the festivities." Holliday said he's gotten to meet people from all over Indiana and pitch in state championships among other things.

There is a camaraderie that exists among the horseshoe pitchers. Holliday told a story about when his motor home's alternator went out when he was in the Southern Indiana town of Odon. While in Odon, he found some people with whom he had pitched horseshoes.

"They put me in there, next day they went and got me an alternator and everything and I was on my way," said Holliday. "You get a lot of great friendship in the sport of horseshoes because it's a friendly game.

While horseshoes is for everyone, it is definitely a sport and requires the necessary patience and practice of any other competition. Holliday had some advice for those who are getting started: "Just be patient."

"Start from a shorter distance and keep gradually working your way back to where you should be for your age," said Holliday. Women pitch from 30 feet, as do senior citizen men. Everyone else throws from 40 feet.

"You just gradually work yourself back and then when you get not good, but comfortable at throwing your horseshoes, it's good to be in a league or something, and you learn real quick there," said Holliday.

In Tuesday action, Jeff Ogle lead all pitchers in three individual categories to help Price Heating capture the first round of the Sheridan Horseshoe League.

Price will compete against the winner of the second round at season's end. Should Price take the second round, it will be the league champion with no playoff.

The Sheridan League will be hosting the O'Reilly Horseshoe Tournament on Saturday. The tournament is open to anyone 18 and over. No pre-registration is required and two sessions will be available, with starting times at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The league still has a couple of team openings available. The league pitches at 6:30 p.m. every Tuesday night.
